HOSPITALS

ORDER OF ST. AUGUSTINE,

FOR THE RELIEF

OF

POOR AND IMPOTENT PERSONS.

TANNER says, beside the Poor and Impotent, there generally were in these Hospitals, two or three Religious; one to be Master or Prior, and one or two to be Chaplains and Confessors; and these observed the Rule of St. Austin, and probably subjected the Poor and Impotent to some religious restraints, as well as to the local Statutes.

Hospitals were originally designed for relief and entertainment of Travellers upon the road, and particularly of Pilgrims; and therefore were generally built upon the road's side. In later time they have always been founded for fixed inhabitants.

The Maison de Dieu at Dover, St. John's Hospital at Warwick, and some others were expressly founded for the reception and entertainment of Pilgrims and Travellers.

It is proper to say here, that the Hospitals to which Dugdale gave a place in the former Edition of the Monasticon were, comparatively speaking, few. The present Editors have had no ordinary portion of labour in bringing the rest to join them; Dugdale's own assemblage scarcely comprising a third of the number which actually existed in this Country previous to the Dissolution.

EX DECRETIS IN CONCILIO LATERANENSI SUB ALEXANDRO PAPA EJUS NOMINIS TERTIO, ANNO MCLXXIX.

Canon. XI.—De Leprosis.

Hospital of St. Leonard, York.

TANNER calls this St. Peter's or St. Leonard's Hospital. He says the Culdees or Secular Canons belonging to the Cathedral Church of St. Peter in the time of King William the Conqueror founded, on a piece of waste ground near the West end,[a] an Hospital for the reception and entertainment of poor people. King William Rufus removed this Hospital to another part of the City, and so much enlarged the same, both in buildings and revenues, that he is commonly accounted the Founder. It was called St. Peter's Hospital, he adds, till King Stephen erected within the precincts of it a large Church, which he dedicated to St. Leonard, after which it generally went by the name of this last mentioned Saint. Herein were maintained a Master or Warden, thirteen Brethren, four Secular Priests, eight Sisters, thirty Choristers, two School-masters, two hundred and six beadmen, and six servitors.

The early History of this foundation, transcribed from the Register of St. Leonard's in the Cottonian Library by Dugdale, is given in the Appendix to the present Account. It is translated in an abridged form in Drake's History of York, p. 332; where also, pp. 334 to 336, will be found a minute enumeration of the possessions of this House from the original grants.

The privileges of St. Leonard's Hospital were confirmed by King Henry the IId and King John: the last granting them timber for their buildings and wood for their fires, with grass and pasturage for their cattle through his whole forest of Yorkshire.

The confirmations, privileges, charters, &c. had all the sanction of an Act of Parliament in the 2d Hen. VIth.[b]

The Statutes framed for the government of this Hospital by Walter Langton, one of the Masters, in 1294, will be found in the Appendix, Num. X. Drake has printed the substance of them in English.

This House was surrendered by THOMAS MAGNUS, the then Master, Dec. 1st, 37 Hen. VIIIth.

The Archbishops of York afterwards erected their Mint here.

The Site of St. Leonard's Hospital was granted in the 35th Hen. VIII. to Sir Arthur Darcy. In the 6th Eliz. to Robert Lord Dudley.

The "REGISTRUM CARTARUM ET MUNIMENTORUM HOSPITALIS SANCTI LEONARDI EBOR." in the Cottonian volume Nero D. III. is one of the finest Manuscripts of its kind, written upon two hundred and forty-one leaves of vellum of the largest size:[c] apparently written about the time of Henry the Fifth.

Beside this volume, Tanner refers to another Register formerly in the Collection of Dr. Richard Rawlinson, extending, in point of time, from the reign of Henry the Third to the reign of King Richard the Second. This Manuscript is now preserved with the rest of Dr. Rawlinson's Collections in the Bodleian Library at Oxford. This Register has an Index of places attached. The Cottonian Manuscript Vitellius A. 2. contains two articles relating to this House: 1. Inquisitio inter R. Henricum III. et Decanum et Capitulum Ebor. de Hospitali S. Leonardi. 2. Compositio inter Hosp. S. Petri et Capitulum Ebor. super decimis S. Laurentii de Walingate.

There seem to have been several valuations of the Revenue of this House. Tanner says it was endowed with lands and rents amounting in the whole to 500*l.* 11*s.* 1½*d.* per annum, but clare only 362*l.* 11*s.* 1½*d.*, or, as upon a review of the commissioners, 367*l.* 17*s.* 10½*d.* In the Valor of the 26th Hen. Historia Fundationis ejusdem.

[Ex Registro S. Leonardi Ebor. in bibliotheca Cottoniana, fol. 5 a.]

MEMORANDUM, quod anno Domini DCCCC. Egbertus rex totius Britanniæ, in parliamento apud Wintoniam, mutavit nomen regni, de concensu populi sui, et jussit illud de cætero vocari Angliam. Post quem Egbertum, anno DCCCCXXIIII. Ethelstanus, post Edwardum seniorem patrem suum, in regem apud Kingeston in Suthereya coronatus, citò post coronationem suam subegit Howelum regem Cambriæ et Constantinum regem Scottorum; quem Constantinum dictus Ethelstanus regem Scottorum fecerat; dicens, "Gloriosius est regem facere, quàm regem esse." Ipse tamen Constantinus more Scottorum perjurium non timens, citò rebellavit, ac partes Northahumbranas cæde et incendio vastavit. Ad cujus rebellionem castigandum, rex Ethelstanus, se disponens per Humbriam (quia via erat compendiosior) præmisso exercitu per Eboracum, versùs Scotiam cum omni festinantiâ se divertit, et equitando per stratam regiam, citra et ultra Lincolniam, obviavit quampluribus peregrinis, magnam lætitiam more suo monstrantibus, à quibus rex suscitans, et inquirens undè venirent, et quæ esset causa tantæ lætitiæ eorundem, responderunt, "Honorifice rex, de villa Beverlacensi venimus, ubi quidam gloriosus confessor, Johannes nomine, requiescit; et quia aliqui nostrum, illuc cæci, aliqui claudi, et aliis infirmitatibus percussi, accessimus, et ejus meritis, et precibus, ut credimus, sumus restituti sanitati, Deo et sibi reddentes gratias, cum gaudio, ad propria revertimur."

Rex igitur Ethelstanus peregrinorum verba cordi suo devotè imprimens, ad Beverlacum, in brevi, pervenit, et sepulchrum sancti Johannis, cum devotione maxima, visitavit, ubi diu precibus insistens, tandem posuit, cultellum suum super tumbam S. Johannis, dicens, "Si tuis sanctis precibus, alme Christi confessor, Domino concedente, sospes rediero, ecclesiam tuam honorabo, et cultellum istum, quem pono pro pignore, honestè redimam." Deinde ad Eboracum declinans, in ecclesiâ beati Petri, ibidem diu et devotè precibus insistens, se et viagium Deo et beatæ Mariæ, ac beato Petro et sanctis omnibus, humiliter commendabat. Supplicans ministris dictæ ecclesiæ, adtunc dicti Colidei, quatinus pro eo, et expeditione suâ devotè precarentur; promittens, quod si prosperè rediret, ecclesiam illam Eboraci, et ministros ejus dignè honoraret. Ulteriùs verò progrediens, Dunholmum ibidem coram Deo ad tumbam sancti Cuthberti, multis fusis precibus, et se ac viagium suum Deo et sancto Cuthberto, ac precibus monachorum ibidem Deo servientium commendans, Scotiam ingressus est, ubi prædictum Constantinum perjurum gloriosè devicit; quo devicto, Ethelstanus rogavit Dominum, ut precibus sanctorum prædictorum, aliquod signum ostenderet, quo præsentes et futuri cognoscere possent, Scottos debere de jure regibus Angliæ subjacere, ac cum gladio suo idem Ethelstanus percussit scopulum quoddam lapideum, juxta castrum de Dunbarr; cujus lapidis rigor adeo cessit ictui, quod usque hodie ad mensuram ulnæ ex ictu cavatur, usque in præsentem diem.

In redeundo verò rex Ethelstanus post peractam victoriam, declinavit per Ebor. versùs Beverlacum ac nonnullas possessiones redimendo, cultellum per eum ibi depositum, dedit Deo, et glorioso confessori Johanni prædicto, ac beato Joh. Evangelistæ, in cujus honore ecclesia Beverlaci dedicata existit: dedit insuper Deo, et sanctis prædictis, ac septem presbiteris, ibidem Deo servientibus, et eorum successoribus imperpetuum, quasdam avenas, vulgariter dictas Hestcorne, percipiendas de dominiis et ecclesiis in illis partibus, quas ministri dictæ ecclesiæ, usque in præsens percipiunt pacificè et quietè. Idemque rex Athelstanus deinde redeundo de Scotia, ut præfertur, dum in civitate Eboraci fuerat, et in ecclesia beati Petri ibidem Deo et beato Petro gratias reddiderat, quod sanus et incolumis victor ad propria redisset; videns in dicta ecclesiâ Eboraci viros sanctæ vitæ, et conversationis honestæ, dictos adtunc Colideos, qui multos sustentabant pauperes, et modicum habebant undè viverent, concessit Deo et beato Petro, et Colideis prædictis, et eorum successoribus imperpetuum, ut meliùs possent sustinere pauperes confluentes, hospitalitatem tenere, et exercere alia opera pietatis; de qualibet carucâ arante in episcopatu Eboraci unam travam bladi anno Domini DCCCC.XXXVI. quæ usque in præsentem diem dicitur Petercorne; cujusmodi et travas, reges tunc temporis potuerunt sacris locis, ex sua regalitate concedere et assignare; et nihilominus, ex concensu incolarum episcopatus Eboraci, rex habuit: travas prædictas sibi et successoribus suis; sic quod exterminaret lupos patriam devastantes; erat siquidem in diœcesi Eboracensi tanta, adtunc, multitudo luporum quod omnes ferè villanorum bestias devorârunt. Quibus lupis per prædictum Ethelstanum devastatis, ac processu temporis, dictis Colideis possessionatis, largitione fidelium, et maximè per Thomam seniorem, cui rex Willielmus conquestor episcopatum prædictum contulit, in festo Pentecostes anno Domini 1069. Qui . . . Thomas ecclesiam Eboracensem construxit, et clericos ejusdem multipliciter ditavit.

Ipsi Colidei erexerunt seu fundârunt in civitate Eboraci, in quodam vasto loco ad regem pertinente (et quam ad erectionem idem rex dedit eis, unà cum supradictis travis), quoddam hospitale sive manseolum pauperibus ad ipsam civitatem confluentibus: quibus et pauperibus ibidem accedentibus, assignârunt imperpetuum travas prædictas; ipsisque pauperibus, pro ipsorum meliori gubernatione et jurium suorum, in dictis travis salvatione dicti Colidei, sive clerici, unum ex seipsis præfecerunt. Ipseque Willielmus Conquestor ad preces Thomæ archiepiscopi prædicti, nedum donationem factam dictarum travarum hospitali prædicto, per ipsos Colideos, sive clericos, confirmavit; sed etiam ex prærogativâ ipsius, qui Conquestor fuerat, pro majori securitate ipsius, dedit ex habundanti, dictas travas prædicto hospitali.

Willielmusque Rufus filius Conquestoris prædicti, rex immediatè succedens, fundavit seu mutavit situm dicti hospitalis in locum regium, ubi nunc situatur, ut patet per multas domos adhuc stantes in dicto hospitali, quæ olim erant regiis usibus deputatæ; et dedit et confirmavit dictas travas hospitali prædicto, sicut fecit pater ejus Conquestor. Ipsum verò hospitale, à tempore primæ erectionis sive fundationis suæ, usque ad tempus regis Stephani, dicebatur Hospitale Sancti Petri; et usque in præsens sigillum commune ipsius continet in circumferentia "Sigillum Hospitalis Sancti Petri Eboraci." Ipse verò Stephanus construxit in dicto hospitali quandam ecclesiam in honore sancti Leonardi, et extunc, in antea, dictum est Hospitale Sancti Leonardi. Ipsique Colidei, à dicto anno Domini DCCCCXXXVI. ferè per centum annos, tenuerunt, et pacificè possiderunt travas prædictas, usque quo illas concesserunt dicto hospitali, prout superiùs narratur. Ipsumque hospitale et pauperes omni tempore, et citra, percepit, et habuit, ut fundationem suam primariam; et adhuc habet et percipit in præsenti travas prædictas. Quas travas multi reges successores regum prædictorum non solum confirmârunt, sed etiam, ex habundanti, dederunt hospitali, ut patet per eorum cartas indè factas.

Romani etiam pontifices quamplures donationem travarum prædictarum dicto hospitali, per suas literas apostolicas, de concensu suorum cardinalium confirmârunt; gravissimas censuras fulminantes in omnes dictas detinentes, seu subtrahentes, ab ipso hospitali, aut ipsas non solventes; necnon in omnes et singulos ipsum hospitale supradictis travis, quomodolibet molestantes, ut patet in literis apostolicis Adriani quarti, qui fuit papa anno Domini MCLVI. et confirmavit dictas travas prædicto hospitali, sub hiis verbis. "Item confirmamus dicto hospitali illam antiquam elemosinam, super quâ ipsum hospitale fundatum existit, viz. de qualibet caruca arante in diœcesi Eboracensi, unam travam bladi." Patet enim per dicta verba papæ, quod tempore suæ confirmationis, illæ travæ fuerunt antiqua elemosina, super quâ ipsum hospitale fundatur. Et sequitur in literis apostolicis supradictis; "Paci quoque et tranquillitati vestræ paterna solicitudine providentes; omnibusque Christi fidelibus benè solventibus dictas travas ipsi hospitali, et ejus jura servantibus, pacem apostolicam concedimus." Ac in et contra omnes dictas travas, à præfato hospitali subtrahentes, detinentes, et non solventes eidem, seu ipsum hospitale super ipsis quomodolibet molestantes, aut ipsius jura quomodolibet impugnantes, terribiles sententias fulminavit cuilibet Christiano non immeritò, formidandas, sub hiis verbis. "Paci quoque et tranquillitati vestræ paterna sollicitudine providentes, auctoritate apostolica prohibemus, ut infra clausas locorum, vel grangiarum præfati hospitalis, nullus violentiam, vel rapinam, seu furtum facere, vel hominem capere audeat; et siquis hoc temerario ausu præsumpserit, tanquam sacrilegus judicetur, et excommunicationis ultione plectetur.

"Decernimus ergò, ut nulli omnino hominum liceat præfatum hospitale temerè perturbare, aut ejus possessiones auferre, vel ablatas retinere, minuere, aut quibuslibet vexationibus fatigare; sed omnia integra conserventur eorum; pro quorum gubernatione, ac sustentatione concessa sunt, usibus omnimodis profutura; salva sedis apostolicæ auctoritate, et diœcesani episcopi canonica justitia, et salvo jure capituli beati Petri. Siqua igitur in futurum ecclesiastica, secularisvè persona hanc nostræ constitutionis paginam, sciens, contra eam temerè venire temptaverit, secundò, tertiòve commonita, nisi reatum suum condigna satisfactione correxerit, potestatis, honorisque dignitate careat, reamque se divino judicio existere de perpetrata iniquitate cognoscat, et à sacratissimo corpore, ac sanguine Dei, ac Domini redemptoris nostri Jesu Christi aliena fiat, atque in extremo examine districtæ ultioni subjaceat. Cunctis autem eidem loco sua jura servantibus, sit pax Domini nostri Jesu Christi, quatinus et hic fructum bonæ actionis percipiant, et apud districtum judicem præmia æternæ pacis inveniant. Amen. Datum anno Domini millesimo centesimo septuagesimo tertio."

Flixton Hospital, otherwise called Carman's Spital,

IN YORKSHIRE.

FLIXTON, says Tanner, in the Parish of Folketon, Deanry of Dickering and Archdeaconry of East Riding. Here is said to have been erected by one Acehorne a Knight, in King Ethelstan's time, a Hospital for an Alderman and fourteen Brothers and Sisters, to the honour of the blessed Virgin Mary and St. Andrew. This Foundation, as will be seen by the charter which follows, was confirmed by King Henry the Sixth under the name of Carman's Spital. No mention of this House occurring in the Valor of the 26th Hen. VIIIth, it is supposed to have been decayed or gone before that time. Nothing more is known of it.

THIS House, situated in the North-gate street of Canterbury, over against the Hospital of St. John, was first founded by archbishop Lanfranc in 1084, for secular priests, to the honour of St. Gregory; but archbishop William, in the time of Henry the First, made it a Priory of Black Canons.

Lanfranc's endowment of this House will be seen in the Charter, Num. III., printed in the Appendix to the present Account: the endowment, as returned in the Valor of the 26th Hen. VIIIth, is given in Num. V. The reader may also consult Battely's Edition of Somner's Canterbury, P. i. p. 48, &c. in Append. Numb. 14. P. ii. pp. 164, 165.

Tanner says, about the time of the Dissolution, here were thirteen Religious; who were endowed with revenues amounting in the gross to 166*l.* 4*s.* 5½*d.*, in net income to 121*l.* 15*s.* 1*d.*[a]

De Fundatione ejusdem per Lanfrancum Archiepiscopum.

[Lel. Col. tom. i. p. 84.]

[Eadmer. Histor. Novor. l. 1. p. 9.]

Extra aquilonalem denique portam urbis illius [Cantuariæ] lapideam domum decentem et amplam construxit, et ei pro diversis necessitudinibus hominum et commoditatibus habitacula plura cum spatiosâ curte adjecit. Hoc palatium in duo divisit; viros videlicet variis infirmitatum qualitatibus pressos uni; parti verò alteri fœminas se malè habentes instituens. Ordinavit etiam eis de suo vestitum, et victum quotidianum: ministros quoque atque custodes qui modis omnibus observarent ne aliquid eis deesset, neque viris ad fœminas, vel fœminis ad viros accedendi facultas ulla adesset. Ex alterâ verò parte viæ ecclesiam in honorem beati Gregorii papæ composuit, in qua canonicos posuit, qui regulariter viverent, et præfatis infirmis, quæ saluti animarum suarum congruerent cum sepultura ministrarent. Quibus etiam in terris, in decimis, et in aliis redditibus tanta largitus est, ut ad sustentationem eorum sufficientia esse viderentur.

Hospital of Brakele, or Brackley, in Northamptonshire.

ROBERT DE BOSSU, Earl of Leicester, about or soon after the year 1150, gave one Solomon, a clergyman, an acre of land upon the site of this place, to build a Hospital upon to the honour of St. John the Evangelist, which was well endowed by his son Robert and other benefactors.[a] This foundation consisted of a Master or Prior, and several brethren, and was in after times called the Hospital of St. John and St. James.

Bridges says, the family of Zouch, who were some time lords of the manor of Brackley, were patrons and benefactors to this Hospital, whence, probably arose the mistake of Camden in ascribing the foundation of it to them.[b]

In 1423, 1st Hen. VI., upon the death of Master John Brokehampton, this House was left without inhabitants, about which time a licence was granted to Maud lady Lovell, widow of John Lord Lovell, the late patron, to convert it into a House of Friers-Preachers; and she gave to the bishop of Durham and others her manors of Bagworth and Thornton in Leicestershire for this purpose, appointing that there should be thirteen persons of the Order, ten of them preachers, and one of the preachers to be the Prior of the House.[c] But there is reason to believe that this Lady's intentions were never executed, nor the Hospital converted into the religious house she designed. For it appears to have subsisted, according to the Registers of the See of Lincoln, in its first estate, and to have been governed by Masters[d] till the time of Francis Lord Lovell, son and heir to William Lord Lovell, the grandson and successor of the said Maud; and from him to have passed with the lands belonging to it into the hands of the President and Fellows of Magdalen College Oxford, who obliged themselves to maintain here a stipendiary priest to sing and say mass for the soul of the said Francis Lord Lovell, and for the souls of his ancestors, and who now pay 2*s.* 6*d.* per annum to the Church of Lincoln "pro indempnitate hujus Hospitalis."[e]

Hospital of St. Julian, at St. Albans, in Hertfordshire.

JEFFREY the sixteenth abbat of St. Albans, in the time of Henry the First, founded near the Town of St. Albans, upon the London road, at a place then called Heved or Eywode, a Hospital for leprous men dedicated to St. Julian. It consisted of a Master and four other chaplains, and six poor lepers, and was in the parish of St. Stephen at St. Albans.

The particulars of the first endowment of this House are given in the Additamenta of Matthew Paris's History, copied by Dugdale in the Appendix to the present Account, together with King Henry the Second's charter of confirmation, and the Statutes for the government of this Hospital established for it in 1344 by Michael the twenty-ninth abbat of St. Albans.

Tanner refers to a Rental of this Hospital of the 22d Hen. VIIth preserved in the Cottonian MS. Claudius D. 1., another copy of which will be found in the "Registr. Whetamstede et Ramrydge" in the Library of the Royal Society, MS. Num. 34. fo. 33 b.[a]

JOHN WALTER was made Master of St. Julian's Hospital Jan. 10th, 1463.[b]

The Site of this House was granted in the 36th Hen. VIII. to Richard Lee. Clutterbuck gives no lower account of its descent than is in Chauncy.

De Fundatione domus Sancti Juliani, juxta Eywode.

[Ex Additamentis Historiæ de S. Albano per Math. Paris. in bibliotheca Cottoniana (sub effigie Neronis, D. 1.) fol. 200 a.]

Gaufridus abbas sancti Albani consilio et communi voluntate conventus ejusdem loci, fundata, constructa, et in honorem Dei et sancti Juliani dedicata ecclesia secus viam Atte-heved, congregavit illic pauperes Christi, videlicet Lazares, providens necessitatibus eorum, hæc quæ subscripta sunt. Decimam redditus villæ S. Albani, id est lx. solidorum. Item xxx. solidorum, quos Petrus de le Saret reddit de Redinges del Saret. Item totam decimam bladi dominii de Hamested, et totam dominii de Ryngesberia; et duas partes decimarum tantummodo bladi parochianorum sancti Michaelis, et sancti Stephani; exceptis illis quas capellanus eorum scilicet Lazarorum, habet, sicut carta ejus testatur. Item duas partes decimæ bladi dominii de Aston. Item duas partes bladi dominii sancti Albani de Bradeweya, et similiter duas partes decimæ bladi dominii Rogeri de Limesia in Bradewia. Item duas partes decimæ bladi dominii Ricardi del Hoo. Item duas partes decimæ dominii Willielmi de Codicote. Item dimidium decimæ bladi dominii de Stratle. Item dimidium decimæ Stephani de la Leger, de suo dominio de Henelawe. Item duas partes decimæ Rogeri de Candos de suo dominio de Smelesho. Item duas partes decimæ Simonis Belcamp de suo dominio de Stanford. Item duas partes decimæ bladi Radulphi Perot de suo dominio de Lindesele et de Hakewell. Item duas partes decimæ bladi de una hida, quam Robertus filius de Weneling habuit in Estwyk. Hæc prædictus abbas, unà cum consilio et voluntate capituli S. Albani, sic donavit et confirmavit, ut supradictorum infirmorum sint perpetuo jure condempnas anathematis sententia, si quis deinceps aliquid horum auferret eis injustè. Elemosina illa taliter est data, et stabilita pro animabus Offæ regis, Henrici regis, Pauli abbatis, Ricardi abbatis; et auctoris hujus donationis Gaufridi abbatis, atque suorum prædecessorum ejusdem ecclesiæ fidelium abbatum: necnon pro statu, et tutela ipsius ecclesiæ, atque servientium ibi monachorum, et maximè pro levamine debitorum quæ ipsi debent suis benefactoribus, et quibus promiserunt.

NUM. III.

Isti sunt Articuli observandi inter Fratres professos Domus Sancti Juliani juxta Sanctum Albanum.

[Ex Registro Cœnobii S. Albani in bibl. Cottoniana (sub effigie Neronis, D. 1.) fol. 189 b.]

CUM inter omnes infirmitates, morbus lepræ contemptibilior habeatur; hii, qui tali morbo sunt percussi, singulis locis et temporibus, tam gestu quam habitu cunctis hominibus contemptibiliores et magis humiles se debent repræsentare, dicente Domino in Levitico; "Quicunque maculatus fuerit lepra, habebit vestimenta dissuta, caput nudum, os veste contectum, contaminatum ac sordidum se clamabit, et omni tempore quo leprosus est et immundus solus habitabit extra castra." Nec propter hoc desperare debent, ac contra Deum murmurare; sed potius eum laudare et glorificare, qui cum ductus fuerit ad mortem, voluit leprosis comparari, teste Ysaia propheta (qui ait) "Et nos putavimus eum leprosum percussum à Deo et humiliatum," revocantes ad memoriam beati Job, qui cum percussus esset leprà, itâ quòd à plantâ pedis usque ad verticem capitis, non fuit in eo sanitas, vel stultum contra Deum locutus est.

De situ Hospitalis Sancti Juliani.

Cum igitur hospitale sancti Juliani, juxta boscum de Eywod, ab abbate et conventu sancti Albani propter leprosos specialiter sit fundatum; et ex piâ collatione elemosinarum eorundem est sustentatum, cujus dispositio, tam in spiritualibus quàm in temporalibus ad eundem abbatem, loci ejusdem patronum, et ordinarium, pertinere dignoscitur; nos paternâ solicitudine honestatem dicti hospitalis, necnon et utilitatem, secundùm Deum, considerantes, volumus quod fratres ibidem commorantes habeant habitum qualemcunque eorum infirmitati convenientem.

De habitu Fratrum.

Fratres videlicet habeant tunicam et super-tunicam de russeto, cum capucio de eadem sectâ, ita quod manubria tunicæ clausa usque ad manum, non nodulis vel filo ad modum secularium laqueata. Super-tunicam vero habeant clausam usque ad talos, et capam clausam de nigro panno, similis longitudinis cum capucio, sicut ab antiquo habere consueverunt.

De calciamentis Fratrum.

Calciamenta pedum sint caligæ, et æstivalia sint sotulares erectæ cum tribus vel quatuor nodulis circa tibias, quibus uti consueverunt. Sotulares verò bassos cum uno nodulo et laqueatos omnino interdicimus et dampnamus: et siquis frater de cætero utatur hujusmodi bassis sotularibus, contra istud statutum, eat nudis pedibus singulis diebus, donec magister domus, ejus humilitatem considerans, dicat ei, sufficit: ista sufficiant quoad habitum.

De ingressu Fratrum, et de voto faciendo.

Qui de licentiâ domini abbatis dictum hospitale ingrediuntur (sine cujus licentiâ nullus debet ingredi) sint soluti; et si conjugatus ingredi debeat, tam ipse quam uxor sua coram domino archidiacono, tanquam loci ordinario, et fratribus domus faciat solempne votum castitatis. Et si post ingressum contra dictum votum per incontinentiam venerit, secundùm consuetudinem domus expellatur, et uxori suæ (si superstes fuerit) remittatur, et ei debitum conjugale persolvat. Similiter si uxor contra votum suum veniat, simili modo puniatur. Si autem uxor inflata decesserit, tunc vir sicut convictus de incontinentiâ, puniatur.

De modo ingrediendi Hospitale.

Fratres verò qui ingrediuntur dictum hospitale, sint per aliquod tempus in probatione antequam faciant suam professionem. Infra quod tempus, de eorum moribus et conversatione per gestum eorum et opera poterit manifestiùs apparere. Nec tempore probationis, ad consilia fratrum in capitulis suis aliqualiter admittantur.

De dilectione Fratrum.

Fratres supra omnia diligant Deum, deindè proximum fraternæ dilectionis, mutuam inter se habentes charitatem, quia ista præcepta sunt principaliter observanda, in quibus tota Lex pendet et Prophetæ.

De Horis temperandis.

Manè, campanâ pulsatâ, ad horas canonicas audiendas omnes surgant; et indutis capis clausis, eant ad ecclesiam divina obsequia audituri, quam cum ingressi fuerint, omnes sedeant per ordinem secundùm tempus quo ingressi sunt dictum hospitale; ita quod nullus per superbiam locum alterius sibi vendicare præsumat, nisi fortè magister aliquem propter reverentiam, vel dignitatem personæ vel ordinis, aliis voluerit præferre, justiciâ exigente. Illud manè sic temperetur, ut nulli sit onerosum; sed ad asiamentum omnium infirmorum, ut nullus possit se excusare nisi graviori infirmitate fuerit detentus. Omnibus ergo pariter in ecclesia, ut dictum est, congregatis, silentium teneant donec servicium compleatur.

De Stationibus.

Nullus autem fratrum præsumat exire metas hospitii sui, scilicet versùs regiam viam sine capâ clausâ, eundo ad ecclesiam vel redeundo; nec faciant stationes vel deambulationes in dictâ stratâ ante servicium vel post: immo nullâ horâ diei ante prandium vel post; sed expleto officio divino, cum omni maturitate ingrediantur hospitia sua, nisi fortè aliquis voluerit facere moram in ecclesia, ut orationibus vacet et contemplationi.

Item de Stationibus.

Similiter inhibemus ne stationes fiant in penticio, quod se extendit in longitudine ante domos fratrum versùs regiam viam; nec quisquam fratrum teneat ibi parliamentum cum alio fratre. Sed si quis fratrum voluerit habere colloquium cum aliquo fratre, transeat ordinatè per dictum penticium unusquisque alter ad alterum pro libito suo sine statione, nisi fortè aliquis extraneus ei obviaverit, cum quo breviter loquatur et transeat. Sed si probus homo et honestus venerit ibi, causâ infirmum fratrem visitandi, ingrediatur ad eum, et quod bonum est adinvicem loquantur.

De Metis.

Metas verò ab antiquo statutas, quarum una sita est ex parte australi, altera ex parte boriali, sicut adhuc manifestè patent nullus transgredi præsumat præter custodem grangearum et granariorum, cui cura per magistrum committitur.

De custode sub Magistro.

Nec quisquam fratrum pistrinam vel bracinam aliquo ingredi modo præsumat, nisi frater, cui cura committitur, qui cum ingressus fuerit, pani et cerevisiæ non appropinquat, tangendo vel aliquo modo tractando; cum non deceat viros talis infirmitatis ea tractare quæ ad usum communem hominum ordinantur.

De Clausura.

Portæ verò versùs gardinum benè claudantur, et custodiantur propter scandala, et alia mala quæ ex libero ingressu earum possent oriri; nec quisquam fratrum egrediatur portas illas nisi tempore minutionis, vel quando aliquis indigeat solatio, ratione alicujus specialis infirmitatis, quod fiat de licentia superioris. Portas verò versùs campum ex una parte, et regiam stratam ex altera, nullus omnino egrediatur, nisi ille tantum cui agricultura commendatur: expedit enim aliquando supervidere carucas, et seminatores, si fideliter operentur et diligenter.

De licentia Archidiaconi euntibus extra metas.

Nullus ergo frater omnino transgredi præsumat metas consuetas et debitas, causâ vagandi per patriam, vel peregrinandi: quod qui aliter fecerit per substractionem liberationis suæ castigetur. Qui verò absentaverit se extra domum suam per totum diem et noctem, sine speciali licentia domini abbatis vel ejus archidiaconi, tanquam fugitivus habeatur, nec concedatur ei ingressus sine gratia et licentia domini abbatis.

De accessu Mulierum.

Et quia per accessum mulierum frequenter oriuntur scandala ac mala non modica, super omnia prohibemus, ne aliqua mulier ingrediatur hospitia fratrum, præter communem lotricem domus, quæ sit maturæ ætatis et bonæ conversationis; de qua nulla possit esse sinistra suspicio. Nec illa præsumat intrare domus illorum temporibus suspectis, sed horis debitis, ut ejus ingressus et recessus possit ab omnibus videri. Verumptamen si mater, vel soror, vel alia honesta matrona venerit ibi causa visitandi infirmos, habeat ingressum ad illum cum quo loqui voluerit, et hoc fiat de licentia custodis domus; aliter autem non ingrediatur, cujuscunque sit condicionis. Mulieres verò levis famæ et malæ opinionis, hospitia nullo modo ingrediantur.

De commestione Mulierum.

Nulli ergò fratrum liceat invitare mulieres ut secum comedant in domibus suis, propter causam jam dictam, præter personas prænotatas, et hoc de magistri licentia speciali fiat. Proviso tamen, quod nulla mulier ultra horam debitam moram faciat cum eis, sed congruo tempore recedant. Qui et aliter fecerit, tanquam convictus de incontinentia puniatur.

De discordia Fratrum.

Fratres sibi invicem obediant, et reverentiam exhibeant, dicente apostolo, "honore invicem prævenientes." Si quis verò inventus fuerit contentiosus, et seminans discordias inter fratres, corripiatur semel et iterum: quod si sic se non emendaverit, per substractionem liberationis suæ usque ad condignam satisfactionem castigetur.

De bonis habendis..

Et quia portio fratrum non sufficit eis ad omnia necessaria, liceat eis habere bona mobilia, et quæ honestè possunt adquirere ad suppletionem defectus eorum, et infirmitatis suæ mitigationem. Ita tamen quod ipsis decedentibus, vel discedentibus, non alienentur bona sua, sive sint infra limites hospitalis, sive extra; sed in usus communes domus convertantur, et de consilio et voluntate magistri ordinentur et disponantur.

De Testamentis.

Nullus fratrum de cætero faciat testamentum, nisi de licentia magistri. Quod si aliter fecerit, pro nullo habeatur.

De punitione Culpæ.

Istos articulos superscriptos præcipimus inviolabiliter servari, et si quis in aliquo contravenerit, et observare contempserit, per substractionem liberationis suæ castigetur, vel aliâ pœnâ, quæ magis timetur, et infligatur, ut pro qualitate et quantitate culpæ correspondeat acerbitas pœnæ.

De Capitulis faciendis.

Si fratres aliquando propter communem utilitatem de statu domus velint tractare, ingrediantur ecclesiam, et exclusis secularibus et fratribus non professis, cum ipsi communi consilio interesse non debeant, provideant inter se quod bonum est; ita quod nichil fiat sine magistri consilio et voluntate. Privata verò capitula et adulterina, qua magis dici possint conspirationes, seu machinationes, totaliter interdicimus et annullamus.

NUM. IV.

De professione Fratrum Sancti Juliani.

Ego frater N. promitto et sacramento corporali tactis sacrosanctis evangeliis præstito, affirmo coram Deo et omnibus sanctis in hac ecclesia, quæ constructa est in honorem sancti Juliani confessoris, in præsentia domini N. archidiaconi, quod omnibus diebus vitæ meæ, præceptis domini abbatis de sancto Albano qui pro tempore fuerit, et ejus archidiacono, obnixiùs ero et obediens, et in nullo protervè contradicens, nisi fortè aliqua præcipiantur quæ divinæ displiceant voluntati. Nunquam furtum faciam, nec alicui fratrum falsum crimen imponam; nec manus violentas in aliquem fratrem mittam; nec votum castitatis infringam; nec de aliquibus rebus appropriandis, vel aliis testamentariè relinquendis; sine dispensatione à fratribus concessâ, me intromittam. Omnem speciem usuræ, tanquam monstruosam et Deo odibilem studebo pleniùs evitare. Nec ero in consilio vel auxilio, vel opere per sermonem aut voluntatem per me, vel per alium, quod aliquis aliquando custos seu magister præficiatur leprosis de sancto Juliano, nisi quem dominus abbas de sancto Albano præficere voluerit. Cibis et potibus et aliis rebus michi per magistrum porrectis et exhibitis secundùm usum et consuetudinem domus, contentus ero sine lite et murmuratione. Metas michi constitutas non egrediat, absque licentia speciali superiorum meorum, et eorum consensu et voluntate. Et si inventus fuero transgressor contra aliquem articulum superiùs prænominatum, volo et concedo, quod dominus abbas, vel ab eo substitutus, possit me punire secundùm qualitatem et quantitatem delicti, prout sibi viderit meliùs expedire, et etiam tanquam apostatam à congregatione fratrum projicere, sine aliqua spe reversionis, exceptâ domini Abbatis gratiâ speciali.

Hospital of St. Mary Magdalen, at Rippon,

IN YORKSHIRE.

"THE Hospital of St. Mary Magdalene for lepers here," says Leland, "is on the hither ripe of the Skelle, and is of the foundation of the archbishops of Yorke."[a] It was founded by Archbishop Thurston, who died A.D. 1139, first for a chaplain and sisters, and for the relief of all the lepers in Richmondshire. Afterwards here was a master, two or three chaplains, and some brethren.[b] It was valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at 27*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* in the total; and at 24*l.* 0*s.* 7*d.* in the clear income.

There is a Certificate of Colleges, Hospitals, &c. suppressed by King Henry the VIIIth, in the Augmentation Office, wherein it is stated that Marmaduke Bradley, incumbent, is master of the same, shewing no foundation, but used there to keep two priests and five poor people to pray for all "christen sowlez, having for his stipende 4*l.* and every of the five pore people 6*s.* 8*d.*" The total value of the lands, &c. 31*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*

Dominus rex misit breve suum quibusdam commissariis, ad inquirendum de defectu custodiæ hospitalis Riponensis: qui per juratores returnaverunt, quod quidam Thurstanus, quondam archiepiscopus Ebor. fundavit dictum Hospitale, ad sublevamentum tam pauperum, quàm leprosorum, &c. Et quod custos ejusdem dispendit proficua ejusdem, nesciunt, &c.

NUM. II.

Inquisitio super statu ejusdem.

[Esc. 15 Edw. III. n. 73.]

Juratores dicunt, quod quidam archiepiscopus Ebor. fundavit dictum hospitale, cujus nomen ignorant; et archiepiscopi Ebor. qui pro tempore fuerunt, et dominus rex Angliæ, sede archiepiscopali Ebor. vacante, sunt veri patroni dicti hospitalis. Et dictus archiepiscopus prædicti hospitalis fundator, dedit dicto hospitali unam placeam terræ et boscum in Ripon, qui vocatur Dunscewith, sicut includitur fossatis, super qua fundatur hospitale prædictum, et valet per annum c*s*. Item quod elemosina datur pauperibus quolibet festo beatæ Mariæ Magdalenæ. Item dicunt quod staurum domus, agricultura, et divina officia ejusdem hospitalis, exceptis dicto capellano subtracto, et quadam domo in qua solebant leprosi manere, quæ prostrata fuit tempore Henrici de Shirehake, quondam magistri dicti hospitalis, et sic est adhuc, benè custodiuntur. Item requisiti an facta sit alienatio, seu dilapidatio bonorum, possessionum et jurium dicti hospitalis; dicunt quod dominus Willielmus de Melton, nuper Eborum archiepiscopus spoliavit dictum hospitale, tempore dicti Henrici de Shirehakes, de tribus acris terræ, duabus acris prati, tota pastura pro animalibus prædictis, et focali prædicto in dicto parco de Northscogh; et jam sunt ista subtracta in manu domini regis, qui nunc est. Item requisiti an magister, qui nunc est, prosecutus fuit jura prædicta; dicunt quod non potuit, propter brevitatem temporis sui et mortis ultimi archiepiscopi. Item dictum hospitale non oneratur nisi in duodecim marcis, dicto Johanni le Waryner et duobus capellanis prædictis, solvendis ex causâ prænominatâ. Dicunt etiam, quod magister et capellani sui prædicti sunt bonæ famæ, et conversationis honestæ, et sic reputantur in villa Ripon; et quod dictum hospitale fundatur de possessionibus temporalium tantum.[a]

Hospital of St. Mary Bethlehem, without London.

IT is with the Monastic state only of this foundation that we have to do at present; and so little can now be found of it, which is not already known, that bishop Tanner's, with a slight exception at the end, is perhaps the best summary of its History which can be placed before the reader.

"Simon Fitz-Mary, alderman and sheriff of London, gave A.D. 1247 to the Bishop and Church of Bethlem in Holy Land, where our Saviour was born, all his houses and grounds in the parish of St. Botolph without Bishopsgate, that there might be thereupon built an Hospital or Priory for a Prior, Canons, brethren and sisters of the Order of Bethlem or the Star, wherein the Bishop of Bethlem was to be entertained when he came into England, and to whose visitation and correction all the members of this House were subjected.

"In the year 1403 most of the Houses belonging to this Hospital were alienated, and therein were no brethren or sisters, but only the Master, who did not wear the habit of the Order. However, it continued to the Dissolution, after which King Henry the Eighth gave it to the City of London, who have of late years built upon the old site a most stately Hospital for the reception and cure of lunatics or distracted persons."

In the last sentence Tanner is incorrect. The lands which Simon Fitz-Mary gave, and upon which his Hospital was built, were situated upon the spot which was recently denominated "Old Bethlem," now called Liverpool Street, a few yards to the north of Bishopsgate Church. About 1644 it was under consideration to enlarge the old Hospital, but the situation was considered too close and confined. The New Hospital of Bethlem, as it was then termed, was begun to be built in April, 1675, upon a plot of ground near London Wall, on the south side of the lower quarter of what was then called Little Moorfields; the design of the building was taken from the Palace of the Thuilleries, and was once admired. It is said to have been finished in the month of July, 1676. It has since, however, given way to a fitter building for its purpose upon a more commodious spot, and the Hospital of St. Mary Bethlem is now placed upon the other side of the Thames, in the parish of Lambeth.

Mr. Bowen, in his "Historical Account of the Origin, Progress, and Present State of Bethlem Hospital," 4to. Lond., 1783, says, "We find from authentic documents, that, in the year 1523, Stephen Jennings, merchant-tailor, gave forty pounds by will towards the purchase of this Hospital, and that the Mayor and Commonalty had taken some steps to procure it, a short time before they derived their right to it from royal munificence. What were the revenues which it then enjoyed does not now appear: it is certain, they were inadequate to the necessities which they were intended to remedy; for, five years after the royal grant had passed, letters patent were issed to John Whitehead, proctor to the hospital of Bethlem, to solicit donations within the Counties of Lincoln and Cambridge, the City of London, and the Isle of Ely."

Dugdale, in his Baronage, vol. i. pp. 380, 381, speaks of a benefaction from the lord Basset to this Hospital, and of a Chantry which was founded here for him.

Hearne in his manuscript Diaries, in the Bodleian Library at Oxford, says, Dr. Richard Rawlinson "had an old SEAL of this Priory with the Assumption of the Virgin Mary on it."

Stevens, in his Continuation of the Monasticon, vol. ii. p. 274, from Newcourt, says that the Church or Chapel of the ORIGINAL BETHLEM HOSPITAL was taken down in the time of Queen Elizabeth. Whatever may be hid among the cellars of the Houses built upon the ancient site, no vestige whatever of that building is at present apparent.[c]

Priory of St. Mary Spital, or New Hospital of our Lady, without Bishopsgate.

THIS Priory of Canons, and Hospital for poor brethren, of the Order of St. Austin, was founded by Walter Brune, citizen of London, and his wife Roesia. Walter archdeacon of London laid the first stone on the 18th of the calends of July, 1197; and William de Sanctæ Mariæ Ecclesia, bishop of London, dedicated it by the name of DOMUS DEI, to the honour of God and the blessed Virgin. The deed of foundation printed in the Appendix is a document of some value to a London Antiquary.

Brune and his wife, according to Leland, were not sole, but joint founders, with Walter Fitz-Eilred, alderman of London, William de Elie, John Bloundie, and Wymarke de Elbegate. The ground on which the Priory was built was given by Walter Fitz-Eilred.

In 1235 this Hospital was refounded, and as a work de novo, and not relatively to any other foundation, received the appellation of The NEW HOSPITAL of OUR LADY without Bishopsgate, considerable changes being also made in the arrangement of the buildings.[a]

The documents given in the Appendix to the present Account, with bishop Tanner's references to MSS. and Records,[b] supply much information as to the endowment of St. Mary Spital. Ellis, in his History of Shoreditch, p. 338, has printed from the Cottonian MS. Cleop. Nero C. III. an "Index benefactorum."

In 1507 King Henry the Seventh granted by Letters Patent to this Hospital the Priory and Manor of Bykenacre in Essex, with all their appurtenances, in consideration of the sum of 400*l.*; certain pensions, and the procurations customarily paid by the Prior of Bykenacre to the Bishop of London in his ordinary Visitation, being subsequently reserved.[c] A Chaplain or regular priest, and one of the brethren of their own House, were to be continually resident at Bykenacre.[d]

The Prior and Canons of St. Mary Spital, in 1517, presented to the Rectory of Woodham Ferrers in Essex, apparently as parcel of the possessions of Bykenacre Priory.[e]

THOMAS BELL occurs in 1529. He was suffragan to the bishop of London, under the title of "Episcopus Lydensis."[o]

WILLIAM MAJOR, the last Prior, with Thomas Ambros and ten others, subscribed to the King's supremacy 23 June, 1534.

In the 26th Hen. VIII. the total value of the Revenues of this House amounted to 562*l.* 14*s.* 6½*d.*, the clear income to 504*l.* 12*s.* 11½*d.* At the Dissolution there are said to have been found in this Hospital, by the King's Visitors, no fewer than a hundred and eighty beds for the reception of sick persons and travellers.[p]

In the 32d Hen. VIIIth, the Mesuage, called "le Fermere," probably the Infirmary, "infra Scitum nuper Prioratus Novi Hospitalis," was granted to John Hales:[q] and in the same year Stephen Vaughan performed his homage for divers mesuages, parcel of the possessions of this Hospital,[r] to whom and Margaret his wife, 14th Nov. 34th Hen. VIIIth, the reversion of the Site of this House was granted.[s] It continued for a while in the family of Vaughan; but in the lapse of years has been divided into the hands of numerous possessors.

An Impression of the OLD SEAL of this Hospital is in the hands of one of the Editors of this Work. It is small and of rude workmanship, round, and about the size of a half-crown. The device, the Agnus Dei and banner, with the words round it SIGILL . OSPITALIS . DEI. The Counter-seal, of an oval shape, has the figure of a Religious with a book, circumscribed S . WILLI . P'ORIS . NOVI . HOSPIT . EX . P'A' . EP'I . LO. The four last words for "extra Portam Episcopi London." The later COMMON SEAL of this House attached to the Acknowledgment of Supremacy, Chap. House, Westm., represents the blessed Virgin crowned, standing under a rich Gothic canopy between two religious persons, and surrounded by cherubims; in base a shield with the ARMS, a Cross Moline. the ruins of St. Mary Spital as discovered in 1723. And in 1725, some pillars, pavements, &c. discovered in Norton Folgate were believed by Mr. Le Neve to be the remains of the Hospital. To this we may add, that the foundations of many houses in Spital Square and its vicinity are laid upon, or with the remains, of its buildings. A stone post, with a staple on which a postern-door was once hung, is now the only visible remain.

In the Priory yard of St. Mary Spital stood the Pulpit Cross, of the Sermons preached at which so much is said in our Histories in the sixteenth century.

Hospital of St. Bartholomew, in London.

THE History of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, as far as its first foundation is concerned, has been already given in the Account of St. Bartholomew's Priory.

There seems some reason, however, for believing that the Hospital might have been built before the Priory: though Leland, Stow, and some other antiquaries do not agree in the fact. Tanner has a Note on this point.

The foundation was for a Master, brethren, and sisters, and for the entertainment of poor diseased persons till they got well; of distressed women big with child, till they were delivered, and able to go abroad; and for the maintenance (till the age of seven years) of all such children whose mothers died in the House. It was given to the neighbouring priory, and was in many things subject to it; but it had a distinct estate; which was valued in the 26th of Henry the Eighth in the gross at 371*l.* 13*s.* 2*d.*; in the clear income at 305*l.* 6*s.* 7*d.* per annum.

Stow says, "Alfune that had not long before built the parish church of St. Giles without Cripplegate, became the first Hospitaler or Proctor for the Poor of this House.

Newcourt informs us that Richard Newport bishop of London visited this House in 1318, and made several Injunctions for its better regulation. By a composition of the date of 1373, the Masters of the Hospital were to be presented to the Prior of St. Bartholomew's Priory after election, and previous to the presentation to the bishop.

Richard Whittington, says Stow, sometime Mayor of London, of his goods repaired this Hospital, about the year 1423.

MASTERS of ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S HOSPITAL.

Alfune has been already mentioned.

William le Rouse, April 1st, 17 Edw. III.

Richard Sutton resigned in 1386, when

William Wakering was elected on Dec. 31st.

Thomas Creveker died Aug. 4th, 1510.

Robert Beyley was elected August 9th, 1510. He died April 23, 1516, when

Richard Smith, LL.D. was elected. He died 20th Feb. 1524.

Alexander Colyns, a monk of Daventry, was appointed by Cardinal Wolsey, Feb. 25th, 1524, with a dispensation for him to pass from the rule of St. Benedict to that of St. Austin. He died 15th Jan. 1528.

Edward Staple bishop of Meath was elected master, or perpetual commendatory, of this Hospital upon Colyns's death. He resigned this mastership, 1 July, 1532.

John Breerton LL.D. was elected 23 Sept. 1532. He, with John Chowny and two others, subscribed to the premacy, 23d June, 1534.

The Site of this House was given, in the year 1546, by King Henry the Eighth, to the Lord Mayor and Citizens of London, for a Hospital, and still continues so, to the comfort and relief of great numbers of distressed people every year.[a]

None of the original buildings of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, it is believed, are now remaining.

The Instruments relating to the Hospital in the former edition of the Monasticon, in the present have been combined with those of the Priory.

Cole, in one of his Manuscripts in the British Museum, vol. xxii, fol. 58. has given a Drawing of a large oval SEAL of this Hospital. The area represents St. Bartholomew, under a canopy-head, with a knife in his right and a book in his left hand, treading on a Lion. On each side of him, the old Arms of England Gu. 3 Lions Or. . . . . BARTH'I . LONDON is all that remains of an Inscription.

Holy Innocents Hospital, at Lincoln.

REMIGIUS, Bishop of Lincoln, is said to have been the first builder of the House for leprous persons near this City, to which he assigned thirteen marks yearly revenue.

Tanner says, "This probably was the same with the Hospital of the Holy Innocents called de Mallardry without Lincoln, or else gave occasion for the founding and endowing this last mentioned Hospital by King Henry the First, for a Master, Warden, two Chaplains, one clerk, and ten lepers, who temp. Edw. III. had lands and rents to the value of 30*l.* per annum. This was annexed to the Hospital of Burton Lazars, 35th Hen. VI., for the better maintenance of three of the King's servants that should happen to be lepers, either here at Lincoln, or in the Hospital of St. Giles near London, and as parcel thereof was granted to Sir William Cecil, Knt. in the 7th Edw. VI."[b]

Rex, &c. Monstraverunt nobis dilecti servientes, familiares hospicii nostri, qualiter plures de servientibus familiaribus ejusdem hospicii, ante hæc tempora multotiens leprâ percussi fuerint; et jam aliqui de eodem hospicio leprâ percussi existunt, et in futurum aliquos existere formidant, quod absit, et nullum locum certum pro eorum relevamine et succursu habuerunt, nec habent de præsenti, ut accepimus, in ipsorum servientum familiarium plorationem et detrimentum manifestâ, nisi per nos in hac parte succurretur eisdem: ac qualiter Johannes London, unus clericorum capellæ nostræ, habeat et teneat pro termino vitæ suæ, ex concessione nostra, per literas nostras patentes, hospitale Sanctorum Innocentium, vocatum Mallardry, extra suburbia civitatis Lincolniæ in comitatu Lincolniæ, unà cum omnibus et singulis suis juribus et pertinentiis quibuscunque, prout in eisdem literis nostris patentibus indè confectis pleniùs continetur. Hospital of Ilford, in Essex.

THIS Hospital, dedicated to the Virgin Mary and St. Thomas the Martyr, was founded by Adeliza or Adelicia the abbess and the convent of Berking, according to Tanner, about the latter end of the reign of King Henry the Second or the beginning of that of King Richard the First; Lysons says in the reign of King Stephen: and adds, from Mr. Lethieulier's MS. History of Berking, that it was for a prior, a warden or master, two priests, and thirteen poor infirm brethren or lepers. Tanner says it was for leprous tenants or servants of the Abbey. Lysons says the Abbess endowed it with a hundred and twenty acres of assart land in Estholt, two hides of land in Upminster and Aveley, and some other lands; a mill at Ilford; half the profits of the parish-church of Barking; the tithe of all her mills in this parish; and some other tithes in Berking and Warley. The charter, he adds, was confirmed by King Stephen, and by Maud, Adeliza's successor.[a]

In 1346 Statutes were drawn up for this Hospital by Ralph Stratford bishop of London, which the reader will find in the Appendix. Dugdale, in the former edition of this Work, considered them as the Statutes of bishop Ralph de Baldok.

The patronage of this Hospital was confirmed to the abbess of Berking by King Richard the Second and King Henry the Fourth.[b]

In 1504 this House was possessed of the tithes of Eastbury, Westbury, and Loxford; a portion of the tithes of Warley; a portion of the tithes of Jenkins, Clayberry, Wyfields, and some other estates in Berking; besides lands, houses, and quit-rents, to a considerable amount, principally in the same parish.

In the 26th Hen. VIII. the gross revenue of Ilford Hospital amounted to 21*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*; the clear income to 16*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*

The Hospital and its revenues having been seized by the Crown, Queen Elizabeth, in the year 1572, granted the site with the lands and tithes thereto belonging, to Thomas Fanshaw, Esq. Remembrancer of the Exchequer, his heirs and assigns, on condition that they should appoint a master who should keep the chapel in repair, together with apartments for six paupers, each of whom should receive a pension of 2*l.* 5*s.* per annum; and that he should nominate and maintain a chaplain to perform divine service in the chapel.

Lysons has given an account, chiefly from Mr. Lethieullier's MSS. of the subsequent descent of the Hospital estate, which in 1811 belonged to Bamber Gascoyne, Esq.

This Hospital stands upon the north side of the road in the town of Ilford. The Almshouses were rebuilt, and the Chapel repaired in 1719.

The SEAL of this Hospital has not been met with.

NUM. I.

Ordinatio Regiminis ejusdem per Radulphum Londoniensem Episcopum.

[Ex ipso autogr. in bibl. Hattoniana.]

UNIVERSIS sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis, præsentes literas visuris, Radulphus permissione divina episcopus Londoniensis, salutem in omnium Salvatore. Licèt ex debito nostri officii pastoralis, cunctis quos ordinaria potestas nobis facit esse subjectos, quociens ipsos nostra provisione conspicimus indigere, cupiamus paternâ promptitudine, de remediis oportunis, prout nobis est possibile, providere. Ad providendum tamen illis nostris subditis, qui propter suorum corporum imbecillitatem nequeant se juvare, et quos collabi in rebus cernimus et personis, animo assurgimus promptiori. Comperto igitur in visitatione, quam in hospitali de Illeford nostræ diœcecis excercuimus, ordinario nostro jure, quod nedum numerus tresdecem fratrum leprosorum, duorum capellanorum et unius clerici, piâ largitione fidelium deputatâ, in usus alios, absque auctoritate in ea parte de jure requisita, dampnabiliter sunt conversa ac quædam contra dicti hospitalis fundationem, circa res et personas temerè immutata; ad honorem Domini nostri Jesu Christi, et gloriosissimæ Mariæ matris suæ, et sancti Erkenewaldi, omniumque sanctorum, ut dictum hospitale reducatur ad suum statum debitum et primævum; sicque reductum perpetuis futuris temporibus utiliùs gubernetur, hæc omnia quæ sequuntur, de consensu et assensu dilectorum nobis in Christo Matildis de Monteacuto abbatissæ, et conventus de Berkyng, dictæ nostræ diœcesis, de quorum fundatione dictum hospitale existit, ac magistri et fratrum hospitalis prædicti, ad subscripta primitùs, juxta juris exigentiam vocatorum, duximus statuenda.

Imprimis statuimus, decernimus, ac etiam ordinamus, ut dictus statutus numerus tresdecem fratrum leprosorum, quamdiu bona dicti hospitalis pro tot fratribus sufficere poterint, inviolabiliter observetur; et ut hoc effectui citiùs demandetur, statuimus et decernimus, ut decedente vel cedente fratre non leproso, aut corrodario dicti hospitalis, loco ipsius fratris vel corrodarii decedentis vel cedentis, quam citiùs fieri poterit; leprosus de Berkyng prædicta, si talis inibi idoneus existat, alioquin de loco alio dominii seu dominici dictorum abbatissæ et conventus, aut ibidem nullo tali existente, aliundè undecunque fuerit subrogetur, et in forma inferiùs declaranda recipiatur in fratrem hospitalis prædicti, donec dictus numerus fuerit adimpletus. Idemque fratribus leprosis dicti hospitalis decedentibus vel cedentibus, volumus et præcipimus observari. Ad hæc statuimus, ut decedente vel cedente fratre leproso, aut alio fratre seu corrodario dicti hospitalis, à die decessus vel cessionis hujusmodi, quicquid hujusmodi decedens, vel cedens, si viveret, seu frater aut corrodarius permaneret, de dicto hospitali perciperet, usque ad receptionem novi fratris leprosi, pauperibus, per magistros hospitalis prædicti integraliter erogetur, et in usus alios nullatenus convertendum.

Circa receptionem verò et admissionem hujusmodi fratrum leprosorum, modum usitatum ab antiquo; viz. ut unus leprosus per abbatissam dicti monasterii, quæ pro tempore fuerit: alius verò per magistrum et fratres dicti hospitalis, ad voluntatem tamen dictæ abbatissæ, alternis vicibus substituatur in hospitali prædicto quicquam nolumus innovare. Item, cum ea quæ ad certum usum largitione sunt destinata fidelium, ad illum debeant et non ad alium, salvâ sedis apostolicæ auctoritate, converti; hac constitutione perpetuò inhibemus, ne unquam ab hac horâ in antea de bonis dicti hospitalis alicui pensio, census, aut corrodium ad vitam vel ad tempus, ob meritum, seu propter obsequium, aut quocunque alio colore directè vel indirectè aliqualiter concedatur, seu alienetur res immobilis ad hospitale pertinens memoratum, absque causa et auctoritate in hac parte requisitis de jure; et ut hæc præmissa nostra prohibitio imperpetuum firmiter observetur, statuimus, et decernimus ut singuli fratres leprosi, in admissione sua jurent ad sancta Dei evangelia, quod nunquam directè vel indirectè facient, procurabunt, aut consentient, quod alicui de bonis dicti hospitalis ex causa quaounque seu colore quocunque, census, corrodium, aut pensio concedatur, aut alienentur dicti hospitalis res immobiles quoquomodo, absque causa et auctoritate in hac parte requisitis de jure; sed quotiens inter eos de hujusmodi concessione vel alienatione locutum fuerit aut tractatum, constanter, pro totis viribus contradicent. Et nichilomiuus volumus et statuimus, quod omnes, qui hujusmodi concessioni vel alienationi consensum auxilium præbuerint, vel favorem, ex hoc majoris excommunicationis sententiæ subjaceant ipso facto.

Cum vir et uxor, una caro per conjugalem copulam sint effecti; nec una pars converti possit ad Dominum et altera in sæculo remanere, imitantes sacros canones prohibemus, ne leprosus uxoratus, nisi uxor sua ad religionem transierit, aut ejus ætatis fuerit, ut sine suspitione incontinentiæ valeat in sæculo remanere, et tunc perpetuam voverit castitatem, unquam in dicto hospitali recipiatur in fratrem, præsertim cum et si virum sive uxorem leprosum fieri contingat; et infirmus à sano carnale debitum exigat, juxta generale præceptum apostoli "quod exigitur est solvendum."

Item statuimus, quod dicti leprosi ad ecclesiam eorum pro divino officio inibi audiendo, nisi gravi corporis infirmitate fuerint impediti, accedere non omittant; silentium ibidem teneant; Matutinas horas et missam audiant completè, si poterint; et dum ibidem existunt orationi et devotioni, in quantum eorum infirmitas patitur, sint intenti. Volumus etiam et statuimus, quod sicut fuit in dicto hospitali antiquitùs ordinatum, quilibet frater leprosus dicat singulis diebus, loco matutinalis officii, tresdecem vicibus Pater noster et Ave Maria; et pro singulis aliis horis diei; viz. Prima, Tertia, Sexta, Nona, Vesperarum et Completorii, septies Pater noster et Ave Maria. Et nichilominus quilibet eorum dicat singulis diebus, pro fundatoribus suis et episcopo loci ac cunctis benefactoribus suis et omnibus aliis fidelibus, vivis et defunctis, præter præmissas orationes, triginta vicibus Pater noster et Ave Maria. Dicat insuper quilibet frater leprosus in die quo aliquis eorum migraverit ab hac luce, pro anima hujusmodi defuncti, et animabus omnium fidelium defunctorum, ter quinquaginta Pater noster et Ave Maria. Si quis verò in præmissis, vel eorum aliquo transgressus fuerit manifestus, pro hujusmodi transgressione per magistrum dicti hospitalis, qui aliàs prior nuncupatur, juxta facti qualitatem debitè puniatur. Si verò frater leprosus occultè deliquerit in præmissis, in foro pœnitentiali proprium dicti hospitalis consulat sacerdotem.

Item cum in dicto hospitali debeant esse duo sacerdotes et unus clericus, qui eis deservire debeat in divinis, quibus providebitur de bonis communibus hospitalis prædicti, prout in quadam indentura inter Mabiliam, dudum abbatissam et conventum monasterii supradicti, et fratres infirmos dicti hospitalis, auctoritate bonæ memoriæ Willielmi nostri prædecessoris confectâ, et aliis instrumentis vidimus pleniùs contineri, dicta indenturam et instrumenta, quoad dictos capellanos et clericum et eorum admissionem et ammotionem, et cætera contenta in eisdem indentura et instrumentis, volumus per omnia in suo robore permanere; adjicientes, ne fratres leprosi habeant materiam evagandi, cum ipsorum conversatio sanis periculosa existat, et etiam scandalosa, ut capellanus eorum confessiones ipsorum audiendi, et eosdem absolvendi etiam in casibus nobis de jure specialiter reservatis; ac eisdem de suis peccatis confessis et contritis, pro suis excessibus imponendi pœnitentias salutares; necnon ministrandi sacramentum eukaristiæ et unctionis extremæ, ex hac nostra constitutione plenam habeat potestatem. Habeant etiam ipsi fratres leprosi, de seipsis duntaxat apud se liberam sepulturam.

Item ordinamus, quod dicti leprosi seorsim à capellanis et clerico supradictis, in quantum eorundem leprosorum infirmitas patitur, dormiant et comedant in communi, quod in dictis capellanis statim cum ad hoc domus competens fuerit ordinata, præcipimus firmiter observari. Quia ex accessu mulierum nedum scandala, sed etiam animarum pericula possunt probabiliter formidari, inhibemus ne dictum hospitale, præter ecclesiam ejusdem, quævis mulier præter abbatissam monasterii supradicti, et moniales secum venientes, necnon matrem, amitam, consanguineam, vel sororem alicujus fratrum vel capellanorum prædictorum; vel lotricem communem fratrum vel capellanorum prædictorum, aut aliam mulierem, de quâ propter sui status honestatem bona præsumptio habeatur, aliqualiter ingredi permittatur: nec ingressum habeat hujusmodi mater, amita, consanguinea, vel soror, nisi causâ visitandi infirmum; vel si lotrix fuerit, ad suum officium exequendum: In præmissis verò casibus prædictæ mulieres, de clarâ horâ diei sic ingrediantur, morentur, et egrediantur, ut de earum accessu, morâ, et regressu, nullum sinistrum valeat versimiliter suspicari.

Cum detractio pacificorum animos inquietet, fratres leprosi dicti hospitalis, capellanis ejusdem, vel iidem capellani dictis leprosis detrahere non præsumant; linguas suas in susurrum non relaxent; sed se mutuò fraternâ dilectione in verâ caritate studeant pertractare.

Item, cum hii qui lepræ maculâ sunt respersi, debeant de consuetudine à communione hominum segregari; inhibendo statuimus, quod fratres leprosi clausurum interiorem vel portas exteriores absque licentiâ magistri dicti hospitalis, qui prior dicitur, vel alterius magistri supervisoris, non exeant quoquomodo; quam licentiam non concedat aliquis magistrorum prædictorum, nisi causa talis exprimatur eidem, quæ ipsum ad hujusmodi licentiam concedendam meritò inducere debeat et movere.

Item ordinamus et statuimus, quod in singulis septimanis fiat capitulum per magistrum leprosum et suos fratres, in quo ipsorum capellanum, ut more solito, preces dicat, volumus interesse: qui quidem capellanus, precibus finitis recedat, ut in ipsius absentiâ dictus magister leprosus, fratrum suorum excessus puniat et corrigat competenter.

Item, cum in dictâ indenturâ, cui non intendimus derogare, inter alia caveatur, quod abbatissa dicti monasterii, quæ pro tempore fuerit, constituet in prædicto hospitali unum clericum vel laicum pro negotiis ipsius hospitalis utiliter ordinandis dictis fratribus in magistrum, statuimus et decernimus, ut abbatissa dicti monasterii, quæ pro tempore fuerit, magistrum sæcularem dicto hospitali præficere teneatur, virum utique providum et discretum, ac boni testimonii, qui sciat, velit, et valeat dictum hospitale et ipsius jura et bona utiliter regere; quodque velit redditus et proventus dicti hospitalis in usus debitos dispensare verisimiliter præsumatur. Statuimus etiam, quod dictus magister sæcularis, ac etiam magister leprosus, dicti hospitalis, statim post suam præfectionem, antequam cœperint bona dicti hospitalis aliqualiter ministrare, juramentum faciant corporale, quod de cunctis bonis dicti hospitalis, inventarium fidele conficient, bona prædicta ad usum dictorum fratrum leprosorum, et commodum dicti hospitalis fideliter ministrabunt abbatissæ dicti monasterii, quæ est et erit, seu vacante dicto monasterio ipsius priorissæ et conventui; aut si dicto monasterio vacante priorissa non fuerit, dicto conventui, vel alicui alii, quem ad hoc abbatissa dicti monasterii, vel ipso monasterio vacante, ejusdem priorissa et conventus, aut tunc priorissâ non existente, dictus conventus voluerit vel voluerint deputare, de administratione suâ plenam reddent annis singulis rationem: per præmissam tamen artationem juri nostro ordinario nullum volumus præjudicium generari: Si quis verò de dictis magistris de bonis dicti hospitalis, postquam præfecti fuerint, ut præfertur, antedicti juramenti præstationem, se intromittere præsumpserit quoquomodo, ipsum pro tantæ temeritatis excessu, majoris excommunicationis sententiam incurrere volumus ipso facto.

Item ut præmissa omnia promptiùs observentur, ordinamus et statuimus, ut quilibet frater leprosus, in limine receptionis suæ in fratrem, professionem faciat subsequentem. "Ego N. frater leprosus hospitalis de Illeford, promitto Deo et beatissimæ Mariæ matri suæ, et omnibus sanctis, et nichilominus juro ad hæc sancta evangelia, quod castus ero; necnon abbatissæ N. monasterii de Berkyng, et ejusdem loci conventui obediens et fidelis, nichil proprium possidebo, nunquam consentiam aut præstabo consilium vel favorem, ut aliquis alius quam leprosus in fratrem dicti hospitalis de cætero admittatur, aut quod res immobilis dicti hospitalis alienetur, vel quod alicui ob meritum, seu propter obsequium de bonis dicti hospitalis census, corrodium, vel pensio, ad tempus vel ad vitam aliqualiter concedatur, aut quod minuatur leprosorum seu capellanorum numerus antedictus, dum bona dicti hospitalis ad eorum sustentationem sufficere poterunt; sed quotiens de præmissis, vel eorum aliquo locutum michi fuerit, pro totis viribus reclamabo præmissa, et subscripta ordinationes et statuta, et alias antiquas observantias, præmissis et subsequentibus non contrarias, quatinus in me est, firmiter observabo: et sic faciam, prout ad me pertinet ab aliis observari, sic Deus me adjuvet, et hæc sancta Dei evangelia."

Si magister leprosus, vel magister sæcularis dicti hospitalis, aut aliquis de fratribus leprosis prædictis, notam perjurii, aut excommunicationis sententiam incurrerit, occasione non præstiti juramenti, de inventario faciendo, ac fideli administratione et ratiocinio exindè reddendo, aut occasione minus fidelis administrationis; seu pro eo quod alienationi rei immobilis, aut concessioni census, corrodii, vel pensionis consenserit, aut consilium præstiterit, vel favorem administrationivè bonorum dicti hospitalis ante præstationem dicti juramenti, quæ superiùs prohibentur, se ingesserit quoquomodo, ipsius absolutionem in foro pœnitentiali et dicti perjurii punitionem in foro judiciali, nobis et successoribus nostris specialiter reservamus, potestate capellano dictorum leprosorum in foro pœnitentiali in suis casibus superiùs attributa, in suo robore nichilominus duraturâ.

Et ne se fratres leprosi, vel sacerdotes dicti hospitalis, ab observatione præmissorum, sub colore ignorantiæ valeant imposterum excusare, statuimus et etiam ordinamus, ut præmissa nostra statuta omnia et singula, quater annis singulis coram magistris, fratribus, et capellanis dicti hospitalis, distinctè et apertè legantur, et exponantur etiam in vulgari, ut ipsorum quilibet scire valeat manifestè, quæ et qualia debeat observare. Et nichilominus, ad perpetuam memoriam præmissorum, volumus et præcipimus, quod præmissa omnia, in formâ subscriptâ, in tribus originalibus conscribantur; quorum unum penès dictam abbatissam et conventum; secundum pènes dictos magistrum et fratres in dicto hospitali; et tertium in thesaurariâ ecclesiæ nostræ cathedralis perpetuò maneant custodita. In quorum omnium testimonium præsentes literas sigilli nostri appensione fecimus communiri. Datum in capellâ hospitalis prædicti, quarto die Decembris, anno Domini MCCCXLVI. et consecrationis nostræ septimo.

Hospital of St. Mary Magdalen, Colchester.

EUDO, who has been already mentioned as the founder of St. John's Abbey in Colchester, also erected, just without the town, toward the South-East, this Hospital for a Master and several leprous people.[a] King Richard the First granted it the privilege of holding a fair at Colchester on the day of St. Mary Magdalen.[b] Valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at 11*l.* per annum. The ancient SEAL of this House designated it as the Hospital of St. Mary Magdalen "juxta Myle end." It was refounded by King James the First, in A.D. 1610, for a Master and five unmarried poor persons, and is still in being.[c] Tanner refers concerning this House to "Cart. 52 Hen. A few old buildings now remaining on the north side of Magdalen Church are the only vestiges of this Hospital at present.

Hospital or Hospitals of St. John and St. Leonard,

IN AYLESBURY.

THE ancient state of these Hospitals, which appear afterwards to have been united, is given in two Inquisitions of the 34th and 35th of Edward the Third; whence it appears that both were founded for leprous persons by certain charitable inhabitants of Aylesbury in the reign of Henry the First; and that the buildings had fallen to ruin and the endowments of both had been seized into the hands of lay persons. The Inquisitions as they stand upon the Escheat Roll, here follow.

Hospital of Burton Lazars, in Leicestershire.

NICHOLS, who has written a full Account of Burton Lazars in his History of Leicestershire, says, that this Hospital was supposed to have been built by a general collection throughout England, but chiefly by the assistance of Roger de Mowbray.[a]

Tanner says nothing of the general Collection; only, that Roger de Mowbray, in the time of King Stephen, giving two carucates of land, a house, mill, &c. here, to the lepers of St. Lazarus without the walls of Hierusalem, laid the foundation of a well-endowed Hospital, consisting of a Master and eight sound, as well as several poor leprous brethren, which was the chief of all the Spittles or Lazar Houses in England, but dependant upon the great House at Hierusalem.[b]

This Hospital was dedicated to the blessed Virgin and St. Lazarus.

Choselee manor, in Windham, in Norfolk, was given to this House before 1146 by William de Albini.

Nichols has given a minute enumeration of the possessions of this Hospital as they appear in a Register which will be described presently.

King Henry the Second confirmed the possessions and privileges of this Hospital,[c] as did King John,[d] and King Henry the Sixth. King Edward the Third granted the brethren an exemption from tithes and other contributions.[e]

The annexation of the Hospital of the Holy Innocents, near Lincoln, to Burton Lazars in 1456, has been already mentioned.

Nichols quotes the Decem Scriptores for an Account of the burning of this Hospital by the negligence of a plumber in the fourteenth century.

In the 26th Hen. VIIIth, the clear value of the revenues of this House amounted to 265*l.* 10*s.* 2½*d.* The Site was granted in the 36th Hen. VIII. to John Dudley Lord Lisle.

Tanner refers to a REGISTER of this Hospital in the Cottonian Library, now in the British Museum, marked Nero C. xii. intitled (in Sir William Dugdale's hand) "Cartularium Xenodochii de Burton Lazers in agro Leicestrensi, continens folia CCL^{ta}. ex dono prænobilis Christopheri Baronis Hatton de Kirby, in com. Northampt."[h]

Mr. Nichols, Vol. II. P^{t}. i. p. 255. has engraved the COMMON SEAL of this Hospital. It bore as a device the figure of St. Austin, with two escutcheons, one of Mowbray, the other a red cross on a white field. These, it appears, were the ARMS assumed by the Hospital, which they sometimes used separately and sometimes impaled.

This House was situated at the top of a hill at a distance from the town.

Hospital of St. Giles, without London.

MR. PARTON, in his Work entitled "Some Account of the Hospital and Parish of St. Giles in the Fields, Middlesex," has given so elaborate a history of this Foundation, that we can do little more here than present an outline of its contents, and refer to it.

This Hospital was founded in 1101 by Matilda queen of Henry the First for the maintenance of lepers, the number of whom was to consist of forty, exclusive of a chaplain, clerk, and messenger; to which were added in after times, as the Hospital-revenues increased, several other officers, and also a certain number of matrons or sisters.

Much of the support for this House at its earliest period seems to have been obtained by sending a Proctor about for the obtaining of voluntary contributions: its first endowment not exceeding 3l. per annum. The insufficiency, however, was soon obviated: and the brethren became possessed of rents in the parish of Isleworth, of several plots of land in the parish of St. Giles, of rents in the parish of St. Clement Danes, and of the rectory and church of Feltham in Middlesex. Numerous gifts and privileges were also confirmed to them by King Henry the Second,[a] as well as by a bull from Pope Alexander the Fourth.[b] They had likewise lands and woods in Heston: and in the reigns of Edward the First and Second, beside a very considerable portion of the parish of St. Giles, appear to have held rents and estates in most of the parishes of London.

King Edward the Third, in 1354, annexed this House as a Cell to Burton Lazars, in consideration of the Master and brethren of the latter foundation remitting the annuity of forty Marks per annum which had been granted to them from the Exchequer by King Henry the Second.

King Richard the Second and King Henry the Fourth both confirmed the Charters of St. Giles's Hospital:[c] and Parton says that King Richard the Second annexed it for a short time to the Abbey of St. Mary Graces by the Tower of London.[d] Tanner, however, thinks that that grant, made in his fifteenth year, never took effect. The Custody of St. Giles's Hospital was again confirmed to Burton Lazars by King Henry the Fifth, and by King Henry the Sixth in his third year;[e] and so continued to the Dissolution, being granted, as parcel of the possessions of Burton Lazars, in the 36th of Henry the Eighth to John Dudley Lord Lisle, also called John Lord Dudley.[f]

In 1537 the Master of Burton and Warden of St. Giles, with the consent of their brethren, exchanged the greater part of the Hospital lands in St. Giles's and the manors of Feltham and Heston, in Middlesex, with King Henry the Eighth, (being moved thereto at the King's instance,) for the manor of Burton St. Lazar.[g] In 1539 both Burton Lazar and St. Giles's Hospitals were dissolved.

Lord Lisle, on receiving the grant of the two Houses, fitted up the principal part of St. Giles's Hospital as a residence for himself: but two years afterwards alienated it to John Wymonde Carew, Esq. For an account of the later occupants of the House, the reader is referred to Mr. Parton's History.

The COMMON SEAL of this House bore a representation of the patron saint, and was inscribed SIGILLVM . SANCTI . EGIDII . INFIRMORVM. An Impression of it is in the Augmentation Office.

Parton, p. 39 to 42, has given a Chronological Table of Events connected with St. Giles's Hospital.

Tanner describes the REGISTER of St. Giles's Hospital, preserved MS. Harl. 4015, under two distinct titles: the two however were one MS., which was purchased at Mr. Rawlinson's sale in 1731 by Lord Oxford. It was written in 1402 by order of Walter Lynton, the Master of Burton Lazars.[k]

There are no Ministers' Accompts of the possessions of this Hospital in the Augmentation Office.

In the 26th Hen. VIII. the Hospital of Burton Lazars is stated to have paid to fourteen paupers in the Hospital of St. Giles, the sum of 42l. 11*s.* 8*d.* according to the force and effect of the foundation, being at the rate of two-pence to every pauper per diem.

Although Parton makes this Hospital to have been founded in 1101, it must not be concealed that Stowe and others after him give 1117 as the date; the year before the foundress died. The Cottonian MS. Nero C. V. Barthol. de Cotton Monachi Norwicensis Hist. Anglicana, says, "A.D. 1118. Matildis Regina fundavit Hospitale Sancti Egidii Lond. quo anno viam universæ carnis ingressa est."

Hospital of Yarum, in Yorkshire.

TANNER says this Hospital, dedicated to St. Nicholas, was founded by some of the family of Brus, before the year 1185. It was afterwards granted to the Canons of Helagh Park.[b] It continued to the time of Henry the VIIIth, when it was valued at 5*l.* per annum.

Nothing has been met with in the Augmentation Office[c] as to this Hospital, except that a Chantry of St. Nicholas was founded in the Hospital House within the parish of Yarome, valued yearly by the Commissioners under the Statutes for the Dissolution of Chantries, temp. Hen. VIII. and Edw. VI. at 5*l.* 6*s.* 4*d.*; the necessity of the said Chantry being to perform divine service to the inhabitants thereabouts. It is stated to be distant from the parish church a mile.

The Hospital SEAL has not been seen by the Editors.

Hospital of St. James, at Westminster.

"AT a distance from the City," says Tanner, "in the fields near Westminster, some well-disposed citizens of London, beyond the memory of man, and (as some think) long before the Conquest, founded a Hospital for the reception of fourteen leprous women, to whom were afterwards added eight brethren to minister divine service. This House was dedicated to St. James, and rebuilt in the time of King Henry the Third. It was under the government of a Master (though the abbat of Westminster claimed a jurisdiction over it) till King Henry the Sixth granted the perpetual custody of it to Eton College, who surrendered it to King Henry the Eighth, anno regni 23, (when it was valued at 100*l. per annum*) in exchange for Chattisham, &c. in Suffolk. On or near the place where this Hospital stood, hath been since built the present royal Palace of St. James."[a]

Hospital of St. John Baptist and St. Thomas,

AT STAMFORD, IN LINCOLNSHIRE.

TANNER'S Notice of this House must be sufficient for the present work. He says, "At the south end of the Bridge of Stamford, where since the Lord Burghley's Almshouses have been built, stood the ancient Free Chapel or Hospital of St. John Baptist and St. Thomas the Martyr, consisting of a Master and Brethren, founded in the latter end of King Henry the Second, or beginning of the time of King Richard the First, by Richard Humet, Bertram de Verdun Syward, or Brandon de Fossato. It was in the patronage of the Abbats of Peterborough."[f] Pope Alexander confirmed the foundation.

This Chapel was valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 5*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.* clear, but no other mention appears in the Valor as to the Hospital.

Alexander episcopus servus servorum Dei dilecto filio Brandoni, salutem, et apostolicam benedictionem. Dignum est et consentaneum rationi, ut eorum justis desideriis annuamus, qui relictis pompis secularibus, caritatis operibus intendunt, et omnipotenti Domino elegerunt jugi devotione servire. Intelleximus autem, ex transmissâ nobis insinuatione tua, quod tu divina inspiratione ductus, venundatis omnibus, quæ possidetis, hospitale quoddam et capellam ad honorem Dei et beati Johannis et gloriosi martyris Thomæ, quondam Cantuariensis archiepiscopi, in capite pontis de Stanford, ex australi parte, ad receptionem peregrinorum et pauperum, per locum illum frequenter transeuntium ædificasti, ubi elegisti Creatori tuo perpetuum famulatum exhibere. Indè est, quod nos ob reverentiam Dei, et prædictorum sanctorum, et devotione, quam erga ipsos te habere ostendis, rationali postulationi tuæ libentiùs annuentes, præscriptum hospitale, capellam, cum omnibus quæ idem hospitale, impræsentiarum rationabiliter possidet, aut in futurum largitione pontificum, oblatione fidelium, seu aliis justis modis, præstante Domino, poterit adipisci, sub beati Petri et nostrâ protectione suscipimus, et præsentis scripti patrocinio communimus. Statuentes ut prædicta capella proprium capellanum, cantariam, cemiterium, et in eodem cemiterio liberam sepulturam, sine contradictione qualibet optinere. Decernimus ergo ut nulli homini liceat prædictum hospitale temerè perturbare, vel quibuslibet indebitis vexationibus fatigare, seu hanc paginam nostræ protectionis et constitutionis infringere, aut ei aliquatenùs contraire. Siquis autem hoc attemptare præsumpserit, indignationem omnipotentis Dei, et beatorum Petri et Pauli apostolorum ejus se noverit incursurum. Dat. Anagniæ, nonas Febr. anno Hospital of Santingfeld, near Whitsand.

THE Instrument here given by Dugdale, has, in fact, no right to appear among the English Augustine Hospitals; for SANTINGFELD was a HOSPITAL in PICARDY. The lands however which were granted in this Deed were afterwards colonized, and had subordinate Hospitals with a Master, or Masters, and Brethren settled in them. So far, they claim a notice in the present Work.

Upon the "terra de Ferleya" was erected the HOSPITAL of FARLE in Bedfordshire, which, as part of the possessions of an Alien House, was given 26 Hen. VI. to the Provost and Fellows of King's College in Cambridge.

Upon the three hides at Luttegersahala, another Hospital was erected; this was at LUDGARSHALL or LITHERSALL in Buckinghamshire; which was also given 25 Hen. VI. to King's College, Cambridge.

Tanner speaking of the Master of Farle says, "This Master is often mentioned, as in Tax. Lincoln. MS. 20 Edw. I. Magister de Farle habet in Farle in decanat. Dunstaple, &c. In Prynne, vol. iii. p. 591. Frater Joannes Rokele magister Hospitalis de Farley et Lotegarshall. Et Pat. 1 Ric. II. p. 5, m. . Rex ratificat Will. de Wenlock custodem Hospitalis de Farle, in com. The Hospitals of St. Thomas and St. Nicholas,

AT SCARDEBURGH, IN YORKSHIRE.

"HUGH DE BULEMERE," says Tanner, "temp. Hen. II. gave lands toward the founding of an Hospital in this Town, to the honour of St. Thomas the Martyr, which was finished and endowed by the burgesses of the place, who are also said to have been the founders and maintainers of another Hospital in this town dedicated to St. Nicholas. In both which Hospitals were Brothers and Sisters, poor men and women, temp. Edw. I. and II., and more of either of these Houses I have not met with." Tanner's References to Records are, "Cart. 26 Edw. I. m. 8. d. Pat. 9 Edw. II. p. 2, m. 10. Pat. 14 Edw. II. p. 2, m. 5."

Dicunt tamen, quod ballivi de Scardeburgh, qui pro tempore fuerint, cum quatuor hominibus ejusdem villæ, audiunt compotum dictæ domus singulis annis. Hospital of St. Giles, without Shrewsbury.

TANNER calls this St. Giles's Spittle. "Without this town," he says, "in the east suburb, was an old Hospital for leprous and infirm people, dedicated to St. Giles. It was in being in the beginning of the reign of King Henry the Second, and I believe still continues."[a]

Owen and Blakeway, in their History of Shrewsbury, mention an Instrument from which we learn that the style of this House was "The PRIOR, Brethren, and Sisters of the House of St. Giles of Salop." At a subsequent period they observe, the title of the superior was changed to MASTER, and his appointment became vested, if it was not so from the beginning, in the neighbouring Abbat and Convent.

Owen and Blakeway speak of one ROBERT PENNANT as Prior in 1136.

A short time before the Dissolution the Abbat and Convent of Shrewsbury granted a long Lease of this Hospital to Richard Lee, Esq. of Langley; who, soon after, assigned his interest to John Prynce; from whom the Mastership descended to his son Richard. Sir Richard Prynce occurs as Master of this Hospital in the 8th of Charles I.

The foundation walls of this Hospital are believed to exist adjoining the west end of St. Giles's Church at Shrewsbury.

Owen and Blakeway, vol. ii. p. 173, of their History, have engraved the Seal of this House. It is in the form of a beggar's clap-dish, and is said to bear for a device the figure of the hind, by whose milk, St. Giles, according to his Legend, was supported in the desert.

The following is the Account of this Hospital in the Certificates of Colleges, Chantries, &c. 37 Hen. VIII. in the Augmentation Office.

Hospital of Romenale, or Rumney, in Kent.

THE most which we know of the History of this Hospital, is contained in the Deed here preserved for its re-establishment. It was founded for leprous persons, by Adam de Cherryng, in honor of St. Stephen and St. Thomas archbishop of Canterbury, in the time of Baldwin archbishop of Canterbury; but being decayed and forsaken, A.D. 1363, John Frauncys of Romney, the then patron, re-established here a master and one priest; Tanner says, almost in the nature of a Chantry, which was, A.D. 1481, annexed to St. Mary Magdalene College in Oxford.

There is an entry relating to this Hospital in a Roll 17th Ric. II. in the Augmentation Office.

The following Names of MASTERS of this Hospital occur in the Registers of the See of Canterbury: NICHOLAS CHAMBERLEYN, 22 Jan. 1385;[b] ADAM DE COKERMOUTH, 1386;[c] JOHN HALE, 8th Aug. 1409;[d] THOMAS MORTON;[e] THOMAS STODYER, 4th Dec. 1421;[f] RICHARD BERNE, 23th Nov. 1458.[g]

In 1378, 8 kal. Sept. Richard Sherewynd was admitted to a perpetual Chantry here.[h] In 1421 MARGERY FRAUNCEYS, relict of William Clederowe, occurs as patroness of this Hospital.[i]

Hasted says that this Hospital has become long since, private property, and a few years ago belonged to Mr. Freebody Dray of Lid, of whose heirs it was purchased by Mr. William Harman of New Romney, who was the owner of it when this volume was published. Part of it he adds is still standing at the east end of the town.[k]

Hospitale de Romenale, in agro Cantiano.

[Pat. 38 Edw. III. p. 1, m. 30, per Inspex.]

OMNIBUS Christi fidelibus præsentes literas inspecturis, visuris etiam vel audituris, Johannes filius Roberti Frauncys de Romenale, Cantuar. diœc., salutem in omnium Salvatore. Noverit universitas vestra, quod olim recolendæ memoriæ Adam de Cherryngs quoddam hospitale leprosorum in honore beatorum martyrum Stephani et Thomæ, quondam Cantuar. archiepiscopi, in dictâ villâ de Romenale dudum fundatum, terris, redditibus, et possessionibus variis dotavit et promovit; ac pro sustentatione perpetuâ quorundam leprosorum in eodem degentium, et unius capellani in ipso hospitali divina imperpetuum celebrantis, pro salute animæ suæ, animarumque antecessorum suorum, in puram et perpetuam elemosinam, terras, redditus, et possessiones hujusmodi eidem hospitali dedit et concessit, ac etiam assignavit prout per cartas ipsius Adæ, et literas Romanorum pontificum, ac archiepiscoporum Cantuariæ, qui pro tempore fuerunt; et præcipuè per literas bonæ memoriæ domini Baldwini dudum Cantuariensis archiepiscopi indè confectas pleniùs poterit apparere. Sed temporum maliciâ succedente, et eo maximè, quod nulli leprosi reperiebantur, nec longis temporibus retroactis potuerunt reperiri, qui in dicto hospitali voluerunt aliqualiter commorari, stetit dictum hospitale penitùs derelictum, et hominibus totaliter desolatum, sicque prout elemosina antiquitùs fieri consueta, et divinus cultus in eodem hospitali diu extiterat et existit, omnino diminutus et sopitus, ædificiaque hospitalis prædicti, quæ sumptuosa manus construxerat, funditùs sunt collapsa. Unde ego Johannes Fraunceys supradictus, verus dicti hospitalis nunc patronus, motus pietate; volens et intendens ipsum hospitale, ut præmittitur, totaliter desolatum, de bonis michi à Deo collatis, saltem et prout michi possibile fuerit, per Dei gratiam relevare, et divinum cultum ibidem diminutum et sopitum, ut præfertur, suscitare, ordino, volo, et dispono, quatinus in me est, et de jure possum in hâc parte; et præcipuè propter causam suprascriptam, quod de cætero in loco virorum leprosorum, qui in eodem hospitali morari consueverant, sint ibidem duo sacerdotes idonei, divina in ipso hospitali pro animabus fundatorum, patronorum, et benefactorum ejusdem perpetuis temporibus celebrantes; quorum unus erit dicti hospitalis magister, sive custos: qui quidem magister sive custos ibidem sumendus, sive eligendus, quociens ipsum hospitale vacare contigerit, ad præsentationem patroni ejusdem hospitalis cujuscunque qui pro tempore fuerit, per dictum archiepiscopum Cantuariæ, et ejus auctoritate, sede ecclesiæ Cantuar. plenâ, et ipsâ vacante per priorem et capitulum dictæ ecclesiæ instituetur et inducetur in eodem.

Et etiam, quod in dicto hospitali residentiam faciat corporalem, nisi pro negotiis ipsius hospitalis, vel aliàs ex causâ rationabili ipsum oporteat aliquociens absentari. Qui etiam capellanus in magistrum sive custodem prædicti hospitalis admissus, in institutione sive admissione sua hujusmodi; seu saltem in sua inductione, in possessionem corporalem hospitalis supradicti, corporale ad sancta Dei evangelia præstet juramentum, quod domos, terras, redditus, possessiones, et jura ipsius hospitalis, tam nova quàm antiqua, juxta posse suum viriliter conservabit et defendet, et sine vasto salvo custodiet, ordinationemque præsentem in omnibus fideliter observabit.

Ordino insuper et volo, quod quilibet magister sive custos hujusmodi, qui pro tempore fuerit, unum ad se capiet capellanum idoneum, quem in socium suum duxerit eligendum, ad morandum cum eo in hospitali prædicto, qui suus erit commensalis; cui quidem capellano, ultra victum suum xl. sol. sterlingorum de bonis ipsius hospitalis in moneta currenti idem magister ministrabit annuatim. Totum verò residuum bonorum et emolumentorum dicti hospitalis, habebit et percipiet magister supradictus pro sustentatione sua et suorum, ac jurium hospitalis antedicti, et aliorum onerum sibi incumbentium occasione hospitalis antedicti; ita tamen quod ibidem non fiet vastum, vel destructio, ut præfertur.

Liceat insuper magistro dicti hospitalis suum socium capellanum, quociens opus fuerit, et causa rationabilis exposcat, à dicto hospitali penitùs amovere, et alium idoneum loco suo ibidem subrogare et præficere; ita tamen quod semper sint ibidem duo capellani commorantes, videlicet magister et socius suus commensalis, ut est dictum, qui pro animabus fundatorum, patronorum, et omnium ipsius hospitalis, cessante impedimento legitimo, cotidiè celebrabunt, et simul in capella ipsius hospitalis Matutinas et alias horas canonicas, Placebo et Dirige, cum commendatione animarum dicent, nisi rationabiliter fuerint excusati.

Præterea ordino et volo, quod quilibet magister sive custos hospitalis prædicti, infra decem dies proximos postquam inductus fuerit in possessionem ejusdem, tam de visu et scientia patroni ipsius hospitalis, vel alicujus per ipsum ad hoc deputati; quàm de visu et scientia alterius capellani sui, viz. socii commensalis, fidele faciat et plenum inventarium indentatum, de omnibus et singulis bonis, rebus, et catallis ipsius hospitalis inibi existentibus et repertis, seu ad illud pertinentibus qualitercunque, cujus una pars penès dictum magistrum et custodem, et alia pars ejusdem penès ipsum patronum remanebit: Qui quidem magister singulis bienniis de omnibus bonis et rebus ac catallis supradictis; ac etiam de administratione suâ ibidem factâ, loci ordinario, viz. domino archiep. Cantuar. qui erit pro tempore, vel alicui ad hoc deputato per eundem juxta juris exigentiam, compotum reddet sive rationem.

Item volo et ordino, quod cum magister dicti hospitalis in fata decesserit, vel per permutationem; seu alias ab ipso hospitali se transtulerit, aut amotus fuerit, bona et catalla omnia hospitalis, seu ad illud qualitercunque pertinentia, penès ipsum hospitale integrè remaneant, ad usum et utilitatem ejusdem, futuro magistro sive custodi hospitalis antedicti . . . ventu pleniùs liberanda. De aliis verò bonis et catallis ipsius magistri sive custodis, sibi aliundè obvenientibus, seu per ipsum adquisitis, disponat idem magister, tam in vitâ suâ, quàm in morte juxta suæ libitum voluntatis.

Insuper volo et ordino, quod quilibet patronus hospitalis antedicti, qui pro tempore fuerit, unum capellanum idoneum, quotiens ipsum hospitale vacare contigerit, infra duos menses à tempore notæ vacationis ejusdem, domino archiepiscopo Cantuariensi, qui pro tempore fuerit, sede Cantuariensis ecclesiæ plenâ; ipsâ vero sede vacante, dominis priori et capitulo dictæ ecclesiæ ad dictum hospitale præsentabit, per ipsum seu ipsos in magistrum et custodem dicti hospitalis admittendum; alioquin si patronus prædictus capellanum hujusmodi infra dictum tempus non præsentaverit, ut præfertur, volo et concedo ego Johannes filius Roberti Fraunceys sæpedictus, pro me, hæredibus, et assignatis meis, quod jurati villæ de Romenale supradictæ; vel major pars eorum, potestatem præsentandi personam idoneam ad dictum hospitale habeant ea vice; ita tamen quod infra mensem proximam tunc sequentem capellanum hujusmodi præsentent modo supradicto. Et si contingat, quod magister sive custos prædictus non ceperit sibi alium socium capellanum, ut est dictum, tunc idem magister distribuet inter pauperes villæ supradictæ pro quolibet quarterio anni, quo capellanum socium hujusmodi non habuerit, xxiii.s. et iiii.d. per visum juratorum villæ antedictæ.

In quorum omnium et singulorum testimonium, ego Johannes filius Roberti Fraunceys, prædictus, sigillum meum præsentibus apposui; et nichilominus sigillum commune baronum villæ de Romenale prædictæ, hiis apponi procuravi. Data apud Romenale, quoad consignationem præsentium xx. die Junii, anno Domini MCCCLXIII. et anno regni regis Edwardi tertii post conquestum Angliæ XXXVII.

Hospital of St. Bartholomew, near Oxford.

"ABOUT half a mile eastward of Oxford," says Tanner, "is yet in being the little Hospital of St. Bartholomew, as ancient as the reign of King Henry the Frst, and probably founded by that Prince, when he built his Palace at Beaumont.[a] It consisted formerly of a Master, who was a priest, two healthful Brethren, six infirm or leprous Brethren, and a Clerk. It being of royal foundation,[b] King Edward the Third gave it, A.D. 1328 to Oriel College, who were to maintain therein a Chaplain and Poor Brethren."[c]

The following names of the MASTERS of this Hospital occur, with one exception, among the More's Collections, in Mr. Gough's Library, at Oxford.

Hospitale S. Bartholomaei, extra muros Civitatis Oxonii.

NUM. I.

Ordinationes pro meliori Gubernatione ejusdem.

[Pat. 35 Edw. III. p. 2, m. 25.]

REX, &c. Inspeximus quandam ordinationem de hospitali S. Bartholomæi extra Oxon. factam, et in rotulis cancellariæ domini Edwardi nuper regis Angliæ, patris nostri, irrotulatam in hæc verba. Memorandum, quod cum ex querentibus querimoniis fratrum hospitalis S. Bartholomæi, extra Oxonium, de advocatione Margaretæ reginæ Angliæ ad vitam suam, ex concessione celebris memoriæ domini E. regis, patris regis nunc existentis, coram domino rege et ejus consilio monstratum fuisset, quod status hospitalis prædicti per defectum et incuriam magistrorum ejusdem hospitalis, qui pro tempore fuerunt, multipliciter depressus est, et bona ad sustentationem infirmorum fratrum ejusdem hospitalis, per progenitores dicti domini regis abolim assignata, in usus alios miserabiliter fuerunt conversa, idem dominus rex per inquisitionem coram magistro Henrico de Harcla, cancellario universitatis Oxonii, et magistro hospitalis S. Johannis extra portam orientalem Oxonii, per breve ipsius regis captam et coram ipso retornatam; ac etiam per cartas et munimenta eorundem fratrum coram ipso ostensa, de ipsorum primariâ fundatione, per progenitores suos pleniùs certioratus, ad honorem Dei et pro relevatione et honestate status hospitalis prædicti, de consilio suo in parliamento apud Lincolniam anno regni sui nono, tento; ac de assensu præfatæ reginæ, in modo qui sequitur, ordinavit.

Imprimis, cum hospitale prædictum per progenitores suos, quondam reges Angliæ, ad sustentationem infirmorum antiquitùs fundatum fuerat; et jam de fratribus sanis et validis, contra ipsam fundationem occupatum existat, ordinavit, quod fratres sani in eodem hospitali nunc existentes, morentur suis temporibus, et percipiant sicut percipere consueverunt; et quod aliquo fratrum prædictorum decedente, seu ex aliquâ causâ rationabili amoto, loco suo ibidem unus frater infirmus admittatur, et sic fiat subsequenter quousque numerus sex fratrum infirmorum impleatur. Et post modum idem numerus fratrum infirmorum ibidem imperpetuum habeatur, quorum quilibet percipiat per septimanam, de bonis hospitalis prædicti, novem denarios; numero verò eorundem infirmorum completo et habito, penultimoque sanorum fratrum prædictorum mortuo, vel ex causâ rationabili amoto, loco ipsius unus frater sanus et potens ad laborandum, ac sciens de waynagio admittatur, qui waynagium terræ hospitalis prædicti, et ea quæ ad hæc pertinent custodiat et sequatur.

Cumque ultimus sanorum fratrum eorundem decesserit, vel ex causâ rationabili amotus fuerit, loco ejusdem alius frater sanus, et ad laborandum potens, sciensque facere curtilagium et cooperire domos recipiatur, qui ea et alia facere cere quæ cedere poterint in proficuum hospitalis prædicti; quorum quidem duorum fratrum sanorum, quilibet per septimanam similiter percipiat novem denarios, et postmodum quandocunque aliquis infirmorum prædictorum decesserit, alius infirmus ei succedat: et etiam quando aliquis duorum fratrum sanorum prædictorum decesserit, alius sanus ejusdem conditionis eidem similiter succedat. Ordinavit insuper, quod sit ibidem magister sacerdos compatiens, et bonæ vitæ, ac conversationis honestæ, qui personaliter resideat et missam singulis diebus, nisi ex causâ legitimâ fuerit præpeditus, in capellâ ejusdem hospitalis celebret humiliter et devotè, et fratres infirmos bis ad minus in septimanâ visitet, et quantum sibi à Domino concessum fuerit, humiliter consoletur, et eis conferat ecclesiastica sacramenta, sicut decet; et percipiat per annum sex marcas. Si verò ex causâ legitimâ, qualibet fictione cessante, impeditus fuerit, quo minus præmissa poterit ad tempus aliquod perimplere, ea per alium sacerdotem idoneum facere perimplere, ne eadem capella et fratres ejusdem hospitalis debitis obsequiis defraudentur.

Item ordinant, quod sit ibi unus clericus, qui capellæ prædictæ deserviet, et procurator hospitalis prædicti, unà cum altero fratrum sanorum prædictorum ad hoc magis idoneo, pro elemosynis et redditibus suis colligendis existat, qui similiter percipiat per septimanam novem denarios. Idem ordinant, quod semper in fine anni, inter prædictos magistrum et fratres ac clericum, computetur quantum et quid residuum fuerit de bonis hospitalis prædicti, de eodem anno, ultra portiones prædictas, et illud in emendationem status ejusdem hospitalis magis necessariam de avisamento ipsorum omnia ponantur.

Ordinatum est etiam, quod si quæ eidem hospitali legata vel oblata, seu quovis alio modo ab aliquibus caritativè collata fuerint, ea per ipsos distribuantur, vel in augmentationem status ejusdem hospitalis, et numerum capellanorum seu fratrum ibidem, juxta dispositionem eorundem futuris temporibus apponantur: reservatâ verò potestate dictæ dominæ reginæ visitandi et conferendi hospitale prædictum, tempore suo cum viderit faciendum: et post tempus suum domino regi vel ejus cancellario pro tempore existenti. In cujus rei testimonium sigilla prædicti regis et præfatæ reginæ huic ordinationi sunt appensa: et ipsa ordinatio in rotulis ipsius regis de cancellariâ suâ est irrotulata, viz. apud Lincolniam x. die mensis Februarii, anno supradicto. Nos autem irrotulamentum ordinationis prædictæ, ad requisitionem dilectorum nobis in Christo præpositi et scolarium domus nostræ beatæ Mariæ Oxon. tenore præsentium duximus exemplificandum. In cujus, &c. T. rege apud Westm. vii. die Maii.

[Pat. 14 Edw. II. p. 2, m. 10.]

REX dilectis sibi in Christo magistro et fratribus hospitalis S. Bartholomæi juxta Oxon. salutem. Licèt inter cætera, quæ pro relevatione et honestate status hospitalis prædicti, de consilio nostro in parliamento nostro Lincolniæ, anno regni nostri nono ordinavimus; ordinaverimus, quod cum idem hospitale per progenitores nostros quondam reges Angliæ, ad sustentationem infirmorum antiquitùs fundatum fuisset, et tunc de fratribus sanis et validis contra ipsam fundationem occupatum existebat, quod fratres sani in eodem hospitali nunc existentes suis temporibus morerentur, et quod aliquo fratrum eorundem decedente, seu ex aliquâ causâ rationabili amoto, loco suo ibidem, unus frater infirmus admitteretur, et sic fieret subsequenter, quousque numerus sex fratrum infirmorum impleretur; pro eo tamen quod maheremium capellæ dicti hospitalis putridum est et debile, ac ruinam minatur; et quod capellam illam de bonis ejusdem hospitalis reparare non valetis quoquomodo; quodque Johannes filius Laurencii Serthe sanus, de bonis et catallis suis xviii. marcas ad capellam illam reparandam conferre vult hospitali prædicto, per sic quod in eodem hospitali post mortem proximi fratris in eodem decedentis, frater admittatur suo perpetuo, tanquam alius frater ibidem percepturus, sicut pleniùs informamur: nos ad insufficientiam vestram in hac parte respectum habentes, de gratiâ nostrâ speciali concessimus, quod post mortem proximi fratris in dicto hospitali decedentis, præfatus Johannes frater, in eodem hospitali in formâ prædictâ, sine occasione aliquâ admittatur, suo perpetuo tanquam alius frater ibidem percepturus ordinatione nostrâ prædictâ, quam extunc in omnibus et singulis inviolabiliter observari volumus, non obstante. Hospital or Priory of Mayden Bradley in Wiltshire.

IN the latter end of the reign of K. Stephen, says Tanner, or the beginning of that of K. Henry II. Manasser Biset[a] founded here an Hospital for poor leprous women, under the care of some secular brethren or priests, who were to provide necessaries and manage their estates for them. But Hubert bishop of Salisbury, about the year 1190, changed those seculars into a Prior and Canons of the Order of St. Austin. It was dedicated to the blessed Virgin Mary, and, about the time of the Dissolution, consisted of eight Canons and .... poor Sisters, who had yearly revenues amounting, according to Dugdale, to 180*l.* 10*s.* 4*d.*: according to Speed, 197*l.* 18*s.* 8*d.* The difference of these sums is no doubt made by one taking the gross, the other the clear income. The Valor of the 26th Hen. VIIIth says, "Summa totalis Receptæ 198*l.* 18*s.* 8*d.*"

Several of the chief Instruments relating to this Priory are given in the Appendix to the present Account, and others are printed in Madox's Formulare Anglicanum, pp. 22, 255, 314, 362, 368.

Tanner refers to a REGISTER of Mayden Bradley "penes Thomam Foley de Whitley arm.:" but this has not been seen by the present Editors.[b] There is a Paper Survey also of this Priory temp. Hen. VIII. in the Augmentation Office.

In the 26th Hen. VIIIth RICHARD JENYN occurs Prior; and so continued till the dissolution: he died rector of Shipton Moyne in the county of Gloucester, in 1553.[c]

The Site of this Monastery was granted in the 29th Hen. VIII. to Sir Edward Seymour Viscount Beauchamp.

Two SEALS of this Priory, one, the COMMON SEAL, and the other the Seal of the Prior and Procurator or Proctor, are engraved in the Gentleman's Magazine for 1823, part. i. p. 305.

[a] "He was sewer to King Henry II. before he was King (Dugd. Baron. vol. i. p. 39.) as well as after. Leland, Itin. vol. iv. p. 105. saith, that 'this Hospital was builded to the Priory of Chanons by one of the three heirs general of the Bisets, who being a lazar gave her part of the town of Kidderminster in pios usus.' This probably was the traditionary report at Kidderminster in Leland's time, but the estate of the Bisets did not come into females till many years after this Religious House was built, which was originally an Hospital for leprous women; and their relief and maintenance seems to be the principal view of the foundation; the priests first, and afterward the Regular Canons, were added to be subservient to them, (being called 'procuratores mulierum,' Leland, Collect. vol. ii. p. 84. Madox's Formul. p. 23.) though in process of time the Prior and Convent seem to have got the whole government of the House and its revenues, (Madox's Formul. pp. 314, 362.) and to have dropped the sisters, who are first named in the old Deeds. Manasser Biset gave these women the manor of Bradley, 'pro Alicia uxore sua, de cujus hæreditate manerium illud est.' So that his wife was an heiress, and probably the leper hinted at by Leland. Camden seems to be mistaken in making the daughter of Manasser Biset the leper and foundress of the Hospital, and this to be distinct from the Priory founded by her father." Tann.

Hospital of St. Thomas of Acon, or Acres, London.

BISHOP TANNER gives the most succinct Account of this Hospital. "On the north side of Cheapside, London," he says, "in the parish of St. Mary Colechurch, was founded by Thomas Fitz Theobald de Helles and Agnes his wife, sister to Thomas Becket archbishop of Canterbury, in the latter end of King Henry the Second, an hospital to the honor of the blessed Virgin and the said archbishop, now styled Saint and Martyr. It was built upon houses and lands formerly belonging to Gilbert Becket father, to the archbishop, and wherein his famous son was born. This Hospital consisted of a master and several brethren, professing the rule of St. Austin, but were of a particular Order, which was about this time instituted in the Holy Land, viz. 'Militiæ Hospitalis S. Thomæ Martyris Cantuariensis de Acon,' being a branch of the Templars." The Houses and Estates belonging to this House were valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at the total income of 332*l.* 6*s.* 0*d.*: in clear receipt at 277*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* "The Site of the College of Acon was granted to William Gonson in the 31st Hen. VIIIth; and 33 Hen. VIIIth the Collegiate Church of Acon, with the chapter-house, sexton's chamber, churchyard, cloister, &c. were granted to the Mercer's Company (in whose gift the mastership was), part of which has been since called Mercer's Chapel."[a]

Dugdale has printed the following Instruments relating to this House: a Confirmation from King Edward the Third of the various donations to it given in the 14th year of his reign; a Grant from Geoffrey Fitz Pier Earl of Essex, of the custody of the Hospital of St. John the Evangelist in Berkhampsted; a Grant from King Edward the First, confirming to the Master and Brethren the Church of Rothley in Leicestershire; and the Act for the incorporation of this Hospital passed in the 23d of Henry the Sixth.

Stowe says that the purchase of the Hospital of St. Thomas of Acon by the Mercer's Company was principally through the means of Sir Richard Gresham.

"The Church or Chapel of this Hospital, before the Fire of London," says Newcourt, "according to my own observation, was a large and noble Structure, consisting of a choir, and the body of a Church with side-aisles. But since the Fire, is contracted to a little Room (more like a Parlour than a Church or Chapel) at the East end, where the choir stood, the Mercer's Company having built their Hall, at least part of it (which is supported by pillars) over the ground toward the West, where their outward Chapel or body of the Church stood, which serves only for burials, and a walking place."[b]

There is an ancient REGISTER of the lands belonging to this Hospital at Mercer's Hall.

The Cottonian MS. Tiberius C. v. fol. 156. contains another REGISTER of this Hospital, in which the different Instruments are arranged in the order of the places to which they relate; viz. Wappyng, fol. 156, 159 b—166. Stebenhith, fol. 159. Plumstede, fol. 167—232 b. Cullesdon, fol. 236—257 b. Doncastre, fol. 258—274. In Hibernia, fol. 276—285 b. Cyprus, fol. 286—289.[p]

Annexed to the Acknowledgment of Supremacy 1534, in the Chapter-House, Westminster, is an Impression of the COMMON SEAL of this Hospital, representing two male figures, one an archbishop seated, the other, half length, addressing him. St. John's Hospital, at Lynne.

IN the time of King Edward the First,[a] says Tanner, if not before,[b] was in being the Hospital of St. John Baptist at Lynne, consisting of a Warden or Master (who was always collated by the bishop of Norwich) and several poor brothers and sisters.[c] This House was valued in the 26th of Henry VIIIth, according to Dugdale and Speed, at 7*l.* 6*s.* 11*d.* per annum; a MS. Valor quoted by Tanner says 7*l.* 7*s.* 1*d.*

A Record quoted by Dugdale in the possession of the Corporation of Lynne, says that this Hospital was in the patronage of the Mayor and burgesses of that Town till they were deprived of it by John de Ely bishop of Norwich.

Hospital of St. Mary Magdalen, at Lynne.

PETRUS CAPELLANUS, says Tanner, founded this Hospital, A.D. 1145,[a] upon the causey leading to Gaywood, for a prior and twelve brethren and sisters, nine of whom were to be sound, and three leprous. It was dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, and flourished till the act for dissolving hospitals, &c. in the time of King Edward the Sixth, and then it subsisted precariously above fifty years.[b] But, being refounded by King James I. and endowed with its ancient possessions, there is now in it a master, who hath 4*s.* 6*d.* per week, and eleven poor widows, who have each of them 2*s.* 6*d.* per week, besides firing.[c]

Sir William Dugdale has printed the Statutes of this Hospital, as prescribed in 1174.

The Continuator of Blomfield, vol. iv. p. 607 and sequel, has given an account of this Hospital and of the names of different MASTERS or PRIORS, and has given the latter appellation to various persons long after the time of suppression of the religious houses.

The SEAL of this Hospital is described by Taylor in the Index Monasticus, p. 54. It was large and oblong in form, and in the area represented St. Mary Magdalen bearing the box of ointment in her right, and a palm branch in her left hand: on the right side a shield with two keys in saltire, and on the left the triangular emblem of the Holy Trinity. The Inscription, ✠ SIGILLUM . COMMUNE . . . . . . MARIE . MAGDALENE . . . . .

There is no Return of the Possessions of this Hospital in the Valor Ecclesiasticus, 26 Hen. VIII., nor any mention of it in the Ministers' Accompts in the Augmentation Office.

Hospitale S. Mariae Magdalenae, infra eandem Villam de Lenne.

[Ex vetusta membrana penès Majorem et Burgenses de Lenne.]

ISTI sunt articuli, quibus fratres hospitalis beatæ Mariæ Magdalenæ Lennæ uti debent; ordinati per archiepiscopos Cantuarienses; viz. Thomam de Cant. et Robertum de Winchelse, in visitationibus suis, et per dominum Petrum capellanum, fundatorem nostrum.

Inprimis ingressi fraternitatem, linteum suscipientes vestimentum, et calciamentorum formam decenter incissum, et colore secundùm morem fratrum antecessorum domus, in omnibus honestè custodiant pacem, unitatem, et fraternam caritatem inter se mutuam, diligenter observantes. Sobrii, casti, modesti, pacifici, et mansueti omnibus existentes, Deo in omnibus servire studeant; et demptâ totius arrogantiæ secularis superbiâ, in omnibus humiles se exhibeant et amabiles.

Item, si aliquis fratrum detractor fuerit, seu rixator, aut discordiæ seminator inter confratres, secundùm qualitatem delicti, coram priore et fratribus modo congruo castigetur; et si obstinatus fuerit, portio sua subtrahatur: verò omnino incorrigibilis à fraternitate impellatur.

Statutum est per dominum Robertum de Winchelse archiepiscopum Cantuariensem, et per dominum Petrum capellanum, fundatorem nostrum, domum in honore beatæ Mariæ Magdalenæ Lenne, cum ecclesia et sepultura, ad sustentationem duodecim fratrum et sororum; scilicet decem sanos et infirmos, cum capellano fratre sano, et manere in domo ista, in domo communi, et per occidentalem partem hujus mesuagii. Item infirmi in cancello, cellario, coquina, curtilagio non veniant, nisi rationabilis causa subsit, et alia loca quàm eis specialiter assignata; scilicet in ecclesia, aula; in curia occupare non præsumant. Contra dominum non murmurent; confratres suos ad iracundiam non provocent: contentiones et jurgia penitùs evitent. Infra septa hospitalis honestè vivant: non sint vagabundi per patriam: negotia publica non excerceant, officiis sanorum non se immisceant. Sanis deferant et morem gerant in via cum eis obviam dent, prout justum fuerit et honestum. Non manducent nec bibant extra præcinctum hospitalis per spacium unius leucæ, per circuitum, ne scandalum incurrant.

Item sigillum commune dictæ domus, libri, calices, vestimenta, reliquiæ, cera, et cætera omnia ecclesiæ ornamenta, ac cista cum thesauro domus, penès infirmos fratres remaneant custodienda, et pecunia communis in una pixide, sub triplici clave custodiatur; quarum una penès priorem, et alia pènes duos sanos fratres resideant, qui fidelem compotum confratribus reddere teneantur, cum fuerint interpellati; et elemosinæ dicto hospitali infra domum vel extra datæ, ponantur in dicta pixide ad commodum commune.

Quotiens voluerit uxorem suam, vel amicos visitare, bis aut ter in anno, si necessitas urgeat, aut exposcat utilitas, tunc clam et latenter hoc faciat, à priore licentiatus, moram trahens non longam propter oblocutionem populi, et detractionem ac scandalum fraternitatis. Et si quis fratrum aut sororum dicti hospitalis, infirmus aut sanus, istos articulos, seu aliquem illorum contradicat, vel in contrarium facere præsumat, amittet commodum dicti hospitalis per unum annum, et nisi velit castigari secundùm qualitatem delicti, infra unum annum à fraternitate repellatur imperpetuum, ut statutum est.

Item præcipimus et statuimus in statuto nostro, quod omnes confratres, sorores infirmi, et . . . . . hujus, ac in quolibet die primò ingrediat ecclesiam ad audiendum septem horas canonicas, et missam, et ad orandum pro omnibus benefactoribus ejusdem loci. Item, quod omnes confratres et sorores, si sint domi, vel extra, habeant æquales portiones de terris, tenementis, et redditibus nostris, sicut prior hujus domus. Et si contingat quod aliquis infirmus se extrahat per unum mensem, extrahatur portio dicti hospitalis per unum annum; et si per unum annum, imperpetuum expellatur. Item quod omnes confratres et sorores prædictæ domus conveniant ad generale capitulum die proxima post festum S. Mariæ Magdalenæ; et post capitulum tentum faciant missam celebrari pro ibidem jacentibus, et omnibus benefactoribus ejusdem loci. Et quod unusquisque nostrûm, scilicet infirmus et sanus, offerat obolum argenti ad missam pro ornamentis nostri altaris sustentandis: et quod eadem die omnia ornamenta ecclesiæ et thesauri domus nostræ coram confratribus et sororibus ponantur ad aspiciendum. Et si contingat quod aliquis adveniat confrater vel soror hujus domus, recipiatur, et sigillum apponatur à septem melioribus et sapientioribus vel ad minus hujus domus, sub pœna portionis aliter agentis unius anni.

[b] So Mr. Mackarel, p. 195. But in the Bishop of Norwich's principal Registry there is "A Return of the State of some Hospitals in the Diocese of Norwich, made A.D. 1562," wherein this of Lynne is said to be under the governance of the mayor and aldermen, and to have revenues of the yearly value of 6*l.* 7*s.*

[c] Taylor, Index Monasticus, p. 54, says; "The Mayor, &c. obtained from James I. in 1611, a patent for refounding the Hospital, for a master and eleven sisters, under the government of the corporation of Lynn. It was burnt down in 1643, and rebuilt in 1649."

Et si contingat, quod aliquis nostrum confratrum, vel sororum, infra vel extra obierit, quod prædicta domus habeat de illo mortuo optimum pannum cum capucio, quod habet, et lectum in quo moritur, atque cistam si aliquam habeat, si non habeat octo denarios, et sex denarios ad lumen ceræ, et sex denarios ad potum inter fratres et sorores in dicta domo existentes. Et domus faciat celebrare Trigintale pro anima ejus, et pro animabus omnium benefactorum istius domus in ecclesia propria.

Et prædictus Petrus ordinavit et præcepit, quod tres solidi distribuerentur fratribus ad eorundem collationem, causa orandi pro anima ejusdem Petri, et animabus omnium fidelium defunctorum, ad sex anni terminos; ad festum Omnium Sanctorum sex denarios, ad festum Natalis Domini sex denarios, ad Epiphaniam Domini sex denarios, ad Pascha sex denarios; ad Pentecosten sex denarios, et ad festum S. Mariæ Magdalenæ sex denarios. Item præcepit, sub pœna excommunicationis, ut dies ejus anniversarius annuatim teneatur in ecclesiâ prædictâ, et eodem die capellanus sit accepturus de domo vid. fratres et sorores aliorum vid. ad potandum. Item in die cœnæ præcepit distribuere cuilibet fratri et sorori prædictæ domus et cæteris leprosis mendicantibus libellum et allec; et quod leprosi extranei illa nocte in domo hospitarentur. Et si quis confratrum vel sororum istos articulos contradicat præscriptos, volumus et ordinamus quod portio ejus imperpetuum subtrahatur.

Et nos Willielmus de Turbus permissione divina Norwicensis episcopus, prædictam domum et cætera subscripta ratificamus et confirmamus. In cujus rei testimonium præsentibus literis sigillum domus est appensum: et quia sigillum nostrum est incognitum, sigillum decani Lennæ præsentibus apponi procuravimus, anno Domini MCLXXIIII.

St. Margaret's Hospital, at Huntingdon.

THIS Hospital was instituted for a Master and Brethren, and several leprous and infirm people, to which Malcolm King of Scotland, who died A.D. 1165, was a great benefactor, if not the founder. It was annexed by King Henry the Sixth in the 24th year of his reign, after the death or cession of the Master, to Trinity Hall in Cambridge, to which it was confirmed by King Edward the Fourth in the first year of his reign.[a]

The following are the only names of the MASTERS or WARDENS of this Hospital which have occurred: RICHARD DE LA SHAWE, 15 Feb. 43 Edw. III.; RICH. RUSSELL, 10 July, 45th Edw. III.; THO. HANLEE, 22 Jan. 12 Ric. II.

[a] Tanner refers to the following Records concerning this Hospital, "Rot. pat. 9 Edw. II. p. 1, m. 23. Brev. reg. 5 Edw. III. n. 55. Pat. 4 Hen. There is a short Account of the Possessions of this House, as belonging to Trinity Hall, in the Liber Universitatis Cantab. 37 Hen. VIII. Augmentation Office.

Hospital of Hornechurch, Monasterium Cornutum, or Havering, in Essex.

DUGDALE, in the former Edition of the Monasticon, gave separate places to "Hornechirche" and "Havering," as if they had been distinct Hospitals, when in fact they were but two names for the same Foundation, which Tanner considered as an Alien Priory. King Henry the Second, he says, having given the church of Havering, and some other revenues hereabout, to the great Hospital de Monte Jovis in Savoy, a Cell for a Prior or Master and poor brethren subordinate to that foreign house, was settled here, and dedicated to St. Nicholas and St. Bernard. This House was, temp. Ric. II., by the leave of the Pope, King, &c., bought by William Wickham bishop of Winchester for his New College in Oxford.[a]

Herbaldoun Hospital, in Kent.

ABOUT a mile from the West gate of Canterbury, says Tanner, in the wood of Blean,[a] for the relief of poor infected leprous persons, archbishop Lanfranc erected and endowed a Hospital to the honor of St. Nicholas;[b] the possessions of which were valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 112*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.* in the whole,[c] and at 109*l.* 7*s.* 2*d.* per ann. clear. Dugd. Speed. It was not suppressed temp. Edw. IV., but still continues in being. A.D. 1574, this Hospital consisted of fifteen in-brothers, and as many in-sisters, who had 4*l.* a-piece yearly, besides two loads of wool; out-brothers and out-sisters in like number, who had 1*l.* 14*s.* a-piece; the whole revenue 160*l.* The governor was sometimes called the Dean, sometimes Prior,[d] and now the Master.[e]

Thomas Wolton occurs as Master of this Hospital in 1376.[f]

Walter Causton, 1386.[g]

William Wakefield is called Prior in the Valor Ecclesiasticus of the 26th Hen. VIIIth.

The SEAL of this Hospital was oval. It represents the figure of a bishop, either St. Nicholas or archbishop Lanfranc; a crozier in the left hand, the right uplifted as in the act of benediction; the back ground diapered with mullets. Inscription, ✠ SIGILL . INFIRMORVM . HOSPITALIS . S̄CI . NIC . AI . DE . HERBALDOVNE. An Impression of it is in the possession of one of the Editors of the present Work.[h]

[a] Hence in some deeds called "Hospitale de bosco de Blean." But it is possible that the Hospital of Blean (which I have no good account of) might be different from that of Herbaldoun. Tann.

Hospital of Hedon, or Newton St. Sepulchre,

IN YORKSHIRE.

TANNER calls this House Hedon, or Newton near Hedon, in the Deanry of Holderness and Archdeaconry of East Riding. He says, "Upon part of seven acres of land near this town given by Alan fil. Ouberni, was built, pretty early in the time of King John, a Hospital dedicated to the Holy Sepulchre for a Master or Prior, and several brethren and sisters lepers." King Edward the Second's charter, confirming the different donations to this Hospital, whence Tanner's information was obtained, is given below.[a] This House was valued in the 26th Hen. VIIIth in the gross at 13*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.* per annum, in the clear value at 11*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* The Site was granted in the 7th Edw. VIth to Robert Constable.[b]

The Possessions of this Hospital, a short time previous to its suppression, will be best seen in the Valor of the 26th Hen. VIIIth, an Abstract of which accompanies the present Account.

No SEAL of Hedon has been met with by the Editors of Dugdale.

Hospital of St. Mary, Dover.

THIS Hospital of St. Mary, otherwise called the Maison de Dieu, or God's House, was erected and endowed for the relief of pilgrims and several poor brethren and sisters, under the government of a master, in the beginning of the reign of King Henry the Third, by Hubert de Burgo, earl of Kent. Weever and Speed call King Henry the Third its founder, but that King's charters themselves name Hubert de Burgo: though it must be owned that the numerous charters granted to this House by King Henry the Third entitle him to be considered as a chief benefactor.

The Value of this House as returned in the 26th Hen. VIII. will be seen below.[a]

Hospital of St. John Baptist, in Coventry.

HERE was an ancient College, or rather Hospital, consisting of a master or warden and several brothers and sisters, dedicated to St. John Baptist, founded upon the soil and with the approbation of Laurence the prior and convent of Coventry, at the instance, and chiefly at the charges of Edmund archdeacon of Coventry, in the beginning of the reign of King Henry the Second. Dugdale has been copious in his transcripts from the Muniments of this House, in the present work; and in his History of Warwickshire, edit. 1656, p. 112, he has given a minute enumeration of its rents and possessions from our public records.[a] The possessions of this house as they stood in the 26th Hen. VIII. will be seen in the Abstract of the Ecclesiastical Valor.[b] The total of the revenues then amounted to 99*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.*: the net income to 67*l.* 3*s.* 2*d.*

King Henry the IIId, in the 45th year of his reign, granted licence to the brothers and sisters of this House to go, or send abroad any messengers to gather alms for them, during the space of seven years, and enjoined all persons to defend and assist them.

The Site of St. John Baptist, Coventry, was granted with all the possessions of this House, at its dissolution in the 37th Hen. VIII.[c] to John Hales, gent. clerk of the hanaper, who being without heirs, desired to found a Grammar School, which he called King Henry the Eighth's School. "Schola Regis Henrici Octavi a Johanne Hales armigero fundata, in qua bonis literis imbuantur Pueri, usque ad consummationem sæculi in Christi gloriam, et ecclesiæ ædificationem." The final endowment of the school, however, was effected by the executors of Hale, in the 15th Eliz.[d]

The SEAL of this Hospital, an Impression of which is appendant to a Duplicate of the Surrender at present in the hands of Mr. Reader of Coventry, represented, upon an area of an oval form, a full length figure of St. John Baptist within a Gothic niche, holding the Agnus Dei in his left hand. Inscription, S . HOSPITALIS . SCI . JOH'S . DE . COVENTRE.

Hospitale S. Johannis Baptistae, infra Civitatem Coventriae.

De Fundatione, et aliis Ordinationibus pro Gubernatione ejusdem.

[Ex ipso autog. penès majorem et communitatem civitatis Coventriæ]

IN Dei nomine, amen. Per hoc præsens publicum instrumentum cunctis, &c. appareat evidenter, quod anno ab incarnatione Domini, secundùm cursum et computationem ecclesiæ Anglicanæ MCCCCXXV. indictione tertia, pontificatus sanctissimi in Christo patris et domini nostri domini Martini divina providentia papæ quinti, anno octavo, mensis Martii die xxix. in domo capitulari ecclesiæ cathedralis et regularis beatæ Mariæ Coventrensis, hora capitulari ejusdem, in mei Willielmi Heyne, auctoritate apostolica notarii publici ac notarii, et testium infra scriptorum præsentia personaliter constitutus, præhonorandis et religiosis viris, domino Ricardo Crosby, Dei patientia, prioris ecclesiæ prædictæ, ac universis sive majori parte conventus ejusdem ecclesiæ; necnon et magistro Thoma Everdon, magistro sive custode hospitalis S. Johannis Baptistæ Coventriæ; ac majori parte fratrum et sororum ejusdem hospitalis; atque reverendis et discretis viris magistro Willielmo Silke decretorum doctore, fratribus Patricio White in decretis baccalario, &c. in arbitros sive arbitratores et amicabiles compositores, de quibusdam causis, litibus, &c. inter præfatum priorem et conventum ex una parte; et prædictum magistrum, fratres et sorores ex altera ortis, &c. per ipsos, sub certa forma electis, &c. tandem post aliqualem verborum tractatum, ipsis magistro Willielmo, &c. ad ferendum arbitrium suum hujusmodi, in memorato negotio, &c.

Inprimis igitur nos Willielmus Silke ordinamus, &c. atque declaramus, quod prior et conventus antedicti fuerunt, sunt et erunt fundatores dicti hospitalis S. Johannis Baptistæ Coventriæ, et sic imposterum habeantur et nominentur. Et quod Edmundus quondam archidiaconus Coventriæ, propter sua multiplicia beneficia atque commoda in dicti hospitalis constructione, per ipsum ut dicebatur impensa, inter hospitalis prædicti benefactores, post priorem et conventum principaliter in orationibus et suffragiis imperpetuum habeatur et commemoretur. Et quod elemosina pro animabus Leofrici comitis, et Godivæ comitissæ, fundatorum dictæ ecclesiæ cathedralis, Christi pauperibus, in dicto hospitali degentibus, per eosdem priorem et conventum, ex quadam gratia speciali exhibita, et à tempore Laurentii prioris continuata; videlicet liberata duorum monachorum prioratus Coventriæ, prout in refectorio reficiuntur, eisdem pauperibus, more solito, per inspectionem præsidentis, absque diminutione imperpetuum ministretur et continuetur: qui quidem Leofricus et Godiva, eorum orationibus et suffragiis specialiter et nominatim commendentur.

Insuper, cum sub præsidio sani capitis membra corporis quiescunt lætiora, dum per moderationem debitam et discretam, sub salutis robore fœliciùs dilatantur in prosperis, et eisdem minùs arridentibus fortiùs roborentur in adversis, statuimus, &c. quod supradictus magister sive custos hospitalis prædicti obedientiam et fidelitatem in tempore creationis, professionis, et institutionis suæ, domino Ricardo priori et successoribus suis, legitimè præstitas debitè adimpleat,et diligenter custodiat. Sorores etiam hospitalis pronunc professæ, vivant secundùm formam professionum suarum spontaneè emissarum. Et quod dominus prior antedictus et successores sui, magistrorum, fratrum, et sororum dicti hospitalis futurorum, qui pro tempore fuerint, creationem, receptionem, tonsurationem, professionem ad ordines, præsentationem habeant imperpetuum. Et singuli magistri, de cætero in dicto hospitali præficiendi, antequam investiantur, obedientiam manualem et fidelitatis juramentum præstabunt domino priori Coventriæ, pro tempore existenti, sub forma qua sequitur. "Ego frater A. de B. presbyter, in custodem sive magistrum hospitalis S. Johannis Baptistæ Coventriæ, per vos domine prior ecclesiæ Cath. beatæ Mariæ ejusdem, de unanimi assensu præsentis conventus vestri ritè præfectus, promitto et juro, per me, tactis sacrosanctis Dei evangeliis, quod ero vobis, domine prior, et successoribus vestris et ecclesiæ vestræ, in omnibus et singulis fidelis, prout prædecessores mei, custodes dicti hospitalis à tempore fundationis ejusdem hactenus fuerunt; et tam ex jure compositione, quàm consuetudine esse debuerunt; ita saltem, ut nunquam ero in consilio vel auxilio, per quod aliquid juris vel honoris vestri, vel alicujus vestrum, aut ecclesiæ vestræ decrescat, sed potius augmentetur; ero quoque fidelis et utilis dicto hospitali, commodumque illius diligenter procurabo et faciam; ita ut vobis vel ecclesiæ vestræ indè præjudicium vel dampnum minimè generetur; possessiones, redditusque et bona ejusdem hospitalis collocata vel conferenda, adquisita vel adquirenda, pro posse meo manutenebo et multiplicabo, eaque in usus ipsorum fratrum et sororum ac ministrorum ejusdem, et saltem infirmorum et debilium inibi languescentium, necessarios, auctoritate et permissione vestra, fideliter expendam et ministrabo; diligentemque curam circa dictos infirmos et debiles, ut recreentur et debitè custodiantur, de bonis ipsius hospitalis impendendam; ad quorum susceptionem et sustentationem, illud primo exstitit fundatum, juribusque et privilegiis dicti hospitalis semper salvis: quodque dictorum magistrorum creatio, institutio et investitura, obedientiæ et fidelitatis receptio, ad dictum dominum priorem et successores suos pertinebunt."

Et prædictus prior qui nunc est, et pro tempore existens, singulis annis, si voluerit, ipsum hospitale, ac magistrum, fratres et sorores ibidem visitabit, cum numero octo personarum, unica procuratione, annuatim cum visitaverit tamen contentus; in qua visitatione excercenda in dicto hospitali qui sunt in præsenti vel erunt futuris temporibus, sint perpetui per provisionem, creationem, præfectionem et institutionem prioris Coventriæ, qui pro tempore fuerit, ac eidem domino priori immediatè subditi et subjecti; prior tamen qui pro tempore est vel fuerit, nullum ipsius hospitalis magistrum, fratrem, aut sororem ejusdem, sine causa legitima et · · · · · cognitione præcedente, juxta juris exigentiam in hac parte requisitam et sufficienter probatam, ammovebit, ammoverive faciat in futurum. Et quamvis præfatus dominus prior, pro tempore existens, subjectionem et jurisdictionem habeat, ut præmittitur, in præfatos magistrum, fratres et sorores; nichil tamen de bonis hospitalis prædicti, in usus suos, aut ecclesiæ cathedralis prædictæ, convertat, prout canonicè in hac parte dictaverint sanctiones; sed ut in usus magistri, fratrum, et sororum, pauperum et infirmorum dicti hospitalis debitè administrentur, diligentissimè superintendant, quemadmodum fundatio dicti hospitalis debitè et piè exigit et requirit.

Sanè, cum ea quæ ad certum usum largitione fidelium sunt destinata, ad illum debeant usum et non alium converti, arbitramur et ordinamus, quod magister hospitalis antedicti et successores sui, omnium bonorum ad idem hospitale spectantium, plenariam habeant administrationem et dispositionem, sic quod ipsa bona, terras, possessiones, jura, redditus, et tenementa, ad dictum hospitale spectantia, temerè non consument, devastabunt aut alienabunt, juri solempnitate in hac parte minimè requisita; nec corrodia aut firmas, aut alia dicto hospitali gravia, seu multum præjudicativa, ad longum tempus vel imperpetuum, absque superioris, viz. prioris tempore existentis, licentia, vendere aut concedere præsumant.

Insuper statuimus, &c. quod quilibet frater seu soror, in dicto hospitali præficiendus, professionem suam in manus reverendi patris domini prioris Coventriæ pro tempore existentis, in scriptis redactis faciat, sub hac verborum forma, quæ sequitur: "In Dei nomine, amen. Ego frater, presbyter, vel laicus, vel soror N. promitto stabilitatem meam, conversionem morum meorum, corporisque mei castitatem, abdicationem proprietatis, ac obedientiam in licitis et canonicis mandatis, coram Deo et sanctis ejus, ac præsenti cœtu monachorum, hora capitulari ad hoc congregatorum, tibi pater reverende N. prior ecclesiæ cath. Coventrensis, et successoribus tuis canonicè intrantibus, secundùm modum, formam, ordinem, statumque ac regularis observantiæ in hospitali S. Johannis Coventriæ hactenus usitatam: petens hanc præsentem cedulam, quam manu propria scripsi (vel quam manibus teneo) cum cæteris professionum, fratrum et sororum cedulis, in thesauraria vestra reponi, custodiendam: et in hujusmodi professionis testimonium hoc signum ✠ apposui, die tali, anno tali, mense, &c."

Si qui verò fratres aut sorores imposterum creandi et profitendi, linguam Latinam minimè intelligentes fuerint, in eorum lingua vulgari, ut clariùs et apertiùs eorum sponsionem atque votum percipiant, suam professionem, modo quo supra, expressè promittant; et tempore receptionum, antiquam consuetudinem observent.

Item statuimus et ordinamus, ut supra, quod nullus in dicto hospitali S. Johannis de cætero præficiatur magister, nisi vir probatæ vitæ, conversationis honestæ, et in sacerdotali ordine constitutus; ac dictam professionem secundùm formam suprascriptam expressè professus: et quod magister, fratres, et sorores hospitalis prædicti, habitu decenti, more præcessorum et prædecessorum, de cætero utantur; vestis verò superior sit de nigro seu burneto; ac ipsa superior vestis, super tunica vel toga, ampla sit et rotunda, undique clausa, cum cruce, de nigro, signata, sine bissis, et decenter longitudine, nimia longitudine aut brevitate minimè notanda; non etiam sit botonatus; mantellis etiam cruce de nigro signatis, utantur; sine quibus extra domum cum civibus et popularibus civitatis Coventriæ, infra civitatem eandem nullicubi conversentur. Vestis verò interior fratrum sit scapularis; et sit similis coloris, cruce etiam de nigro signatum.

Sorores etiam velo albo utantur, cum togis, ut præmittitur, et mantellis talaribus, seu capis vel clochis clausis, cum proficiscantur; quibus etiam, ubicunque fuerint extra domum, religiosè utantur. Necnon fratres, magistri, et sorores ejusdem hospitalis induentur capuciis, ac vestibus lineis antiquitùs consuetis utantur, nisi quis ab hujusmodi lineis causa devotionis voluerit abstinere; attendentes itaque quod ubi gubernaculum disciplinæ contemnitur, restat ut religio naufragetur; idcirco providemus et ordinamus, quod magister quilibet pro tempore existens capitulum teneat omni feria sexta, seu alias ad minus semel in ebdomada, sicut necessitas vel utilitas deposcat, in quo fratrum et sororum excessus minores canonicè puniat, et disciplinam regularem delinquentibus imponat: majora verò crimina, ei præcipuè notoria seu famosa, correctioni dicti domini prioris, pro tempore existentis, arbitramur reservari.

Insuper, ut uberiores pro beneficiis, et debitæ gratiarum actiones Deo persolvant, ac major intuentium devotio, ex divino obsequio devotè celebrato resultet, statuimus et ordinamus, quod in dicto hospitali divinum officium secundùm usum Sarum, per magistrum et fratres ac capellanos cantariarum ejusdem hospitalis, cum debitâ reverentiâ, horis et temporibus congruis atque consuetis, devotè celebretur: conversi verò layci, fratres et sorores dicti hospitalis, si qui sint omnino illiterati, loco Matutinarum tricesies orationem dominicam, cum totidem salutationibus beatæ Mariæ virginis, ac uno symbolo apostolorum, intencius quo valeant cotidiæ Deo effundant; et pro singulis aliis horis, septies ab unoquoque ipsorum, dicatur prædicta oratio dominica, cum salutatione angelica et Credo, ut supra: literati nempè fratres et sorores ad hoc sufficienter instructi, dicant horas beatæ Virginis, cum psalterio ejusdem; præfatus verò magister, qui diligens esse tenetur, circa administrationem et officium sibi commissum, se nullatenus absentet, sine dicti domini prioris, pro tempore existentis licentiâ petitâ primitùs et obtenta, nisi evidens utilitas et urgens necessitas præfati hospitalis, ejus absentiam merito deposcat, et de hoc quamcitius commodè poterit dicto domino priori innotescat.

Nec ipse magister, fratres, aut sorores suos in dicto hospitali absentari permittat, absque justa causa, honesta seu necessaria. Sorores sutem dicti hospitalis sint solicitæ et intentæ circa officium et ministrationem, et visitationem ac curam infirmorum, die noctuque, quotiens opus fuerit; et etiam circa rem familiarem hospitalis antedicti.

Ut autem debitus honor cuilibet præsidenti, prout convenit, illibatus conservetur, providemus et ordinamus, quod ipse magister, qui nunc est, et qui pro tempore fuerit infra dictum hospitale in choro, processione, ac honoribus aliis sit meritò præferendus, nisi cum dictus dominus prior, pro tempore existens in dicto hospitali personaliter intersit: in processionibus nempe generalibus in dictâ civitate Coventriæ qualitercunque fiendis, dictus magister et fratres sui, si qui sint, in habitu suo more solito devotè incedant. In sacrâ verò solempnitate cœnæ Domini, et in anniversario fundatorum, necnon exequiis prioris et monachorum quorumcunque dicti prioratus, magister, fratres, et sorores ad ecclesiam cath. antedictam accedant, et antiquam consuetudinem ibidem diligenter observent.

Item propter sinistram suspitionem et quorumcunque iniquè judicantium obloquia imposterum evitanda, de spontaneâ voluntate et libero consensu dictorum prioris et conventus statuimus et ordinamus, quod sigillum commune dicti hospitalis S. Johannis, sub salvâ custodiâ trium clavium, infra idem hospitale, loco securiori fideliter custodiatur; quarum unam habeat magister ejusdem hospitalis; secundam verò et tertiam senior frater et soror discretior ejusdem hospitalis custodiant; antiquum sigillum penitùs rumpatur; ac omnia facta, scripta, cartæ, munimenta, à tempore mortis Henrici Aston, olim magistri dicti hospitalis, cum dicto antiquo sigillo sigillata, nullius sint momenti, et viribus omnino carere decernimus; viz. ab anno Domini MCCCLXI. Cartæ verò, munimenta de juribus hospitalis tantum mentionem facientia, in dicto hospitali sub salvâ ponantur custodiâ, ubi custoditur sigillum commune prædictum; cartæ nempe communes, tam dominorum prioris et conventus, quàm magistri, fratrum, et sororum hospitalis prædicti jura concernentes, in thesauraria ecclesiæ cath. prædictæ, quarum verum transumptum, hinc inde indentatum, fiat utrique parti liberatum, et tam sigillis communibus dictæ ecclesiæ cath. quàm hospitalis prædicti citra festum Michaelis proximum futurum sub pœnis infrascriptis ponant.

Item ordinavimus, quod pratum illud sive pastura de Combewelle, de quo nuper fuerat altercatio, pro bono pacis, propter dubium, de expresso concessu partium prædictarum dividatur, prout frater Willielmus Halughton et dominus Johannes Bonetable, collegæ nostri, super hoc adinvicem concordant et divisiones indè fecerunt. Item ordinamus, quod magister decimas prædiales consuetas domino priori et conventui persolvat, sicut hucusque consuetum fuerat, tùm de ortis et nutrimentis animalium decimas solvere non teneantur, cum omnes religiosi de jure communi in hoc sint privilegiati.

Item de gratia speciali dictorum prioris et conventus, per modum compensationis ordinamus, quod prior et conventus decimas boscorum et suboscorum, à magistro S. Johannis de cætero non exigant: et quod magister et successores sui unam carectatem bosci, præfato hospitali, quam singulis septimanis petebant persolvendam, ulterius non exigant. Item ordinamus, quod magister, fratres, et sorores hospitalis prædicti, et eorum successores habeant liberam sepulturam, quorumcunque eligere volentium sepeliri in dicto hospitali; et quod corpora sepulturam eligentium portentur ad matricem ecclesiam Coventriæ prædictæ; quodque omnem apparatum ceræ et cereorum, ratione funerum quoquomodo provenientium, integrè persolvant ecclesiæ cath. prædictæ, magistro, fratribus, sororibus, pauperibus, infirmis in infirmariâ dicti hospitalis ac familiaribus actu commensalibus ad infra dictum hospitale ab hac luce decedentibus, duntaxat exceptis qui ad præfatos ceræ et cereorum præstationem funerisque portationem, dictæ ecclesiæ cath. minimè teneantur.

Pro indempnitate verò, ratione sepulturæ, eisdem magistro, fratribus et sororibus, noviter per venerabilem dominum priorem, dominum Ricardum Crosby, concessæ, præfati magistri et successores sui præstabunt annuatim unam libram ceræ, seu cereum ejusdem ponderis in festo Paschæ, dictæ ecclesiæ cath. beatæ Mariæ imperpetuum.

Item ordinamus et arbitramur, quod bullæ, literæ, et instrumenta omnia et singula dictum hospitale, seu jus ipsius qualitercunque concernentia, jam penès dominos priorem et conventum existentia plenariè exhibeantur, juxta quæ decerni et statui valeat utrique parti justitiæ complementum: et si quæ sint munimenta, quorum magister ostendit vestras copias, vel se originali vidisse suo sacramento affirmat, quæ fortassis non exhibentur aut subtrahuntur, seu in rerum naturâ, sive prioris et conventus fraude, dolo, vel latâ culpâ consistere denegantur, jurent dominus prior, sub-prior ac fratres Nich. Coldecot et Will. Halughton, per fidem suam, munimenta supradicta, quæ asseruntur subtracta, se non habere, nec vidisse, destruxisse, distraxisse, alienâsse scienter, per se aut per aliquam submissam personam: et si hujusmodi juramentum in formâ prædictâ præstiterint, ab ulteriori exhibitione seu ostensione dictorum munimentorum clameo et inquietatione occasione earundem in posterum fienda, dictus prior et conventus imperpetuum reddantur liberi et immunes. Alioquin dictus magister consimile juramentum præstabit dicta originalia, quæ asseruntur subtracta, se vidisse, quorum veras copias, ut asserit, ostendat, quod si fecerit, sufficiens sibi præstabitur emenda, secundùm discretionem nostrorum quatuor: quibus quidem munimentis prædictum hospitale qualitercunque concernentibus, coram nobis in præsenti productis, exhibitis, et ostensis, ac eidem magistro hospitalis S. Johannis manualiter liberatis, dictum dominum priorem in formâ præmissâ juratum, ab ulteriori exhibitione cartarum, privilegiorum, et munimentorum, dictum hospitale concernentium, plenariè decernimus pro perpetuo absolutum.

Item ordinamus, &c. ut nec prædictus magister hospitalis, fratres, et sorores ejusdem, nec successores sui, de cætero exigant, vendicent, vel clament aliquas parcellas terræ infra pomœria dictorum prioris et conventus, in futurum, ratione cartarum Nicholai Cerothecari, Johannis filii Nicholai, Johannis Proude, Johannis Gauter, Willielmi Coci, nec aliorum quorumcunque, sed ut prædictus prior et conventus et successores sui habeant et teneant liberè et quietè et pacificè imperpetuum, terras infra clausas pomœrii sui, quas possident, à die confectionis præsentium, sine aliquâ impetitione ac inquietatione seu reclamatione prædictorum magistri, fratrum, seu eorum successorum in futurum: et quod nec dictus magister, fratres, et sorores dicti hospitalis, nec successores sui, de cætero, clamabunt nec vendicabunt de prædictis priore et conventu, nec de successoribus suis, tenementa Willielmi Scot, nec terras Ric. Carpentarii, nec aliquod aliud tenementum, terram vel redditum, quæ prædicti prior et conventus possident die confectionis præsentium infra Coventream, vel extra.

Si verò contigerit prædictos priorem et conventum, vel successores suos, aliquod tenementum vel terram perquirere in futurum, quæ fortè tenentur de prædicto hospitali, tunc ipsi prior et conventus redditus inde debitos et consuetos annuatim præfato hospitali reddant et persolvant.

Item ordinamus, &c. ut magister hospitalis et successores sui persolvant et reddant annuatim priori et conventui supradictis, ac successoribus suis, et præcipuè officiis cameræ prioris, thesaurarii, celerarii, pro omnibus terris et tenementis quæ habent et tenent die confectionis præsentium, in Coventre, Harnale, Eccleshale, Stoke, et Kerusley, de prædictis priore et conventu et successoribus suis xxi^{s}. iiii^{d}. sicque quod sursum reddatur croftum vocatum de Frerhey, cum peciâ terræ jacente in campo de Kerusley dicto crofto pertinenti, unà cum redditu debito et consueto, annuatim officio pitanciarii, viz. pro diversis tenementis in Coventre xxviii^{s}. viii^{d}. ut clariùs patebit per indenturam inde confectam, ac capellæ beatæ Mariæ ecclesiæ cath. prædictæ iiii^{s}. cum clausula distringendi. Et si contingat prædictum magistrum, fratres et sorores dicti hospitalis, vel successores suos, aliqua tenementa vel terram perquirere, vel ex dono habere in futurum, quæ de prædictis priore et conventu vel successoribus suis tenentur, tunc eisdem priori et conventui, ac successoribus suis, pro terris et tenementis sic habitis et perquisitis, redditus indè debitos et consuetos annuatim reddant et fideliter persolvant.

Insuper ordinamus, ut supra, quod stagna facta in fossatis sub pomœrio domini prioris, ut patet per tripertitum, inter murum lapideum ad caput de Swanespole et le Deruzale, de concensu partium, in futuram permaneant modo quo extant in præsenti: tempore tamen purgationis ejiciantur purgamenta de cætero, ex parte prioris, et non ex parte hospitalis, propter destructionem herbagii dicti hospitalis.

Item decernimus et declaramus bullam Alexandri papæ tertii, hospitali S. Johannis prædicto, ut dicitur concessam, propter non usum ejusdem, et actum contrarium, penitùs sublatam et viribus non subsistere, propter diversas dissentionum materias inter partes prædictas, occasione ejusdem sæpiùs subortas, et quæ ratione ejusdem versimiliter oriri poterint in futurum. Omnia insuper partium prædictarum privilegia, munimenta, et scripta quæcunque, huic nostræ ordinationi seu compromisso quovismodo repugnantia, et præsertim submissionem fratris Alexandri, olim magistri dicti hospitalis, et confirmationem bonæ memoriæ Roberti Covent. et Lich. episcopi super eadem, quatinus præmissa obviant eatenus cassamus et reprobamus; in aliis autem ea volumus in suo robore permanere. Quantum verò ad restagnationem aquæ vivarii de Swaneswelpole, et ejusdem cratenæ moderationem, ac divisionem prati de Combewell, limitationemque metarum, bundarum et terminorum, tenementorum, redditus assignationem nondum plenè discussas, fratri Willielmi Halughton et domino Johanni Bonetable, nostris in hac parte collegis, vices nostras totaliter committimus, ut præmissa rectè finiant et justè determinent, sicut coram Deo reddituri sunt rationem in districto examine, et hoc citra festum Pentecostes proximum futurum. Qui quidem collegæ nostri, onus hujusmodi in se gratanter assumentes, ita in præmissis concorditer ordinârunt, viz. quod magister, fratres, et sorores S. Johannis antedicti, pro tempore existentes, per modum compensationis, pro fluxu et refluxu aquæ vivarii de Swanespole, de et super terras S. Johannis, habeant imperpetuum omnes decimas feni pratorum suorum in Coventre et Hernale: de aliis nempe terris, tenementis, redditibus, ac metis et bundis supradictis, per eosdem collegas clarè ordinatum est, prout in indenturis inde confectis et sigillis communibus partium prædictarum sigillatis, patentiùs apparebit, &c.

Hospital of St. John, at Bridgewater.

THE following is Leland's Account of this Hospital. "In the Est parte of the Town is onely the House or late College of S. John a thing notable: and this House standeth partly withoute the Est Gate. This College had Prestes that had the Apparell of secular Prestes with a cross on there breste: and to this House was adjoynid an Hospital for poor folkes. William Bruere the first foundid this Place, and gave onto it fair possessions."[a]

According to Tanner this House was founded before the 15th of King John; it consisted of a Prior or Master, and brethren, who were to maintain thirteen poor infirm persons, beside religious and pilgrims, and was endowed with impropriate churches and lands, the yearly value of which in the 26th Hen. VIIIth amounted to 120*l.* 19*s.* 1½*d.*

William Lord La Zouch and Seymour, and Richard Duke of York, Earl of Ulster, and Lord of Wigmore and Clare, were founders and patrons of this House in 1457.[b]

Hospital at Bridgenorth, in Shropshire.

THIS Hospital was founded, according to an Inquisition taken in the 14th Edward the Fourth, by Ralph le Strange, who according to Dugdale's Baronage, vol. i. p. 663, died in the time of K. Richard the First. It was for a Prior or Master, and several lay brethren, and was dedicated to the honour of the Holy Trinity, St. Mary, and St. John Baptist. It was in the low town beyond the bridge. The mastership of it was, temp. Edw. IVth, annexed to the Abbey of Lilleshull, and, as parcel of that House, it was granted to Leonard Edwards, in the 31st Hen. VIIIth.

The Valor of the 26th of Henry the VIIIth notices an Hospital of St. James at Bridgenorthe, (see Num. II.) rated at 4*l.* per annum; but Quære if it is the same with the Hospital here noticed.

One of the Editors of the present Work has an Impression from the matrix of a SEAL of one of the Masters of this Hospital; inscribed S. HENRICVS FRANCEVS . MAGISTER . OSPITALIS . SANCTI . TRINITATIS . DE . BREGENORTH. No Common Seal of the Foundation has been met with.

Hospital of St. John, at Wells, in Somersetshire.

HUGH DE WELLS, archdeacon of Wells, and afterwards bishop of Lincoln, was, about the beginning of King John's reign,[a] the original founder of this Hospital, in the south part of the city of Wells, dedicated to St. John Baptist, which was so much augmented by Josceline bishop of Bath, and other benefactors, that in the 26th of Henry the Eighth the yearly revenues of the master and brethren[b] amounted to 41*l.* 3*s.* 6¾*d.* according to Speed; and 40*l.* 0*s.* 2¾*d.* according to Dugdale. The Site and most of the lands belonging to this House were granted, 32 Hen. VIII., to John Clerk, then bishop of Bath and Wells, and his successors, in consideration of the manor and park of Dogmeresfield, &c. However, the crown got it again afterwards; and granted it, 17 Eliz., to Sir Christopher Hatton.[c]

In some of the Records, as well as in the Valor of King Henry the Eighth, this House is called a Priory. In the latter record also the last Master is called Prior.

Hospital of Strode, near Rochester, in Kent.

GILBERT de Glanvill bishop of Rochester founded this Hospital, according to Hasted, at the very beginning of the reign of King Richard the First, according to Tanner, about the year 1194, for the reception of poor travellers, and the relief of other indigent persons. Speed dates its foundation wrongly in the reign of Henry the Second; the foundation charter itself noticing the imprisonment of King Richard. It was dedicated to the Virgin Mary, and as we learn from the Inspeximus of the 6th of Edw. III. was amply endowed by bishop Glanvill.

From the first establishment of this Hospital, a perpetual jealousy subsisted between the monks of St. Andrew's Rochester, and the brethren of Strode: the former could not forget that the Hospital had been founded out of revenues, of which they thought they had been arbitrarily despoiled by bishop Glanvill. The particulars of their differences and altercations will be found in Hasted, vol. i. pp. 548, 550.

This Hospital was sometimes called "The New Work at Strode," Tanner thinks, perhaps to distinguish it from a House which the Templars had in this Town, called the Temple, this manor having been given to those Knights by King Henry the Second, and afterwards to the Hospitallers. Here was a Master or Warden, and several Priests. Hamo de Hethe, a later bishop of Rochester than Glanvill, upon his visiting this Hospital found that its revenues had been much dissipated by the Masters, and renewed and improved the regulations for its government in 1330.

Strode Hospital remained in this situation till the reign of King Henry the Eighth, when John Wyldbore the Master and the then Brethren, with the King's licence, surrendered it July 8th, in the 31st year of his reign, to the Priory of Rochester. A few months after this surrender, the Priory of Rochester was itself dissolved; when the King by deed dated June 20th, 33 Hen. VIII., settled the ancient Site of the Hospital, with all the revenues belonging to it, on his new erected Dean and Chapter of Rochester, in whom they remain.

The following is Hasted's List of the MASTERS of STRODE HOSPITAL.

William de Basynges, occurs Master in the 47th Edw. III. in the Abbreviatio Rotulorum Originalium, vol. i. p. 326.

Tanner's only references to MSS. and Records concerning Strode are, "Carta, Rentalia, &c. penes Decanum et Capitulum Roffens. Rot. cart. 30 Hen. III. m. 7. de ii. partibus bosci juxta Mallinge. Claus. 20 Edw. III. p. 1, m. 19 et 24. Pat. 16 Ric. II. p. 1, m. 36."[a]

A beautiful little SEAL of the Hospital of St. Mary of Strode is appendant to the Harleian Charter 44 D. 14. It represents in the area the Virgin Mary crowned and sceptered standing beneath a canopy of Gothic open-work, with the Infant in her arms, who holds in his right hand a mound and cross. Inscription, in the small black character, Sigiłł: c̃ōe : ospit : be : marie : de : strode.

The Site of the Hospital of Strode, on the north side of the High Street near the Churchyard, still retains the name of Newark, but is so covered with modern buildings that very little of the ancient state of it is to be seen.

Diploma Regis Edwardi Tertii, ipsam Fundationis Cartam dicti Hospitalis; necnon diversas alias Donationes eidem factas, recitans et confirmans.

[Pat. 6 Edw. III. p. 1, m. 19. Videsis Claus. 20 Edw. III. p. 1, m. 19.]

Rex omnibus ad quos, &c. salutem. Inspeximus quoddam scriptum, quod Gilbertus quondam episcopus Roffensis fecit in hæc verba. Omnibus sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis, ad quos præsens scriptum pervenerit, G. divina miseratione Rofensis ecclesiæ minister, salutem in Domino. Attendentes illud dominicum, "Esurivi et dedistis michi manducare; sitivi et dedistis michi bibere: hospes eram et collegistis me; nudus et cooperuistis me; infirmus et in carcere, et visitastis me." Et ex hoc advertentes misericordiam, cum necessitatem patientibus habitam Deo plurimùm acceptam, pro salute nostrâ prædecessorum, successorum nostrorum, et benefactorum; necnon et pro reformatione Christianitatis terræ Jerosolimitanæ, et liberatione Richardi illustris regis Angliæ, domum hospitalem in honore Dei et gloriosæ Virginis Mariæ apud Strode construximus, ad recipiendos et confovendos pauperes, debiles, infirmos, et sibi minimè sufficientes, tam notos commorantes, quàm à remotis transeuntes, ut in lecto, cibo, et potu eis congruè provideatur, donec vel decedant, vel cum incolumitate recedant; illisque decedentibus vel recedentibus alii peræquè pauperes et debiles, imperpetuum substituentur. Iconomum autem eidem domui præfecimus, et successores nostri præficient, qui de consilio episcopi curam domus et omnium ad eam pertinentium habebit; qui regularem vitam gerens, tot regulares secum habebit clericos, ut honestè ibidem Deo possit ministrari; et ad minus à duobus presbyteris duæ missæ singulis diebus celebrari; una pro vivis loci benefactoribus, altera pro salute animæ meæ nominatim, et pro animabus cæterorum benefactorum in ævum, ad sustentationem jam dictæ domus.

Itaque de communi assensu prioris et conventus Rofensis; necnon et archidiaconi nostri, concessimus et donavimus in perpetuam et puram elemosinam in usus proprios possidendam ecclesiam de Ailesford, cum omnibus ad eam pertinentibus, salvâ pensione duarum marcarum per annum iconomi monachis Rofensibus annis singulis persolvenda; et ecclesiam sanctæ Margaretæ peræquè in usus proprios, cum omnibus pertinenciis suis optinendam, salvâ dimidiâ marcâ per annum iconomi, prædictis monachis annuatim reddendâ, nomine oblationum, diei festi beatæ Margaretæ, quas idem monachi percipere consueverunt. Et ecclesiam de Hallyng, cum omni integritate sua; et prebendulam de decimis militum nostrorum in Halling, et Holeberge, et Kukelstan provenientem: et ecclesiam sancti Nicholai de Strode, cum omnibus ad altare pertinentibus, tam de vivis, quàm de defunctis, et omnibus aliis, excepta decimatione bladi, quàm de assensu et voluntate archidiaconi et personæ de Frendesberi, matricem constituimus ecclesiam, proprium eidem cimiterium assignantes. Providebit autem iconomus ad ministrandos in memoratis ecclesiis presbyteros idoneos, quos maluerit proprios conversos vel alienos, quos episcopo præsentabit, qui cum ecclesiis ipsis communi gaudebunt libertate, ut nullâ videlicet exactione pecuniariâ graventur, ab episcopo vel archidiacono, vel decano, vel aliquo alio, sive in talliâ, sive in emenda, sive aliquo alio modo, exceptis dumtaxat sinodalibus ab antiquo debitis; quoniam si deliquerint episcopo consulto inconomi cohercioni canonicè subjacebunt.

Sane locum ipsum hospitalem cum ambitu suo et omnibus ibidem commorantibus, tam clericis, quàm laicis, et cunctis conversis ubicunque morentur, de assensu et voluntate archidiaconi exemimus ab omnimodâ potestate archidiaconali et decanali; ut sint solummodo domino papæ et Cantuariensi archiepiscopo subjecti, et episcopo Rofensi. Concessimus insuper jam dictæ domui, decimam novalium cujusdam terræ, quam de novo excoluerunt canonici de Lesnes, et eorum tenentes, in confinio parochiarum de Derenteford, et de Wylminton, de assensu et voluntate utriusque ecclesiæ personæ. Porro constitutum est de auctoritate nostrâ, et conventus nostri Rofensis, quod in vigiliâ Natalis Domini annuatim, octo coopertoriis novis supervenientibus, prout ad hoc redditus eis in ecclesia de Ailesford et Boxle providimus, octo vetera in usus pauperum iconomo domus restituentur. Providimus etiam jam dictæ domui redditum sex denariorum de quadam terrulâ in Stanes à Radulpho filio Pauli et hæredibus ejus, annis singulis persolvendis; set et ex largitione bonæ memoriæ Henrici de Cornhell, pro salute animæ suæ, et illustris regis Henrici percipit eadem domus annuatim quatuor libras in London et Suwerc assignatas. Et ex dono Galfridi de Sunderersse duas summas bladi de molendino de Kukelstan.

Hæc autem omnia, et siquid amplius per gratiam Dei aliquis conferre voluerit, expendet iconomus cum consilio episcopi providè, fideliter, et honestè, in usus ipsius domus; ita ut præhabita sua et clericorum et servientum necessariorum procuratione congruâ, totum residuum in sustentationem pauperum debilium, ut diximus, erogetur; et pro quantitate excrescentium facultatum augeatur numerus infirmorum. Nos igitur de bonitate Domini confidentes, ut misericorditer agat cum misericordiam facientibus, omnes huic ordinationi dominicæ consentientes et aliquid de suo largientes, in perpetuæ fœlicitatis dominicæ consortium admittimus, et fratrem et cooperatorem participem domus hospitalis constituimus. Qui autem malignè resistere, obviare, vel infringere conatus fuerit, indignationem et offensam omnipotentis Dei incurrat, et ultionem corporalem sævientis sentiat, donec recipiscentis in meliùs reformetur: Rogamus autem, et quantis possumus precibus et exhortationibus supplicamus successori nostro, quatinus hanc orationem non nostram set crucifixi, gratam habeat et acceptam, et suæ in omnibus saluti consultum, provisum videat et honori, ut Dominus Deus ei retribuat, et non ut cooperatorem set fundatorem respiciat, rumuneret, et coronet in gloria sempiterna.

Inspeximus etiam quoddam scriptum, quod Radulphus quondam prior Roffensis, et ejusdem loci conventus fecerunt in hæc verba. Omnibus Christi fidelibus ad quos præsens scriptum pervenerit, Radulphus prior Rofensis, et ejusdem loci conventus salutem et orationes in Domino. Noverit universitas vestra, nos intuitu Dei et ob reverentiam gloriosæ Dei genetricis Mariæ, in cujus honore domus hospitalis constructa est apud Strode, de assensu et voluntate domini Gilberti Rofensis episcopi nostri donasse et concessisse, et præsenti cartâ confirmasse eidem domui hospitali partem de prato nostro juxte Strode, sicut certa fossata eam concludunt; et quicquam habuerimus in tota terra, quæ est intra prædictam domum hospitalem et domum Augustini juxta stratam quæ tendit versùs Frendesberiam; et ab eadem domo prædicti Augustini, sicut muro concluditur usque ad fossatum prædicti prati versùs aquilonem. Habendum et tenendum in puram et perpetuam elemosinam, liberè et quietè ab omni exactione et omni servitio et omnibus rebus, nullo jure in eis ullo unquam tempore nobis retento. Nos etiam warantizabimus et acquietabimus prædicto hospitali quicquid in prædicto ambitu habuimus versùs omnes homines. Et pro hac donatione et concessione, et confirmatione nostra, prædictus venerabilis dominus et pater noster G. Rofensis episcopus, qui de consilio et assensu nostro memoratam domum hospitalem in honore Dei et beatæ Virginis extruxit, in retributionem liberavit nos erga Judæos, de triginta libris, et usuris, quæ in immensum excreverant; et fecit claustrum nostrum perfici lapideum, et organa nobis fieri fecit, et multa alia nobis contulit beneficia: Testibus hiis, domino Gilberto Rofensi episcopo nostro, Will. Rofensi archid, magistro Elia seneschallo, magistro Egidio, magistro Rogero, Thoma, clericis prædicti episcopi; Ricardo de Beresse, Henrico de Cobeham, Henrico de Scorne, Luca de Ores, Ricardo scriptore, Philippo de Wurmedell, Osberto fratre suo, et multis aliis.

Inspeximus etiam quoddam scriptum quod Hubertus quondam archiepiscopus Cantuar. fecit in hæc verba. Omnibus sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis, ad quos præsens scriptum pervenerit, Hubertus Dei gratiâ Cantuar. archiepiscopus, totius Angliæ primas, salutem in vero salutari. Cum ex injuncto nobis officio in promovendis caritatis operibus teneamur diligenter adesse, præsertim nos condecet ea quæ in sustentationem pauperum karitativè deputata sunt et erogata, favore pio prosequi et promovere. Attendentes igitur favorabile propositum et pietatis affectum venerabilis et dilecti fratris nostri Gileberti Rofensis episcopi, circa construendum domum hospitalem apud Strodes, ad sustentandos et confovendos in eâ pauperes et debiles sibi minimè sufficientes; ne cujusquam machinatione in posterum possit infringi, vel in aliquo diminui, eam cum omnibus quæ prædictus G. Rofensis episcopus, vel quivis alius ei hactenus contulit, vel in posterum per gratiam Dei collaturus est, præsenti paginâ confirmamus: Inprimis videlicet locum ipsum hospitalèm, cum ambitu suo et omnibus ibidem commorantibus, tam clericis, quàm laicis, et cunctis conversis ubicumque morentur, ut sint exempti ab omni potestate archidiaconali, et diaconali, et sint solummodo domino papæ et Cantuar. archiepiscopo subjecti, et episcopo Rofensi. Ecclesiam etiam de Ailesford, cum omnibus ad eam pertinentibus, salvâ pensione duarum marcarum per manum iconomi memoratæ domus, monachis Rofensibus annuatim persolvenda: Et ecclesiam sanctæ Margaretæ cum omnibus pertinentiis suis; salvâ dimidiâ marcâ per manum prælibati iconomi prædictis monachis annuatim reddendâ, nomine oblationum diei festi S. Margaretæ, quas iidem monachi percipere consueverunt.

Et ecclesiam de Hallyng, cum omni integritate suâ, et præbendam de decimis militum prælibati episcopi in Hallyngs, et Holeberge, et Cuckelestan provenientem; et ecclesiam S. Nicholai de Strode cum omnibus ad altare pertinentibus, tam de vivis, quàm de defunctis, et omnibus aliis, exceptâ decimatione bladi, et decimâ novalium cujusdam terræ, quam de novo excoluerunt canonici de Lesnes, et eorum tenentes in confinio parochiarum de Derenteford, et de Wilminton. Octo etiam coopertoria vetera quæ iconomus memoratæ domus à monachis Rofensibus recipiet in vigiliâ Natalis Domini, octo novis supervenientibus, sicut prædictus episcopus fieri disposuit, et cartâ suâ confirmavit: Et redditum sex denariorum de quadam terrula in Stanes à Rad. filio Pauli, et hæredibus ejus annis singulis persolvendum: Et ex largitione Henrici de Cornhell, quatuor libras annuas in London et Sudwerc assignatas. Et ex dono Galfridi de Sunderherse, duas summas bladi annuatim de molendino de Cuckelestan: Ita quidem, quod sæpe nominatus iconomus omnes obventiones prædictarum ecclesiarum, decimarum, et reddituum, integrè, plenariè, et pacificè possideat, et in usus suos et pauperum convertat, sicut carta memorati episcopi testatur. Sherburn Hospital, near Durham.

AN ample Account of this Hospital is given by Mr. Surtees in the first Volume of his History of the County Palatine of Durham, chiefly taken from the printed but not published Collections of George Allan, Esq.: from this, as from the best source of information, we shall extract as much as in a small compass is explanatory of its monastic history.

This House was founded by the Bridge of Sherburn before 1181, for the maintenance of sixty-five poor lepers, by Hugh Pudsey bishop of Durham, over whom he placed a Steward to defend them and their possessions; having dedicated his Hospital to Christ, the blessed Virgin, Lazarus, and his sisters Martha and Mary. The original endowment comprised the vill, the mill, and pasture of Sherburn, Ebchester, the place of anchorets upon the Darwent, nine oxgangs of land in Whitton, the vill of Garmunsway, with various smaller portions of land, beside the churches of Kellow, Grindon, Sockburn, and Bishopton. In 1331 John Harpyn lord of Thornlaw gave the Master and leprous brethren all his lands in the vill and territory of South Sherburn. John Lord Nevill of Raby gave a mesuage in Ebchester in 1384; and in the same year the Master had a grant of free warren in all his lands in Sherburn, Whitwell, Garmonswaye, and Ebchester. The Hospital was also in possession of various out-rents and prescripts.

Like all other establishments of a similar nature, says Mr. Surtees, Sherburn Hospital has considerably declined from the original purposes of its institution; a circumstance which will best appear by a brief review of the original Regulations of the Founder, and of the changes introduced by the several subsequent alterations to the present time. For these the reader is referred to Mr. Surtees's Work. It may be sufficient to say here that Bishop Pudsey's Statutes for the regulation of the Hospital were revised by Bishop Kellaw; that a century afterwards, new rules and ordinances were made for it by Bishop Langley; that it continued under Bishop Langley's Statutes till 1557; that a Commission of Enquiry was then instituted relating to it in the Chancery of Durham; and that in 1585, it was incorporated anew by the title of Christ's Hospital in Sherburn, by Act of Parliament; that it received a new code of regulations by which it still continues to be governed; the number of brethren, who in 1434 had been reduced to thirteen, was now raised to thirty; and a power reserved to the bishops of Durham for the time being, to make ordinances and rules, from time to time, for the good governance of the Hospital.

The following is a List of the

Sherburn Hospital stands about a mile and a half to the South East of Durham, in a warm sunny vale, on the east side of Sherburn water. The buildings form a quadrangle, enclosing an area of about an acre. The Master's Lodgings adjoin the Chapel. The best rooms are new. Some round pillars, supporting pointed arches, still remain in a passage leading to the great Hall, of which the ancient raftered roof was removed about the year 1815. The Apartments of the Poor Brethren, a neat low range of buildings, with a Common Hall in the centre, form the West side of the Area.

Tanner has no References to public Records concerning Sherburn.[a]

The COMMON SEAL of Shirburn Hospital is engraved in Hutchinson's Durham, vol. ii. p. 607.

Hospital of Sutton de la Hone, or at Hone, in Kent.

DUGDALE, both in the former Edition of the Monasticon and in his Baronage, places this Hospital at Sutton in Yorkshire: but Tanner assures us that the Carta antiqua M. n. 7. expressly mentions Sutton de la Hone as its name. The chief that we know of it is contained in the Instrument here printed; that Geoffrey Fitz Piers Earl of Essex gave all his estate in Sutton to William de Wrotham archdeacon of Taunton, in the time of King Richard the First or King John, that he might here found a Hospital in honour of the Holy and Undivided Trinity, St. Mary, and All Saints, for three chaplains and thirteen poor brethren.[a]

Hospital of St. John, at Marlborough, in Wiltshire.

DUGDALE has printed the earliest Instrument known of this Hospital; from which we learn that it was built before the 16th of K. John in the lower part of the town of Marlborough, upon land given by Levenoth the son of Levenoth. It was dedicated to St. John Baptist, for the maintenance both of brethren and sisters, and was valued in the 26th of Henry the Eighth at 6*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* per annum. Beside the Charter which follows, Tanner refers to "Pat. 17 Hen. III. p. 2, m. 6. de mortuo bosco singulis diebus e foresta de Savernak. Pat. 35 Hen. III. m. 6." This Hospital is mentioned in the Abbrev. Plac. pp. 164, 165.

There is a Particular for a Grant of this Hospital temp. Edw. VI. in the Chapter-House, Westminster, made out for the foundation of a Free Grammar School there.

St. John's Hospital at Bristol, in Somersetshire.

THE chief which we know of this Hospital is from the Founder's Charter. John Earl of Moreton, afterward King of England, gave a croft without Lacford-gate, upon the road to Bath, to certain poor lepers, whereupon was built an Hospital to the honour ot St. John Baptist. Dr. Hutton, from the Register of Wells, says that in 1437 it was in the patronage of the Mayor and Commonalty of Bristol.[a]

Hospital of St. Laurence, Bristol.

IN the former Edition of the Monasticon a single Instrument relating to this Hospital was printed as belonging to the Hospital of St. John Baptist. The foundations however were different; and this, which was in one of the suburbs on the Gloucestershire side of the City, dedicated to St. Laurence, appears to have existed for the reception of leprous persons before the 8th Hen. V. The patronage of the Mastership was in the Crown, but was granted 3 Hen. V. to Humphry Duke of Gloucester. It afterwards belonged to the College of Westbury; and a parcel of that College was granted in the 35th Hen. VIII. to Sir Ralph Sadleyr.[b]

Minchin Buckland, in Somersetshire.

TANNER'S Account of this Hospital or Priory is sufficiently succinct. He says, "In the reign of King Henry the Second, William de Erlegh founded here a House of Regular Canons, who, having killed his steward, and done other unjustifiable acts, were suppressed and removed to other Houses. But that King granted all their lands to the Knights Hospitalers, A.D. 1180, upon condition that they should place here all the Sisters of their Order, which before lived in several of their Preceptories. This seems to have been complied with, and the Nuns here had, at first, great dependance upon the Knights,[a] but afterward they disengaged themselves, and became a distinct Priory[b] or Hospital of Nuns of the Order of St. Augustine. This was dedicated to St. John Baptist,[c] and endowed, at the Suppression, with 223*l.* 7*s.* 4*d.* per ann. Dugd. Speed;[d] and the Site of it was granted, 36 Hen. VIII., to William Earl of Essex, James Rockby, &c. There was also at this place a Preceptory of Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, whose House was granted, 36th Hen. VIIIth, to Alexander Popham and William Halley."[e]

An Impression from a SEAL of this Priory has been seen by one of the Editors, but so wholly flattened that no part of the subject of it could be discovered.

Hospital of St. Thomas, Southwark.

"UPON the burning of the Monastery of St. Mary Overy," says Tanner, "A.D. 1207, the Prior and Convent in that same year founded a Hospital near their own House, wherein they said Mass till their Priory was rebuilt; but A.D. 1228, this Hospital of St. Mary Overy was removed, with the consent of Peter de Rupibus bishop of Winchester, to the other side of the Borough for the benefit of better air and water, unto the estate of Amicius archdeacon of Surrey, and dedicated to the honor of St. Thomas the martyr. It was accounted of the foundation of the predecessors of the bishops of Winchester, and they had the patronage of it.

"The yearly revenues of this Hospital, in the 26th Hen. VIIIth, amounted in the whole to 347*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.*, and to 309*l.* 1*s.* 11*d. clare,* at which time here was a Master and Brethren, and three lay Sisters, and forty beds for poor, infirm, and impotent people, who had also victuals and firing. It was surrendered 30th Hen. VIIth, and the Site granted, 4th Edw. VI., to the Mayor and Citizens of London, who in the year 1552 began to repair the same for poor, weak, lame, and diseased people, and then it was stiled, at least for some little while, The King's Hospital in Southwark."[a]

Manning in the History of Surrey, vol. iii. p. 614—626, has given an Account of this Hospital at greater length: though with no additional particulars in its history as a monastic foundation.

The present Hospital of St. Thomas was incorporated by Charter dated June 26th, 1558.

The Possessions of this Hospital in early times are carefully enumerated by Manning, chiefly from the Muniment Book of the Institution. The family of Clare were among its greatest benefactors. The Abstract of the Valor of this House in the 26th Henry the Eighth, Num. III. will show the state and value of its possessions at the Dissolution.

Manning has given the following List of the Principals of this Hospital, whom he calls

MASTERS or WARDENS, PRIORS or RECTORS.

The Names of WILLIAM DE CREYE, JOHN CHALONER, ROBERT...... appear among the Masters of this Hospital, but without date.

There is a Paper Survey of Lands belonging to this Hospital temp. Hen. VIII. in the Augmentation Office;[b] where also is the Surrender of the Hospital to King Hen. VIII. made 14 Jan. 31st year of his reign, and appendant to it an imperfect Impression of the COMMON SEAL. There is a somewhat better one affixed to a Deed of Exchange also in the Augmentation Office; they both represent St. Thomas the Martyr seated under a canopy: scarcely any part of the Legend remains.

The Hospital called God's House, in Southampton.

"TWO Merchants being brethren," says Tanner, "one called Gervasius, the other Protasius, caused the House wherein they dwelt, in the south-east corner of the town of Southampton, to be turned into an Hospital for poor folks, and endowed it with some lands temp. Hen. III. This was augmented by several benefactors. Its Chapel is dedicated to St. Julian, from whence it is often called the Hospital of St. Julian, but generally God's House.

"The Patronage and Mastership was given by King Edward the Third, at the instance of his Queen Philippa, to the Provost and Fellows of Queen's Hall or College in Oxford, which she had founded, in whom it continues to this day."[a]

Dugdale has printed several charters relating to this Hospital: a deed of confirmation of its possessions from King Edward the Third in the sixth year of his reign; a charter from the same monarch bestowing the patronage of it upon Queen's College, Oxford, in 1344; a charter of K. Richard the Second liberating it from the payment of Tenths and Fifteenths; and a charter of King Edward the Fourth by which he granted to this Hospital the Alien Priory of West Shirborne, in Hampshire. To these have been added an Abstract of the Valor of this House in the 26th Hen. VIIIth, whence it appears that the annual produce of its rents at that time amounted to 148*l.* 0*s.* 1*d.*

No Impression from the COMMON SEAL of this Hospital has been discovered.

Hospital or Priory of Sandon, in Surrey.

TANNER thinks that this Hospital, which in one of the Registers of the Priory of the Holy Trinity is said to be "juxta Kingston," was in reality situated in the parish of Esher, where Sandon chapel was granted to John Earl of Mar, by patent in the 1st James I. Manning in his History of Surrey says, distinctly, that it was in Esher, adjoining to the Common which is known by the general name of Ditton-Marsh, where there is now a farm called Sandon Farm.

It was founded by Robert de Watervill in the beginning of the reign of King Henry the Second, and dedicated to the Holy Spirit; or according to Stowe to St. Mary and All Saints, or St. Mary Magdalen as it is in a writ issued by King Henry the Third. It was augmented in the time of Henry the Third with twenty marks rent from the abbat of Salley, lands in Fosseton, &c. by William de Perci for the maintenance of six chaplains. But, in the 14th Hen. VI. it was reduced to such poverty as not to be able to support itself, and thereupon, as appears by the licence printed in Num. III. of the succeeding Instruments, was united to the Hospital of St. Thomas in Southwark.[a] Sandon Chapel, above alluded to by Tanner, was the Chapel of this Hospital.

Hospital of St. Mary Rouncevall, Middlesex.

WILLIAM MARESCHALL, earl of Pembroke, having among other estates given several tenements near Charing Cross to the Prior of Rouncevall or de Rosida Valle in the diocese of Pampelon in Navarre, in the time of Henry the Third, a Hospital or Chapel of St. Mary, which was the chief House in England belonging to that foreign Priory, was erected upon the Site.

Leland, Collect. vol. i. p. 113, says that it was suppressed among the Alien Priories in the reign of King Henry the Fifth, and restored in the 15th Edw. IV. for a Fraternity.[a]

We read in the Year Books, says Tanner, temp. Hen. VII., of the Master, Wardens, Brethren, and Sisters of Rouncevall, who continued till the General Suppression. The Chapel and divers tenements and possessions belonging to this Hospital were granted in the 3d Edw. VI. to Sir Thomas Cawarden, knight, to be held in socage of the Honor of Westminster.

Northumberland House was built in 1614, by Henry Howard, earl of Northampton, upon the Site, and Newcourt says, out of the Ruins of this Hospital.[b]

The Surrender of this House is in the Augmentation Office, dated 11 Nov. 36 Hen. VIII.; and attached to it is the COMMON SEAL, round, of a moderate size, having for its subject the Blessed Virgin, surrounded by Cherubims. Legend, SIGILLV̄ . C̄OE . HOSPITAL' . BEATE . MARIE . DE . St. John's Hospital, at Oxford.

"THE Hospital of St. John Baptist, without the East Gate of Oxford, consisting of a Master and several Brothers and Sisters, was in being in the reign of King John,[a] who was a benefactor to it.[b] King Henry the Third new founded, or at least new built it, A.D. 1233,[c] laying the first stone himself. King Henry the Sixth gave the Masters and Brethren leave to give up and convey this House and all the Estates belonging it, to William Wainflet bishop of Winchester about A.D. 1456, who on or near the Site of it laid the foundation of his magnificent College with the Hall adjoining, to the honour of St. Mary Magdalene."

Such is Tanner's Account of this House. Wood in his Antient and Present State of the City of Oxford, published by Sir John Peshall in 1773, gives various particulars of its endowment.[d] "The building itself," says Peshall, "was but low, having the Charwell running under the East side of it; and their Fabrick, according to those times, indifferent, part of which is yet standing, viz. the Kitchen belonging to Magdalen College, the Divinity Reader's Lodgings, and the Chapel on the South side (now converted into Lodgings) which adjoins the Tower of the said College."

The following Names of the MASTERS of this HOSPITAL are preserved among the MS. Collections of E. R. Mores, Esq. Henry.—Walt. de Wyleby circa 1260.—Nich. de Coleshull, 1285 and 1323.—Adam de Ludbroke, 1343.—John de Iddlebury, 1358.—Adam Merston, 1386.—Richard de Tywe, 1396 and 1432.—William Ludbroke, 24 Apr. 1435.—Hugh, 1447.—Richard Wise was the last Master, 1456.

The Matrix of the SEAL of this Hospital is still extant. An Impression from it is in the hands of one of the Editors of this Work. It is oval, and bears an Eagle surmounting a cross in the Area. Inscr. "S' com'une dom' hospitalis s'ti johan'is baptiste ex^{a} portam orien. Ox"

Hospital of St. John, at Nottingham.

ST. JOHN'S or ST. JONE'S Hospital at Nottingham was situated in the north part of the Town. It seems, says Tanner, to have been a common Spittle House, not parcel of the possessions of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, as Thoroton, p. 491, but under the government of the burgesses of the Town, who submitted it to the ordination of archbishop Gray, A.D. 1234. The Statutes enacted for its regulation are dated in 1241.

Tanner says it was in being temp. R. Joannis, but found, 26 Hen. VIII., to be endowed only with 5l. 6s. 8d. per annum in the whole, and 4l. 13s. 4d. clear.[a] It was for a Warden, or Master, two chaplains, and several sick poor persons, and dedicated to St. John the Baptist.

The Particular for the Grant of this Hospital to the Town of Nottingham 4th Edw. VI. is in the Augmentation Office.[b] No SEAL of this House has been discovered.

Regula Fratrum et Sororum ejusdem Hospitalis, per Walterum de Grey Eborac. Archiepiscopum, statuta.

[Ex secun a parte Registri vocati Grenefeld penès archiep. Ebor. fol. 171.]

Hæc est ordo et regula fratrum et sororum hospitalis S. Johannis Baptistæ, de Notingham, statuta et ordinata per dominum Walterum de Grey, archiepiscopum Eborum, anno Domini mccxli.

Walterus Dei gratia, Eborum archiepiscopus Angliæ primas, dilecto in Christo Roberto Alwino magistro hospitalis beati Johannis Baptistæ de Notingham, et patribus ibidem Deo et S. Johanni Bapt. servientibus, salutem et benedictionem. Cum sit statutum inter viros religiosos, ut ordo observetur, cum sine ordine nulla sit religio; statuimus, firmiter præcipientes, ut quicunque sit custos vel magister domus S. Johannis Baptistæ de Notingham, sic provideat, quod ibi sint duo capellani, vel plures, ibidem divina celebrantes imperpetuum. Insuper statuimus, ut omnes fratres simul surgant ad Matutinas, et ita tempestivè, ut possint Matutinæ percantari ante auroram, vel ex ortu auroræ, de festo S. Michaelis usque ad Pascha: Cantatisque consequenter Prima, et Tertia, celebretur missa, et post missam cantatis Sexta et Nona, fratres intendant negotiis domus, unusquisque prout competit effecto sibi deputato: et cum non præpediuntur rationabili aut necessario impedimento, audiant Vesperas et Completorium.

Statuimus etiam, ut omnes regulariter sint obedientes suo custodi, vel magistro, sine contradictione; et nullus quoque sit proprietarius; set si quis aliquid habuerit proprium resing, nec illud custodi, vel magistro, ante septem dies post hujus præcepti promulgationem, alioquin ab eodem die septimo, ipso facto retentionis proprii, sit excommunicatus. Custos verò, vel magister, proprium si habeat, convertat in domus utilitatem: si autem invenerit aliquem cum proprietate obisse, corpus ejus projiciatur extra sepulturam Christianitatis, et sepeliatur alibi, projecto super eum ejus proprio à fratribus dicentibus. "Pecunia tua sit tecum in perdicionem." Nullus habeat seratam archam, nisi sit arca deputata ad suum officium. Omnes vestiantur, cibantur, et potantur de communi, et non comedant carnes in ebdomada, nisi tribus diebus, scilicet die Dominica, et die Martis, et die Jovis, nisi per licentiam custodis. Comedant simul in uno refectorio servantes in refectione silencium, aut voce submissa proferatur, si quid loqui compellat necessitas.

Omnes simul jaceant in uno dormitorio vestiti femoralibus et camisiis, vel in indumento quo utuntur in loco camisiæ. Et ad horam qua intrant dormitorium, eant cubitum, usque post Primam cantatam, observent silencium, et de nocte non accedant fratres nisi sint sorores, nec è converso nisi ægritudine adveniente. Casti sint omnes ac sobrii, nec potantes alicubi in municipio vel in suburbio. Moderati sint in victu; bona domus et elemosinas collatas in pauperum et infirmorum necessitates fideliter convertentes. Regularem gerant habitum, scilicet de russeto, et de nigro panno singulis ebdomadis, saltem semel conveniant in capitulo, et ibidem proclamentur et excessus regulariter à custode vel à magistro. Teneaturque capitulum absque garrulitate et clamore. Et qui excesserunt humiliter et obedienter subeant disciplinam canonicam. Non admittantur autem plures fratres vel sorores quàm necessarii sunt, ad serviendum infirmis et custodiendum bona domus; familia, si quam habent, sit moderata, sobria, et casta; si quis verò de familia inventus fuerit ebriosus aut luxuriosus, nisi ab hujusmodi viciis se temperaverit, expellatur à servicio domus. Nullus frater evagetur per villam aut alibi, nisi à suo custode, vel magistro regulariter licenciatus. Compotus reddatur secundùm consilium provinciale. Istud scriptum singulis mensibus semel recitetur capitulo, in linguâ Gallicâ, vel Anglicanâ. Sorores conversæ, secundùm quod competet suo sexui, observent ea quæ supra statuimus à fratribus observanda. In principio Matutinarum, dicant laici fratres et sorores Credo in Deum, et Pater noster. Deinde pro Matutinis viginti quinque Pater noster. Ad primam septem Pater noster. Ad nonam septem Pater noster. Ad vesperas quindecim Pater noster. Ad completorium septem Pater noster. Post completorium dicant semel Pater noster et Credo in Deum. In loco autem ubi frater vel soror moritur, et cæteri dicant infra triginta dies quinquies centum Pater noster. Tenentur etiam singuli dicere singulis septimanis, pro fratribus et sororibus vivis et depositis, et pro benefactoribus dictæ domus hospitalis sancti Johannis Baptistæ, centum Pater noster.

Plumtree's Hospital, in Nottingham.

JOHN PLUMTRE of this Town, it appears, obtained licence from the King in the 16th of King Richard the Second, to found a Hospital here at the Bridge-end, for two Chaplains, whereof one to be Master, and thirteen poor old Widows, to the honour of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin. Tanner says the number of the Widows was afterwards reduced by the founder himself to seven, but was since restored to the original number through the pious care of his descendants. Its income was valued in the 26th Hen. VIIIth at 13*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* per annum in the whole, and at 11*l.* 1*s.* clear. It is yet in being.

Hospital or Priory of St. John Baptist at Ludlow,

IN SHROPSHIRE.

LELAND, in his Itinerary, having described the Church or College of St. John the Evangelist in the midst of the town of Ludlow, says, there is "on the North syde of the brydge, in ripa sinistra Teme, a Church of St. John standing without Broadgate, sometime a College, with a Dean and fellows, of one Jordan's foundation." This seems to be the same, says Tanner, with the Hospital for a Prior, Warden or Master, and several poor and infirm brethren, which one Peter Undergod, in the latter end of the reign of King John or the beginning of the reign of King Henry the Third, built and endowed to the honour of the Holy Trinity, St. Mary, and St. John Baptist, valued in the 26th Hen. VIIIth in the gross at 27*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.*, in clear income at 13*l.* 3*s.* 3*d.*: the Site of which was granted in the 1st Edw. VI. to John Earl of Warwick.

William Hamper, Esq. of Birmingham is in possession of several Charters relating to this Hospital. Among them are two Charters from Edmund Mortimer Earl of March, of the 4th Hen. Vth; a deed from Thomas bishop of Hereford concerning a pension of 2*s.* to the rector of Ludlow, in 1328; and a grant from Richard Earl of Warwick, Joan widow of William Beauchamp of Bergavenny, and others, in the 3d Hen. VIth of Privileges in Ludlow.[a]

Et quia volo quod hæc omnia rata permaneant, et stabilita in perpetuum, sigillum meum signo hospitalis ejusdem impressum præsentibus apponere duxi. Hiis testibus, domino Waltero de Lacy, domino Johanne de Monemua, Pagano de Ludford, Pagano Curbuell, Philippo de Colevile, Eumundo de Ludlowe, et multis aliis.

Domus Conversorum, now called the Chapel of the Rolls.

"IN the then suburbs of London," says Tanner, "on the east side of New Street, now called Chancery Lane, King Henry the Third, A.D. 1231, began a religious foundation for the instruction and maintenance of all such Jews as should be converted to the Christian faith; which he endowed with a yearly pension of seven hundred marks to be paid out of the Exchequer till he should provide better; and King Edward the Second gave the deodands all over England to the same good use.

"This House was under the government of a Master and two or three Chaplains. It had a church within the precinct, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, which is now called the Chapel of the Rolls, as being used for the custody of the Rolls and Records in Chancery; for after the expulsion of the Jews, the number of converts dwindled away, and in the year 1377, the Mastership of this House was annexed by patent to the office of the Keeper of the Rolls of Chancery, who is since called Master of the Rolls."

King Henry the Third, by a second Charter, dated in the 33d year of his reign, gave the fraternity here all the lands and tenements in London which had belonged to Constantine the son of Alufus, and which had escheated to the King in consequence of Constantine's execution for felony.

Newcourt gives the following List of the Priory or Hospital of Lechelade, in Gloucestershire.

THE following is Leland's Account of this Hospital in his Itinerary: "At the very end of St. John's-Bridge in ripa ulteriori on the right hand, I saw a Chapelle in a medow, and greate enclosures of stone waulles. Here was in hominum memoria a Priory of Blake Chanons of the patronage of the Duke of Clarance or York. When this Priory was suppressid there were 3 Cantuaries erected in the Church of Lechelade: and there remaynid, ontylle of late dayes, one Undrewoode, decane of Wallingforde, founde meanes that 2 of these Cantuaries should be at Wallingford College, and the thirde to remaine at Lechelade."

Tanner says, "A Priory of Black Canons, or rather an Hospital of a Master or Prior and certain poor and infirm Brethren, dedicated to St. John Baptist, was founded here upon a piece of ground called Lade, near the great Bridge over the Thames (from hence called St. John's Bridge), given to that use by the lady Isabel Ferrers,[a] sometime wife of Hugh Mortimer, before 30 Hen. III. But this House being run into great decay, King Edward the Fourth, anno regni 12, gave his mother Cicely duchess of York leave to get it dissolved, and then to apply the revenues of it to the endowing of a perpetual Chantry of three Priests at the altar of St. Mary in the parish church here, which continued till dean Underwood, temp. Hen. VII., found means to place two of these chantry priests at Wallingford College, and let the third remain at Lechlade; and so the site of this Priory, as parcel of the possessions of Wallingford College, was granted to Dennis Tappes, 14 Eliz."[b]

Hospital at Ledbury, in Herefordshire.

THIS was a Hospital for a Master, Rector, or Prior, and several poor brethren and sisters, built by Hugh Foliot bishop of Hereford, to the honour of St. Katherine, A.D. 1232,[a] which met with several benefactors, whose names are recorded in a confirmation charter of the 2d Edw. III.

In the 26th Hen. VIII. the gross revenues of this House amounted to 32l. 7s. 11d. per annum; the net receipts to 22l. 5s.

This Hospital is still in being, having been refounded by Queen Elizabeth. Bishop Tanner says, "It was properly refounded or re-established by act of parliament obtained by the care and pains of the Dean and Chapter of Hereford; but Queen Elizabeth encouraging it, hath her name set upon the Hospital as the restorer of it. This was in 1580. The Master is now nominated by the Dean and Chapter of Hereford, and has himself the nomination of the rest of his fraternity; viz. seven poor men widowers, and three poor women widows, who have each an allowance of 6l. 13s. 4d. per annum, besides clothes and firing. Dr. Thornton, who was Vicechancellor of Oxford, and master here in the reign of King James the First, was a considerable benefactor to the Hospital."

The Editors have not discovered any SEAL of this Hospital.

Universis Christi fidelibus ad quod præsens scriptum pervenerit, Thomas Herefordensis ecclesiæ decanus, et ejusdem loci capitulum, salutem in Domino æternam. Noverit universitas vestra, nos cartam venerabilis patris nostri Hugonis Foliot Herefordensis episcopi inspexisse, in hæc verba.

Universis Christi fidelibus præsens scriptum inspecturis, Hugo Foliot, divina miseratione Herefordensis ecclesiæ minister humilis, salutem in Domino. Ex commis. nobis officii solicitudine tenemur, ea quæ divinis locis, collatione fidelium mancipantur, ut firmam stabilitatem sortiantur, episcopalis auctoritatis diligentiâ roborare. Et quia juxta est dies perditionis et adesse festinant tempora desiderantibus bona domini in terrâ viventium; necesse est intelligere super egenum et pauperem, ut propter peccata nostra, quibus iram meruimus, positi quasi signum ad sagittam, fugere valeamus à facie arcus, scelera peregrinationis nostræ elemosinarum largitione redimentes. Dum enim per vitæ præsentis lubrica periculosè transimus in terris sub securitate per manus egentium piè largita, collocamus in cœlis; præter elemosinam enim solam, nichil ex hac vita portabimus, set illam per manus pauperum fœliciter in cœlum præmittimus.

Attendentes igitur, inter hæc et cætera opera misericordiæ, hospitalitati ferè nichil esse præferendum, et tantum ejus gratiam, quod Loth et Abraham, qui homines consueverunt, etiam angelos hospitari meruerunt, ipsos etiam tanta mercede remuneratos, quod alter subversionem Sodomæ evasit; et alter ex conjuge sterili filium habere promeruit, hospitale quoddam ad peregrinos et pauperes suscipiendos, apud Ledebury, sub Malvernia construximus, ad honorem Dei et S. Katerinæ Virginis; et omnia piâ devotione fidelium eidem hospitali et aliis ibidem Deo servientibus collata, vel futuris temporibus conferenda, episcopali auctoritate duximus confirmare. Et præcipuè ex concessione nobilis et præclari viri domini Walteri de Lacy ecclesiam de Westune in usus proprios, post decessum Thomæ Decani de Westune, rectoris ejusdem ecclesiæ, convertendam; de quâ idem Thomas unam libram incensi eidem hospitali annuatim, interveniente auctoritate episcopali, nomine pensionis, persolvit. Et ecclesiam de Kenepeleyh, ex concessione nobilis viri domini Galfridi de Longo-Campo, post decessum Rob. Decani, rectoris ejusdem ecclesiæ, qui unam libram incensi, nomine pensionis, annuatim similiter exsolvit. Et ecclesiam de Yarhull, ex concessione prædicti domini Walteri de Lacy, post decessum Moysi rectoris ejusdem ecclesiæ, qui etiam unam libram incensi, nomine pensionis, eidem hospitali exsolvit. Salvis in prædictis ecclesiis debitis consuetudinibus, tam episcopalibus quam archiepiscopalibus.

Præterea dedimus et concessimus, ad fundandum idem hospitale, duo burgagia in villa de Ledebury; scil. unum burgagium et dimidium, quod emimus de Johanne filio Gersante; reddendo per annum episcopo, decem et octo denarios. Et dimidium burgagium, quod emimus de Margareta filia Gileberti Franceis; reddendo per annum sex denarios. Et unum burgagium in novo vico quod emimus de Roberto de Staninges; reddendo per annum duodecim denarios; nec eadem burgagia unquam magis reddiderunt episcopo. Et quicumque idem hospitale beneficiis et gratiâ fovere curaverint, gratiam divinam et æternæ retributionis præmia consequantur. Et qui contra hoc aliquid attemptare præsumpserint, indignatione Dei omnipotentis involvantur, nisi celeriter resipiscant. Et ut hæc omnia majori et perpetuâ gaudeant firmitate, invocatâ gratiâ et præsentiâ Altissimi, et præcelsæ genetricis ejusdem, et omnium cœlestium virtutum, præsenti scripto sigillum nostrum apposuimus. Hiis testibus, Thoma decano Hereford. et ejusdem loci capitulo. Nos igitur dictas donationes, &c. eas unanimi assensu, præsenti scripto et sigilli nostri munimine confirmare curavimus.

[a] Tanner says, this date is upon the Hospital; but it is probably the time when finished: for it seems to have been begun before A.D. 1230, and the founder died in July or August 1234.

Hospital of St. Leonard, at Leicester.

THIS was a Lazar House, or Hospital for Lepers, dedicated to St. Leonard, situated on the north part of the Town of Leicester, founded, as we learn from a passage in Knyghton's History, by William the youngest son to Robert Blanchmains Earl of Leicester, who was himself a leper temp. Ric I. Dugdale informs us in his Baronage, vol. i. p. 586, that William Lord Hastings, sometime before the 17th Edw. IV. begged this Hospital of the King, and gave it to the Dean and Chapter of our Lady College at Leicester, as parcel of which it was granted in the 2d of Edw. VI. to Robert Catlyn.[a]

Hospital at Langrigh, in Lancashire.

TANNER merely calls this Langrigh, now Longridge; "an ancient Hospital under Longridge hills, of a Master and Brethren, dedicated to the Virgin Mary and Our Holy Saviour."

In Baines's History of the County of Lancaster, it is said that there is in the Parish of Ribchester a Chapel, "the Hospitale subtus Langrig," of very ancient date. The Living is of the annual value of 25*l.*, to preserve which Service has been performed twice a year ever since the Reformation, under the ivy festoons that wind through the unglazed windows of this interesting piece of antiquity.

Gaunt's, or Billeswyke Hospital, at Bristol.

THE following is Tanner's Account of this Foundation. "Maurice de Gaunt[a] built an Hospital at Billeswyke, in the North-west suburb of Bristol, near St. Austin's, before A.D. 1229,[b] for one chaplain and one hundred poor people to be relieved every day. For which use he gave the manor of Paulet, and several mills, &c. to the canons of St. Austin's, and seems to have made his hospital entirely subject to their management and direction. But, after his decease, Robert de Gurnay, his nephew and heir, made it a distinct house for the maintenance of a Master, and three Chaplains, and the relief of one hundred poor people every day. It was dedicated to the blessed Virgin Mary and St. Mark, valued 26 Hen. VIII., at 112*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.* per ann. as Dugd. and 140*l.* as Speed, and granted, 33 Hen. VIII., to the mayor and citizens; but since that time it hath been converted into an hospital for Orphans, by the munificence of T. Carre, a wealthy citizen.[c]

Hospital of Glanford Brigge, in Lincolnshire.

IN the former Edition of the Monasticon, this Hospital was placed in Yorkshire. Speed says it was founded by William Tirwhit: Tanner, by the ancestors of Ralph Paynel, probably Adam Paynel in King John's time, subordinate to the Abbey of Selby in Yorkshire; one of the Monks of which, he adds, was Master here. The Editors have been unable to discover more of this House. It was situated in the parish of Wranby.

Hospitale de Glanford-brigge, in agro Lincolniensi.

De Custode ejusdem Hospitalis per Adam Paynell et Hæredes suos præsentando.

[Ex Registro. episc. Linc. (scil.) Rot. Rob. Grostede anno secundo, in dorso. 21 Hen. III.]

OMNIBUS has literas visuris vel audituris, episcopus, decanus, et cancellarius Lincolniæ salutem. Mandatum domini papæ, in hæc verba, suscepimus. "Gregorius episcopus, servus servorum Dei, venerabili fratri episcopo, et dilectis filiis decano et cancellario Lincolniæ salutem, et apostolicam benedictionem. Nobilis vir Radulphus Paynel miles, patronus hospitalis de Ponte Glanford, nobis conquerendo monstravit, quod abbas et conventus de Seleby, Eboracensis diœcesis, dictum hospitale, quod de bonis progenitorum suorum, ad opus pauperum fundatum extitit et dotatum, in usus proprios converterunt in ejus præjudicium et gravamen. Itaque discretioni vestræ, per scripta apostolica mandamus, quatinus partibus vocatis, &c. Dat. id. Maii, pontificatus nostri nono."

Hujus auctoritate mandati, partibus vocatis, et in præsentiâ nostrâ constitutis; pars actrix, scilicet dominus Radulfus Paynel miles instanter petiit justitiam sibi exhiberi, secundùm formam mandati apostolici, et secundùm tenorem cartæ, quam idem Radulfus Paynel habet ab abbate et conventu de Seleby, cujus cartæ tenor talis est.

"Omnibus has literas visuris, vel audituris, Alexander Dei gratiâ abbas de Selby, et ejusdem loci conventus, æternam in Domino salutem. Noverit universitas vestra, nos concessisse, et hac nostrâ cartâ confirmâsse Adæ Paynell, et hæredibus ejus, quod quemcunque per concilium nostrum de fratribus nostris, ad custodiam hospitalis ad pontem de Glanford admiserit, ipsum ibidem omnibus diebus vitæ sine impedimento, vel contradictione nostri moram ibidem facere concedimus; ita quod, de bonis prædicti hospitalis collatis, et à fidelibus caritate, prece, vel precio conferendis, nihil aliud faciet, nisi pauperes et egenos sustentare." Pars verò abbatis et conventus de Seleby audito tenore memoratæ cartæ confessa est in jure cartam esse veram, et se velle secundùm vires posssessionum et rerum, tam mobilium, quam immobilium ad hospitale de ponte de Glanford spectantium, tenorem memoratæ cartæ, cum effectu et fideliter observare, &c.

Hospital of St. Bartholomew, near Gloucester.

THIS Hospital was founded by King Henry the Third, in the parish of St. Nicholas, near the West Bridge, for poor infirm brothers and sisters, under the government of a Prior or Master. It appears from an Inquisition of the 30th Edw. III., which will be presently given, that William Misperty, a citizen of Gloucester, built here, temp.

Hen. I., a House for the use of Nicholas Walred, chaplain, the builder of West Bridge, and of the workmen employed under him: and that it continued as a habitation of poor or sick workmen, under the government of a chaplain, till King Henry the Third gave it to the brethren and sisters of this Hospital, as a part of its endowment; beside which, the King gave them the Church of St. Nicholas at Gloucester. Their rents and profits in other places, as they stood in the 26th Hen. VIIIth, will be seen in the Abstract of the Great Valor. Tanner says, Here were once maintained fifty-two poor men; but in Leland's time, it consisted of a Master, three brethren, and thirty-two poor men and women. Tanner says, "In Dugdale and Speed's Valuations there are two St. Bartholomew's Hospitals in Gloucester, one rated at 44*l.* 7*s.* 2*d.* per annum, the other at 25*l.* 11*s.* 2*d.* Quære." "In Sancroft's Valor," he adds, "it is 25*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* toto; 4*l.* 10*s.* 11*d*½. clare: xxxiv. pauperes et mulieres in Hospitali commorantes." Thomas Earl of Berkeley, who died in 1309, gave some lands in Cowley to this House.

The Site was granted 6 Eliz. to the Mayor and Citizens of Gloucester, and is still continued for a minister, physician, master, and surgeon, twenty-four poor men and thirty poor women, and the revenues of it are said to be about 500*l.* per annum.

An Impression from the SEAL of this Hospital is, it is believed, in the Tower of London.

Juratores dicunt per sacramentum suum, quod tempore domini Henrici quondam regis Angliæ, filii imperatricis, quidam Nicholaus Walred capellanus incœpit construere pontem vocatum Westbrugge. Hospital of Greatham, in the County of Durham.

THE manor of Greatham, says Mr. Surtees, belonged to Peter de Montfort the Younger, whose father, of the same name, was killed, and himself made prisoner, at the battle of Evesham, won by Prince Edward against the confederated Barons, Aug. 5th, 1264. The King granted the forfeiture to Thomas de Clare, "manerium de Greatham quod fuit Petri de Monteforte inimici nostri;" but almost immediately revoked the grant, on the Bishop of Durham's representation that the manor lay within the Palatinate, and by charter acknowledged in the fullest manner the Bishop's exclusive right to escheat and forfeiture within his royal franchise.[a] The Bishop, to render assurance doubly sure, took a general charter of confirmation from Peter de Montfort, and being thus in possession of the manor under every title, liberally employed the acquisition in founding the Hospital of Greatham. The charter of endowment bears date on the morrow of the Epiphany 1262.[b] The foundation was dedicated to God, St. Mary, and St. Cuthbert.

Mr. Surtees has followed his copy of the foundation Charter, with the Statutes and Ordinances which Bishop Robert Stichell provided for his new Foundation dated 23d Jan. 1272. From these it appears that the Master was to be a Priest, and was to wear, during the celebration of divine service, a surplice and black hood, after the fashion of the canons regular of St. Augustine. The Bishop of Durham was to visit twice in the year, or oftener if need be, and the Master was to bring his Accompts to audit. He was not to alienate any of the fixtures of the Hospital, nor manumit the serfs or villans, nor sell waste, nor entrance or road lease of the garden, nor was he to make any notable consumption of the chattels without license, nor leave nor dispose of any such goods by his last will. The Bishop reserved to himself and successors the power of revising and altering the statutes.

Bishop Anthony Bleke confirmed the endowment, and gave the church of Greatham (not named in Stichell's charter) to the Master and Brethren, adding one chaplain and one clerk to the establishment. King Edward the Third and King Edward the Fourth also confirmed the charter, and the latter granted to the Master the privilege of a weekly market or fair twice a year.

The Hospital continued to be governed by bishop Stichell's charter till the reign of King James the First. Bishop Tunstall issued letters of citation to visit in 1532; but no proccedings occur. It should seem from the Will of Dr. Sparke, 1563, that the King's Visitors at the Dissolution carried off some of the superstitious ornaments of the Chapel. The Establishment, however, itself, remained in its integrity. Bishop Hutton visited it in 1590.

King James the First's charter, 20th July 1610, reduced the poor Brethren to thirteen[c] poor and needy men, bachelors and stricken in years. It confirmed all the possessions of the Hospital, and gave power to the Master and Brethren to lease for twenty-one years, or three lives.

Mr. Surtees, from whose History of Durham, vol. iii. pp. 134, our Account is taken, says, "It is not easy to form any opinion as to the appearance of the original buildings of the Hospital: they seem to have stood upon a plot of ground which now forms a lawn in front of the present structure. Two lines of ancient Trees, skirting the ground and sheltering it on two sides, exactly mark out the site. The habitation occupied by the poor brethren, before the late alterations, appeared to have been "the nave of a church, with corresponding arches, closed up on the North and South, and a porch added for a common entrance in the centre."

The foundation-stone of an entirely new Building was laid, on a plan of Wyatt's, Sept. 15th, 1803, and was completed in the following year.

In 1785 John William Egerton, eldest son of the Bishop of Durham, was collated to the Mastership. In 1803 he succeeded to the Earldom of Bridgewater on the death of Duke Francis. Instead of resigning the Mastership he held it thenceforth, not as an object of emolument, but with a view to improve and augment, in fact to restore a foundation to which he felt attached as the gift of a father in earlier life. On the South front above the Entrance is this Inscription:

Eastbridge Hospital, at Canterbury.

SOMNER says that this Hospital was first erected and endowed by the charity and piety of St. Thomas Becket in Hen. II.'s time;[a] and thence to this day called the Hospital of St. Thomas the Martyr of Eastbridge. For this, he adds, we have the testimony of Archbishop Stratford, a successor of his; "who upon his novel ordination of the Hospital, and in the charter thereof, acknowledgeth him the first founder and endower of it."

In archbishop Stratford's time, he adds, there was another Hospital neighbouring unto this of Eastbridge, called Cokyn's Hospital, built and founded by one William Cokyn of Canterbury. This Hospital was dedicated to St. Nicholas and St. Catherine, and stood sometime in the parish of St. Peter in Canterbury, almost opposite to the Black Friers gate. Cokyn having purchased a mesuage adjoining to his own, in the place called Cokyn's-lane, either built there a new Hospital, or else converted his purchase into one: and then by a charter, in which he says the Hospitals of St. Nicholas, St. Catherine, and St. Thomas of Eastbridge in Canterbury, were united, entitles those Hospitals to all his lands, possessions, and chattels.

"Eastbridge Hospital being thus (i. e. by union or consolidation) possessed, and having become owners of Cokyn's Hospital, it ceased soon after[b] to be used as an Hospital, or in the way of an Hospital, and was hired and rented out." "So much," says Somner, "for Cokyn's Hospital; and now I return to Eastbridge." He then proceeds to state the more important particulars of its endowment.

Archbishop Langton, it appears, confirmed to Eastbridge the Church or parsonage of Blean, which was afterwards appropriated to the House, at which place lay most of the Hospital's demesnes and revenues. The manor of Blean was given to the Hospital by Thomas de Roos of Hamlake in the 33 Edw. III.: and in the 34 Edw. III. Sir John Lee, knt., gave a hundred and eighty acres of land and 27s. rent of assize there. By a bull of Pope Honorius III. this Hospital was privileged from paying tithe from its gardens.

"The City Chamber of Canterbury," says Somner, "hath a record dated the 7th Ric. II. A.D. 1391, whereby it appears that the Master of this Hospital ought to repair, erect, and sustain the neighbour bridge, i. e. Kingsbridge. The Account of this Hospital's estate given up to the Commissioners upon the statute 37th Hen. VIII. cap. 4. chargeth the Master with the paving also of the Street there."

This Hospital was originally founded for the entertainment of Pilgrims: and its revenues in the 26th Hen. VIIIth amounted to 23l. 18*s.* 9¾*d.* per annum. "It was preserved," says Tanner, "upon the Reformation, but being like to be swallowed up in Queen Elizabeth's time, archbishop Whitgift recovered the same, and made statutes, which are confirmed by Act of Parliament, whereby here are established a Master, a schoolmaster, five in-brothers, and five in-sisters, and as many out-brothers and out-sisters."

The provision for the Master of Eastbridge Hospital to keep Kingsbridge or Eastbridge in repair has since been departed from, under an agreement made between the Master of the Hospital and the Mayor and Commonalty of the City of Canterbury, in 1769, when the Bridge was widened to twice its former extent; and it was agreed that the Southern half only should in future be considered as belonging to the Hospital.

The buildings of the Hospital, which are ancient, are of stone, and of substantial workmanship.

Hospital at Bolton, in Northumberland.

LELAND calls this a Collegiate Church;[a] but it was rather an hospital, founded by Robert Roos of Hamlake before the year 1225, for a Prior,[b] or Master,[c] and three Chaplains, thirteen leprous men,[d] and other lay brethren. The Abbat of Rievall and the Prior of Kirkham were by the founder appointed governors of this House, which was dedicated to St. Thomas the Martyr,[e] or rather to the Holy Trinity.[f]

Thomas de Goldyngton clerk, the King's surgeon was appointed Master or Warden of this House 24 July 3 Edw. III., but the appointment was revoked 3 Oct. following "quia prior Custos fuit in vivis."[g] Goldyngton however was again appointed to it "for life" 22 Nov. 3 Edw. III.[h]

Hospital at Basingstoke, in Hampshire.

WALTER de Merton, says Manning, in his History of Surrey, vol. iii. p. 4, began his works of charity in 1261, by founding an Hospital at Basingstoke, which he called the Hospital of St. John Baptist, to which he gave the manor of St. John there, which had been his mother's estate. This was intended chiefly for the benefit of poor clergy, "ad perpetuam sustentationem ministrorum altaris Domini, ad imbecillitatem vergentium et pauperum ibidem infirmantium." This foundation was confirmed by the King in 1262. After his foundation of Merton College, it was appointed in the Statutes, that the incurably sick Fellows or Scholars of that College should be sent thither; and the office of Master was very early annexed to that of Warden of Merton, and the Warden is still considered as Governor of it. Not many years ago part of the Chapel roof of this Hospital remained, pannelled with the Arms of Merton College in the intersections, and one of the Gothic windows was visible, but stopped up; but all this gave place to a new brick building in 1778. Tanner gives the credit of founding this House to King Henry the Third: though at the instance, and upon the estate of Walter de Merton, who gave by his will four hundred and fifty marks to purchase lands for the better endowment of it. Tanner says this Hospital was dedicated to St. Mary and St. John Baptist.[a]

Hospital of St. Katharine, near the Tower of London.

RATHER more than forty years ago a "History of the Royal Hospital and Collegiate Church of St. Katharine" was published by a learned and zealous antiquary, Andrew Coltee Ducarel, D.C.L., and another account in 1824 by John Bowyer Nichols, Esq. immediately before the destruction of the Collegiate Church. To these larger Works the Reader is referred for minute Information, and more especially to Dr. Ducarel's for Transcripts of Records.

The Hospital of St. Katharine derived its origin from the piety of Queen Matilda, wife of Stephen; who obtained that Monarch's consent, in 1148, to found the Hospital and Church, in pure and perpetual alms, to secure the repose of the souls of her children Baldwin and Matilda, who were buried within it before her own decease. The Foundation consisted of a Master, Brethren, Sisters, and Alms-people, and the endowments were ample. The Queen purchased the Site, with a mill, from the Priory of the Holy Trinity, Aldgate, for 6*l.* per annum charged upon the manor of Braughing, Herts, and gave them the perpetual custody of her Hospital.[b] William de Ypres soon after granted a tract of ground called Edredshede, since called Queenhithe, near the Tower, to the above Priory, charged with a payment of 20*l.* to the Hospital of St. Katharine.[c] Thus it remained till the year 1255, when Queen Eleanor, wife of Henry the Third, instituted a suit against the Prior and Convent, the final result of which was the alienation of the custody, and a dissolution of the Hospital.[d]

Eleanor, after the decease of her husband, refounded St. Katharine's by her charter, dated July 5th, 1273, for a Master, three Brethren, three Sisters, ten Beads-women, and six poor Scholars, with endowments; and reserved to herself, and the successive Queens of England, the nomination of the Master, three Brothers, Priests, and three Sisters, upon all vacancies. The Beads-women were to receive their sustenance from the alms of the Hospital, and lodge within it, for which they were required to pray for the Foundress, her progenitors, and the faithful. The boys were to be maintained, taught, and to assist in the celebration of divine service.[e]

King Edward the Second, in 1309, granted to this Hospital the perpetual advowson and patronage of the Church of St. Peter, in Northampton, with the Chapels of Upton and Kingsthorp annexed.[f] In 1335, King Edward the Third granted to the Hospital wood and timber to be taken in the wood of Roger Wast of Leyton, in the forest of Essex, for firing, and for the repair of their mill at Reynham.[g]

The next benefactress to this Hospital was Philippa, wife of Edward the Third. She founded a Chantry here, and gave to the Hospital 10*l.* in lands per annum, for the maintenance of an additional Chaplain, with the manors of Upchurch in Kent, and Queenbury in Reed, in Hertfordshire. Philippa also granted a new Charter, and Statutes for the regulation of the Hospital, which may be seen both in the original and in a translation in Dr. Ducarel's History.[h] These Statutes notice the rebuilding of the Church by William de Erldesby, Master of the Hospital, who began that work about the year 1340; to which building the Queen was a liberal contributor. Richard the Second, Henry the Vth, Henry the VIth, and Edward the Fourth, were among the Royal benefactors to this Hospital. Thomas de Beckington also, who became Master in 1438, and was afterwards bishop of Bath and Wells, was a great contributor to its consequence. He obtained for it from King Henry the VIth, a fair to be held upon Tower-hill for twenty-one days yearly. Dr. Ducarel supposes him to have built the Body of the Church recently taken down.[a] The next great benefactor was John Holland Duke of Exeter.[b] King Henry the Eighth and Queen Katharine his first wife, in 1518, founded a fraternity here of St. Barbara: it was governed by a Master and three Wardens, and consisted of many of the first nobility of both sexes, amongst whom were Cardinal Wolsey, the Duke of Buckingham, the Duke of Norfolk, the Earl of Shrewsbury, the Earl of Northumberland, and their ladies.[c]

From the circumstance of the revenues of this Hospital being found in the Valor of the 26th Hen. VIII., it has been conjectured that the King intended to dissolve this House, and that it probably escaped suppression in consequence of the request of Queen Anne Boleyn, whom the King had recently married. By this Account it appears that the clear income of the Hospital then amounted to 315*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.* per annum.[d]

Queen Elizabeth having appointed Thomas Wylson, LL.D., her secretary, Master of this Hospital, he surrendered up the great charter of King Henry the Sixth, and obtained a new one from her Majesty. In this the liberty of the Fair was omitted, which the new Master sold to the City of London. The avarice of this man, it appears, was so great, that it was with some difficulty that the revenues of the Hospital were preserved from his grasp.[e]

A Ground Plan of St. Katharine's Hospital, as it stood in 1824, will be found in Mr. Nichols's Account.

In the month of November 1825, the materials of the Church and buildings appertaining to the Hospital, were advertised for sale, preparatory to carrying into effect the provisions of an Act of Parliament for digging and constructing some Docks for Shipping upon the Site, to be called St. Katharine's Docks. The Church and Hospital were in consequence levelled before the close of the year; the Charity itself being removed to a new Site, and a fresh building, after the ancient taste, planned for it in the Regent's Park.

The Queens Consort of England are by law the perpetual Patronesses; this Hospital being considered as part of their dower. They nominate, pleno jure, the Masters, Brothers, and Sisters; and may increase or lessen their number, remove them, alter any statutes, or make new ones at pleasure, their power being unlimited. When there is no Queen Consort, the Queen Dowager has the right of appointing; and when there is neither Consort nor Dowager Queen, the King nominates the Master, Brothers, &c.

The other bears the royal arms of France and England, crowned, supported by the Lion and the Dragon. Beneath the Arms are these words: SC̄A . KATERINA IVXTE TVRIN LONDON. The Legend round, S . REGIAE MAIESTATS . AD . CAVSAS . ECCLESI. The Matrix of this last Seal was some years ago in the possession of the late James Bindley, Esq.

Hospital of St. Alexius, at Exeter.

DUGDALE has left this Hospital entirely unnoticed, and Tanner mentions it only as "an Almshouse, called the Cell of St. Alexis, afterwards St. Burien's." The only Account of it extant is in Mr. Oliver's History of Exeter; and we shall take the liberty to transcribe it, and place it here, immediately before the Account of St. John's Hospital, which Dugdale does notice, because in the century after its foundation it was annexed to that House.

"We learn from various authentic documents," Mr. Oliver says, "that in the 12th year of King Henry II. A.D. 1170, whilst Bartholomew was Bishop of Exeter, a charitable citizen, William Prodom, founded an Hospital in honour of St. Alexius, behind the Priory of St. Nicholas.[a] The spot of ground was called Irlesbury, and was first granted by Walter, the abbot of Battle, and confirmed by his successor the abbat Odo. The foundation was never intended, as Izaack maintained it was, to be 'a place of and for two monks;' but was designed, as the deed declares, for the benefit of poor distressed objects, 'ad utilitatem pauperum'. . . . . 'dedit pauperibus egenis.' The assertion of the abovementioned author has misled Mr. Stevens, the Continuator of Dugdale's Monasticon, who has placed this establishment among the Benedictine Monasteries.

"In the Archives of the Exeter Corporation, an Impression of the SEAL is still preserved: it is circular, and though smaller than the subsequent one of St. John's Hospital, yet resembles it in form. The inscription is SIGIL . HOSPITAL . RETRO . SCM . NICOLAV'."

The rents, rights, fee, and customs of St. Alexius's were afterwards transferred to St. John's Hospital, about or soon after the year 1230.

St. John's Hospital, at Exeter.

IN the Episcopate of William Briwer or Brewer about the year just stated, two brothers, merchants of Exeter, says Mr. Oliver, named Gilbert and John, the sons of Walter Long, generously employed their worldly substance in founding an Hospital for poor men and women in honour of St. John the Baptist near the East gate of the City. Their deed of Gift is here printed.

The Act of incorporation of this House with the Hospital of St. Alexius, was confirmed by King Henry the Third; soon after which, JOHN LONG, one of the founders, entered the fraternity, and was appointed the Superior.

"In the beginning, the Mayor and Citizens of Exeter had the patronage of the foundation; but in the year 1244, they exchanged it with the Bishop for the patronage of the Leper's Hospital, beyond the South gate. From this period until the Dissolution of the Establishment, the Bishops watched over its interests with paternal solicitude, and uniformly appointed some respectable ecclesiastic (generally a dignitary of the Cathedral) to be the protector and guardian of its temporalities. At one time we find Bishop Bronescombe gave the Hospital the sum of one hundred marks, with which the purchase of Rokesdon in Heavitree-parish, and of Kynewardesburgh in the manor of Clyst, from Sir John Mansel, was effected. Bishop Quivill procured, in 1287, the annexation to it of seven acres of land lying beyond the East gate. Bishop Bytton, too, is recorded as a liberal benefactor. He repaired, if not rebuilt, their Infirmary and common hall, and made statutes for the Community. But of all the friends and benefactors of the establishment, Bishop Grandison unquestionably takes the lead. At his promotion to the See, he found the Hospital reduced to the most deplorable state, the only inmates being one priest and a few invalids. By his zeal and charity, he mas enabled to increase the number of its clergy from one to five, one of whom he appointed to be Master or Prior. He fixed the number of the poor on the foundation to twelve; he provided for the board and education of eight children, and for a Master to teach them grammar; and he enjoined on the Clergymen the observance of the Rule of St. Augustine. In his benevolent exertions, he was ably assisted by Sir Philip de Columbariis, who granted to the Hospital the patronage and advowson of the parish church of Holne; as also by the benefactions of the Martyn family, and by the charitable donations of the faithful. Nor should it ever be forgotten, that Bishop Stapledon had intended to appropriate the living of Yarnscombe towards the foundation of the Grammar School; but that he was prevented by his untimely death, from carrying his pious design into execution. Bishop Grandison accomplished his intention; and he also rebuilt the Hospital-Church, and granted to it the privilege of a cemetery. His successors continued to support and befriend this useful establishment. The public followed their example; and perhaps there is not a single Will extant in the episcopal Registers, which has not left it some mark of remembrance."[b]

Hospital of St. Paul, otherwise called Norman's Spitel, in Norwich.

BISHOP TANNER says, "the Hospital of St. Paul (called Normanspitel from Norman the monk,[a] the first procurator or master of it) was begun by the Prior and Convent of Norwich in the latter part of the time of bishop Herbert,[b] and finished in the time of bishop Ebrard,[c] viz. between the years 1121 and 1145. Herein were at first both men and women, but in latter times only women, fourteen in number, seven called Whole-Sisters, and seven Half-Sisters of the Normans, under the government of a Master or Warden appointed by the monks of the Cathe-

Dugdale has printed the several charters relating to this Hospital and contained in a Confirmation from John Bishop of Norwich.

[e] It was in this Master's time that the state of the Hospital was changed, there being no more men admitted, but fourteen women only: seven of these, as has been already mentioned, were Whole-Sisters, that is, eat, drank, and lodged in the Hospital; the other seven, who were called Half-Sisters, attended divine service with the others, but were not lodged or clothed in the Hospital. And now there was a Wardeness or Woman-Guardian, who was subject to the Master only, and appointed by him; and henceforward his duty was only to take care of the Church and oversee the Hospital. After the Dissolution the Hospital and its revenues were assigned to the Dean and Chapter of Norwich, who made the Church a donative. The Hospital was converted into a Bridewell "for lazy beggars" in 1571, and was used as such until 1785, being granted to the Corporation of the City.

The Church is still parochial, and in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Norwich. The Hospital site and part of the revenues belong to the Corporation: they are applied in support of St. Andrew's Bridewell. The Remains of the Spital are leased by the City, and are now occupied as a malt office.[a]

Hospital of St. Giles, at Norwich.

BLOMFIELD is full in his Account of the History of this Hospital. It was founded by Walter Suffield alias Calthorp, bishop of Norwich in 1249, upon land which he had purchased for that purpose in Holm Street, and upon which he built the Hospital and its Church: the latter of which was afterwards made parochial and called St. Helen's Church.

The foundation deed, dated on the calends of October in the above year, endowed this Hospital with certain mesuages in Norwich, and the churches of Calthorp, Cossey, Cringleford, and South Walsham St. Mary, all of which were appropriated to the maintenance of four chaplains, and all the poor and decrepit chaplains in Norwich diocese who had not wherewith to maintain themselves; and also to support thirteen poor people to be lodged there, and have one Meal every day. By another Deed, 1253, the founder appropriated to this Hospital the Church of Senges or Seething in Norfolk. The whole of this Endowment was confirmed by Bull from Pope Alexander the Fourth, in 1256, when the Statutes of the Hospital were signed by the Bishop. The Injunctions of the Statutes are minutely detailed by Blomfield.[a]

The Founder died in 1257, bequeathing by will to this Hospital three hundred marks in money, the gilt cup which was the blessed St. Edmund's, and the remainder of the lease of the land of William Manduyt in Therling, with the two ploughs there.[b]

William de Donewyco, or Dunwich, a burgess of Norwich, was also a great benefactor to this Hospital, and was considered as a co-founder with the Bishop: numerous other persons in Norwich and its neighbourhood likewise contributed donations of lands and rents. Blomfield has enumerated their names and gifts.[c]

The Benefactors after the bishop's death were still more numerous. Bishop Walton, Sir John de Vaux, knt., Thomas Lord Dacre in 1409, and John Duke of Norfolk in 1424, were among the most considerable.

In 1535, upon the Exchange of the lands and revenues of the Bishoprick of Norwich, the Advowson of St. Giles's Hospital came to the King, being then valued at 102*l.* 15*s.* 2½*d.* in gross income, and at 90*l.* 12*s.* clear, per annum.[d] Blomfield says that Henry the Eighth designed to have dissolved this Hospital and to have granted it to the City; but the intention was not carried into execution during VIth it was surrendered, and in the same year granted by the King to the Mayor, citizens, and commonalty of Norwich, who in 1821 maintained in it a Master, fifty-three aged men, forty-nine women, and six nurses. Taylor says it was at that time proposed to add ten or twelve persons more to the foundation. An additional Building has recently been erected for twenty-four other indigent and aged persons. The revenues at this time were valued at 142*l.* 19*s.* 2½*d.* Queen Elizabeth, in 1571, augmented its revenues, which by a statement of Accompts in Blomfield made in 1728 amounted to 1395*l.* 17*s.* 9½*d.* Taylor, in his Index Monasticus, fol. 1821, informs us that its present revenues are said to amount to about 4000*l.*

The Masters, from this time, were called Curates or Chaplains of the Parishioners of St. Helen's in Holm-street and of the Poor of God's House, and their appointment vested in the Mayor and Aldermen, who upon vacancies present the Successor under their Common Seal to the Bishop of Norwich to be by him licensed.

Taylor, in his Index Monasticus, p. 55, describes the SEAL of this Hospital. Small, oblong; at the bottom is a croslet pateè and a mitre, to show it was founded by a bishop and was dependent on the church. In the middle is St. Giles, seated, and a hind with its head in his lap; and a branch or tree sprouting from before him; alluding to one of the legends of that Saint. The inscription is ✠ S. MAG'RI . & . FR'M . HOSPITAL . SC̄I . EGIDII . DE . NORWIC.[a]

The Surrender of this Hospital dated 6 March 1 Edw. VIth is in the Augmentation Office.[b]

Taylor informs us that the Choir of the Collegiate Church of this Hospital is still used for the women's wards, part of the nave and aisles for the men's wards. The beautiful carved and gilded roof of the Choir is in excellent preservation.

thirteen poor persons who daily dined here, four lay brothers, several poor chaplains, and divers travellers and pilgrims. By the return in 1534 it appears that alms were annually distributed to 180 poor persons on the feast of the Annunciation, and twenty poor persons daily prayed for the soul of bishop Goldwell here.

Hospital of Welle, in Yorkshire.

THIS Hospital, situated in the deanry of Catterick and archdeaconry of Richmond, was founded in 1342 by Ralph de Neville, for a Master, two priests, and twenty-four poor brothers and sisters; it was dedicated to St. Michael, and was endowed with lands held under the Honor of Richmond. The more minute particulars of its foundation will be seen in the ensuing Instruments.[a] Gale, in his Appendix to the Register of the Honor of Richmond, p. 283, has printed the Valor of its rents and possessions in the 26th Hen. VIII., at which time the total revenue appears to have amounted to 42*l.* 12*s.* 3*d.*; the clear income to no more than 20*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.* Stevens says that in the 37th Hen. VIII. its possessions were valued at 65*l.* 5*s.* 7*d.* per annum. In the 26th Hen. VIII. the brothers and sisters amounted to fourteen only. Dr. Whitaker, in his History of Richmondshire, vol. ii. pp. 85, 86, has given an Account of the State of this Hospital at the Dissolution. It appears that John the last Lord Latimer, in 1542, attached a Grammar School to this foundation for the term of forty years.

An Almshouse or Hospital endowed by the Cecil family, at present occupies the Site of this Hospital.

Hospital called Elsing Spital, near Cripplegate, London.

"BENEATH the Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury," says Stow, "have ye Gay spur Lane, which runneth down to London Wall; in which lane, at the north end thereof, was of old time a House of Nuns, which House being in great decay, William Elsing, mercer, in the year of Christ 1329, 3 Edw. III., began in place thereof the foundation of an Hospital for Sustentation of a hundred blind Men,[a] towards the erection whereof he gave his two houses in the parish of St. Alphage and our blessed Lady in Aldermanbury. This House was after called a Priory, or Hospital of St. Mary the Virgin, founded in the year 1332, by William Elsing, for Canons Regular: the which William became the first Prior thereof himself. Robert Elsing, son of the said William, gave to the said Hospital 12*l*. per ann. for the finding of three Priests."[b]

Newcourt says, "By the charter of endowment of this Hospital, bearing date 1st June, 1331, it appears that it was founded, not only by the King's licence, but also by the consent of Stephen Gravesend, bishop of London, and of the dean and chapter of St. Paul's, who being patrons of the Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury, did, with the good-will, authority, and consent of the said bishop, appropriate the same to the said Hospital; but so that the said dean and chapter should ever after have the right of patronage in both, "tanquam in beneficiis unitis et consolidatis.' Also that the said dean and chapter should prefer the Custos and Rector of the said Hospital and parish church, and the first and second priests (there being to be but four, who should celebrate divine offices in the said Hospital), and the said William Elsing, or his assigns, the other two. And that the said Custos and Rector in his institution to the said Hospital and Church, should have the care of the souls both of the said Hospital and parish committed to him, and should swear fealty to the said dean and chapter, and should pay them yearly the ancient pension of one mark, due from the said Church, and a pension of a half mark, imposed upon the said Hospital by the founder, in token of subjection to the church of St. Paul; and that the said Custos and Rector should find one fit parish-priest, to be approved by the said dean and chapter, to serve the cure of the said parish church; and that no Custos should be preferred to the said Hospital, or admitted to the said Church, unless he was in priest's orders, and have no other benefice.[c]

"Thus this Hospital at first consisted of a Custos or Rector, and four Secular Priests, besides the poor miserable people; but afterwards, viz. non. Nov. 1340, the founder, with the consent of the said dean and chapter, obtained of Ralph Stratford, then bishop of London, licence to change the said Secular Priests into CANONS REGULAR of the order of St. Augustine, and to be governed by a Prior, which was accordingly done; and the said bishop added also one more to the number of canons, making them five in all, and ordered them to be under the government of the Prior; which Prior, upon every vacancy, was, by licence first had from the dean and chapter, to be chosen by the said Canons, and being chosen, to be presented to the said dean and chapter, to be approved of by them, and then they were to present him to the bishop, who was to confirm him. The said bishop did then declare, That he did not hereby intend to derogate from the rights of the archdeacon of London in any thing.[d]

"After this, William Grey, bishop of London, patron and ordinary of a College at Thele in Hertfordshire (but in the diocese of London), consisting of a Master and Four chaplains, in regard the Masters of the said College, through their carelessness and negligence, had suffered much of the lands belonging to the same to be lost, obtained licence of King Henry VI., dated at Westminster, Mar. 14, 1430, in the 9th year of his reign, to transfer the remaining possessions of the said College to this Priory of Elsing-Spittle (among which were the Churches of Thele and Aldham), to find two Canons-Regular in the said Church of Thele, and three in the said Priory, to pray for the souls of the founders of the said College, which was accordingly done."[a]

[a] Tanner says it was a College for a warden, four secular priests, and two clerks; and an Hospital furnished for the lodging of one hundred.

William Sayer was installed 10th Feb. 1454.[f]

John Wannel resigned Dec. 1532.

Richard Pottyn confirmed 13 Jan. 1533.[g]

This Priory was surrendered May 11, 22 Hen. VIII. and then valued in the clear at 193*l.* 15*s.* 6½*d.*[h]

Here were nine Canons before the Dissolution. The Site was granted, in the 31st of Henry the VIIIth, to Sir John Williams, knt., Master of the King's Jewels.

The Cottonian Charters, now in the British Museum, contain several important Instruments relating to this Foundation, two of which follow the present Account.

Among the Cottonian Rolls and Charters, XIII. 10. contains an Inventory of the Goods of this Hospital, taken 7th Oct. 1448, 27th Hen. VIth,[i] and the instrument XI. 68. a Survey of the condition of the Hospital in the 1st Edw. IVth.[k]

There is a Paper Survey of this House, temp. Hen. VIII., in the Augmentation Office.[l]

Stow, speaking of the ancient Church of the Hospital, says, "The principal Isle of this Church towards the North was pulled down, and a frame of four Houses set up in place: the other part, from the steeple upward, was converted into a parish church of St. Alphage, and the parish church which stood near unto the wall of the City by Cripplesgate was pulled down, and the plot thereof made a carpenter's yearde, with saw-pits. The Hospital itself, the Prior and Canon's House, with other lodgings, were made a dwelling-house; the church-yeard is a garden plot, and a fayre gallery on the cloyster: the lodgings for the poor are translated into stabling for horses." He adds, "In the year 1541, Sir John Williams, Master of the King's jewels, dwelling in this house, on Christmas even at night, about seven of the clocke, a great fire began in the gallery thereof, which burned so sore that the flame fiering the whole House and consuming it, was seene all the Cittie over, and was hardlie quenched, whereby manie of the King's jewels were burned, and more imbeseld, as was said. Sir Rowland Heyward, mayor, dwelled in this Spittle, and was buried there, 1593."

In the place where Elsing Spital and Priory formerly stood, a College has since arisen for the Clergy of the City and suburbs of London, incorporated in the 6th Cha. I., at the charge of Dr. Thomas White, vicar of St. Dunstan's in the West, and canon residentiary of St. Paul's; who also here founded and endowed Alms-houses for twenty poor persons. This College was incorporated by the name of the "President and Fellows of the College of Sion within the City of London." It possesses an extensive Library.

The Deed of Foundation, Cart. antiq. Cotton. v. 2., has two SEALS appendant. One, small and oval, has a representation of the crucifixion, surrounded by the words, JESVS . NAZARENVS . REX . JVDEORVM. This, as appears from the last paragraph of the Instrument, was the Seal of William Elsyng.

Stephani Dei gratiâ Lond. episcopi, dicto hospitali appropriârunt et consolidârunt; ita quod dicti decanus et capitulum jus patronatus habeant simul in utrisque tanquam in beneficiis unitis et consolidatis imperpetuum.

Et dicti decanus et capitulum, de communi consensu et assensu unitum, utriusque beneficii tanquam unius et ut veri patroni utriusque sic unitorum, custodem et rectorem, suo jure liberè præficiant; et similiter duos presbyteros; viz. primum et secundum de numero quatuor presbyterorum in dicto hospitali præficiendorum perpetuo celebraturorum divina, in hospitali prædicto, ad nominationem canonicorum stagiariorum dictæ ecclesiæ Londonensis, secundùm morem ecclesiæ memoratæ; salvo michi Willielmo prædicto, nominatione de tertio et quarto presbyteris, in dicto hospitali præficiendis, ad nominationem meam; aliorum verò alterius, quos vel quem ad hæc duxero assignandos, per dictos decanum et capitulum, juxta nominationem hujusmodi admittendos ad perpetuas cantarias prædictas. Dictus verò custos hospitalis prædicti, et rector ecclesiæ beatæ Mariæ de Aldermanbury, ipsa beneficia sic simul tenens unita, in admissione et institutione suâ, curam animarum parochiæ dictæ ecclesiæ beatæ Mariæ, et personarum in dicto hospitali degentium, et in fraternitatem dictæ domus admissarum, à prædictis decano et capitulo recipiat; et juret ad sancta Dei evangelia fidelitatem dictis decano et capitulo ecclesiæ S. Pauli, et quod pensionem antiquam, unius marcæ, ipsis decano et capitulo à dictâ ecclesiâ debitam; et insuper de dicto hospitali dimidiam marcam, per me fundatorem dicti hospitalis, in hac ejus fundatione impositam et concessam, in signum subjectionis ecclesiæ S. Pauli, in quatuor terminis compotorum capituli consuetis, camerario dicti capituli, in ecclesiâ S. Pauli, supradicta, fideliter persolvet annuatim imperpetuum. Quodque negotiis et utilitati dictorum ecclesiæ et hospitalis duntaxat intendet, dum officium gesserit rectoris ecclesiæ, et custodis hospitalis prædictorum.

Teneatur insuper idem rector et custos, ultra numerum quatuor presbyterorum dicti collegii, invenire in dictâ ecclesiâ de Aldermannebury, unum idoneum presbyterum parochialem, per dictos decanum et capitulum approbandum, qui dictæ ecclesiæ debitè deserviat; et parochianis sacramenta et sacramentalia ministret, secundùm antiquum morem ecclesiæ supradictæ. Et provideat idem rector et custos per omnia, ne dicta ecclesia vel ejus parochiani, debito regimine et obsequiis aliqualiter defraudentur.

Nullus insuper in custodem præficiatur, vel presbyterum dicti hospitalis admittatur, nisi sit in ordine sacerdotali constitutus; nec qui beneficium ecclesiasticum, vel officium quodcunque alibi optinet, nisi illud beneficium et officium actualiter dimiserit ante sui admissionem, et per resignationem expressam. Et si talis admissus in dicto hospitali, alibi, beneficium aliquod vel officium assequitur, in futurum; tunc jus suum, quod habet in hospitali prædicto, amittat ipso facto, et absque aliquo processu judiciario amoveatur penitùs per dictos decanum et capitulum à dicto hospitali, tam ex officio, quam ad prosecutionem vel insinuationem reliquorum de collegio, qui majorem partem dicti collegii faciunt.

Et juxta modum et formam concessionis meæ prædictæ præfectionis custodis et duorum presbyterorum, viz. primi et secundi; dicti decanus et capitulum conjunctim die confectionis præsentium, dominum Johannem de Cateloigne capellanum, nullum aliud beneficium habentem, in dicti hospitalis custodem præfecerunt, et juramento, in modum ordinationis istius, ab eodem primitùs recepto, ipsum in corporalem possessionem dictæ custodiæ mittendum fore, demandârunt statim ibidem. Et magister Willielmus de Reynham canonicus stadiarius dictæ ecclesiæ S. Pauli, dominum Adam de Turri capellanum, loco primi capellani; et magister Thomas de Segrave canonicus stadiarius dictæ ecclesiæ S. Pauli, dominum Willielmum de S. Albano capellanum, loco secundi capellani, dictis decano et capitulo nominârunt, tunc ibidem secundùm cursum suum et modum superiùs nominatum.

Et ego Willielmus de Elsyngge prædictus, juxta modum reservationis nominationum duorum presbyterorum, viz. tertii et quarti pro me factæ dicti decano et capitulo, nomino dominum Nicholaum de Croddeworth, pro tertio, et dominum Johannem de Redynggs pro quarto capellano, in perpetuos presbyteros celebraturos et ministraturos in hospitali supradicto. Quos quidem presbyteros omnes, tam per dictos canonicos stadiarios, quam per me nominatos, præfati, decanus et capitulum statim admiserunt; recepto ab eis juramento, juxta formam ordinationis istius, ipsos et eorum quemlibet, in possessionem corporalem suæ cantariæ induci demandaverunt. Et ad warantizandum et defendendum dicta collegium et hospitale, et ejus tenementa decano et capitulo, custodi et presbyteris supradictis, et eorum successoribus quibuscunque contra omnes, me et hæredes meos obligo per præsentes. Regula autem, secundùm quam dicti custos, presbyteri ac miserabiles personæ dicti hospitalis debent conversari in hospitali prædicto de consensu venerabilis patris, domini Lond. episcopi; ac dominorum decani et capituli supradictorum, canonicè juxta votum meum ordinata præsentibus est expressa, sub hac formâ.

Præfectus quidem ad officium custodis dicti hosp. in admissione suâ ad officium hujusmodi, et institutione, corporale, coram admittente et instituente, præstet juramentum, quod bona hospitalis beatæ Mariæ antedicta, ad ipsum spectantia et providentia, benè et fideliter administrabit, et eadem ad utilitatem ejusdem hospitalis et ministrorum ejusdem, totaliter convertet; et quod singulis annis de hujusmodi bonis, coram duobus dicti hospitalis presbyteris, ad hoc deputatis, rationem et compotum fideliter reddet, et quatenus, si possibile erit, die redditionis hujusmodi compoti, reliquum in medium conferret; et has ordinationes, quoad se observabit, et ab aliis presbyteris faciet observari.

Præterea volo et dispono, quod infra triduum, postquam hujusmodi nominatus, est ad officium custodis dicti hospitalis admissus, et in eodem institutus, ac in corporalem possessionem ejusdem hospitalis tanquam ejus custos, inductus omnes presbyteri dicti hospitalis, cum novo custode conveniant, et infra scriptam archam communem appareant, et contenta in eadem videant et notent, et tunc ibidem clavis dictæ archæ, quam prior custos gessit, novo custodi tradatur.

Præfectus quidem et admissus ad cantariam et locum presbyteri in hospitali prædicto, literas admissionis suæ hujusmodi custodi dicti hospitalis teneatur ostendere: et antequam aliquod emolumentum in dicto hospitali, recipiat, corporale præstet juramentum, quod has ordinationes observabit, et quatenus, si possibile fuerit, faciet observari. Utilitatem hospitalis beatæ Mariæ prædicti, et ministrorum ejusdem, quatenus si possibile erit, procurabit, Cum interrogatus fuerit super negotiis dicti hospitalis, melius consilium, quod noverit, dabit. Secreta consilia dictum hospitale et ejus ministros tangentia, non revelabit, et quod custodi dicti hospitalis, qui pro tempore fuerit, in licitis et honestis obediens erit. Ad hæc, tam dicti custos, quàm presbyteri jurabunt, tactis sacrosanctis, quod cum quamprimum alibi beneficium vel officium aliquod fuerit assecutus, extunc à dicto hospitali pacificè recedet, ac jus et possessionem quæ habuit in dicto hospitali vel ejus custodiâ, aut cantariis, infra triduum omnino dimittet, absque quolibet processu et sine lite. Et volo, quod in absentiâ custodis dicti hospitalis, hujusmodi admissus ad cantariam et locum in hospitali prædicto, coram seniori presbytero, qui in dicto hospitali inventus fuerit, literas, sic ut præmittitur, ostendat, et juret vel offerat se paratum ad jurandum, ne hujusmodi admissus, per dolum et fraudem desiderio suo frustretur.

Item super modo dicendi et celebrandi divina in hospitali prædicto, sustentatione, vitâ, et conversatione dictorum custodum et presbyterorum, et successorum eorundem quorumcunque omnibus futuris temporibus observandis et tenendis, ac hospitalitate in dicto hospitali tenenda et habenda; volo, et quatenus ad me pertinet in præsenti meâ donatione et concessione dispono, ordino, et constituo, quod dicti custos et presbyteri et eorum successores quicunque, omni tempore futuro, singulis diebus feriatis, in aurorâ diei, pulsatis primitùs campanis, in capella dicti hospitalis conveniant; et superpelliciis et aumuciis induti, Matutinas ad horas canonicas, juxta institutionem ecclesiasticam de die tractatim punctando, et apertâ pronunciatione dicant, et diebus dominicis et festivis, prout diei sollempnitas requirit, decantent; singlique successivè chorum regant suis septimanis, solo custode excepto, quem propter labores quos passurus est exteriùs, quoad hoc specialiter exonero.

Quibus quidem Matutinis et horis, sicut præmittitur, decantatis, custos et presbyteri dicti hospitalis, cui non sunt ad alium servicium vel officium divinum diei ordinati, Missas suas successivè, in capellâ dicti hospitalis, vel alibi, prout per custodem fuerit ordinatum, celebrent: et postea tam custos, quàm cæteri omnes presbyteri dicti hospitalis, infirmos ejusdem hospitalis in eodem jacentes et languentes, ante horam tertiam cujuslibet diei, visitent, et eorum indigentiam et dolores, quatenus sciunt et commodè poterint, relevent et mitigent, et procurent relevari et mitigari. Et subsequenter, circa horam tertiam cujuslibet diei, pulsatis primitùs campanis, conveniant custos et omnes alii presbyteri dicti hospitalis, in capellâ ejusdem hospitalis, et superpelliciis et aumuciis induti, Missam de die, prout diei sollempnitas requirit, decantent; ita quod hujusmodi Missa singulis diebus, circiter horam nonam, finiatur: et ea finitâ, custos et omnes presbyteri dicti hospitalis, domum unam ad refectionem eorundem in dicto hospitali ordinatam, ingrediantur, et juxta facultates et ordinationem custodis dicti hospitalis, uniformiter inibi simul reficiantur.

Conveniant etiam custos et presbyteri omnes dicti hospitalis, singulis diebus ante horam Vesperarum, in capellâ supradictâ, et servicium mortuorum pro omnibus fidelibus defunctis, devotè et apertâ pronuntiatione, dicant, ebdomodario inchoante et chorum regente. Quo dicto, simul omnes, superpelliciis et aumuciis induti, Vesperas et Completorium, de die, prout diei sollempnitas requirit, decantent. Et postea, simul omnes dictam domum refectionis, vel saltem illi qui voluerint, ad cenandum ingrediantur, et ibidem sic ut præmittitur reficiantur; et extunc intra clausuram dicti hospitalis incedant, deambulent, et infirmos ejusdem hospitalis, sic ut præmittitur, visitent.

Custos etiam dicti hospitalis omni die provideat, quod unus de ipsius hospitalis presbyteris, in aurora cujuslibet diei sequentis, in capellâ dicti hospitalis, missam celebret; et sic, expleto divino officio, simul omnes, tam custos, quàm cæteri presbyteri dicti hospitalis, in unâ domo indivisâ, et absque parietis mediæ interjectione, intra ipsum hospitale, noctis tempore decumbent. Supradictum autem modum dicendi et celebrandi divina, illis diebus et temporibus duntaxat volo observari, quibus institutiones, et consuetudo ecclesiæ, aliud tempus, seu alium modum, ad divinum officium celebrandum non disponunt.

Volo etiam, et præsenti meæ donationi adjiciendo dispono, ordino, et constituo, quod dominus Johannes de Cateloigne, deputatus custos hospitalis beatæ Mariæ prædicti, et ejus successores ejusdem hospitalis custodes, qui pro tempore erunt, omnes redditus et proventus ad ipsum hospitale, qualitercunque spectantes, et provenientes, suis successivis temporibus petant, exigant, et recipiant; et pro omnibus oneribus dicto hospitali incumbentibus singulis respondeant: et se, et quatuor compresbyteros suos dicti hospitalis, duos clericos familiares necessarios pro se et compresbyteris suis prædictis, prout in præsenti meâ cartâ et ordinatione continetur, alant et sustentent.

Et specialiter provideat quilibet custos dicti hospitalis, quod singulis annis, quatuor compresbyteri sui dicti hospitalis, infra tres dies post festum Nativitatis beatæ Mariæ virginis, de panno ejusdem coloris vestiantur; ita viz. quod quilibet de quatuor presbyteris dicti hospitalis habeat unam robam integram, viz. tunicam, supertunicam, longum tabardum et capucium cum furrurâ ad supertunicam et capucium; ita quod pretium robæ cum furruris ad supertunicam et capucium, non excedat xxx. sol. Et quia oportebit custodem dicti hospitalis plus cæteris compresbyteris ejusdem hospitalis laborare, et eorum ordinariis suis, et aliis, tam pro se, quàm pro negotiis dicti hospitalis se frequenter representare; volo quod quilibet custos dicti hospitalis, de panno similis coloris, cum panno compresbyterorum ejusdem hospitalis, tempore supradicto, tunicam, supertunicam, longum tabardum, et capucium cum furruris ad supertunicam et capucium habeat; ita quod pretium hujusmodi indumentorum, pro custode, non excedat xl. sol.

Et quia ministri dicti hospitalis sunt, et eorum successores erunt seculares; et hujusmodi personæ non solum prætendunt se indigere vestibus laneis, sed et lineis et aliis necessariis; volo, ordino, et constituo, quod custos hospitalis prædicti, singulis annis in octabis Paschæ, cuilibet de quatuor compresbyteris suis ejusdem hospitalis, pro lineis, calciaturâ, et aliis necessariis sibi emendis, solvat xx. sol. Et ipse custos, pro consimilibus causis xl. sol. sibi retineat et applicet.

Et ut omnis suspitio sinistra à custode dicti hospitalis absit, et ipse hillari famâ jocundetur, volo, ordino, et constituo, quod custos dicti hospitslis singulis annis, die proximâ post festum S. Martini in yeme, in hospitali prædicto, coram duobus senioribus, viz. qui indiuturnius in ipso hospitali steterint, ipsius hospitalis compresbyteris, de omnibus redditibus et proventibus, pro anno pro quo compotum reddidit, spectantibus et provenientibus, et de denariis dicto hospitali collatis, rationem et compotum reddat; et aliqua, quatenus poterit, et præcipuè donaria, in medium conferat et exhibeat. Quæ quidem collata et exhibita, ab omnibus presbyteris dicti hospitalis videantur et notentur: et si qua pecunia et pretiosa donaria tunc in medium conferantur et exhibeantur, vel eorum aliquod exhibeatur; ipsum et ipsa in archâ communi dictorum custodis et presbyterorum, in ipso hospitali fideliter reponantur seu reponuntur. Quæ quidem archa communis, duabus seruris, diversæ fabricæ claudatur; et unius seruræ clavem, custos, et alterius senior presbyter dicti hospitalis custodiat.

Huic autem donationi meæ adjicio, et adjiciendo ordino et dispono, quod si dominus Johannes de Cateloigne, prædictus custos dicti hospitalis, vel ejus in eodem officio successor quiscunque, seu etiam aliquis de dicti hospitalis presbyteris supradictis, vel eorum successoribus, decesserit, vel officium custodis, et statum et titulum quos in dicto hospitali habuit dimiserit; tunc, viz. cum dictus custos officium dimiserit, senior presbyter dicti hospitalis, qui priùs clavem dictæ archæ communis non habuit, clavem custodis, officium custodis qualitercunque, sic, ut præmittitur, dimittentis, recipiat, et usque ad adventum novi custodis dicti hospitalis, ad ipsum hospitale custodiat.

Circa hospitalitatem autem in prædicto hospitali, omnibus futuris temporibus habendam et tenendam, quatenus possum; et pro eo præcipuè, quod in civitate Londonensi, et extra eandem, à multis retro temporibus, vidi multos cæcos, pauperes, et miserabiles personas, per vicos et plateas, absque omni receptaculo devagantes; qui frequenter, ex erogatione elemosynarum fidelium sufficienter alimenta receperunt; qui tamen locum in quo capita sua de die vel de nocte reclinarent, non habuerunt; volo, ordino, et dispono, et etiam huic donationi meæ adjicio, quod Johannes Gurneys, et Robertus de Teukesbury cæci pauperes, et cæteri triginta pauperes et miserabiles personæ utriusque sexus, quos ad dictum hospitale fundandum assumpsi, et quibus in hospitali prædicto cameras distinctas, straturam et apparatum lectorum assignavi eisdem cameris, straturâ, et apparatu lectorum die et nocte, prout indiguerint, in hospitali prædicto perpetuo utantur, et eadem perpetuo occupent. Et idem volo et dispono observari de sexaginta et octo miserabilibus personis utriusque sexus, ultra triginta duos in dicto hospitali, juxta modum infrascriptum in futurum assumendis. Et cum aliquis de dictis miserabilibus personis, ad dictum hospitale, sic ut præmittitur, assumptis, vel futuris temporibus assumendis, fuerit mortuus et sepultus, custos dicti hospitalis, qui pro tempore fuerit, alium cæcum pauperem, vel aliam miserabilem personam infra quindecem dies eligat, et assumat; et cameram, straturam, et apparatum lecti, quibus pauper defunctus utebatur, pauperi, de novo assumpto, perpetuò utenda et occupanda assignet.

Et quia compassio super penuriâ tam presbyterorum cæcorum, et pauperum; quam etiam presbyterorum paraliticorum, pauperum providentium, præ cæteris compassionibus, quas super penuriâ et indigentiâ miserabilium personarum gero, viscera mea graviùs torquentur; volo et dispono, et quatenus possum conscientias omnium custodum dicti hospitalis, qui pro tempore erunt, sub obtestatione divini judicii, onero; quod in electione et assumptione pauperum et miserabilium personarum, ad cameras et aisiamenta prædicta, in hospitali prædicto constructa et parata; et futuris temporibus in eodem hospitali construenda et paranda, cæcos presbyteros pauperes, et presbyteros pauperes paraliticos videntes, si qui se offerant, ad cameras et cætera aisiamenta dicti hospitalis pro pauperibus, in eodem hospitali depositis, cum vacaverint, quibuscunque cæteris miserabilibus personis præferant et assumant: Et quod, post hujusmodi presbyteros, honestæ personæ priùs habundantes, et senio debilitatæ, vel casu fortuito depaupertatæ, cæteris præferantur in præmissis.

Cum autem vestes ad straturam et apparatum lectorum miserabilium personarum dicti hospitalis fuerint laceratæ, vel consumptæ, custos ipsius hospitalis eas refici faciat, seu novas adinveniat; et pro hujusmodi onere futuris temporibus supportando, teneatur quilibet pauper in dicto hospitali decedens, omnia bona quæ habet in dicto hospitali, vel extrà, dicto hospitali dimittere.

Eligat etiam et assumat custos dicti hospitalis, qui pro tempore fuerit, de consilio presbyterorum et assensu, duos clericos, qui sciant et possint, saltem competenter legere et cantare; et eos, sic ut præmittitur, alat: qui quidem clerici singulis diebus in capellâ dicti hospitalis, Matutinis, et quibuscunqne divinis officiis, intersint, et ad jussum custodis et presbyteri ebdomodarii dicti hospitalis, legant et cantent; et ipsis custodi et presbyteris in capellâ et extra eandem, in dicto hospitali ministrent: Et super mercede hujusmodi duobus clericis, pro servicio suo, solvendâ, custos dicti hospitalis cum eisdem ita conveniat, quod eisdem clericis, pro mercede unius anni, ultra quadraginta solidos non solvat, et eosdem ab hospitali prædicto amoveat, et alios assumat, quotiens et quando sibi et aliis presbyteris videbitur expedire.

Nullusque presbyter vel clericus dicti hospitalis, ad ministrandum capellæ ipsius hospitalis deputatus, extra civitatem non recedant, moraturi, absque licentiâ custodis dicti hospitalis, vel ipsius locum tenentis, petitâ et obtentâ, distanter se absentet, vel exeat. Disponant etiam presbyteri dicti hospitalis, quod aliquis eorundem præsens sit, in admissione et institutione cujuscunque custodis ejusdem hospitalis, procuret et audiat juramentum custodis ejusdem hospitalis superiùs ascriptum præstari; et quod quilibet presbyter dicti hospitalis, hujusmodi meæ ordinationis habeat copiam, ut nullus eorum ab hac ordinatione recedat, sicuti eorum quilibet periculum perjurii velit evitare.

In quorum omnium testimonium; et ut ea quæ præmittuntur, de nostrâ plenâ voluntate et certâ scientiâ omnibus appareat evidenter processisse, huic scripto sigillo dicti Willielmi signato; nos officialis Londonens. ad rogatum et supplicationem dicti Willielmi, sigillum officii nostri duximus apponendum. Hiis testibus, Johanne de Polteney tunc majore civitatis Londoniæ; Roberto de Ely, et Thoma Horwald, tunc vicecomitibus ejusdem civitatis, Nicholao de Farudone, Ricardo de Betoigne, Johanne de Grantham, Symone de Swanlond, Henrico Darcy, Reginaldo de Conductu, aldermannis, &c. NUM. II.

[Cart. Antiq. Cotton. Mus. Brit. v. 10.]

RADULPHUS permissione divinâ, episcopus Londonensis, universis sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis præsentes literas inspecturis, salutem in Domino sempiternam. Nobis nuper devotus filius Willielmus de Elsinge, civis Lond. fundator hospitalis beatæ Mariæ, infra Crepulgate Lond. suâ petitione monstravit, quod licèt ipse Willielmus dictum hospitale, in honorem Dei et beatæ Mariæ virginis, de licentiâ speciali bonæ memoriæ domini Stephani, dudum Londoniensis episcopi; concurrente assensu venerabilium virorum dominorum decani et capituli ecclesiæ S. Pauli Lond. ex piâ devotione fundâsset; et ipsum hospitale redditibus et possessionibus competenter dotâsset, pro sustentatione unius magistri et quatuor secularium sacerdotum, per quos statuit et ordinavit dictus fundator, debere Deo in dicto hospitali futuris temporibus deserviri; experientia tamen edoctus, metuens multis de causis, quod, propter laxiorem vitam sacerdotum hujusmodi secularem, cui quamplures instant indies occasiones mundanæ, ut verisimiliter dicti hospitalis cultus divinus in sua ordinata sollicitudine diminui, redditus etiam et possessiones poterunt depravari, occasionibus hujusmodi, ac faciliùs dissipari, et in usus prophanos converti, propter successionem diversorum patronorum, dicto Willielmo succedentium, qui dicti hospitalis exactam curam, forsitan, non haberent.

Piè igitur proponens dicto hospitali de majori securitate consulere, diligenterque pluribus protractatis, præpendens quod si sub habitu regulari in dicto hospitali constituerentur perpetui servitores, status ipsius hospitalis securior, et Deo acceptior perpetuò haberetur; quodque canonici regulares, sub habitu et regula sancti Augustini degentes, vitam communem tenent, nec laxis vel artis nimis observationibus astringuntur, nobis humiliter supplicare curavit, ut consideratione habita præmissorum; ac favore religionis debitæ ponderato, dictum collegium sacerdotum secularium, in ordinem canonicorum regularium commutare, juxta juris exigentiam dignaremur; ita viz. quod hujusmodi canonici, per priorem electivum, secundùm regulam S. Augustini perpetuò gubernentur; quodque ad minus numerus quinque canonicorum inibi statuatur. Et quotiens ipsum hospitale vacare contigerit, decanus et capitulum ecclesiæ nostræ Lond. qui pro tempore fuerint, tanquam patroni dicti hospitalis, custodiam habeant, ipsius vacatione durante: Et quod canonici dicti hospitalis, ipso vacante, à dictis decano et capitulo petant, ut à patronis licentiam eligendi, et post celebratam electionem, electum eisdem decano et capitulo, in domo eorum capitulari præsentent, ut ad eorum petitionem suum assensum electioni præbeant et electo; ipsumque electum nobis et successoribus nostris, sine more dispendio, præfati decanus et capitulum, per literas suas præsentent, per nos et successores nostros canonicè confirmandum.

Nos igitur attendentes, quod secundùm facultates ecclesiæ in eadem statui debeat numerus clericorum de fructibus et proventibus dicti hospitalis, ac aliis in dictâ petitione contentis, inquisitionem fieri fecimus diligentem; per quam invenimus dictum hospitale pro sustentatione quinque canonicorum, ac etiam hospitalitatis onere, per dictum fundatorem inibi ordinatæ, congruè supportando sufficienter esse dotatum. Invenimus etiam ad præfatos decanum et capitulum, tam per dicti fundatoris concessionem et donationem, quam per bonæ memoriæ domini Stephani supradicti confirmationem, exindè secutam, quas inspici fecimus, jus patronatus dicti hospitalis pertinuisse, pertinereque debere.

Undè nos dictæ petitioni, quam piam et devotam fore prospicimus, cum religionem inducat, pio annuentes affectu; tractatu cum nostro capitulo super præmissis præhabito diligenti; ad petitionem dicti fundatoris, ac præfatorum decani et capituli, secularium sacerdotum hospitalis prædicti, expresso consensu et assensu vocatis in eâ parte vocandis, et juris ordine in hac parte requisito, in omnibus observato; ad honorem Dei, et suæ matris Virginis gloriosæ, ac religionis augmentum, præfatum collegium secularium sacerdotum, in ordinem canonicorum regularium omnino, ex certâ scientiâ, immutamus; et pro utilitate et firmitate majori dicti hospitalis, penitùs innovamus; dictumque collegium secularium sacerdotum omnino subducimus per præsentes; ac ipsos canonicos, de cætero, per priorem electivum, sub ordine, regula, et observantia sancti Augustini, ac habitu canonicorum regularium ejusdem ordinis statuimus et ordinamus, debere imperpetuum gubernari. Sintque in dicto hospitali quinque canonici, ad minus; quem numerum in eodem haberi volumus pro statuto. Ita tamen, quod cum bona temporalia præfati hospitalis, largitione fidelium, vel alio quovismodo receperint incrementa; pro modo facultatum in eodem hospitali, canonicorum numerus augeatur.

Volumus etiam, quod quotiens ipsum hospitale vacare contigerit in futurum, præfati decanus et capitulum, qui pro tempore fuerint, tanquam patroni dicti hospitalis custodiam ejusdem habeant, ipsius vacatione durante. Quodque canonici dicti hospitalis, ipso vacante à dictis decano et capitulo petant, ut à patronis licentiam eligendi, et post celebratam electionem, electum eisdem decano et capitulo, in domo eorum capitulari præsentent, ut ad eorum petitionem suum assensum electioni præbeant, et electo; ipsumque electum nobis et successoribus nostris, sine more dispendio, præfati decanus et capitulum per literas suas præsentent, per nos et successores nostros canonicè confirmandum, subjectione dicti hospitalis ac nostris, jure et dignitate episcopalibus, nobis et successoribus nostris, in omnibus aliis semper salvis. Juri verò archidiaconali domini archidiaconi Londonensis, eidem et suo archidiaconatui, in personis, locis, et rebus, dictum hospitale contingentibus, tam de jure, quam de consuetudine debitis ac etiam consuetis, per præmissas mutationem, innovationem, subductionem et ordinationem, non intendimus in aliquo derogare.

Cætera insuper omnia et singula in fundatione dicti hospitalis, per præfatum ipsius fundatorem; necnon per bonæ memoriæ dominum Stephanum nostrum prædecessorem prædictum, ordinata, disposita, et statuta; tam quoad hospitalitatem pauperum, et ipsorum numerum, quàm quoad alia; dum tamen præsentibus contraria non existant, volumus in suo robore permanere; ac has nostras immutationem, subductionem, et ordinationes, præcipimus futuris temporibus inviolabiliter observari. In cujus rei testimonium sigillum nostrum fecimus hiis apponi. Data apud Hadham, quarto nonas Novembris anno Domini M.CCC.XL. et consecrationis nostræ, primo.

Hospital in the Parish of Berking Church, near the Tower, usually called Denton's Hospital.

THE History of this Hospital is told in very few words. Robert de Denton a clergyman, in the year 1369, obtained the King's licence to found an Hospital in honor of the Virgin Mary within the parish of Berkyng Chirche (now Allhallow's Barking) for such poor priests or other poor men and women as should be distracted, till they got well again and recovered their wits and memory. This good design could not then be brought to bear; so that the said Mr. Denton was obliged to change his mind, and give the mesuages he designed for this Hospital to St. Catherine near the Tower toward the maintenance of a chantry priest.[a]

Hospital of Hithe, in Kent.

IN the royal licence which Dugdale has printed for the foundation of this Hospital, the King allows a foundation to be endowed for fourteen poor persons. Thorpe, in his Registrum Roffense, has printed the foundation Charter itself, whence it appears that Hamo bishop of Rochester and the commonality of the Port of Hithe jointly founded this Hospital, and dedicated it to St. Andrew, for the maintenance of ten poor men and women, who were to receive, besides clothing, four pence weekly.[a]

Hospital at Holbeche, in Lincolnshire.

THIS Hospital was founded about the year 1351 by Sir John de Kirketon, Knt., for a Warden and fifteen poor persons, to the honour of All Saints. It was situated near the parish Church of Holbeche, where the Chequer Inn stood in Dr. Stukeley's time, if it is not yet standing.

The only Record which Tanner refers to concerning it is, "Pat. 16 Ric. II. p. 1, m. 11."

Dugdale has here given the licence for its foundation, and a confirmation, as it should seem, of several smaller portions of rent and lands given after the first endowment.

Ordinatio ejusdem per Willielmum de Grenefeud Angliæ Cancellarium.

[Pat. 21 Ric. II. p. 3, m. 25. per Inspex.]

OMNIBUS sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis, ad quorum notitiam pervenerit hæc scriptura, Willielmus de Grenefeud, Angliæ cancellarius, salutem in omnium Salvatore. Fragilitatis humanæ conditio ejus prævaricatione pestiferâ per quem, attestante apostolo, mors intravit in mundum, in præsentis valle miseriæ constituta, donis innocentiæ, proh dolor, destituitur, versuti hostis variis temptamentis exponitur, multisque viciorum generibus implicatur. Sanè, inter cætera miserationis divinæ remedia, ad instar Samaritani, alligantis misericorditer illius vulnera seminini, qui incidit in latrones, Dei et hominum mediator, tam nephando lapsui, suæ nobilis creaturæ compaciens, eam censuit erigendam et reparandam fore potissimè per opera pietatis. Quod utique nonnulli catholici principes et alii Christi fideles, sanctâ devotione pensantes, in plerisque mundi partibus pia loca pauperum alimoniis perpetua deputata, de suis bonis et possessionibus temporalibus construere decreverunt, quorum dispositiones salubres, ipsis re verâ divinitùs inspiratas, pio convenit amplecti desiderio, summæque solicitudinis studio confovere: et si processu temporis, hominum succrescente maliciâ perperàm fuerint immunitæ, aut occasione qualibet in deterius commutatæ, congruit eas ad primevæ fundationis statum debitum reducere, et quatinus possibile fuerit in melius reformare.

Quia igitur hospitale S. Nicholai, juxta Eborum, de advocatione sive patronatu serenissimi principis domini Edwardi regis Angliæ illustris, et à progenitoribus suis Angliæ regibus in præfatos usus fundatum esse dinoscitur, intuitu pietatis, nos Willielmus cancellarius prædictus, sicut nostro incumbebat officio, xi. kal. Julii, anno Domini MCCC.iii. ad hospitale prædictum, visitationis causâ personaliter declinantes, quia quædam ibidem invenimus immutata, contra ordinationem primariam fundatoris, et contra regulam antiquitùs institutam; quædam etiam indecentia et dampnosa ipsi domui per custodum negligentiam et incuriam, contra justiciam minùs rationabiliter usurpata; ad laudem omnipotentis Dei, et reformationem salubrem status et conditionum hospitalis prædicti, aliqua jura convenientia, ipsique domui utilia et honesta, ad perpetuam memoriam in formâ, quæ sequitur, duximus ordinanda.

Inprimis, quod omnes fratres et sorores admissi et admittendi, de cetero, magistro seu custodi, qui pro tempore fuerit, obedientiam debitam, quam tenentur in admissione suâ, juxtà antiquam ipsius domus regulam profiteri, firmiter observent, et exhibeant in licitis et honestis. Item quod consuetum habitum et tonsuram, in admissione suâ recipiant, et eos deferant continuè dum vixerint in humanis. Item quod inviolabiliter observent suo perpetuo continentiæ puritatem. Item quod omnes, tam fratres, quàm sorores, Matutinis Missæ, et cæteris horis canonicis, adversâ corporis valetudine, et alio quolibet impedimento legitimo cessante, interesse studeant omni die, exceptis duntaxat illis, qui ad opera ruralia aut alia extrinseca ipsius domus negotia fuerint deputati. Singuli verò fratres laici et sorores orationem dominicam, cum salutatione angelicâ, durante divino obsequio, cum devotione debitâ, totiens iterent et multiplicent, quociens eis Dominus inspiraverit, et hoc facere poterint bono modo, pro statu incolumi universalis ecclesiæ, domini regis et regni, Deum omnipotentem sedulis precibus exorantes.

Item, quod fratres cum sororibus, sub eisdem tecto et clausurâ non cohabitent, nec simul conveniant horis indebitis, aut in locis secretis, undè valeat, non immeritò, sinistra suspicio exoriri. Item quod nullus fratrum vel sororum, post admissionem suam, negotiationem, sive mercimonium excercere præsumat, ne contra doctrinam apostoli divinæ militiæ deputati, negotiis secularibus implicentur.

Item quod omnes et singuli fratres et sorores, post præsentem ordinationem admittendi, bona omnia suis usibus, dum adhuc viverent, qualitercunque retenta, ipsi domui in morte, modis omnibus approprient et dimittant. Item quod sigillum commune dictæ domus, sub sigillis magistri cujusdam, alterius capellani, et unius fratris laici, quem ad hoc cæteri fratres et sorores elegerint, et sub tribus clavibus in dictorum trium custodia remanentibus, in loco tuto et secreto, de cætero conservetur. Nec tres custodes prædicti sigillum ipsum aperiant, nisi primò vocatis ad hoc omnibus fratribus et sororibus, qui voluerint et potuerint commodò interesse. Prædictis etiam tribus committitur custodia pixidis, in quâ oblationes quæcunque venientes ad ipsam ecclesiam reponuntur; de quâ similiter tres claves habeant, et ipsam, quociens oportunum esse viderint, in præsentiâ fratrum et sororum aperiant; et de oblationibus inventis distributionem debitam faciant, prout antea fieri consuevit; aut si opus fuerit unanimi fratrum et sororum consensu, eas aliter in utilitatem domus convertere non omittant. Item, quod magister sive custos, aut ejus locum tenens, qui pro tempore fuerit, etiam omnium fratrum et sororum interveniente consensu, nullum de cætero in domo ipsâ fratrem aut sororem recipiat de ipsius domus elemosynis sustentandum, ex conventione vel ex pacto, pro certâ pecuniæ quantitate, seu aliâ re temporali quacunque, propter metum simoniacæ pravitatis; et ne diminuatur, aut in usus illicitos convertatur elemosina pauperum, debilium, et infirmorum alimoniis instituta, contra dispositionem piissimam fundatoris. Si qui tamen purè, spontè, et absolutè, sine pactione vel conventione qualibet inducente, periculum simoniæ, de bonis suis mobilibus vel immobilibus, quicquam ipsi domui conferre voluerint in ingressu, magistro, fratribus, et sororibus, sine omni conscientiæ scrupulo, liceat recipere sic oblata.

Item quod nullæ fiant de cætero alienationes perpetuæ, aut etiam diutinæ dimissiones ad firmam rerum immobilium hospitalis prædicti; seu quæcunque onerosæ obligationes, vel dampnosæ ipsi domui, nobis et successoribus nostris Angliæ cancellariis inconsultis. Item quod de cætero nullus in dictâ domo magister sive custos perpetuus præficiatur, nisi qui gubernationi et custodiæ sibi commissæ, per seipsum jugiter intendere valeat et intendat, cum ad hujusmodi officium sive regimen ejus industria specialiter sit electa. Et sacro eloquio attestante, super custodiam suam stare debeat, quisquis fuerit hujusmodi custodiæ deputatus. Quod si ex causa aliqua necessaria vel probabili, magistrum ipsum, seu custodem abesse contigerit aliquandiu, illum quem de fratribus dictæ domus magis ad hoc sufficientem et idoneum esse noverit, quamdiu absens fuerit, loco suo substituere non omittat. Nec quemquam ad præfatam custodiam, sive absens sive præsens fuerit, sub se substituere præsumat, qui alterius professionis et habitus extiterit, cum in uno et eodem officio dispar non debeat esse professio, juxta canonica instituta, nec secundùm summi legis-latoris sententiam, in bove et asino sit arandum. Item quod tres fratres magis in temporalibus circumspecti, ad gerenda sub magistro vel ejus locum tenente, tam intrinseca quàm extrinseca ipsius domus negotia, magistri, fratrum, et sororum consensu unanimi eligantur, in quorum præsentia præstent ad sancta Dei evangelia juramentum, unus viz. terræ blada omnia, quæ receperit in grangiis, custodi granarii, per taliam fideliter et integrè liberabit; et alius quod omnia blada quæ sibi ad granarium fuerint liberata, redditus, pensiones, et alios quoscunque exitus et proventus, quos vel quæ ipsum recipere contigerit, benè et fideliter, juxta datam sibi à Domino circumspectionem et industriam dispensabit; et certiùs quod circa opera ruralia, culturas terrarum, collectionem fructuum, et custodiam animalium efficacem et diligentem operam adhibebit; præmissis siquidem administratoribus, seu negotiorum gestoribus decedentibus, vel adversa corporis valetudine impeditis, aut etiam in culpa sive negligentia notabili, vel aliàs minus idoneis deprehensis, alii, qui inter ipsos fratres magis invenientur idonei, in locum eorum substituantur, in forma superiùs annotata.

TANNER, from the licence here printed by Dugdale, calls this an Hospital for sick and weak persons, founded about 17 Ric. II. by John Chaundeler the elder, to the honor of the Holy Trinity. He adds, "I do not find any valuation of the revenues of this House, 26 Hen. VIII." But it is yet in being, under the care of the Mayor and Common Council of Salisbury, who yearly appoint one of their own body to be Master, and put in twelve poor men, who have every one twenty-two pence per week, besides several other advantages.[a]

Hospital called Knolles College and Almshouse, at Pontefract, in Yorkshire.

ABOUT A.D. 1385, Sir Robert Knolles, knight (then a citizen of London, and afterward a noted warrior in France,) and Constance his wife, founded here[a] a College or Chantry for a Master and six[b] Chaplains or Fellows: and an Almshouse adjoining to it, for a Master, two Chaplains, and thirteen poor men and women.[c]

The licence to found, and the Charter of foundation, both dated in the eighth of Richard the Second, follow this Account; from which we learn that, in proportion to the time, the founders liberally endowed both the College and the Hospital. The Master was to have twenty marks per annum for his maintenance; to each of the Chaplains ten marks: and 34l. 14*s.* 4½*d.* per annum among the thirteen poor, with some smaller payments to each in addition, upon certain principal feasts.

Tanner says, this Foundation, or the Chapel at least of it, was dedicated to the Holy Trinity.

Leland says that the revenue, according to the endowment of the Founders, amounted to 180*l.* per annum. Tanner adds that it seems to have received but little addition from others, for in the 26th Hen. VIIIth the whole income was valued at 198*l.* 10*s.* per annum, and 182*l.* 14*s.* 5*d.* clear of reprises: and anno 37 Hen. VIII. at 200*l.* 5*s.* 0¾*d.*[d]

On October 23d, 1563, Queen Elizabeth, by grant under seal of the Duchy of Lancaster, after reciting that her Commissioners appointed for the continuance of Grammar schools, fresh appeals, &c. had appointed to continue One Almshouse, called Knolles's Almshouse, in which were maintained fifteen aged people, whereof two of the said were servants to the rest, and that every one of the said fifteen should have yearly 2*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, did authorize the mayor and chief burgesses of Pontefract for the time being, from time to time, to place aged, impotent, and needy meet persons in the same Almshouse, according to the ancient foundation thereof, as should be thought most expedient.

Later bequests, which have nothing to do with the monastic foundation, have made this Hospital a valuable institution for the Poor.

Boothroyd says, a considerable part of the buildings of this Hospital still remain. The place called the galleries was the residence of the Master and six fellows: the chapel has become a cattle-shed: what are now called the brother and sister houses, appear to have been the Hospital.

Boothroyd says, The SEAL of this Hospital had, for its device, a Rose and the Image of the Holy Trinity.

Hospital at Okeham, in Rutlandshire.

KING RICHARD the Second granted his licence in the 22d year of his reign, A.D. 1398, to William Dalby of Extone, merchant of the Staple of Calais, to found this Hospital for two Chaplains (one to be Warden or Master) and twelve poor men. It was dedicated to St. John the Evangelist and St. Anne, and was valued at 12*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.* per annum.[a]

Tanner says, this House is yet in being, but greatly decayed, impoverished, and different from its first institution.[h]

Beside this House, the Harleian MS. 6960. p. 110. mentions a Free Chapel within the Castle of Okeham.

No SEAL of this Hospital has been seen by the present Editors.

Hospital at Donnington, near Newbury, in Berkshire.

THE Accounts of the founder of this Hospital are different. Leland, in his Itinerary, vol. ii. p. 33, ascribes it to Thomas Chaucer, Esq. who died in 1434; Dugdale in the Baronage, vol. ii. p. 189, to William de la Pole duke of Suffolk, who had married Chaucer's heir.[a] But the Patent Roll bears testimony of an earlier date. We are there informed that Sir Richard Abberbury, knight, obtained licence of King Richard the Second, in the 16th year of his reign, to build an Hospital for the support of certain poor persons upon his manor of Donnington, endowing it with two acres of land upon the said manor, and with the manor of Yifteley, or Ifley, near Oxford: one of the poor persons to be placed over the rest, and to be called the "Minister of God of the poor house at Donnington."

After the Dissolution the estates of this Hospital continued in the Crown till about the year 1570, when, upon the petition of Charles Earl of Nottingham, Lord Admiral, they were restored to the Hospital, which from that time was called "The Hospital of Queen Elizabeth at Donnington, in time past begun to be founded by Sir Richard Abberbury, knight, and by Charles Howard Earl of Nottingham perfected and consummated." A Copy of the Lord Admiral's Statutes for this Hospital may be seen in the Bodleian Library at Oxford.[b] The present patron of the Hospital is Henry Winchcombe Howard Hartley, Esq., as descended by female heirs from the Packers, who appear to have purchased Donnington Castle, and with it the patronage of the Hospital of the second Earl of Nottingham.[c]

Tanner says that the twelve poor men who now inhabit this Hospital, exclusive of the Master, have each 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* per annum, and every seventh year, when the lease is renewed, almost double.

St. Catherine's, commonly called Thorneton's Hospital.

AT NEWCASTLE UPON TYNE.

IN the time of King Henry the Fourth, says Tanner, Roger Thornton, merchant, built in a place called the Sandhill here, an Hospital to the honour of St. Catherine, which was to consist of a Warden (being a priest), nine poor brethren, and four poor women sisters. The licence for the foundation of this Hospital is dated 20th June, 1412,[d] when the edifice appears to have been completed. King Henry the Sixth, in 1424, granted a licence to the same Roger Thornton to assign a portion of ten messuages and ten tofts with their appurtenances in Newcastle upon Tyne of the value of seven pounds per annum in further aid of his foundation.[a] By his will, also, dated on the Thursday before Christmas Day, 1429, the founder bequeathed to this place, which he styles, "The Maison Dieu of St. Katherine of my foundation, for their enorments, twenty pounds."[b] In 1531 the Patronage of this foundation was in Sir John Lumley, Knt.[c]

[a] It is singular also that the Valor Ecclesiasticus of the 26 Hen. VIII. should have this entry, "Prioratus De Donyngton ex fundatione DUCIS SUFFOLCIÆ in Temporalibus et Spiritualibus per annum 19*l.* 13*s.* 10*d.*"

[b] They are printed in the Bibl. Top. Brit. vol. iv. p. 37.

[d] See the Instrument presently.

In the 26th Hen. VIIIth the revenue of this Hospital amounted in the total to 12*l.* 3*s.* 10*d.* per annum. The clear income to 8*l.* 0*s.* 1*d.*[d]

Mr. Brand has printed an Account of the State of this House, extracted from the Certificate of Colleges and Chanries in Northumberland and Durham, 37 Hen. VIII. A. D 1546.[e]

Brand says, this Place appears to have continued in the family of the founder after its dissolution: for Sir Richard Lumley of Lumley-castle in the county of Durham, knight, a descendant of Thornton by the female line, conveyed June 1st, 1624, to the Mayor and Burgesses of Newcastle upon Tyne, and their successors for ever, "all that building of stone covered with lead, standing near to the water of Tyne, and to the East part of the town's chamber of the said town of Newcastle, being about sixteen yards in length, and anciently part of and belonging to the Hospital of St. Catherine the Virgin, commonly called Thornton's Hospital." An annual rent appears to have been reserved.[f]

Hospital at Ewelme, in Oxfordshire.

TANNER'S Account of this Hospital is the clearest we can give. He says, "William de la Pole earl of Suffolk and Alice his wife obtained the King's licence, A.D. 1437, to found an Almshouse or Hospital here for two Chaplains and thirteen poor men, and to endow the same with lands to the yearly value of one hundred marks. It was called God's House, and valued, 26th Hen. VIII. at 20*l.* per annum. It is still in being, but the mastership is annexed to the King's Professor of Physic in the University of Oxford."

The Statutes of this Hospital are printed by Hearne at the end of John of Whethamstede's Chronicle.[g]

St. John's Hospital at Sherbourn, in Dorsetshire.

LELAND, speaking of Sherbourn, says, "There was an Hospital begon by devotion of good people in Shirburn anno 4 Hen. VI., and the King is taken for Founder of it. It stondeth yet."[a]

The Licence for foundation, however, printed by Dugdale, bears date the 15th of Henry VIth, and states that the King of his especial grace, had given permission to Robert Nevile bishop of Salisbury, Humphry Stafford knight, Margaret Goghe, John Fauntleroy, and John Baret, or any four, three, or two of them, to found to the honour of God, St. John Baptist, and St. John the Evangelist, a perpetual Almshouse in Sherbourn, for twenty brethren, twenty poor impotent men, four poor women, and a chaplain; a Master to be chosen from among the twenty brethren; and all to be governed by such rules and ordinances as the above persons, or a quorum of them, might establish.

Richard Beauchamp, bishop of Salisbury, is believed to have been a benefactor to this House. Robert Derby, knt., occurs as Master in the 17th Henry VIIIth.

Hospital of Bocking, in Essex.

THE chief that we learn of this Hospital is from the Licence for foundation, whence it appears that, about the year 1478, John Doreward, of the parish of Bocking, founded a Hospital at the corner of Church Lane, upon two acres of his own ground, and named it Maison de Dieu; to be a habitation of seven poor people, one whereof was to be called Prepositus Villæ de Bocking, and to have the government of the said House and poor for ever: the endowment proposed for it was the manor of Tendryng, with a rent of ten pounds yearly out of other lands and tenements of the said John Doreward in Essex.

The House continues to the present time a habitation for seven poor people.

Hospital at Todyngton, in Bedfordshire.

IN the year 1443, say the Messrs. Lysons, a Hospital was founded at Todyngton by Sir John Broughton for three poor men and a Master or Chaplain, who were to pray for the souls of Thomas Peyvre and Margaret his wife, and their ancestors. Sir JOHN MILNER was the last Master of this Hospital, which was dissolved by the lord warden Cheney, without the king's licence. It was seized in consequence by the Crown, but afterwards granted to the Cheney family. There are now no traces of the Hospital; the stones were used in building the market-house which has lately been pulled down. Its site was near the spot which is called Conger-hill.[a] This Hospital was dedicated to St. John Baptist.[b]

Hospital of St. Nicholas, near Richmond,

IN YORKSHIRE.

IN the Pipe Roll of the 18th of Henry the Second, says Tanner, is mention of the Nuns of Richmond, and Mr. Gale tells us, that the Nunnery was situate at the West end of the Grey Friers. Nothing more of these Religious have I yet met with.

In the same Pipe Roll of 18 Hen. II., he adds, is an account of five seams of bread corn given to the sick persons in the Hospital of Richmond, which was that near this town, dedicated to St. Nicholas, of the King's foundation and patronage.[a] But it being much decayed both in buildings and revenues, it was well repaired and augmented about the year 1448, by William Ascogh, one of the Judges of the Common Pleas, who had formerly been a Master of this Hospital, which continued till the Dissolution, and had revenues valued, 26 Hen. VIIIth, at 13*l.* 12*s.* in the whole, and 10*l.* per annum clearly.

Trinity Hospital at Dartford, in Kent.

KING HENRY the Sixth, in his 31st year, granted licence to John Bamburgh, William Rothole, Roger Jones, and Thomas Boost, or the survivor of them, to found here an Hospital for five poor persons in honour of the Holy Trinity, to be called "The Trinitees Almes House in Dartford," of which the Vicar and Churchwardens of Dartford and their successors were to be governors for ever; and who were likewise to be a corporate body, with a power of acquiring lands and tenements in mortmain, to the value of 20*l.* yearly, beyond reprises, for the support as well of the said five poor persons, as other deeds of charity and piety, according to the direction of the said John Bamburgh, William Rothele, &c.

Hasted says, this Hospital seems afterwards to have been used as a Spital House for Lepers; for in a Rental of the manor of Temples, anno 1 Hen. VIII. it is thus entered, "Of the Hospital, or of the governors of the Hospital for Lepers, called the Spytell-House in Dartford, viz. for their capital messuage where the aforesaid leprous inhabit and dwell, 12*d.*"[b]

Tanner's last Editor, however, corrects Hasted's error, and shews that the Spital-House for lepers dedicated to St. Mary Magdalen was both a different and an earlier foundation.

In the year 1553, there remained in charge paid out of the revenues of this Hospital 8*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*[c]

Hospital of St. Cross, near Winchester.

THE Hospital of St. Cross is still in being, and stands without the walls of Winchester toward the South West. It was founded, according to Leland, Speed, and Tanner, in 1132, by Henry de Blois bishop of Winchester, half-brother to King Stephen; the Anglia Sacra says in 1136. It was instituted to provide thirteen poor men who were otherwise unable to maintain themselves, with every necessary. They were required to reside in the House, and they were allowed, each of them daily, a loaf of good wheat bread of 3lb. 4oz. weight, and a gallon and a half of good small beer. They had also a pottage called Mortrel, made of milk and wastel-bread, a dish of flesh or fish, as the day should require, and a pittance for their dinner; likewise one dish for their supper. Besides these thirteen resident poor men, the foundation required that a hundred others, the most indigent that could be found in the city, but of good characters, should be provided every day with a loaf of bread, three quarts of small beer, and two messes for their dinner, in a hall appointed for this purpose, called from this circumstance, Hundred-mennes-hall; and as this was a very ample allowance, they were permitted to carry home with them whatever they did not consume on the spot. There was also a foundation for a Master with the salary of from seven to eight pounds annually, together with a steward, four chaplains, thirteen clerks, and seven choristers, the latter of whom were kept at school in the Hospital, besides servants.

The comptrollers and head administrators of this Charity were, by the appointment of De Blois, the Religious Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem, whose peculiar institute it was to take care of Hospitals, and who had a Preceptory at Baddesley near Lymington, in Hampshire. But the succeeding bishop, Richard Toclyve, disagreeing with these Religious concerning the administration of the Hospital, at the instance of the Sovereign K. Henry II. and upon certain conditions agreed upon between the parties, they resigned their charge into the hands of the prelate and his successors.[a] Toclyve, being bent upon the improvement of this Charity, provided that an additional hundred poor persons should be supported on it, besides those appointed by his predecessor. In the end, however, he seems to have built and founded an hospital of his own on the opposite side of the city.

The Institution of St. Cross, having been much injured and diverted from its original purpose, by certain Masters of it, in the fourteenth Century, it was with infinite pains, and many a tedious process, both in the spiritual and temporal Courts, brought back to its original perfection by the great Wykeham, who made use for this purpose of his worthy and able confidant John de Campden, having appointed him to the Mastership of it. In short, this establishment, as Lowth remarks, was put upon so good a footing, by Wykeham and Campden, that the succeeding bishop, Cardinal Beaufort, being resolved to imitate the conduct of his predecessors, in making some permanent charitable foundation, chose rather to enlarge this ancient institution, than to erect a new one. With this view he made an endowment for the maintenance of two more Priests, thirty-five additional poor men, residents in the House, and of three women being hospital Nuns to attend upon the sick brethren, in all forty persons. The intention of Beaufort was, that his charity should be applied chiefly to the relief of decayed gentlemen: and with this view, he appointed that the Hospital, which he nearly rebuilt, should be called "The Alms House of Noble poverty."

The present establishment of St. Cross is but the wreck of the two ancient Institutions, having been severely fleeced, though not quite destroyed, like so many other Hospitals, at the Reformation.[a] Instead of seventy residents, as well clergy as laity, who were here entirely supported, besides a hundred out-members who daily received their meat and drink, the Charity consists at present but of ten residing brethren and three out-pensioners, exclusive of one chaplain and the master. It is true, however, that certain doles of bread continue to be distributed to the poor of the neighbourhood, and what is perhaps the only vestige left in the Kingdom of the simplicity and hospitality of ancient times, the Porter is daily furnished with a certain quantity of good bread and beer, of which every traveller or other person whosoever that knocks at the lodge and calls for relief, is entitled to partake gratis.[b]

The Harl. MS. 1616 contains a small Register of the Hospital of St. Cross:[n] a thin volume in octavo.

St. Cross perhaps, as a Hospital, retains more of its original character than any similar foundation of ancient piety and charity now remaining in England. As an architectural structure it is also curious, and presents to the view nearly every gradation by which the Saxon and Norman styles were abandoned for the more rich and beautiful style which has been since known by the name of Gothic. Dr. Milner considered it as a Collection of architectural Essays with respect to the disposition and form, both of the essential parts and of the subordinate ornaments. See his History of Winchester, vol. ii. p. 146—154.

Stokefaston, or Stokenston Hospital, in Leicestershire.

OF this Hospital we have no intelligence beyond the Licence of foundation, from which we learn that leave was given to John de Boyvile, Esquire, to build here, near the Church of the Village, an Almshouse in honour of the blessed Virgin, for a chaplain and three poor persons, and to settle lands upon them in mortmain to the value of 10*l.* per annum. Tanner refers to one record only beside the Licence, "Pat. 8 Edw. IV. p. 2, m. 18."

Nichols, in his History of Leicestershire, vol. ii. P. ii. p. 816, informs us that John Boyville died in 1467, the year after the licence for the foundation was granted to him.

Hospital at Heytesbury, in Wiltshire.

SIR RICHARD HOARE has been ample in his account of this Foundation in his History of Modern Wiltshire. This charitable establishment, he says, was begun by Robert Lord Hungerford, and fully completed by his widow, the Lady Margaret Hungerford and Botreaux, who, pursuant to her husband's will, amortised the manors of Cheverell Burnell and Cheverell Hales, alias Cheverell Magna, for its endowment, about the year 1472. Its object was to maintain and provide for a Custos, who was to be a priest in full orders, twelve poor men and one woman; and I am happy, says Sir Richard, to add, that the benevolent design of the founders is still most strictly fulfilled.

The Lady Margaret obtained a Patent, dated 11 Edw. IV. not only confirming her endowment, but incorporating the Hospital, with power to hold lands, to plead and be impleaded, to use a Common Seal, and to do every other act of a body corporate, by the name of "The Custos, Poor Men, and Women, of the Hospital of Walter and Robert, late lords of Hungerford and Heytesbury."

The foundress, by her act, dated 12 Edw. IV. A.D. 1472, gave the right of appointing the Custos to the Chancellor of the Church of Sarum for the time being; and the right of visitation to the Dean and Chapter of the same Church, with power to examine the Accompts of the Custos annually, to make, alter, or amend the statutes, and to do whatever else appertains to the office of Visitor. And to the Lord of the Manor of Heytesbury she conceded the privilege of nominating the poor men and women; with this restriction only, that he should give the preference to old and meritorious servants of the House of Hungerford.

In this state it remained till the Reformation; when it being found that the Lady Margaret had directed the Custos and poor men to pray daily for the souls of the Founders, according to the practice of the times, it escheated to the Crown,[a] and was granted, with all its possessions, to Sir John Sharington.

During the reign of Queen Mary, and after the death of Sir John Sharington, we find Cardinal Pole interesting himself for the restoration of the Hospital to its original purpose; and to this interference of his, Sir Richard Hoare suggests, may possibly be attributed its present existence. In his Letters commissional to the Chancellor of Sarum as patron, dated 1557, he recites that no one should be appointed Custos unless he be in holy orders, unless he celebrate mass daily, take boys to teach grammar, and be bound to residence. That, nevertheless, the revenues of the said Hospital had lately been managed by laymen and dilapidated; and by his authority as Legate a latere he requires the said Chancellor to reinstate it, and appoint a Custos, according to the Statutes. This deed, which is in the Registry of Sarum, is followed by another from the Chancellor, reciting that the said Hospital was now vacant by the death of SIR JOHN SHARINGTON custos de facto sed non de jure, who had intruded himself tempore Schismatis, and appointing JOHN LYBBE, B.C.L., custos and schoolmaster.

At the accession of Queen Elizabeth, it may be presumed that the masses were prudently omitted, for she so far favoured the Hospital as to grant it a patent of exemption from the payment of tenths and first fruits, to which it had previously been subject. Still its tenure seems to have been uncertain, and its objects but partially fulfilled, till James the First, by charter of Inspeximus, dated 1610, at the request of the Earl of Northampton, fully restored it to all its ancient rights and privileges; since which time it has suffered no material change. A body of statutes was formed for it by the Dean and Chapter in 1633.

The Hospital possesses the two manors of Cheverell Burnell and Cheverell Hales, or Cheverell Magna, with twenty carectates of wood yearly from Southley, by endowment from the Lady Margaret Hungerford and Botreaux. Also certain closes of lands in Warminster, and four sacks of wheat yearly from lands in Upton Scudamore, given by another branch of the family. In addition to which, it has the manor of Chirton, which it was enabled to purchase some time since with surplus funds.

The present revenue of this hospital amounts to 299*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*[b]

Sir Richard Hoare has engraved Two SEALS of Heytesbury Hospital. 1. The ancient Seal which was used before 1633, having a cross in the area, and this Inscription round: ✠ SIGILL . DOMꝰ . ELIMO . WALT . & ROB .DD . HVNĠ . & DE . HEITSBERI. 2. The modern Seal, used from 1633 to the present time, presents in the area a female figure crowned, bearing a sword in her right hand, and the left resting on a St. Katherine's wheel: behind the figure a drapery is suspended, and above it the word ih's. Round is this Legend: ✠ SIGILLVM . HOSPITALIS . ✠ DE HAYTESBERI.[c]

Savoy Hospital, Westminster.

ON the Strand or verge of the Thames, near the spot where Waterloo Bridge now crosses the river, stood the Palace of Peter Earl of Savoy, upon the site of a part of which King Henry the Seventh, in 1505, began, and his executors finished an Hospital for a Master, four Chaplains, and a hundred poor people. The Patent of the 4th Hen. VIIIth makes the Master and Chaplains only the corporate body; and takes no notice of the alms-men. The House was founded to the honor of the blessed Jesus, the Virgin Mary, and St. John Baptist.

In the 26th Hen. VIIIth the revenue of this House amounted in the total to 567*l.* 16*s.* 3¾*d.*, in the clear to 529*l.* 5*s.* 7¾*d.*[a]

Stowe says, "This Hospital being valued to dispend 529*l.* 15*s.* &c. by year, was suppressed the tenth of June, the seventh of Edward the Sixth; the beds, bedding, and other furniture belonging thereunto, with seven hundred marks of the said lands by year, he gave to the citizens of London, with his House of Bridewell, to the furnishing thereof, to be a workhouse for the poor and idle persons, and towards the furnishing of the Hospital of St. Thomas, lately suppressed."

"This Hospital of Savoy," says Stowe, "was again new-founded, erected, corporated and endowed with lands by Queen Mary, the 3d of November, in the fourth year of her reign; one Jackson took possession, and was made Master thereof in the same month of November. The Ladies of the Court and Maydens of Honor (a thing not to be forgotten) stored the same of new with beds, bedding, and other furniture, in very ample manner, &c. and it was by Patent so confirmed at Westminster, the 9th of May, the 4th and 5th of Philip and Mary.

"The Chapel of this Hospital serveth now as a Parish Church to the Tenements thereof near adjoining, and others."[b]

The "Institutio et Statuta Hospitalis de Savoy, per executores Testamenti Regis Henrici VII. A°. 1523," are preserved in a small quarto volume in the Cottonian Manuscript Cleop. C. v.[c]

The style of the first foundation was, "The Hospital of King Henry the Seventh, late King of England, of the Savoy," and the Master and Chaplains thereof were called, "The Master and Chaplains of Henry the Seventh, late King of England, of the Savoy." They had licence to purchase lands to the value of five hundred marks beyond all reprisals.

William Bray, Esq., in a communication to the Society of Antiquaries, printed in the Archæologia, vol. xix. p. 147, says, that Queen Mary's consisted of a Master and Four Chaplains, and they remained under Queen Elizabeth and her successors. Thomas Thurland was Master in the early part of her reign, and is charged with having wasted the goods and estate which belonged to it.

From that time the Crown appointed the Master, the last of whom was Dr. Killigrew, by Charles II., in 1663. The Chaplains were proposed by the Master, and appointed by him and the other Chaplains. In 1661, the Chaplain's lodgings were burnt, and by an act 22, 23 Cha. II. 1670, power was given to lease them for forty years. In the Dutch war 1675, the Dormitory and Beds were taken for the sick and wounded soldiers and seamen, under a promise to restore them; but instead of that a Regiment of foot was put in, and the Crown has kept possession ever since. In the time of Charles II. it was much resorted to by the Popish Priests, and under James II. they set up a Popish school here. King William settled many Protestant families in it on their flying from the French persecution.

Under Charles II. there was a Visitation of this Hospital, and another under James II., but nothing was done on either. In 1700 there was another by the two Archbishops, several Bishops, Noblemen, and some of the Judges; a report was made, but King William dying, it took no effect. In 1702 it was again taken up by the Lord Keeper Wright as Visitor of all Hospitals of royal foundation; four Chaplains appeared, but there being no Master, the Lord Keeper removed them, and declared the Hospital dissolved, and ordered that it should be certified to the Exchequer, in order that the Queen might found another. A bill was brought into, and passed, the House of Commons, to incorporate one Master, one Chaplain, and twenty poor widows, but was rejected by the Lords, who declared that a Visitor was to correct abuses, not to dissolve.

The erecting of Waterloo Bridge has occasioned the destruction of great part of the buildings of the Hospital which remained: and of which numerous Prints have been published.

A fragment of the SEAL of this Hospital is engraved at the head of Mr. Bray's Communication in the Archæologia. Its device represented St. John Baptist holding the Lamb: with a Rose and Portcullis at the sides. MAGISTRI . ET . CAP. was all that remained of an Inscription.

Canons of the Holy Sepulchre, at Thetford.

THIS Monastery ought of right to have appeared among the earlier foundations of the present volume; previous to the Hospitals, and immediately after the account of the Canons of St. Sepulchre at Warwick.

The Canons of St. Sepulchre were settled at Thetford, according to Bishop Tanner, by William the third earl of Warren, in the reign of King Stephen, who gave him certain lands for that purpose at the west end of the town on the Suffolk side. The House was dedicated to the Holy Sepulchre.

The earl gave the canons of his new foundation a quadrigate of land in the fields adjoining, together with all the churches and tithes in Thetford, with other privileges, in as extensive a manner as he had received them from the King. He also gave a fair twice a year, on the Invention of the Holy Cross in May, and on the Exaltation of the same; his two brothers Ralph and Reginald de Warren being witnesses. In this charter, he recommends the defence of his new foundation to his brother palmers, he being then going on a crusade. Hameline earl of Warren, who married Isabel his daughter and heir, and died in 1202, confirmed the grant, and gave the Canons of Thetford another fair, to be held on the feast of the Holy Sepulchre. He also gave them 20*s.* rent, and the tenth of his mills called Picmilne, and Hindolfnes mill in Thetford. Subsequent earls of Warren were also benefactors. And King Henry the Second gave to the canons in perpetual alms sixty acres of land in his demesne of Thetford.

Martin, in his History of Thetford, has given a minute enumeration of all the benefactors to this House, for the smaller of which we shall refer to his work.[a]

In 1253, King Henry the Third granted to the canons free warren in all their lands in Norfolk and Sussex: and in 1272, lands in Thetford of 20*s.* per annum. John de Warren earl of Surrey in the 9th of Edward the Third settled the Maison Dieu at Thetford upon them. In 1364 the Prior had licence to take lands in mortmain in Bernham and Barningham, and Knatshill in Suffolk; and a similar licence in 1392 to purchase a tenement called Pleyford in Barnham, with its homages, services, rents, and fold-course for four hundred sheep, and seven score acres of arable land. In 1442 King Henry the Sixth granted leave that two hundred and forty acres of land, six hundred of pasture and heath, with liberty of four fold-courses in Croxton, and a messuage and garden in Thetford, might be settled to found a Chantry in this Church.

Martin has given the Copy of a Survey of the rents and other Possessions of this House, taken Dec. 20th, 1338, transcribed from a manuscript in the possession of the Duke of Norfolk: whence it appears that the total produce of the revenue of the canons, at that time, amounted to 62*l.* 9*s.*: yet it is singular that in the 26th Hen. VIII. the gross income of this Monastery is stated in the Valor Ecclesiasticus to have been no more than 49*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*: while the net revenue reached no higher than 39*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum.

of the Order of the Holy Sepulchre.

John Thetford, and five others, subscribed to the King's supremacy in 1534. The Prior only signed the surrender in 1538.

Martin says that King Henry the Eighth, August 20th, in his 29th year, by letters patent, then dated, with the consent of the duke of Norfolk and his heirs, who had a grant in 1540, demised to Sir Richard Fulmerston the House and Site of this Monastery, with all the lands, &c. thereto belonging. Tanner says that this House was granted to Fulmerston in the 32d Hen. VIII.

The present possessor of the Site of this House is the right hon. the Lord Petre.

No REGISTER of the Canons of the Holy Sepulchre at Thetford is at present known.[a]

The COMMON SEAL of this House was elliptical, two inches long. Blomfield considers it as representing our Saviour rising from the Sepulchre, bearing the Cross in the left hand, and the right elevated in the act of benediction; an angel on each side censing him. The legend, ✠ S. CAPITVLI . ECCLESIE . SC̄I . SEPVLCRI . THETFORD . ✠ Another Seal, used for leases, larger, represents our Saviour standing, with his right hand held up in the act of giving benediction, in his left a Cross patèe: on his right side a shield of the founder's Arms, and on the left a crescent and star, being the usual badge given to those who had served in the Holy Land, as William de Warren had. The Inscription partly defaced, ✠ S . I . . . . HEFORD . AD . CAVS.[b]

The ARMS of this House, those of Warren the founder, were checquy Or. and Az.

William of Worcester gives the dimensions of the Church of this House in his Itinerary.

Hospital of Kypier, or Kepire, near Durham.

THIS Hospital was first founded in 1112 by Ralph Flambard bishop of Durham, for a Master and Brethren, in honour of St. Giles. In the reign of Stephen, when Cumin contended for the bishoprick, his retainers burnt the Hospital and Church of St. Giles, and laid the whole burgh in ashes. In this state it remained till Hugh Pudsay bishop of Durham undertook its restoration. He confirmed his predecessor's foundation and endowment, rebuilt the edifices, augmented the House, and granted ordinances for its government; appointing, that the fraternity should consist of thirteen with a master, of which number six should be chaplains to officiate in the Chapel of the Hospital, one of whom was to be the confessor, and the others to hold domestic offices.[a]

Dugdale has printed the more important charters of this House from an Inspeximus of the 4th Ric. II.

It appears to have been so well endowed, that in the 26th Hen. VIIIth its gross income was rated at 186*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*: the clear revenue at 167*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* per annum.

It was surrendered Jan. 14th, 36th Hen. VIIIth, and granted in the same year to Sir William Paget, who 31st Jan. 37th Hen. VIIIth reconveyed it to the King in exchange for the College and manor of Burton upon Trent, and other lands.[b] Hutchinson has given an account of the possessors of Kepier after it became the property of the family of Heath, who are stated to have purchased it of the Cockburnes in the time of bishop Pilkington.[a]

In the Inquisition already mentioned, it appears that Robert Manfeld, or Mansfeld, to whom King Richard the Second had granted this Hospital, had withdrawn the maintenance of the Chaplain and lepers for three years together, neither sustaining a Chaplain nor lepers there: and that therefore the guardianship of the same was seized into the King's hands. But that King Henry the Fourth being better advised by persons learned in the law, had by his precept, dated Nov. 9th, commanded Helming Leget his escheator for Essex to set free the said Hospital without delay from the said seizure, if upon that occasion, and no other, it was in the King's hands.[c]

The principal endowment of this House consisted in the manor of Jenkin Maldon.

The Remains of Maldon Hospital, built of a mixture of stone, bricks, and tiles, were long ago converted into a barn.[d]

Hospitale S. Egidii juxta Maldon, in agro Essexiano.

De Statu ejusdem tempore Regis Henrici Quarti.

[Claus. 4 Hen. IV. m. 32.]

Rex dilecto sibi Helmingo Leget escaetori suo in com. Essex salutem. Cum per inquisitionem coram te, ex officio tuo captam, et in cancellariâ nostrâ retornatam, sit compertum, quod prædecessores nostri quondam reges Angliæ fundaverunt quoddam hospitale S. Egidii juxta Maldon imperpetuum duraturum; et quod custos sive magister dicti hospitalis, qui pro tempore fuerit, haberet in auxilium sustentationis burgensium leprosorum villæ prædictæ forisfacturas panis, serviciæ, carnis, et piscium non sanorum in eadem villâ de Maldon singulis vicibus forisfacienda: et quod quandocunque custos sive magister hospitalis prædicti cessaret vel deficeret, non sustentando non faciendo omnia præmissa, quod tunc idem hospitale, cum juribus et pertinentiis suis, ad ipsos reges et successores suos reges Angliæ deveniret, et reverteret, ad conferendum custodiam ejusdem hospitalis, seu ad ordinandum et disponendum pro eodem hospitali, prout eisdem regibus et successoribus suis melius videretur forefaciendum: et quod dominus Ricardus nuper rex Angliæ secundus post conquestum concessit custodiam hospitalis prædicti cuidam Roberto Manfeld clerico nuper præposito S. Johannis de Beverlaco: quodque idem Johannes hujusmodi sustentationes, capellani et leprosorum ibidem omnino retraxit per tres annos tempore captionis inquisitionis prædictæ ultimo elapsos: nec capellanum nec leprosum per eosdem tres annos et amplius sustentavit: et tamen prædecessores ipsius Roberti hujusmodi sustentationes sustentare consueverunt; quod quidem hospitale eâ occasione captum est in manum nostram ut accepimus. Et quia super præmissis bonâ et maturâ deliberatione cum justiciariis et servientibus nostris ad legem ac aliis peritis de consilio nostro, nobis in cancellariâ nostrâ tunc existentibus, de eorum avisamento causam prædictam invalidam et insufficientem reputavimus: ac pro eo quod in curiâ nostrâ coram nobis consideratum fuit, quod literæ nostræ patentes, per quas custodiam hospitalis prædicti, Rogero Wodehale nuper concessimus revocentur et adnullentur, prout per tenorem recordi et processus inde coram nobis habitorum, quem coram nobis in cancellariâ nostrâ venire fecimus plenè liquet: tibi præcipimus, quod manum nostram de hospitali prædicto cum pertinentiis, si eâ occasione et non aliâ in manu nostrâ existat sine dilatione amovens, te inde ulterius in aliquo nullatenus intromittas: salvo jure nostro et alterius cujuscunque. Hospital at Arundel, in Sussex.

DALLAWAY calls this "Domus Eleemosynaria, Maison-Dieu, or the Hospital of the Holy Trinity in Arundel." This benevolent establishment, he says, was founded during his lifetime, by Richard the third earl of Arundel of that name, probably about the year 1380. It consisted "of twenty poor men, who were valetudinary or aged, and had been attached to the manors of his father, and unmarried or widowers, and who were not allowed to marry after their admission, upon pain of removal." The Master was an ecclesiastic, and the revenues peculiarly ample, having amounted in the years 1454 and 1455 to 197*l.* 15*s.* 4½*d.* The poor men were to be named by the Earl of Arundel for the time being, and the Hospital to use a Common Seal.[e]

The Valor Ecclesiasticus of the 26th Hen. VIIIth, however, puts the gross income of this House at no more than 89*l.* 5*s.* 2¾*d.*, with reprises to the amount of 66*l.* 4*s.* 5½*d.*; so that at that time the net income was only 23*l.* 0*s.* 9½*d.*

Dallaway says, that upon the Dissolution, all the lands belonging to this Hospital were granted to Henry Earl of Arundel: Tanner that the Site of the House was granted to Sir Richard Lee.

The building formed a small quadrangle, with a Chapel and Refectory, and was not taken down when it ceased to be applied to its original purpose. During the Siege of Arundel Castle in 1643-4 it was occupied by Waller's soldiers, and then destroyed; and in 1742, materials for building the present bridge were taken from its ruins, a small portion of which only now remains.[f]

Fossgate Hospital, York.

JOHN de ROUCLIFF clerk, by virtue of letters patent dated Feb. 12th, 45 Edw. III. founded a Hospital in the parish of the Holy Cross, near Fossgate, to the honour of the Holy Jesus and the blessed Virgin,[a] and intended to endow it with revenues sufficient for the maintenance of a Master or Warden, thirteen poor and infirm people, and two poor clergymen to teach school. But leaving very little endowment to it, the incorporated Company of Merchants in York endowed it, temp. Hen. VI. for one priest, who was found to have a yearly revenue 26th. Hen. VIIIth of 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*[b] Tanner says this Hospital is still kept up by the Society of Merchant Adventurers, who maintain ten poor widows there.[c]

Universis sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis, &c. Johannes permissione divina Eborum archiep. Angliæ primas, et apost. sedis Legatus, salutem in sinceris amplexibus Salvatoris, &c. Nos autem Johannes archiep., &c. invocataque Spiritus Sancti gratia, ad ordinationem nostram procedimus in hunc modum. Imprimis ordinamus, statuimus, et decernimus, quod in vico de Fossegate sit perpetuo unum Hospitale fundatum in honore Domini nostri Jesu Christi et beatæ Mariæ virginis. Item volumus et ordinamus quod in dicto Hospitali sit capellanus providus ydoneus, et boni testimonii, qui curam, administrationem, et gubernationem habeat dicti Hospitalis; reddituum, proventuum, et bonorum præsentium et futurorum ad dictum Hospitale pertinentium. Qui sciat, velit, et valeat dictum Hospitale, bona ejusdem, ac jura utiliter regere; et ipsius proventus, et redditus in personarum pauperum ac miserabilium usum fideliter dispensare; et quem in usus alios quam infrascriptos bona prædicta convertere præsumptio verisimilis non existit. Qui magister seu Custos dicti Hospitalis nuncupetur, qui quidem capellanus nobis et successoribus nostris, sede archiepiscopali plena, et ea vacante, decano et capitulo ecclesiæ Eborum, et absente decano, capitulo ejusdem hac primâ vice, ac etiam quotiescunque et quicunque dictum Hospitale per mortem, cessionem, privationem, seu alio quovismodo vacaverit, per dictum magistrum Johannem de Roucliff et hæredes suos infra unius mensis spatium a tempore notæ hujus vacationis, in loco præsentetur per nos et successores nostros sede plena, et ea vacante per decanum et capitulum, et decano absente per capitulum admittendus ad dictum Hospitale, et instituendus in eo, ac in ipsius possessionem corporaliter inducendus. Et si præfatus magister Johannes aut hæredes sui, infra hujus mensem capellanum ydoneum, ut præmittitur, præsentare distulerint, præsentatio dicti capellani ea vice, infra mensem alium dictum mensem immediatè sequentem, ad majorem civitatis Eborum qui pro tempore erit, devolvatur. Quod si per illum mensem negligens fuerit, tunc ad officialem curiæ Eborum, qui pro tempore fuerit, devolvatur. Quod si dictus officialis, infra alium mensem duos primos menses immediatè sequentem capellanum ydoneum non præsentaverit, tunc liceat nobis et successoribus nostris sede plena, et ea vacante, decano et capitulo Eborum ecclesiæ, &c. decano absente capitulo ejusdem ecclesiæ capellano ydoneo curam et administrationem dicti Hospitalis committere, et eidem dictum Hospitale ea vice conferre potestatem præsentandi, ut præmittitur, ad dictum Hospitale cum illud vacaverit, eidem magistro Johanni de Roucliff et suis hæredibus semper salva. Whitington College and Hospital, in London.

DUGDALE has made distinct Articles of Whitington's College and Hospital; but the two Foundations are so blended in the Instruments of Whitington's Executors, that it has seemed best to the present Editors that they should be brought together.

Sir Richard Whitington, whose history as Lord Mayor of London needs not to be told here, having rebuilt the Church of St. Michael Royal in that City, determined to found in it a College, which his executors finished in 1424.

The Instrument of Henry archbishop of Canterbury, the papal Legate, granting permission to proceed in the combined foundation of College and Hospital, is the first charter given by Dugdale, dated at Lambeth, 20th November, 1424; followed by the Charter of the Executors prescribing the Statutes and Ordinances of the College, dated on the 18th December following. The third Instrument printed by Dugdale, is a charter of encreased endowment to the College from the Executors, with some additional statutes. The fourth concerns the Endowment and Statutes for the Hospital, separately.

The Foundation, generally, was dedicated to the Holy Ghost, the Virgin Mary, St. Michael, and All Saints. The College was for a Master and four Fellows, all to be Masters of Arts, besides clerks, choristers, &c. The Hospital, on the east side of the College, was endowed for thirteen poor people, the chief of whom was to be called Tutor. The Charter of foundation for the Hospital, comprising its regulations, was dated December the 21st, 1424.

In the year already mentioned, the Executors of Whitington allowed 63*l.* per annum toward the support of the College till it could be better endowed; yet, after all the benefactions, the whole revenues of it were valued 26th Hen. VIII. at no more than 20*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* per annum. The Site of the COLLEGE was granted to Armigel Wade, 2 Edw. VI. The Almshouses for the poor men continued. They are still under the direction of the Mercers Company; who, besides a room to each of the pensioners, according to Maitland, allow them 3*s.* 10*d.* a week; to the Men every third year coats and breeches, and to the Women gowns and petticoats.[a]

Michaelis loci ordinario, per illum admittendum, et canonicè instituendum, in eadem, ulteriùs præsentare possint et debeant cum effectu, juxta formam conventionis, sive compositionis inter dictos priorem et capitulum ac nos executores prædictos et custodes communitatis misteræ merceriæ, de quibus præfertur pro se et successoribus suis hinc et inde concorditer factæ, et tam auctoritate regiâ, quàm ordinariâ Deo prævio roborandæ.

Si verò præfati præsidens et capellani Magistrum hujusmodi, infra dictum mensem eis limitatum eligere, admittere, et nunciare neglexerint, in formâ supradictâ; tunc volumus et ordinamus, quod lapso mense prædicto hujusmodi electio et nominatio de magistro eidem collegio, infra tres menses extunc proximè secuturos providendo, et ad dictam ecclesiam præsentando solum et immediatè illâ vice devolvantur, et pertineant ad præfatos custodes misteræ Merceriæ pro tempore existentes juxta formam compositionis et confirmationis prædictarum: Proviso semper, quod per hoc nullum quoad admissionem dicti magistri, sic per ipsos custodes in hac parte eligendi et nominandi; nec quoad alias vacationes hujusmodi magistri tunc sequentes præsidenti et capellanis antedictis, seu capitulo et collegio prædictis præjudicium in aliquo generetur.

Statuimus etiam et ordinamus, quod ad singulas capellanas perpetuas dicti collegii quocienscunque vel quandocunque vacare contigerint in futurum, magister et sanior pars sociorum capellanorum ejusdem collegii, personas idoneas et honestas, ut præmittitur, infra unum mensem à tempore notæ vacationis illarum continuè numerando eligant et assumant, per ipsum magistrum vel locum-tenentem suum, officio magistri pleno, seu præsidentem collegii, officio illo vacante ad capellanias hujusmodi, post certum tempus examinationis et probationis ydoneitatem, conditionem, et conversationem earundem personarum, secundùm arbitrium dicti magistri sive locum-tenentis, aut præsidentis limitandam admittendas. Quod, si infra mensem præscriptum nullum ad capellaniam hujusmodi eligi, vel assumi; aut electum vel assumptum infra tempus dictæ examinationis, seu postea limitatum, propter inhabilitatem vel minus ydoneitatem suam repelli contigerit, extunc infra unum alium mensem tunc proximè sequentem, proviso de ydoneâ personâ ad capellaniam hujusmodi sic vacantem magistro vel præsidenti dicti collegii, qui pro tempore fuerit illâ vice tantummodo pertineat et devolvatur. Unde si ipsi interim non providerint, tunc volumus et ordinamus, quod custos communitatis misteræ merceriæ Londoniensis, qui pro tempore fuerit, infra unum alium mensem extunc proximè et continuè numerandum, ad capellaniam prædictam personam ydoneam, quæ ad eundem capellanum, per magistrum dicti collegii vel locum-tenentem suum, officio magistri pleno, aut præsidentem collegii, magistratu vacante, gratis et absque difficultate admitti, et in socium perpetuum ipsius collegii præfici debeat, præsentabunt illâ vice. Proviso semper, quod per hoc nullum quo ad alias vacationes hujusmodi capellaniarum extunc sequentes magistro et capellanis prædictis præjudicium in aliquo generetur. Dictos namque custodes magistrum, præsidentem, et socios collegii, præsentes et futuros, ad quos ex ordinatione nostrâ præsenti pertinet, seu pertinebit imposterum, de socio sive capellano quocunque eidem collegio præsentationem, provisionem, vel admissionem facere, ut præmittitur, rogamus et obsecramus humiliter et devotè in visceribus Jhesu Christi, et eos quatinus cum reverentiâ possumus et exhortamur; et oneramus coram Deo, quod idoneos, honestos, ac virtuosos capellanos, et non alios, in quanto possint, ad dictum collegium præferant, præsentent, provideant vel admittant quovismodo.

Item statuimus et ordinamus, quod magister, capellanus, clerici, et choristæ prædicti singulis festis duplicibus, ac diebus dominicis et festivis per annum, si et quando commodè poterint, Matutinas, Missam, et Vesperas, per notam in ecclesiâ prædictâ reverenter celebrent et devotè; ita semper, quod singulis diebus dominicis, quando communes sermones fient et habebuntur, ad cathedralem ecclesiam S. Pauli Londoniensis, Missæ majores in præfatâ ecclesiâ celebrandæ finiantur per talem horam, quod magister et capellani ejusdem collegii, necnon parochiani ibidem sermonibus prædictis commodè possint interesse nisi sermones aliqui diebus illis fiant in ecclesiâ memoratâ, vel alia causa rationabilis intercurrat.

Et quod magister et socii collegii, in precibus suis dictis diebus dominicis in eadem ecclesiâ, post offertorium majoris Missæ populo exponendis; necnon in aliis prædicationibus suis, infra vel prope dictam civitatem faciendis, animas fundatorum suorum si et quando facultas optulerit, ac causa rationabilis non obsistat, specialiter et nominatim recommendent ad devotionem auditorum. Cæteris quoque diebus per ebdomadam, quando servicio hujusmodi per notam ibidem minime celebrantur; tunc volumus et ordinamus quod iidem magister et capellani devotè, distinctè, et apertè, ad audientiam parochianorum et aliorum illuc confluentium dicant adinvicem Matutinas, Vesperas, et alias horas suas canonicas de die, ad minus, nisi infirmitate, vel alia rationabili causâ, judicio ipsius magistri, si præsens fuerit, vel locum-tenentis sui eo absente discutienda fuerint impediti.

Missas etiam cotidie celebrent dicti capellani, si et quando disponantur, cum speciali collectâ pro animabus dictorum Ricardi Whityngton et Aliciæ, majoribus Missis per notam ad summum altare ejusdem ecclesiæ festis duplicibus celebrandis, et diebus aliis quibus una sola collecta secundùm usum Sarum dicetur duntaxat exceptis.

In canone quoque Missarum suarum, primò de animabus præfatorum Ricardi et Aliciæ; deinde domini Willielmi Whityngton militis, et dominæ Johannæ, consortis suæ parentum ipsius Ricardi; et subsequenter pro animabus serenissimorum principum Ricardi secundi nuper regis Angliæ, et Thomæ de Wodestoke nuper ducis Gloucestriæ specialium dominorum et promotorum ejusdem Ricardi Whityngton, Annæ quoque et Alianoræ ipsorum regis et ducis conthoralium specialem facient mentionem. Et generaliter pro animabus illis, quibus idem Ricardus Whityngton in vitâ suâ pariter et in morte tenebatur; necnon pro animabus omnium fidelium defunctorum celebrent et deprecentur. Prædictos etiam dominos nostros regem et archiepiscopum modernos, ac nos executores memoratos specialiter et nominatim, patronos quoque et conservatores, necnon alios manutentores et benefactores ipsius collegii superstites generaliter inter vivos, in canone Missarum suarum ad memoriam reducant, quamdiu steterimus et steterint in hac vitâ.

Et cum dicti domini nostri Rex et Archiepiscopus, vel aliquis nostrum præfatorum executorum, disponente Domino migraverit ab hac luce, de eo faciant inter defunctos in Missæ canone similiter mentionem; animæ quoque serenissimi principis Edwardi tertii dudum regis Angliæ, ac Walteri Waldeshef quondam civis Londoniensis, et Johannæ consortis suæ; necnon Philippi le Taillour et Sabinæ uxoris suæ, per unum dicti collegii capellanum, ad hoc specialiter singulis annis per magistrum ejusdem collegii, vel locum-tenentem suum deputandum inter Missarum canones et secreta nominatim et specialiter memorentur.

Volumus etiam, et ordinamus, quod singulis septimanis unus de prædicto collegio capellanis in ebdomadarium, per ipsum magistrum si sit præsens, vel substitutum per se in locum-tenentem suum si magister sit absens assignetur, qui faciet officio hujusmodi pertinentia, juxta quod sibi per præfatum magistrum, vel dictum locum-tenentem suum, si magister sit absens rationabiliter injungetur. Ipsum autem substitutum, sive locum-tenentem ab hoc onere fore nolumus totaliter excusatum, quin illud pro parte suâ faciat et exequatur, cum et sicut cursus sociorum circumveniens exigit et requirit.

Clerici verò et Choristi dicti Collegii legere, cantare; necnon magistro et capellanis ejusdem collegii in divinis assistere et servire, et alia minora officia competentia in ipsis ecclesiâ et collegio juxta mandatum magistri vel deputati sui gerere et facere teneantur.

Præterea statuimus et ordinamus, quod capellani et clerici dicti collegii officiare debentes, in divinis extra chorum in ipsâ ecclesiâ, seu cimiterio vel claustro non incedant dum divinum ibidem dicitur officium, nisi rationabilis causa mentio magistri vel deputati sui discutienda subfuerit. Sed statim post ultimam pulsationem ad Matutinas, majores Missas, et Vesperas, ac alias horas canonicas in stallis et locis suis se reponant; seque contineant ibidem honestè à confabulationibus, disputationibus, strepitibus, et aliis levitatibus abstinendo; ipsisque divinis officiis diligenter intendant, et ante finitum complete servicium absque licentiâ dicti magistri seu deputati sui à choro minimè recedant.

Si quis verò capellanorum prædictorum à dictis divinis officiis, scilicet, Matutinis, seu majoribus Missis vel Vesperis se absentaverit, nisi causa legitima, ut præmittitur, fuerit excusandus unum denarium. Si quacunque cæterarum horarum pro unaquaque earum obolum amittat per dicti collegii magistrum, seu præsidentem subtrahendum de suo salario infrascripto.

Clerici quidem in consimilibus casibus dimidium tanti perdant, quorum denariorum et obolorum, ac aliorum amittendorum in hac parte unam medietatem in usum et commodum capellanorum et clericorum suam in prædictis serviciis præsentiam exhibentium, et aliam medietatem communi cistæ dicti collegii statuimus applicandam. Diebus etiam ferialibus per annum in sero, circa vel post solis occasum, quando pauperes artifices et vicini circa ecclesiam commorantes à laboribus et officiis suis cessaverunt, et impedimentum rationabile non occurrat, capellani, clerici, et choristæ collegii domi existentes, post tintinnationem unius parvæ campanæ, ad hoc ordinatæ, conveniant in capellâ S. Mariæ matris Salvatoris, infra dictam ecclesiam, et ibidem cantent solempniter et devotè in honorem ejusdem Salvatoris et matris suæ unam antiphonam cum versiculis et collecta competentibus; et postea dicant pariter psalmum De Profundis, cum versiculis et collectâ quam elegerint, pro animabus dictorum Ricardi Whityngton et Aliciæ, ac cæteris animabus supradictis.

Præterea statuimus et ordinamus, quod singulis annis imperpetuum Magister, Capellani, et alii ministri collegii memorati tunc præsentes, obitus prædictorum Ricardi Whityngton, et dominæ Aliciæ uxoris suæ, viz. pro dicto Ricardo vicessimo tertio, vel vicessimo quarto die Martii. Et iterum pro ipso Ricardo et dictâ dominâ Aliciâ ultimo vel penultimo die Julii teneant, et solempniter cum nota celebrent in ecclesiâ supradictâ. Et quod ad ambos obitus illos ibidem magister dicti collegii viginti denarios; singuli quoque socii capellani de gremio et capitulo ejusdem collegii xii^{d}. Quilibet verò clericorum sex denarios; et quilibet choristarum tres denarios de bonis communibus, per manus præpositorum magistri et capituli collegii futuris temporibus percipiant annuatim.

Statuimus ulteriùs et ordinamus, quod magister capellani, clerici, et choristæ prædicti maneant et inhabitent, levent, et cubent in quodam messuagio cum pertinentiis de bonis ipsius Ricardi Whityngton, ad orientalem finem dictæ ecclesiæ S. Michaelis noviter ædificato, et per nos eisdem magistro et capellanis, ac successoribus suis, licentiâ regiâ ad hoc priùs optentâ concedendo: pro quo quidem messuagio, necnon aliis domibus cum suis pertinentiis eisdem magistro et capellanis sic ad incolandum et inhabitandum, levandum et cubandum assignatis et assignandis; ac ornamentis et necessariis quibuscunque collegio et domui inhabitationis prædictæ spectantibus et pertinentibus reparandis, volumus quod viginti solidi provenientes ex fructibus et redditibus domorum illarum, cum pertinentiis, vel de aliis bonis communibus ipsius collegii, reserventur annuatim pro reparatione prædictâ cum indiguerit faciendâ. Et quod iidem viginti solidi in nullos alios usus convertantur.

Item volumus et ordinamus, quod magister dicti collegii, qui pro tempore fuerit, ultra et præter oblationes et proventus dictæ ecclesiæ, quos vel quas antiquitùs rectores ejusdem ecclesiæ percipere et habere consueverunt et apertè juris vel consuetudinis habere debent ratione et occasione juris parochialis ecclesiæ supradictæ, habeat annuatim nomine sui magistratus decem marcas sterlingorum, de bonis communibus ipsius collegii percipiendas terminis infrascriptis; viz. in crastino Circumcisionis Domini; et in crastino Annunciationis beatæ Mariæ virginis; ac in crastino Nativitatis S. Joh. Baptistæ; necnon in crastino S. Michaelis per æquales portiones. Statuimus etiam, quod ad eosdem terminos, per æquales portiones de bonis communibus antedictis, quilibet dictorum sociorum capellanorum pro victu et vestitu et omnibus necessariis suis undecem marcas; primarius etiam clericorum octo marcas, secundarius centum solidos; quilibet verò choristarum quinque marcas ultra mansiones suas percipient annuatim.

Ordinamus etiam, quod pecuniam prædictam hujusmodi choristas eorum contingentem recipiet pro eis magister dicti collegii, vel aliquis alius in tutorem choristarum per ipsum magistrum assignandus, qui exinde pro eorum victu, vestitu, scolagio, rasurâ, loturâ, et aliis oportunis providere faciet competenter: de quâ pecuniâ si quid residuum fuerit, in usum et commodum eorundem tutoris et choristarum juxta quod ipsi magistro rationabile videatur et honestum convertatur.

Habeat etiam dictum collegium unum cocum sive mancipium, cum et de bonis communibus ipsius collegii annuatim stipendiandum, juxta discretionem magistri et sociorum qui residentibus in eodem deserviet in agendis.

Ex nunc siquidem reficiantur pariter dicti magister et capellani infra communem aulam vel parluram ipsius collegii, communas simul ponendo; nec cuiquam extra dictam aulam vel parluram in cibis aut potibus communiter ministratur, nisi corporalis infirmitas hoc exigat aut alia causa licita seu rationabilis à magistro vel locum-tenente suo approbata. Tempore etiam hujusmodi refectionis ad mensas, de divinis scripturis sermonibus seu omeliis sanctorum, aut vita alicujus sancti viri lectio pro tempore competenti habeatur; quæ per aliquem de collegio arbitrio magistri vel locum-tenentis sui limitandum volumus expedire. Et si contingat eos in mensâ de re aliquâ tractare, ad honesta et utilia se divertant; et finitâ mensâ sedendo vel stando dicant vel cantent gratias consuetas.

Item statuimus et ordinamus, quod nullus ad mensam in dicto collegio perhendinandum admittatur ultra duos menses continuos vel discontinuos in toto anno nisi ex consensu unanimi magistri et singulorum dicti collegii sociorum ad cameram et thorum recipiatur in eodem: capellani namque dicti collegii in cameris eis per magistrum loco dormitorii assignandis recumbant sine strepitu. Et in eventu quo aliquem ipsorum capellanorum alteri loqui contigerit, in dicto dormitorio, secreto eloquio duntaxat utantur.

Indumenta quoque superiora magistri et sociorum capellanorum communiter sint unius sectæ et coloris, talaria non lasciva, aut splendida in colore, annuatim vel ad minus de magistri et majoris partis sociorum consensu, si voluerint omni biennio renovanda.

In transferendo se ad loca remotiora utantur apparatu pro itinerantibus congruente, salva semper gradus sui et ordinis honestate. Clerici verò et choristæ robas habeant condecentes coloribus et formis magistri arbitrio moderandas.

Item statuimus quod Magister et Capellani teneant capitula sua totiens quotiens viderint oportunium et expediens, ad supervidendum statim reformandi defectu, et pertractandum negotia dicti collegii.

Quemcunque autem in dictis capitulis, ordinata, diffinita, seu statuta fuerint, laudabilia nostris ordinationibus, sanctorumve patrum institutis minimè repugnantia, debent ab ipsius collegii personis singulis, prout ipsos contingent firmiter observari, quamdiu per sequentem diffinitionem capitulorum suorum hujusmodi non fuerint immutata.

Et præter hæc volumus, quod unum capitulum generale in ipso collegio teneatur annuatim; viz. primo die feriali mensis Maii, seu primo die feriali mensis Novembris cum prorogatione et continuatione duorum dierum vel ampliùs post alterum eorundem primorum dierum si necesse fuerit: in quo capitulo statuimus, quod unum plenum inventarium fiat vel ostendatur in scriptis de omnibus bonis mobilibus ipsius collegii; et quod ipsa bona, necnon statum et totus thesaurus ejusdem collegii, si necesse fuerit, videantur credita: insuper et debita dicti collegii diligenter investigentur, et in scriptis redacta tunc ibidem declarentur, ut sic magistro et cunctis sociis pateat de statu ipsius collegii.

Et quod iidem Magister et Socii capellani cistam communem habeant, et sigillum commune, in quâ cistâ teneantur et reponantur ipsum sigillum, cartæ, literæ, privilegia, scripturæ, thesaurus collegii, ac alia de quibus ipsis magistro et sociis videbitur expedire; quæ cista ponatur in secreto loco et tuto per eosdem infra scepta dicti collegii: et in ipsâ cistâ sint tres claves dissimiles et diversas, habentes seruras, quas unam habeat magister; et aliam senior capellanus; tertiam verò unus de aliis capellanis per capitulum singulis annis eligendus; et quod nullus omnes tres claves prædictas, aut duas simul tenere præsumat, nec cum sigillo communi prædicto aliquid sigillare nisi de scientiâ et licentiâ ac consensu magistri et omnium sociorum capellanorum, vel majoris et sanioris partis eorundem. Pecunia vero vel thesaurus qui superfuerit ultra impensas et expensas collegii, reddito inde annuali compoto per illos ad quos pertinet vel pertinebit in dictâ cistâ cum industria solicita reservetur adinde reparandum et sustendandum onera utilitati communi dicti collegii necessaria.

Item statuimus et ordinamus, quod Magister et Capellani dicti collegii, more illorum, qui ad residentiam continuam in aliis locis sunt astricti, continuè resideant in collegio prælibato, officia sua juxta vim et effectum præsentium ibidem fideliter adimplendo; ita quod nullus ipsorum, excepto magistro, ultra viginti dies in anno continuè vel interpollatè numerandos, et tunc in locis et ex causis honestis se absentet: et quod uno illorum sic absente nullus reliquorum capellanorum ante reventum suum se absentet nisi urgens necessitas vel evidens utilitas aliud dictaverit faciendum. Et quod quilibet eorum quotiens se absentare disposuerit magistro collegii prædicti, si absens fuerit, alioquin ipsius substituto seu locum-tenenti hoc intimare teneatur. Et si tempore hujusmodi absentiæ aliquod festum principale contingat in festo hujusmodi, redeat ad ministrandum in ecclesiâ prædictâ ut tenetur.

Si quis verò eorundem capellanorum ultra viginti dies in anno à dictis collegio capellanis, seu serviens suis se absentaverit, absque urgenti seu rationabili causâ, judicio dicti magistri vel locum-tenentis sui approbanda, pro ratâ temporis hujusmodi absentiæ suæ indebitæ, tantum de suo stipendio subtrahatur per magistrum, quantum percepisset si dicto tempore personaliter resedisset in eodem collegio; ipsaque portio sic subtracta communi cistæ dicti collegii applicetur. Et si per viginti dies alios, ultra viginti dies prænominatos absque urgenti et rationabili causâ, arbitrio magistri, ac majoris et sanioris partis capituli dicti collegii comprobanda, aliquis anno ab eodem collegio se absentaverit, et super hoc coram ipso magistro in capitulo summariè et de plano convictus fuerit, extunc officio, servicio, sive capellaniâ suâ ibidem habito, sit ipso jure privatus, et alius capellanus ydoneus loco ejus substitutus et admissus modis et formis in vacatione capellaniarum hujusmodi superiùs expressatis: excusari namque volumus magistrum à residentia quotiens et quando ob negotia gerenda collegii utilia seu propria sua necessaria se absentet; quod tamen sic moderandum esse volumus, quod nullo modo sit absens ultra sexaginta dies in anno continuos aut discontinuos, nec in festis principalibus nec majoribus duplicibus secundùm annotationem usus Sarum, nisi major necessitas ingruerit, vel alia causa rationabilis subsistat evidenter.

Hortamur etiam et deprecamur dictos Magistrum et Socios in visceribus Jhesu Christi, quatinus Deo et collegio prædicto, quamdiu eidem incubuerint laudabiliter in omnibus deserviant et honestè, mutuam pacem et fraternam caritatem adinvicem observantes.

Nec recipiantur aliqualiter mulieres in domibus dictorum capellanorum, vel successorum suorum quovis colore, de nocte vel de die, nisi de licentiâ à dicto magistro vel locum-tenente suo priùs petitâ et optentâ, et hoc pro rationabili et honestâ causâ, et mora earum per ipsum magistrum seu locum-tenentem suum, cum præsentia alicujus alterius honesti signanda sub pœnâ subtractionis stipendiorum suorum pro portione judicio magistri et majoris ac sanioris partis capituli limitanda, ac privatione eorundem à dictis capellanis vel officiis suis, si eorum pertinacia id exposcat.

Et quod nullus hujusmodi capellanorum dicti collegii, in civitate vel suburbiis London. extra mansum collegii pernoctet, nisi causa rationabili, judicio magistri approbanda. Nullus etiam eorum sit frequentator tabernarum, seu congregationum illicitarum, aut spectaculorum illicitorum, aut in dictâ civitate et suburbiis de die vel de nocte sit vagans ultra modum absque causâ rationabili, judicio magistri discutienda: et si quis ipsorum legitimè super hiis ne contrafaciat monitus, per dictum magistrum, vel locum-tenentem suum, se emendare noluerit, per ipsum magistrum suspendatur à perceptione emolumentorum in dicto collegio recipiendorum, usque ad tempus ipsius judicio magistri rationabiliter moderandum, ad quæ idem sic suspensus extunc percipienda nullatenus admittatur, donec et quousque in semetipso humiliatus, etiam ipsius magistri arbitrio pro rebellione suâ hujusmodi pœnitentiam congruam egerit et condignam.

Si quis autem capellanorum dicti collegii, præsentium aut futurorum, post hujusmodi monitiones, binis vel trinis vicibus sibi factas, in præmissis casibus culpabilis iterato reperiatur; vel in moribus et vitâ malè et incorrigibiliter se gerat, et inde notabiliter coram magistro dicti collegii; qui pro tempore fuerit, in pleno capitulo communiatur, per ipsum magistrum posset et debeat omni jure quod habet ibidem privari et amoveri; aliusque loco suo substitui, processu in eâ parte per eundem magistrum faciendo summariè et de plano absque strepitu et figurâ judicii cujuscunque.

Et si contingat in futurum, quod aliquis capellanorum dicti collegii infirmitate vel defectu quominus in capellaniâ hujusmodi, juxta præsentem ordinationem nostram poterit deservire, per annum et ultra impediatur; nolumus quod propter hoc à dictâ capellaniâ, seu perceptione stipendii sui expellatur, dum tamen dicta infirmitas vel defectus ex suâ culpâ non proveniat, set oret devotè pro animabus supradictis; et durante infirmitate vel defectu hujusmodi quolibet anno, solvat de stipendio suo tresdecem solidos et quatuor denarios in pios usus juxta discretionem magistri ac majoris et sanioris partis capituli supradicti prout sibi duxerint injungendum.

Volumus atque quod magister et capellani prædicti, ad augmentum collegii, cum aliquem eorum decedere, vel collegii prædicto cedere contingat in futurum, aliquid notabile vel memoriale de bonis ipsius sic decedentis vel cedentis collegio ipso, juxta quod per tempus breve seu prolixum eidem collegio incumbuerit, et ipsius emolumenta perceperit plus vel minus conferat seu relinquat.

Decernimus etiam et ordinamus, quod quilibet magister dicti collegii de cætero postquam admissus fuerit in magistratum ipsius collegii, coram consociis suis capellanis ejusdem collegii propterea in loco suo capitulari congregatis, corporale præstet juramentum de servando, et observari faciendo, quantum in ipso fuerit, bona, libertates, et jura; necnon ordinationes et statuta dicti collegii. Et quod quilibet capellanus præfati collegii, cum probationis tempus compleverit, et in capellaniam perpetuam sive socium perpetuum ejusdem collegii fuerit admittendus, ut præmittitur, coram magistro et sociis in loco prædicto congregatis, tactis sacrosanctis, corporale præstabit juramentum in hac formâ.

Clerici quoque dicti collegii, si vel cum ad annos discretionis pervenerint, eidem magistro in licitis et canonicis obedire promittant sub juratoriâ cautione, si petatur.

Statuimus præterea, quod si quis de consociis dicti collegii, propter aliquod aliud beneficium vel aliam causam voluntariè ipsum collegium deserere proposuerit, per quatuor menses ante recessum ipsius propositum suum magistro et sociis dicti collegii, pro tempore existentibus manifestare, sub juramenti sui vinculo, ut præfertur præstitò teneatur; ut sic saltem congruere deliberare valeant de capellano ydoneo sibi cum recesserit subrogando, nisi interim accidat causa ob quam recedere valeat oportunè, utpote causa promotionis, vel alia consimilis, vel nisi socium per magistrum et socios in hac parte videatur dispensandum.

Ut autem ordinatio nostra præsens in memoria magistri et capellanorum prædictorum recensis habeatur, ac per hoc ab eisdem meliùs observetur, volumus et ordinamus, quod quater in anno ad minus, viz. Quolibet anni quarterio semel ordinatio nostra prædicta præsentibus magistro et capellanis prædictis, et diligenter auscultantibus, captis horis et locis in hoc oportunis, per unum ipsorum vel alium distinctè et apertè perlegatur.

Ordinamus etiam et statuimus, de licentiâ, consensu, et auctoritate supradictis, quod custodes communitatis misteræ merceriæ civitatis Londoniensis et successores sui imperpetuum habeant curam et custodiam totius illius parvæ domus, cum liberis introitibus et exitibus temporibus congruis ad eandem, quam nuper ædificavimus retrò finem orientalem cancelli beatæ Mariæ Virginis in ecclesiâ sæpedictâ, ad imponendum et salvo custodiendum in eadem domo, si voluerint, omnimoda scripta, evidentias, et munimenta, tangentia terras, tenementa, et redditus sibi data vel legata, danda seu leganda, pro sustentatione collegii et domus elemosinæ prædictorum.

Volumus insuper et statuimus, quod supervisus et conservatio collegii prædicti ac status ejusdem, ad nos et quemlibet nostrum, dum vixerimus, et quisquam nostrum vixerit; ac post decessum nostrum ad majorem Londoniensem et custodes communitatis misteræ merceriæ prædictæ qui pro tempore fuerint pertineant et devolvantur; ita semper quod ipse major et successores sui supervisores, ac dicti custodes et successores sui conservatores vel advocati collegii prædicti censeantur et vocentur imperpetuum.

Statuimus ulterius et ordinamus, quod omnia bona mobilia dicti collegii; illa, viz. quæ ad usum perpetuum, vel ad perpetuam rei memoriam in ecclesiâ aut collegio prædictis servitura, per dictum Ricardum Whitington in vitâ suâ, ac per nos vel nostros quoscunque postea fuerunt, sunt, aut erunt data, collata, et destinata, ut puta libri, cruces, calices, thuribula, candelabra, vestimenta, ciphi, peciæ, coclearia, et alia consimilia ornamenta seu necessaria quæcunque communia bona ejusdem collegii censeantur, et ad usum ordinatum conserventur, nec mutentur, vendantur, vel aliter qualitercunque per magistrum et capellanos dicti collegii præsentes aut futuros alienentur, nisi urgens necessitas, vel evidens utilitas aut honestas id exposcat.

Has autem Ordinationes, Constitutiones, et Statuta, sic per nos edita et facta, de licentia, auctoritate, et concensu, pariter et assensu prædictis, ad Dei laudem et salutem animarum prædictarum robur perpetuæ firmitatis volumus et statuimus optinere: salvâ tamen et reservatâ nobis dum vixerimus, et illi nostrum qui diutiùs vixerit, omnia et singula statuta et ordinationes prædictas declarandi, mutandi, minuendi vel ampliandi; necnon post decessum nostrum Majori civitatis Londoniensis, et Priori Cartusiensium juxta eandem, et successoribus suis imperpetuum, plenariâ potestate omnia et singula in ordinationibus et statutis hujusmodi contenta, si quæ dubia videantur vel obscura interpretandi et declarandi quotiens viderimus et diutiùs nostrum vivens viderit, ac ipsi major et prior post decessum nostrum viderint expediens et oportunum. In quorum omnium et singulorum præmissorum testimonium sigilla nostra præsentibus apposuimus. Data fuerunt hæc et acta Londoniis prout suprascribuntur decimo septimo et decimo octavo diebus mensis Decembris anno Domini M.CCCC.XXIV°. et anno regni regis Henrici sexti post conquestum tertio.

NUM. III.

Carta Executorum Testamenti dicti Ricardi Whitington, de ampliori Dotatione ejusdem Ecclesiæ Collegiatæ; cum additione diversarum aliarum Ordinationum.

UNIVERSIS et singulis Christi fidelibus, Johannes Coventre, Johannes Carpenter, et Willielmus Grove, executores testamenti sive ultimæ voluntatis venerabilis mercatoris Ricardi Whitington nuper civis et merceri Londoniensis, salutem in Domino sempiternam, et certam noticiam subscriptorum. Nuper quoddam Collegium perpetuum de quinque capellanis, quorum unus erit magister, ac duobus clericis, et quatuor choristis, divina cotidie pro animabus dicti Ricardi et dominæ Aliciæ consortis suæ, aliorumque fidelium celebrandis in ecclesiâ S. Michaelis de Riolâ London. ubi præfati Ricardus et Alicia requiescunt humati; tam de licentiâ et auctoritate regiâ quàm ordinariâ, omniumque cæterorum consensu, quorum interfuit, ereximus et fundavimus; certas ordinationes congruas et honestas statuentes, per quas ipsa collegium et ecclesia, ac magister, presbyteri, clerici et alii ministri eorundem omnes et singuli, successoresque sui, gubernari, regi, et vivere debeant; easque teneantur perpetuè firmiter observare; reservatâ nobis dum vixerimus, illique nostrum qui diutiùs vixerit, liberâ facultate et plenâ potestate ordinationibus hujusmodi addendi et detrahendi; easque corrigendi, declarandi, et mutandi, nec non nova statuendi, et ulteriùs ordinandi de hiis quæ collegium illud concernunt, seu concernere poterint; prout in literis et munimentis inde consertis pleniùs continetur. Verùm, quia dictum collegium adhuc, unde sufficienter sustentari potest, dotatum non existit, concessimus et concedimus per præsentes magistro et capellanis ejusdem, tam de errario quàm de terris et tenementis quæ fuerunt dicti Ricardi, in possessione nostrâ existentibus, sexaginta tres libras sterlingorum, singulis annis percipiendas, ad eorum victum, et supportationem onerum sibi incumbentium, quousque de bonis immobilibus, terris, tenementis, seu redditibus, attingentibus ad eandem summam sexaginta trium librarum annuatim perpetuè possidendis, per licentiam regiam seu legatam alicujus probi civis Londoniensis, vel alio bono modo legitimo fuerint perdotati.

Ad ulteriores autem declarationes, additiones, et ordinationes ipsius collegii, Dei nomine primitùs invocato, procedimus sub hac formâ: Inprimis cum inter cæteras dictarum priorum ordinationum nostrarum statutum sit, quod custodes communitatis misteræ merceriæ London. et successores sui semper debeant et teneantur infra quatuor menses, ad majus, postquam dictam ecclesiam S. Michaelis vacare contigerit infuturum, capellanum quemcunque in magistrum dicti collegii interim, juxta formam ordinationis nostræ prædictæ electum nominare et præsentare priori et capitulo ecclesiæ Christi Cantuariæ. Et quod iidem prior et capitulum, successoresque sui quemlibet magistrum hujusmodi, sic eis per dictos custodes nominatum et præsentatum ulteriùs ad ecclesiam S. Michaelis prædictam totiens quotiens vacaverit præsentabunt cum effectu, sicut tam in eadem ordinatione nostrâ, quàm quodam scripto inter ipsos priorem et capitulum ac nos et præfatos custodes hinc inde facto: et tam auctoritate regiâ quàm ordinariâ confirmato satis liquet; eidem priori ordinationi nostræ adjicimus, et de novo ordinamus, virtute et auctoritate facultatis suæ potestatis nobis, ut præmittitur, reservatæ, quod si dicti prior et capitulum, vel successores sui, aut alius quiscunque in futurum impedierint, vel impedierit, aut non permiserint, seu non permiserit præfatos custodes et successores suos, nominare et præsentare quemcunque magistrum hujusmodi ad ipsam ecclesiam S. Michaelis, cum vacaverit, ut præmittitur; quod extunc iidem custodes et successores sui, non solum Breve vel Actionem conventionis super scripto prædicto, versùs dictos priorem et capitulum; verum etiam de Quare impedit versùs ipsos et alios quoscunque impedientes et non permittentes hujusmodi, prosequantur et habeant juxta quod meliùs viderint faciendum.

Præterea statuimus et ordinamus, pro diversis periculis evitandis, quod nulli de cætero pateat, fiat, aut concedatur, quacunque de causâ visus per fenestras, nec ingressus vel egressus per hostia, in aut extra collegium, ecclesiam, et domum elemosinæ supradicta, seu aliquam partem eorundem, nisi per fenestras et hostia à tempore fundationis eorundem collegii et domus hucusque communiter usitata.

Item cum inter cæteras priores ordinationes nostras, tam in scripto prædicto recitatas, quàm per dictas literas domini regis confirmatas, contentum et statutum sit, quod magistri quicunque dicti collegii sint rectores ecclesiæ S. Michaelis antedictæ. Et quod postquam admissi fuerint ad dictam ecclesiam, et rectoriam ejusdem successivè, sub vocabulo magistri collegii S. Michaelis in Riolâ London. nomine rectoris tacito et sublato, possideant imperpetuum, omnemque curam et regimen animarum capellanorum, clericorum, choristarum, aliorumque parochianorum quorumcunque dictæ ecclesiæ S. Michaelis gerant et habeant; ac sacramenta et sacramentalia quæcunque, more rectoris et curati ministrent et ministrari faciant imperpetuum; eisdem adjiciendo statuimus, et quantum in nobis est ordinamus, quod omnia dona et legata de terris, tenementis, et redditibus per quoscunque præfatæ ecclesiæ vel rectoribus ejusdem, seu ad aliquod opus pietatis, vel honoris divini excercendum in eadem ab antiquo facta cedant, investiantur, et solvantur magistro nunc collegii prædicti et successoribus suis adeo plenè sicut ipsis magistris in specie data fuissent aut legata; vel sicut rectoribus dictæ ecclesiæ S. Michaelis cedere seu solvi debuerunt vel consueverunt ab antiquo, adinde faciendum, excercendum, exequendum hujusmodi pias intentiones, et ultimas voluntates dictorum donatorum et testatorum. Et quod magister qui nunc est dicti collegii et successores sui proinde distringere, et per nomen magistri collegii prædicti, tantum nomine rectoris tacito et sublato, ut præmittitur, placitare et implacitari possint et debeant quotiens et quando viderint oportunum; exceptis semper et exoneratis omnibus illis terris et tenementis cum pertinentiis, in dicta parochia situatis, quæ quondam fuerunt Philippi le Taillour et Sabinæ uxoris ejus, et Walteri Waldeshef et Johannæ uxoris ejus, necnon redditibus inde per ipsos datis et legatis, ad sustentationem capellanorum in ecclesia prædicta, et quod major pars ejusdem ecclesiæ, cum locis pro ipsius cimiteriis deputatis, ac collegium et domus elemosinæ supradictæ situantur et fundantur super eadem terra et tenemento.

Et similiter inter dictos priores ordinationes nostras statuitur et ordinatur, quod unus semper capellanus dicti collegii, cupiens undecem marcas annuatim, inter alios cotidie nominatim celebrabit pro dictis Philippo et Sabina, ac Waltero et Johanna, sicut in iisdem ordinationibus pleniùs continetur.

Statuimus insuper, et quantum in nobis similiter ordinamus, quod omnimoda dona et legata, de quibuscunque terris, tenementis, et redditibus, ad opus, usum, et sustentationem dictorum collegii, et vel domus elemosinæ, aut aliquod opus pietatis in eis seu eorum altero decætero excercendum per quemcunque, testamenta liberorum hominum civitatis London. prædictæ juxta consuetudines ejusdem qualitercunque et quibuscunque facienda, convertantur ad idem opus et eundem usum; ac in omnibus fiant et exequantur secundùm quod ipsa testamenta seu legata in se rationabiliter, et per bonam conscientiam interpretanda continent et proportant, quacunque causa vel opinione legis terræ de insufficientia verborum legatorum et testamentorum hujusmodi in contrarium habitis vel habendis non obstantibus; maximè cum defunctorum voluntate ultimæ juxta leges divinas sint diligentiùs observandæ.

Novissimè in omnibus et singulis dictum collegium, et personas ejusdem qualitercunque concernentibus, tam præsentibus ordinationibus nostris quàm prioribus prædictis addendi et detrahendi; ipsasque priores et præsentes ordinationes declarandi, mutandi, et corrigendi; aliasque et aliter ordinandi et disponendi, quotiens et prout expediens videbitur hujusmodi præsentibus vel prioribus ordinationibus nostris non obstantibus nobis omnibus, quoad vixerimus, et illi nostrum qui diutiùs vixerit plenariam potestatem et liberam facultatem tenore præsentium reservamus, et ordinamus reservari. In quorum omnium testimonium sigilla nostra præsentibus apposuimus. Datis Londini, xiii° Febr. anno regni regis Henrici sexti, post conquestum tertio.

HOSPITALE RICARDI WHITINGTON INFRA CIVITATEM LONDONIARUM.

NUM. IV.

Carta Fundationis ejusdem per Executores dicti Ricardi.

Omnibus Christi fidelibus præsentium continentiam visuris vel audituris, Johannes Coventre, Johannes Carpenter, et Willielmus Grove, executores testamenti bonæ memoriæ Ricardi Whitington nuper civis et merceri civitatis London. ac pluries majoris ejusdem civitatis, salutem et gaudium consequi sempiternum. Viri providi et devoti fervens debet esse desiderium, et cura sollicita, labilis vitæ suæ statum et terminum cum operibus misericordiæ prævenire; et præsertim personis illis miserabilibus providere, quibus penuria paupertatis insultat, ac facultas artificio seu labore alio corporeo vitæ necessaria quærere dinoscitur interdicta, ut in die tremendi judicii portionem accipiat cum salvandis. Quod devotè considerans venerabilis mercator Ricardus Whityngton antedictus, cujus manus dum vixerat ad egenos et pauperos liberaliter et largiter sunt extensæ, de domo quadam elemosinæ pro sustentatione perpetua pauperum hujusmodi, post ipsius obitum ordinanda, nos executores suos prædictos in lecto transmigrationis suæ districtiu soneravit, suam nobis in hac parte voluntatem pleniùs dedurando. Nos verò voluntatem ipsius tam piam, tamque salutiferam adimplere volentes, pro viribus, ut tenemur, fundato priùs per nos auctoritate sufficienti in ecclesia S. Michaelis de Riolâ London. ubi præfatus Ricardus et domina Alicia consors sua ecclesiasticam sortiuntur sepulturam, quodam laudabili collegio de certis presbyteris et clericis, divina cotidie pro dictis Ricardo et Alicia celebrandis. Fundavimus etiam juxta voluntatem supradictam unam domum elemosinæ pro tresdecem pauperibus successivis temporibus imperpetuam moraturis et sustentaturis in eadem, situatam et ædificatam super quodam solo quod propter hoc nuper emimus in parochia S. Michaelis antedicti; scilicet inter dictam ecclesiam et murum includentem vacuum locum retrò summum altare ejusdem ecclesiæ ex parte australi, et magnum tenementum nostrum quod nuper fuit hospicium præfati Ricardi Whityngton ex parte boreali. Et extendit se à manso magistri et capellanorum dicti collegii, quod nuper etiam de novo ædificari fecimus ex parte orientali, usque ad quandam vacuam placeam terræ nostræ, quam intendimus legitimè Deo dante in cimiterium ecclesiæ prædictæ facere dedicari infra breve ex parte occidentali.

Ad quorum quidem domus et pauperum fundationem, ordinationem, et stabilitionem ulteriores, pleniores, et clariores, Dei Patris potentia, Dei Filii sapientia, et Spiritus Sancti clementia per nos primitus invocatis, procedimus in hunc modum.

Inprimis, de licentia, concessione, et auctoritate, tam serenissimi principis et domini domini Henrici sexti, regis Angliæ et Franciæ moderni, quàm reverendissimi in Christo patris et domini, domini Henrici permissione divinâ Cantuariensis archiepiscopi, totius Angliæ primatis, et apostolicæ sedis legati, de cujus jurisdictione immediata sunt ecclesia et parochia supradictæ; necnon omnium et singulorum aliorum quorum interest in hac parte consensu pariter et assensu requisitis et præhabitis, volumus et ordinamus, quod exnunc sint, erunt, et esse debeant imperpetuum in domo prædicta commorantes et sustentati tresdecem pauperes, unius vel utriusque sexus, juxta sanas discretiones et bonas conscientias subscriptorum supervisorum, et conservatorum ejusdem domus providendi et admittendi, qui pro vivis et defunctis infrascriptis, singulis diebus, cum facultas et opportunitas se optulerint deprecabuntur et exorabunt imperpetuum. Quorum quidem pauperum unum semper principalem, qui cæteros in potestate et reverentia præcellat esse volumus et Tutorem nuncupari: ad cujus officium pertinebunt bona præfatæ domus quæ ad manus suas devenerint benè et fideliter ministrare, dispersa congregare, congregata servare, et totam yconomiam ipsius domus, in quanto benè poterit supervidere, disponere, vel ordinare; caritatem et pacem inter socios suos ædificare pariter et fovere, necnon exempla mundiciæ, et aliarum virtutum in opere et sermone summo studio exhibere.

Cui quidem tutori volumus et statuimus, quod pauperes præfatæ domus præsentes et futuri in omnibus quæ tangunt honestates suas, vel honestatem aut utilitatem ipsius domus obediant pariter et intendant, prout decet.

Volentes quoque domui prædictæ de pauperibus hujusmodi, juxta formam fundationis suæ ordinationis nostræ præcedentis certitudinaliter providere, tresdecem egenos et devotos pauperes, ydoneos et honestos, ac multiplici virtute redimitos jam primo posuimus et constituimus in eadem; de quibus unum Robertum Chesterton vulgariter nuucupatum, quem ad hæc magis aptum et ydoneum reputavimus, in hoc casu, præficimus et reputavimus, prout sic præficimus et deputamus in tutorem pauperum et domus elemosinæ prædictorum.

Ipsam namque domum elemosinæ sic per nos fundatam, et de novo nuper ædificatam, simul cum liberis introitibus et exitibus ad eandem, per altum vicum et ecclesiam ibidem, ac luminaribus, fenestris, gutteris, stillicidiis, caminis, latrinis, fonte, necnon omnibus et singulis aliis pertinentiis, commoditatibus, et aisiamentis quibuscunque, adeo planè et integrè sicut habentur et ædificantur de præsenti, quamquam aperta sint in magnum tenementum nostrum, quod nuper fuit hospicium dicti Ricardi Whityngton, vel qualitercunque ædificentur aut jaceant super aliqua parte ejusdem, damus, concedimus, et tenore præsentium, virtute licentiæ dicti domini regis assignamus præfatis tutori et pauperibus ejusdem domus; habendum et tenendum totam prædictam domum elemosinæ, cum dictis liberis introitibus et exitibus ad eandem, ac luminaribus, fenestris, gutteris, stillicidiis, caminis, latrinis, fonte; necnon omnibus et singulis aliis pertinentiis, commoditatibus et aisiamentis quibuscunque, ut præmittitur, præfatis tutori et pauperibus, et eorum successoribus, pro morâ et inhabitatione suâ imperpetuum, absque impetitione vel occasione nostri, hæredum, at assignatorum nostrorum quorumcunque, de capitalibus dominis feodi illius, per servicia inde debita et de jure consueta: volentes et statuentes, quod domus illa Domus Dei, sive Domus Elemosinæ, vel Hospitale Ricardi Whityngton perpetualiter nuncupetur: et quod iidem Ricardus et Alicia uxor sua, veri et præcipui fundatores ejusdem domus et hospitalis ab omnibus censeantur et reputentur imperpetuum.

Volumus insuper et ordinamus, quod major civitatis London. qui nunc est, et omnes successores sui majores sive custodes dictæ civitatis, Supervisores domus prædictæ; et quod custodes communitatis misteræ merceriæ London. qui nunc sunt, et omnes successores sui custodes ejusdem misteræ, Conservatores præfatæ domus sint et vocentur imperpetuum.

Item statuimus et ordinamus, quod quilibet ipsorum nunc tutoris et pauperum et successorum suorum habeat unum locum per se infra dictam domum elemosinæ; scil. unam cellam sive domunculam, cum camino, latrina, et aliis necessariis, in qua levare debeat et cubare, ac solus divinæ contemplationi vacare possit si voluerit.

Et volumus, quod iidem nunc tutor et pauperes ac successores sui, dum fuerint in prædictis locis, domunculis, sive cellis suis, necnon in claustris, et cæteris partibus ipsius Domus Elemosinæ, quietè et pacificè, sine strepitu vel turbatione sociorum suorum se teneant et conversentur, orationibus, lectionibus, sive manuum suarum laboribus, aut aliis honestis occupationibus insistentes.

Item statuimus, quod singuli tutores domus prædictæ, infra mensem à tempore administrationis ipsius domus assumpti, associatis sibi duobus de discretioribus sociis ejusdem domus, ad denominationem conservatorum assignandis, plenum et fidele facient inventarium de omnibus communibus bonis mobilibus ipsius domus: confectumque sic inventarium absque mora conservatoribus et sociis dictæ domus exhibeant et demonstrent; in fine verò singulorum annorum vel postquam cessaverint ab officio, consimili modo faciant, et de toto administrationis suæ tempore justam reddant rationem, coram supervisore vel aliquo conservatorum et sociis dictæ domus pro tempore existentibus, ut sic constare possit universis quo statu tutores hujusmodi domum prædictam susceperint, servaverint, et dimiserint.

Statuimus etiam et ordinamus, quod semper, de cætero, infra viginti dies immediatè proximos, postquam ipsa Domus Elemosinæ per mortem, cessionem, vel quovis alio modo sit tutoris officio vel regimine vacans aut destituta, unus de prædicta domo ad hoc aptus et idoneus, vel aliundè si talis in ipsa protunc non reperiatur per nos quamdiu vixerimus, et illum nostrum qui diutius vixerit; ac post decessum nostrum per conservatores domus prædictæ, scil. custodes misteræ merceriæ London. qui pro tempore fuerint, in tutorem, ejusdem domus eligatur, præficiatur et deputetur. Si verò præfati conservatores post decessum nostrum tutorem hujusmodi, infra dictos viginti dies, eis ut præmittitur limitatos eligere, perficere, et deputare neglexerint in forma supradicta; tunc volumus et ordinamus, quod, lapsis semper viginti diebus illis, electio, præfectio, et deputatio de tutore hujusmodi ad supervisorem domus prædictæ; scil. majorem vel custodem London. qui pro tempore fuerit, ipsis vicibus et casibus tantummodo spectet, pertineat, et devolvatur. Proviso semper, quod per hæc nullum quoad alias electiones, præfectiones, et deputationes hujusmodi tutorum extunc proximè sequentes, dictis conservatoribus præjudicium in aliquo generetur.

Provisionem autem et substitutionem cæterorum pauperum præfatæ domus, ad singula loca ejusdem, quotienscunque, quandocunque, vel qualitercunque de cætero vacaverint faciendas, nobis quoad vixerimus, et illi nostrum qui diutius vixerit specialiter reservamus.

Post decessum verò nostrum volumus et statuimus, quod provisio et substitutio hujusmodi ad dictos conservatores et magistrum collegii supradicti, et successores suos hinc et inde imperpetuum spectent et pertineant sub hac forma; viz. quod magister dicti collegii, una et prima vice vacationis hujusmodi loci, post mortem nostram, unum pauperem ydoneum ad eundem locum sic vacantem providebit et substituet. Conservatores verò præfatæ domus sex aliis vicibus vacationum locorum hujusmodi tunc proximis et immediatè sequentibus, sex alios pauperes ad eadem loca sic vacantia similiter providebunt et substituent. Et extunc tertium una vice ad magistrum dicti collegii, et subsequenter sex aliis vicibus successivis ad conservatores prædictos provisio et substitutio hujusmodi spectabunt et pertinebunt. Et sic semper deinceps juxta hunc ordinem volumus, quod fiat per et inter dictos magistrum et conservatores, et successores suos in vacationibus hujusmodi locorum cum acciderint, loco semper et officio tutoris duntaxat exceptis.

Et ne locus alicujus talis pauperis domus prædictæ diu vacet, quod absit, statuimus et ordinamus, quod semper infra quindecem dies à tempore quo nota fuerit communiter vacatio loci hujusmodi, ille vel illi ad quem vel quos, post obitum nostrum, juxta ordinem præscriptum provisio et substitutio inde pertinent, vel pertinebunt, ut præmittitur, ea vice vacationis teneatur sive teneantur aliquem ydoneum pauperem ad eundem locum sic protunc vacantem providere et substituere. Si verò dictus magister pro vice sua, aut præfati conservatores pro vicibus suis aliquo tempore futuro, infra dictos quindecim dies, ut præmittitur, limitatos, defecerint de provisione et substitutione hujusmodi faciendis; tunc volumus et ordinamus, quod singulis temporibus et vicibus defectum illorum provisio et substitutio pauperum ad hujusmodi loca sic vacantia supervisori domus prædictæ, qui pro tempore fuerit sint totiens quotiens devolutæ. Salvis semper et reservatis dictis magistro et conservatoribus ac successoribus suis juribus eorum de provisione et substitutione hujusmodi aliis vicibus et vacationibus extunc sequentibus faciendis, juxta ordinationem et ordinem supradictos.

Pauperem verò quemlibet ad domum ipsam, vel aliquem locum in eadem providendum, substituendum, et admittendum, talem esse volumus; viz. humilem spiritu, et bonis temporalibus unde competenter vivere possit alibi destitutum, castum in corpore, et bonæ conversationis reputatum; illos ergo ad quos ex nostra ordinatione præsenti, post mortem nostram pertinebit ad domum prædictam, vel ad aliquem locum in eadem de quocunque paupere providere, rogamus et obsecramus humiliter et devotè, et eos quatenus cum reverentia possumus oneramus, coram Deo, sicut in tremendo judicio voluerint respondere, quod omni affectione inordinata, ac precis et pretii corruptione cessantibus, nullos præter ydoneos et devotos pauperes ad loca prædicta, cum vacaverint, ut præmittitur, provideant aut substituant quoquo modo.

Prohibemus itaque et statuimus, quod nullus qui fuerit de liberata prædictæ misteræ merceriæ, vel de liberata alicujus alterius misteræ dictæ civitatis, quem custodes et communitates earundem misterarum invenire deberent cum terris et tenementis eis licentia regia vel alio modo quocunque ad sustentationem hujusmodi pauperum de prædictis liberatis datis, aut legatis, in socium ipsius domus aliqualiter provideatur per conservatores antedictos, vel admittatur in eandem: quod si secùs fieri contingat, tunc volumus et ordinamus quod provisio et admissio hujusmodi omnino sint invalidæ: et quod extunc benè liceat majori sive custodi civitatis London, supervisori domus prædictæ, qui pro tempore fuerit, provisum et admissum hujusmodi totiens quotiens hoc acciderit, de domo prædicta totaliter expellere et amovere; aliumque pauperem loco ipsius amoti providere et substituere in eadem.

Nostræ tamen intentionis existit, et sic statuimus de cætero firmiter observari, quod pauperes cives London, et præcipuè pauperes debiles dictæ misteræ merceriæ, qui de liberata ejusdem minime fuerint, et quos communitas ipsius misteræ invenire non tenetur; necnon pauperes et impotentes clerici ac inferiores ministri collegii supradicti, qui laudabiliter et honestè Deo diu servierint in eodem, in socios domus elemosinæ prædictæ præ cæteris cum loca vacaverint provideantur et substituantur.

Tutor quoque præfatæ domus, qui nunc est, et successores sui tutores ibidem, pauperes quoscunque idoneos, modis et formis antedictis, provisos et substitutos ad singula loca dictæ domus cum vacaverint, post certum tempus probationis et examinationis ydonietatum et conversationum eorundem pauperum, secundùm arbitrium dictorum conservatorum limitandorum, si reperti fuerint ydonei, auctoritate præsentium admittere teneantur.

Præterea statuimus et ordinamus, quod præfati nunc tutor, et pauperes, ac successores sui imperpetuum, pacificè teneant et habeant, ac tenere possint et habere, sine molestatione vel impedimento cujuscunque omnia illa sedilia quæ pro eis ordinavimus in ecclesia et collegio supradictis. In quo quidem collegio sive ecclesia volumus quod iidem tutor et pauperes singulis diebus teneantur interesse ad audiendum Matutinas, Missas, Vesperas, Completorium et alias horas canonicas inibi celebrandas; et ad orationes suas ibidem Altissimo profundendas pro vivis et defunctis infrascriptis; scil. primo et principaliter pro animabus dictorum Ricardi Whityngton et Aliciæ fundatorum suorum: et deinde pro animabus domini Willielmi Whityngton militis, et dominæ Johannæ consortis suæ; ac domini Ivonis Fitzwaryn, et dominæ Matildis consortis suæ, parentum eorundem Ricardi Whityngton et Aliciæ. Subsequenterque pro animabus serenissimorum principum Ricardi secundi nuper regis Angliæ, et Thomæ de Wodestoke nuper ducis Gloucestriæ, specialium dominorum et promotorum ipsius Ricardi Whityngton; Annæ quoque et Alianoræ eorundem regis et ducis conthoralium: pro salubri insuper statu prædictorum dominorum nostrorum regis et archiepiscopi modernorum, ac conservatorum et benefactorum ipsius domus dum vixerint; et bono statu nostro dum vixerimus; animabus quoque suis et nostris cum migraverint et migraverimus ab hac luce: et generaliter pro omnibus illis quibus iidem Ricardus Whityngton et Alicia quomodolibet tenebantur, in vita pariter et morte, et pro animabus omnium fidelium defunctorum.

Statuimus insuper quod quilibet dictorum nunc tutoris et pauperum, ac successorum suorum singulis diebus primò cum surrexerit de cubili; et secundò cum transierit ad dormitum, dicat flexis genibus Pater noster et Ave, cum speciali et mentali recommendatione dictorum Ricardi Whityngton et Aliciæ Deo et beatæ Mariæ virgini facienda. Et etiam quod quilibet ipsorum tutoris et pauperum reliquis temporibus dierum illorum, quando melius aut commodius vacare poterit seu viderit faciendum, dicat pro statu et animabus omnibus supradictis tria vel duo psalteria ad minus gloriosæ virgini Mariæ; scil. ter quinquaginta salutationes angelicas, cum quindecim orationibus dominicis, et tribus symbolis fidei, nisi debilitate, vel alia causa legitima seu rationabili fuerit impeditus.

Item volumus et ordinamus, quod dicti nunc tutor et pauperes, et omnes successores sui qualibet die, si benè possìnt, semel scil. ad minus post altam missam, vel completorium finitum, adinvicem conveniant in collegio prædicto circa tumulum præfatorum Ricardi Whityngton et Aliciæ, et dicant ibidem adinvicem qui sciverint pro animabus eorundem Ricardi et Aliciæ, ac animabus omnium fidelium defunctorum psalmum De Profundis, cum versiculis oratione pro defunctis consuetis. Et qui nesciverint dicant devotè pro eisdem animabus tres orationes dominicas, cum totidem salutationibus angelicis et symbolo fidei; quibus peractis tutor, vel unus seniorum ipsorum pauperum, apertè dicat in Anglico, "God have mercy on our founders' souls, and all Christen." Et respondeant cæteri pauperes circumstantes, "Amen."

Volumus etiam et ordinamus quod præfati nunc tutor et pauperes, ac successores sui omnes et singuli teneantur communiter seu continuè residere infra prædictam domum elemosinæ et scepta ejusdem, sicut alii pauperes hujusmodi in consimilibus domibus elemosinæ vel hospitalibus communiter resident seu tenentur residere. Et quod singulis diebus, tam in prandio quàm in cœna, reficiantur et epulentur infra eandem domum, nisi rationabili causa fuerint impediti. Et quod à verbis vanis et otiosis dum in mensa fuerint se abstineant; ac ad honesta vel utilia, si loqui voluerint, se divertant.

Indumenta quoque superiora tutoris et pauperum domus antedictæ sint de honesta forma, et obscuro colore, ac panno lenis precii, statui suo concordanti.

Volumus ulterius et ordinamus, quod nec præfatus nunc tutor, nec aliquis successorum suorum tutorum dictæ domus, ullo modo se absentet in futurum à domo prædicta per duodecim dies in anno continuè vel interpolatè numerandos, absque licentia nostra, vel alicujus nostrum, dum vixerimus, vel supervisoris, seu alicujus conservatorum ejusdem domus post decessum nostrum. Et extunc in locis et ex causis duntaxat honestis. Nec quod aliquis aliorum pauperum præfatæ domus ullo modo se absentet ab eadem per unum diem integrum, vel extra scepta dictæ parochiæ se transferat sine licentia tutoris ipsius domus pro tempore existentis, si præsens fuerit, vel deputati sui eo absente, nisi major necessitas exigerit, vel alia causa rationabilis, per eundem authorem et deputatum suum approbanda subfuerit.

Et volumus quod tutor ipsius domus qui pro tempore fuerit, cum exierit scepta dictæ parochiæ, in villam vel extra villam, unum de consociis suis suum constituat deputatum, qui vices suas in præmissis et aliis donec revenerit exequatur.

Statuimus insuper et ordinamus, quod infirmis, debilibus, et impotentibus sociis dictæ domus cotidie, seu consocios ejusdem sanos et potentes, et hoc fœminei sexus specialiter, si qui fuerint in eadem diligentissimè succurratur et ministretur in opportunis.

Ordinamus etiam et statuimus, quod iidem tutor et pauperes cistam communem habeant, et sigillum commune: in qua cista teneantur et reponantur ipsum sigillum; necnon cartæ, literæ, privilegia, scripturæ et thesaurus dictæ domus, ac alia de quibus ipsi tutori et pauperibus videbitur expedire: quæ cista ponatur in secreto loco et tuto per eosdem, infra scepta dictæ domus. Et ad ipsam cistam sint tres claves dissimiles, et diversas habentes securas: quarum unam habeat tutor; et aliam senior socius: tertiam vero unus de aliis sociis dictæ domus, per nos dum vixerimus, et post decessum nostrum per custodes misteræ prædictæ singulis annis eligendus.

Et quod nullus omnes tres claves prædictas aut duas simul tenere præsumat; nec cum sigillo communi prædicto, aliquod sigillare nisi de licentia et consensu superioris et conservatorum ejusdem domus pro tempore existentium. Pecunia verò vel thesaurus, qui ultra impensas et expensas domus redditus, ut præfertur per tutorem annuali compoto superfuerit; necnon et notabilia jocalia domus, quæ non sunt cotidianis usibus applicanda, in dicta cista cum industria sollicita reserventur.

Statuimus etiam et ordinamus, quod nullus dictorum tutoris et pauperum præsentium vel futurorum, bona præfatæ domus, aut aliquam partem eorundem inordinatè dissipare seu consumere, dare vel imponerare præsumat quovismodo. Immo quod quilibet ipsorum ea conservare, augmentare, vel meliorare studeat toto posse, et cum decesserit bona sua, vel notabilem partem eorundem eidem domui conferat seu relinquat.

Volumus namque, statuimus, et ordinamus, quod tutor et pauperes dictæ domus, et successores sui, pro victu, vestitu, et aliis necessariis suis certas pensiones sive portiones singulis septimanis imperpetuum, de redditibus, proventibus, et bonis communibus ipsius domus habebunt et percipient in hac forma; viz. tutor qualibet septimana xvi^{d}. et quilibet cæterorum duodecim pauperum qualibet septimana quatuor denarios; unde volumus et statuimus, quod se teneant pro contentis, et alibi mendicare non præsumant, sub pœna quæ contra incorrigibiles inferiùs est statuta.

Item volumus et ordinamus, quod nullus leprosus, furiosus, vel alia infirmitate intollerabili detentus, admittatur in domum prædictam: quod si quis dictorum tutoris pauperum, ac successorum suorum post tempus admissionis suæ lepra fuerit infectus vel alia infirmitate intollerabili, à domo prædicta penitùs amoveatur, ne socios suos inficiat sua labe, vel ad horrorem provocet: et quod idem sic amotus ad alium locum ubi recipi poterit se transferat et transferre oporteat omnino, ubi quamdiu vixerit volumus quod pro victu et vestitu et aliis necessariis suis quatuordecem denarios recipiat qualibet septimana, ut præmittitur; et quod de domo et numero dictorum tresdecem pauperum semper durante vita sua computetur.

Item statuimus et ordinamus, quod in casu quo aliquis pauperum dictæ domus post admissionem suam in eandem ad victum quinque marcarum per annum de claro contigerit jure hæreditatis vel aliter augmentari seu promoveri; quod extunc ipse pauper sic augmentatus vel promotus, eo ipso ab ipsa domo sit amotus et expulsus; et alius pauper ibidem provideatur et substituatur pro eodem.

Item volumus et ordinamus, quod si quis pauper prædictæ domus, de cætero ad victum suum infra summam quinque marcarum annuarum post admissionem ipsius casualiter, ut præfertur, in redditibus seu proventibus temporaliter augmentetur, extunc medietas summæ hujusmodi absque dolo et fraude in communi cista dictæ domus ponatur; et ad commune commodum ejusdem domus convertatur: Et pauper sic augmentatus aliam medietatem inde, unacum portione pauperis sibi priùs assignata ibidem habeat et contentetur de eadem; alioquin pauper ipse qui præsentem ordinationem contravenerit à domo prædicta pænitùs evellatur, et alius in locum suum provideatur et deputetur.

Volumus insuper et ordinamus, quod omnia statuta rationi consona et præsentibus minime repugnantia, quæ pro bono dictæ domus aut statu pauperum ejusdem per conservatores dictæ domus, post decessum nostrum, ex assensu supervisoris ejusdem domus fient et statuentur, debeant ab ipsis tutore et pauperibus, ac successoribus suis firmiter observari; ita semper quod ambiguum et obscurum, necnon briga, si quæ super hujusmodi statutis oriantur per supervisorem ejusdem domus, scil. majorem vel custodem civitatis London. qui pro tempore fuerit, declarentur, corrigantur, et reformentur.

Item statuimus et ordinamus, quod nullus pauperum dictæ domus, tutore inferior, in civitate aut suburbiis London, extra domum prædictam pernoctet absque causa rationabili judicio dicti tutoris approbanda. Nullus etiam eorum sit incontinens, seu communiter ebriosus, gulosus, vel brigosus inter socios; nec frequentator tabernarum aut congregationum, vel spectaculorum illicitorum, seu in dicta civitate vel suburbiis, de die aut de nocte nullum vagans sine causa rationabili, judicio tutoris vel conservatorum ipsius domus discutienda. Quodque si quis eorum de præmissorum aut de viciis vel excessibus hiis similibus notoriè denotatus existat, per monitionem debitam sibi per tutorem, vel aliquem sociorum suorum semel vel bis faciendam corripiatur, seu per subtractionem portionis suæ, majus vel minus, juxta discretionem dicti tutoris limitandæ, et communi cistæ dictæ domus applicandæ, aut alias pœnas competentes sibi per ipsum tutorem imponendas arbitrare puniatur. Et si aliquis dictorum pauperum sic monitus, seu punitus in aliquibus casuum prædictorum, vel aliis consimilibus tertio culpabilis reperiatur, et inde coram nobis dum vixerimus, seu post decessum nostrum coram tutore et conservatoribus dictæ domus elemosinæ pro tempore existentibus juxta discretiones et considerationes nostras aut suas convictus fuerit, incorrigibilis omnino censeatur, et à pensione ac loco quos habuerit in domo prædicta per nos dum vixerimus, ac per dictos tutorem et conservatores postea penitùs amoveatur, et alius idoneus loco ejus provideatur et substituatur ibidem pro eodem.

Si verò quisquam eorundem pauperum dissipator, dilapidator, sive consumptor inordinatus bonorum ejusdem domus, fornicator publicus vel adulter, seu majoris criminis perpetrator notoriè denotatus fuerit, et inde juxta discretiones et considerationes nostras dum vixerimus, et cujuslibet nostrum diutius viventis, vel juxta discretiones et considerationes præfatorum tutoris et conservatorum, post decessum nostrum culpabilis repertus sive convictus fuerit, ad primam vicem hujusmodi, qua sic culpabilis inventus sive convictus fuerit, intollerabilis et expulsione dignissimus censeatur, et à domo prædicta per nos, dum vixerimus, et ipsum tutorem et conservatores postea totaliter sit amotus, facultate tamen libera post decessum nostrum cuilibet pauperi dictæ domus querelandi et appellandi ad supervisorem ejusdem domus tantum et non ad alium semper salva.

Defectus autem et excessus tutoris domus prædictæ, qui pro tempore fuerit, per nos dum vixerimus, et illum nostrum qui diutiùs vixerit, ac per conservatores et supervisorem ejusdem domus post decessum nostrum, volumus et statuimus, quod reformabuntur, corrigentur, sive punientur in hac forma; scil. tam per subtractionem pensionis ipsius tutoris per septimanam, vel majus et minus juxta qualitatem et quantitatem criminis sui per discretiones nostras, et diutius nostrum viventis, ac discretiones et considerationes dictorum conservatorum et supervisoris post decessum nostrum, limitandam et moderandam, quam per procurationem et ammotionem ipsius tutoris ab officio, pensione, et loco quos habuerit in eadem domo, si ejus pertinacia id exposcat.

Statuimus ulterius et ordinamus, quod præsens fundatio sive ordinatio nostra, ac omnia et singula capitula et statuta ejusdem, coram tutore et pauperibus domus prædictæ singulis quarteriis anni ad minus distinctè et apertè legantur ac intelligibiliter exponantur: habeantque tutor et pauperes antedicti secum in domo prædicta copiam ordinationis ejusdem; ut eam, cum eis placuerit, religendo in ipsa contenta capitula eorum memoriis efficacius commendentur.

Finaliter quoque rogamus, et corditer deprecamur dictos tutorem et pauperes præsentes et futuros, quatenus mutuam et continuam caritatem inter se habentes, ac Deo et animabus prædictis juxta præsentem ordinationem laudabiliter servientes sic adinvicem vivant et conserventur in domo prædicta, quod ad domum regni cœlestis, quæ pauperibus est ore dominico repromissa, post hujus vitæ terminum valeant pervenire. Et ut nobis ac cuilibet nostrum libera facultas remaneat de hiis, quæ domum elemosinæ prædictam qualitercunque concernunt vel concernere poterunt in futurum, præmissis omnibus et singulis addendi, detrahendi, ac ea declarandi, corrigendi, et mutandi, nec non super præmissis dispensandi, novaque statuendi et ordinandi, ordinatione nostra præsenti non obstante, nobis quoad vixerimus, et illi nostrum qui diutiùs vixerit reservamus plenariam potestatem per præsentes.

In quorum omnium et singulorum testimonium sigilla nostra præsentibus apposuimus; datis Londini xxj°. die mensis Decembris anno Domini M.CCCC.xxiiij°. et anno regni dicti regis Henrici sexti post conquestum tertio.

NUM. XI.

Confirmatio Huberti Cantuar. archiepiscopi facta Canonicis de Ranton super concessionibus Roberti Noel, et Thomæ filii sui.

[Ex Registro de Haghmon, penes D. Margar. Barker. a. 1657.]

Hubertus, Dei gratiâ, Cantuariensis archiepiscopus, totius Angliæ primas, &c. Nos itaque præter hæc, cartas Roberti Noel, et Thomæ Noel filii sui factas sæpedictis canonicis, et ecclesiæ S. Mariæ de Essartis, quæ in obedientiâ et subjectione tenetur et teneri debet ecclesiæ S. Johannis de Haghmon, inspeximus; et ex earum tenore intelleximus ecclesiam de Sesteforde,[a] cum capellis suis de Elinhale et de Rontone, et de Dutentone, eis canonicè à prædicto Roberto Noel et Thoma filio suo fuisse collatam et concessam: et præterea ecclesiam de Greneburgâ, cum omni integritate et libertate suâ, &c.

NUM. XII.

[Ibid.]

Hæc est amicabilis Compositio, facta inter abbatem et conventum de Haghmon, et priorem et conventum de Ranton; viz. quod cum præficiendus erit abbas de Haghmon, vocandi erunt prior et canonici de Rantone, ad electionem ejus celebrandam, sicut et canonici de Haghmon. Præterea abbas de Haghmon, semel in anno veniet apud Rantone causa visitationis, ad corrigendum quæ viderit esse corrigenda; et si pluries expedierit ut veniat ibi, causa correctionis, ad vocationem prioris et conventus accedet: sed quum visitationis causa ibidem adenerit, non moram ibidem faciet nisi per unam noctem, nisi ad instantiam et petitionem prioris et conventus de Rontone. Si autem transeundo ob alia negotia expedienda ibi accesserit, honorificè admittatnr tanquam alius abbas. Præterea prior et conventus de Rantone admitterent quem viderint idoneum in canonicum et fratrem de Rantone, irrequisito consensu abbatis et cenventus de Haghmon, dum tamen professionem faciet abbati de Haghmon, tanquam suo abbati in ecclesia S. Mariæ de Rantone, advocationem prioris et conventus de Rontone. Præterea, si prior creandus erit apud Rontone, canonici de Rontone eligent unum de canonicis de Haghmon, quem voluerint, exceptis abbate et capitali priore, et alium quem voluerint, de canonicis de Rontone, et utrumque electum præsentabunt abbati de Haghmon; et abbas quem voluerit exilis duobus electis præficiet in priorem apud Rontone.

PRIORATUS DE LILLESHULL.

NUM. XVI.

Fundationis Historia.[b]

Ecclesia S. Alcmundi temporibus antiquorum Anglorum, in magnâ habebatur veneratione; Ædelfleda etenim regina Merciæ, eam dicitur fundâsse, et magnis honoribus ditâsse. Post multum temporis rex Edgarus pacificus, consilio beati Dunstani, eam ampliavit et ditavit terris et possessionibus, et decem præbendis fecit, quia erat de genere beati Alcmundi descendens de nobili prosapiâ regum Northanhumbrorum; itaque una de decem præbendis erat Wilfrescota, Mora. Mersse, Effechota, Wistanestowe, scil. quatuor hidæ, et ecclesia dc Wistanetowe. Habuerunt itaque ex dono regum præbendam istam canonici successivè, usque ad tempus regis Edwardi. Rex verò Edwardus dedit eam Godrico Wiffesune. Iste verò Godricus Wiffesune tenuit eam in temporibus regis Willelmi Normannorum ducis, et Rogeri comitis Salopiæ. Mortuo Godrico successit ei in præbendâ, per comitis Rogeri donum, Nehel clericus, qui fuit medicus comitis. Mortuo Nigello, Hugo comes, filius Rogeri comitis, impetravit à canonicis S. Alcmundi, quod dimitterent præbendam illam Gilleberto de Cunedore laico per tres vel quatuor annos: reddendo inde x^{s}. ecclesiæ S. Alcmundi per annum, et infra hoc tempus et terminum prædictum noluit providere, unde reddent prædicto Gileberto servicium suum, et deinde reddent prædictam præbendam ecclesiæ S. Alcmundi; optinuit comes, quia guerra erat inter ipsum et Walenses, et tota Longefeld fere destructa erat; et Gilebertus promisit se auxilium et manutenementum à comite Herefordiæ et domino de Cluna habiturum, et præbendam restauraturum: ita decanus et canonici decepti concesserunt: sed comes Hugo infra hunc terminum morte præventus est in Angliseiâ, cui successit Robertus de Belismo, qui guerram movit contra regem Henricum; cujus tempore prædictus Gilbertus de Cunedore per Robertum comitem vi. occupavit præbendam illam. Tunc temporis, expulso Roberto comite, Paganus filius Johannis fuit vicecomes; canonici verò S. Alcmundi planxerunt se vicecomiti Pagano, de Gileberto, quod injustè detenuit præbendam, et ipse Gilebertus auctoritate episcopi excommunicatus erat; vicecomes verò Paganus tamen locutus est cum Gileberto, quod Gilebertus pœnitentiam egit, et reddidit præbendam in manus Adæ decani, et Roberti de Longedone et Walteri filii Gubaldi; et ab unoquoque canonico totius ecclesiæ prædictus Gilebertus et milites sui verberati et disciplinati sunt in ecclesia S. Martini et in conspectu totius populi; et sic nudus dictus est Gilebertus in ecclesiam S. Alcmundi, et ibi optulit præbendam super altare: canonici verò concesserunt vicecomiti Pagano facto cyrographo, quod teneret præbendam illam, non hæreditariè sed canonicè in vitâ suâ, et reddent annuatim x^{s}. ecclesiæ S. Alcmundi.

Vicecomes verò Paganus dedit Gilberto, Uptune, quia per consilium ejus dimiserat præbendam illam in manus canonicorum. Mortuo Pagano vicecomite canonici S. Alcmundi saisierunt præbendam Wistanestowe; sed Rogerus comes Herefordiæ, vir bellicosus, vi occupavit illam, quia habuit filiam Pagani in conjugem, quam postea sprevit. Helyas verò de Say dominus de Clune, quia præbenda illa erat ei vicina et utilis, petiit eam Hereford. Rogero, et hoc consilio Baldwini de Stepelton, et dedit ei xxx. marcas et optinuit eam Helyas à comite Herefordiæ, qui nec potuit nec debuit eam dare nec vendere; et sic concordati sunt comes Rogerus et Helyas, qui primitùs inimici erant et guerram habebant inter se, et hoc fuit in tempore regis Stephani. Helyas de Say dedit eam Baldwino de Stepelton pro servicio unius militis. Baldwino concessit Philippus filius ejus, qui eam injustè occupavit, et Isab. de Say, filia Heliæ recepit servicium unius militis ad Clunam de Philippo filio Balwini. Hæc accepimus à senibus viris venerabilibus, scil. Adâ decano S. Alcmundi, Waltero filio Gubaldi, Roberto de Longedone, Ric. Pigot, canonicis S. Alcm. Hereberto de Castello, Rogero Ang. et Gileberto et Baldw. Anglico, et Ailw. Botte de Cunedoure; et Thoky, et Ulfinge sacerdotibus de Cunedoure.

Inquisitio capta die dominicâ in octabis beatæ Mariæ Virginis apud Ribstan coram escaetore domini regis citra Trentam, anno regni regis Edwardi filii regis Edwardi decimo, juxta formam brevis et huic inquisitioni annexam, per Henricum Blome, Robertum de Haltone, &c. juratos; qui dicunt super sacramentum suum, quod in Hospitali beatæ Mariæ Magdalenæ in brevi contento, debent esse imperpetuum, secundùm formam fundationis ejusdem hospitalis cotidie duo capellani divina celebrantes; unde, per totum tempus Nicholai de Molyns custodis ibidem subtrahitur cantaria unius capellani per eundem Nicholaum.

Item quoad hospitalitates dicunt; quod si peregrini, vel clerici mendici, seu cæterii indigentes, per idem hospitale forte itinerarent, seu vagi migrarent, in eodem hospitali per unam noctem haberent refugium, et hospicium, ut de victu et lecto, ita quod mane prætereant, unde nullus ibi habet refugium, victum, nec lectum; sed vacuâ manu recedunt. Quoad elemosinas faciendas, dicunt, quod die beatæ Mariæ Magdalenæ annuatim imperpetuum, cuilibet pauperi venienti, debet distribui unus panis fratri, valens obolum, quarterio frumenti valente quinque solidos; et unum allec, unde per totum tempus dicti Nicholai elemosina hæc per eundem Nicholaum subtrahitur; sed loco hujus dat pauperibus dicto die Magdalenæ venientibus, unum salsarium fabarum, seu farinæ plenum; sed major pars pauperum nichil inde possidebunt. Dicunt etiam, quod minuta opera caritativa, quæ ab hujusmodi Hospitali, et præcipue ab hoc deberent emanare nulla inde fuerint, occasione absentiæ suæ, quia raro ibi residet: cum tamen residere teneatur, omnia hæc per Nicholaum de Molyns custodem ibidem, per tempus suum integrum subtrahuntur, et adnichilantur.

OMITTED BY DUGDALE.

Bedfordshire.

HOSPITALS of ST. JOHN and ST. LEONARD in BEDFORD.

Leland says, "Both the Hospitals of Bedford Town were of the foundation of the Townsmen of Bedford."[a] "St. Johns standeth on the right hand first cumming in from South to Bedforde. And then on the same hand a little aside is St. Leonards."[b]

The Messrs. Lysons show that St. John Baptist's Hospital was founded in 1280 by Robert Parys, for a Master and two or more brethren priests, and likewise for the reception and support of decayed freemen of the Town. Many years before the Reformation, they add, this Hospital had ceased to be occupied according to the founder's direction, and was consolidated with the parish Church of St. John, the rectors of which became Masters of the Hospital in succession. The presentation to the joint office of Rector and Master is still vested in the corporation of Bedford. The co-brethren are now poor freemen, appointed by the Master: they receive a weekly allowance of ninepence each, but have no apartments in the Hospital. The old Hall of this institution is still standing.[c]

A Particular of St. John's Hospital, much burnt, is preserved in the Cottonian manuscript Tib. E. viii. fol. 246, in which its yearly value is put at 26*l.* 18*s.* 2½*d.* A considerable portion of the lands and tenements appertaining to it, are stated to have been alienated from it by different Incumbents. Walter Swynesheved, t. Ric. II. 6 Hen. IV., and John Dover 1458, are mentioned as Masters of this Hospital by Cole.[d]

St. Leonard's Hospital was founded by the Townsmen of Bedford before the year 1302. The patronage of it was afterwards given by the Town to Sir Reginald Bray, for his good offices in getting their fee-farm rent reduced.[e] The manor of Everton on the borders of the county belonged to this Hospital,[f] whose inhabitants are said, Pat. 51 Edw. III., to have had possessions in Bedford, Harwedon, Elnestow, Kerdington, West Hamsted, and Cotes.[g]

EATON.

Tanner says, In some copies of the Lincoln Taxation, made 20 Edw. I., there is mention of a Hospital at Eaton in Bedfordshire.

OCCLEVE or HOCCLYFF.

Here was a Hospital of a Master and several brethren as ancient as King John's reign. It was dedicated to St. John Baptist.[h] Tanner says, "Vide Rot. Pat. 33 Hen. VI. p. 1, m. 2. Pat. 38 Hen. VI. p. 2, m. 10." Compare also MS. Harl. 6963. pp. 118, 157. Lysons's Mag. Brit. vol. i. p. 95. says there are now no remains of it.

Berkshire.

The HOSPITALS of ST. HELEN and ST. JOHN at ABINGDON.

St. Helen's Hospital was founded by Geffrey Barbar and John de St. Helen, in the reign of Henry the Fifth. There were in Leland's time six poor men and six poor women maintained in it by the guild or fraternity of the Holy Cross, which was founded for the building and repairing of Bridges and Highways and the maintenance of poor people. But this guild, says Tanner, being dissolved by the Act for taking away Chantries, &c. Sir John Mason, one of the Masters of Requests, and a native of this place, obtained the lands, and therewith founded the present Hospital, upon the old site, called Christ's Hospital, 19th May, 1553, for the maintenance of thirteen poor men and women. The Messrs. Lysons, Mag. Brit. vol. i. p. 228, give some further particulars of this later foundation.

St. John's Hospital at Abingdon has been mentioned in an earlier portion of the present Work. It stood without the gate of the great Benedictine Abbey, over-against St. Nicholas's Church. It was founded by one of the Abbats of that House for the maintenance of six poor people; is yet in being; and, under the government of the mayor and aldermen of Abingdon, still maintains its number of inhabitants. William de Alnescote, in the 16th of Edw. II., gave a messuage and lands in Sogworth to this Hospital.[i]

FYFIELD.

Here, says Tanner, was an Hospital dedicated to St. John Baptist, founded by the executors of John Golafre before the 20th Hen. VI.[k]

HUNGERFORD.

An Hospital here is mentioned on the patent Roll of 9 Edw. I. and also in Pat. I Hen. IV. p. 1. where it is said to have been dedicated to St. John Baptist. In a Note Tanner says, The remains of this Place are now called the Priory. It was endowed with one carucate of land, two acres of meadow, six cottages (which were of the yearly rent of 40*s.* A.D. 1405), and the oblations ordered upon the feast of St. John Baptist. The Prior or Warden was to celebrate divine service thrice in a week, and to relieve the poor inhabitants of the town in time of scarcity. The duke of Lancaster was patron.[a] The Messrs. Lysons say that no information can now be obtained of the Site of this Hospital.[b]

LAMBORN.

An Hospital on the north side of the Church, founded by John Isbury, Esq. A.D. 1502,[c] for ten poor men, viz. six nominated by the Warden of New College in Oxford, and four by the family of Hippesley in Lamborn. It is yet in being, and the ten poor men therein receive xxii^{s}. per week, three loads of wood, a portion of wheat and malt yearly, and a share of the fine paid every year for renewing of the lease.[d] This Hospital was continued by an Act of Parliament passed in the 31st year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth.[e]

NEWBURY.

St. Bartholomew's Hospital at Newbury is said to have been founded by King John, who granted a fair at Newbury upon St. Bartholomew's day for its benefit. This Hospital was formerly under the government of a Warden, Master, or Prior. It is now by a charter from Queen Elizabeth vested in the corporation; and supports six men and six women pensioners.[f]

READING.

The Hospitals of St. Laurence and St. Mary Magdalen at Reading; the former founded by Hugh the eighth abbat, without the gate of St. Mary's Monastery, about 1190; the latter before 1134 by Ausgerus, or Aucherius, the second abbat; have been noticed with Reading Abbey in a former volume. St. Laurence's Hospital was established for the maintenance of twenty-six poor people and the entertainment of strangers and pilgrims. St. Mary Magdalen's for twelve leprous persons and one or more chaplains.

WALLINGFORD.

Tanner says, The Master, brethren, and sisters of the Hospital of St. John Baptist here, occur upon the records in the beginning of Edward the First's reign.[g] This House was without the South gate of the Town, and had revenues, 26 Hen. VIII., valued at 6*l.* per annum. He seems to think that it was the same foundation with the free Chapel of St. John Baptist granted 4 et 5 Phil. et Mar. to Thomas Gratewike and Antony Lamb.[h]

Buckinghamshire.

BUCKINGHAM.

An old Hospital, of a Master and several infirm brethren, dedicated to St. Laurence.[i] The Almshouse at Buckingham founded by Queen Elizabeth in 1597, is supposed to have been built upon the site.

NEWPORT-PAGNELL.

Madox in his Formulare Anglicanum, p. 424, mentions Two Hospitals here. One dedicated to St. Margaret, before A.D. 1240. The other called the New Hospital, mentioned in the same year. Of neither of these have we any later accounts.

HOSPITAL of ST. JOHN at NEWPORT-PAGNELL.

This Hospital was founded about the 9th Edw. I. by John de Somery, and dedicated to St. John Baptist and St. John the Evangelist. It was rated in the 26th Hen. VIIIth at 6*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* It was refounded by Queen Anne the consort of King James the First, for three poor men and three poor women, above fifty years of age; and has therefore been since called Queen Anne's Hospital. The vicar of Newport for the time is appointed Master. Willis in his MS. History of Newport-Pagnell Hundred has preserved the following names of the MASTERS of this HOSPITAL, previous to the time of the Suppression of Religious Houses. Adam Russell, first Master: Gilbert de Lude, 1291; Richard de Wylies, 1302: John Drayton, 1340; William Draper, 1345; Thomas More died Master in 1360; Thomas de Hawkshead, 1360; Henry; Ralph Hayward, 1369; John Dene, 1374; John Carter, 1381; Thomas Mody, 1386; Henry Smith died in 1403; William Baynton, 1483; Thomas Urmeston, 1496; Thomas Smithson, 1501; Thomas Copland, S.T.P.; Edmund Campion, 1510; Thomas Thirnham, 1529; John Sanderson, 1548.[k]

The chief endowment of this Hospital consisted in seven acres and a half of land in Chicheley, some parcels of land and a certain right of common in Chaldecote, a meadow called Lyon's Holm, a meadow called Beggar's Holm, and various tenements.[l]

STONY STRATFORD.

Madox in his Formulare, in a passage which has been already quoted under Newport-Pagnell, likewise mentions an Hospital here before A.D. 1240. And Tanner says, in Pat. 26 Edw. III. p. 2, m. 13 vel 14, I meet with the Chapel of the Hospital of St. John upon the causeway leading to the Bridge at Stony Stratford. But more of it I cannot learn. Tanner seems to doubt whether this Hospital might not have stood upon the Northamptonshire side of the River.

WYCOMB.

Tanner notices two Hospitals at Wycomb. One, an Hospital for Lepers, founded before the 12th Hen. III., and dedicated to St. Margaket and St. Giles.[m]

The other, St. John Baptist's Hospital, was founded for a Master, Brethren, and Sisters before the 20th Hen. III. It was in the patronage of the Mayor and Burgesses of the Town as early as 1344.[a] And though after the Dissolution, he adds, Queen Mary granted it to Sir Robert Throgmorton, Queen Elizabeth granted it, in her 4th year, to the corporation, and refounded the Hospital, which is yet in being, under the government of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Bailiffs for four poor people, &c.[b] Langley, in his History of the Hundred of Desborough, says that the rents of this Hospital have of late years allowed an increase of its inhabitants.

Cambridgeshire.

HOSPITAL of ST. JOHN THE EVANGELIST at CAMBRIDGE.

Tanner calls this "An old Hospital for a Master and Brethren, founded by Nigellus bishop of Ely, or rather by one Henry Frost burgess of Cambridge, in the time of Nigellus, to the honour of St. John the Evangelist, which was said to have been at first endowed with 140*l.* per annum; but by a very accurate account of the revenues taken just before the suppression of this House, they amounted to no more than 80*l.* 1*s.* 10½*d.* A.D. 1281, Hugh de Balsham bishop of Ely obtained licence from the King to turn this Hospital into a College of Students, "secundum regulam Scolarium Oxon. qui de Merton cognominantur," Pat. 9 Edw. I., which project did not take effect; so that it continued till King Henry the Seventh's time, when, by reason of the alienations and ill behaviour of the then Members, it was surrendered and dissolved; and the site and lands were granted 2 Hen. VIII. to the executors of the lady Margaret countess of Richmond, in order to the erecting a College, to be dedicated to St. John the Evangelist, in the same place, according to the will of that good lady and great encourager of learning, which was shortly after done; and, by the munificence of the foundress and other benefactors, herein are now maintained a Master, fifty-four fellows, and above eighty scholars, besides officers and servants. Their revenues were valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 507*l.* 12*s.* 7*d.*"[c]

Tanner says, The Hermitage of St. Anne, and the Hospital of Lazars thereby, at Cambridge, were built by Henry Tangmer, one of the burgesses of Cambridge and alderman of the Corpus Christi Guild, before the year 1397. Vide MS. Historiolam Corp. Christ. Coll. Cant. et Registr. Eliens. MS. Baker. in bibl. publ. Acad. Cantab. vol. xxxv. p. 454.

ELY.

The following is Tanner's Account of St. John's Hospital at Ely. He says, "An ancient Hospital here, founded probably by some of the Bishops, and partly maintained out of the revenues of the Bishoprick, occurs 16 Hen. II. in the account of the vacancy upon the death of bishop Nigell.[d] But it is not evident whether the Hospital of Ely there mentioned, was that of St. John Baptist, or that of St. Mary Magdalen,[e] two Hospitals, both in Ely, which were united by bishop Hugh Norwold[f] about A.D. 1240, and managed by some of the Monks of the Priory till the year 1458,[g] when bishop William Gray made one of his secular Chaplains Master or Warden. It was valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 25*l.* 5*s.* 3¾*d.* per annum, and, 4 Eliz., settled, on the Master and Fellows of Clare Hall in Cambridge.[h]

There are now scarcely any remains of the Buildings of St. John's Hospital.

LEVERINGTON.

There was an old Hospital at Leverington long since decayed, says Tanner, and the endowment swallowed up.[i] The Messrs. Lysons say it was dedicated to St. John Baptist, and suspect that certain lands appropriated before the Reformation to superstitious uses, but now vested in feoffees for purposes of charity, belonged formerly to this Hospital. No traces of the House remain, nor is its site known.[k]

STERESBERGH, or STURBRIDGE, near CAMBRIDGE.

Tanner says, "The Hospital of St. Mary Magdalen for Lepers here was anciently in the disposal of the burgesses of Cambridge, but about the year 1245, Hugh de Norwold, bishop of Ely, got the patronage of it, which was enjoyed by his successors, who collated the Master or Warden till the Suppression. The profits and endowments of this Hospital or Free Chapel, were leased for ninety-nine years, A.D. 1497, and then, 36 Hen. VIII., to the Mayor, bailiffs, &c. of the town of Cambridge, for sixty years; and were granted, 4 Jac. I., to John Shelbury and Phil. Chewte, gent."[l]

THORNEY.

An Hospital at this place under the government of Thorney Abbey, before 1166, has been already noticed in one of the Charters in the Appendix to that Monastery.

Much relating to Sturbridge Chapel will be found among Cole's MSS. in the British Museum.

LONG STOW.

Walter, vicar of this place, according to Tanner, founded here, temp. Hen. III., or before, an Hospital of poor Sisters,[a] which was dedicated to the blessed Virgin.[b]

WISBECH.

An Hospital here, dedicated to St. John Baptist, occurs as early as 1319. The Mastership, Tanner says, was in the collation of the Bishops of Ely from 1334. No traces of this Hospital are now to be found, nor is its site ascertained. Tanner says, "Vide Pat. 51 Edw. III. m. 34 vel 35. Rex concessit Joanni Franceis in feodo certa mess. terr. et ten. in Wisebich nuper amortizat. Hospitali ibidem per servic. debita."

WHITTLESFORD.

Here was an Hospital near the Bridge of Whittlesford, in the reign of Edward the First, and it was probably of earlier foundation. Tanner, from the Worthington Collections, conjectured it to have been founded by one William Colvill. It was dedicated to St. John Baptist, and the Mastership was in the gift of the Bishops of Ely, who certainly presented to it from A.D. 1353.[c] The Messrs. Lysons say, the remains of the ancient Hospital at Whittlesford Bridge are in the parish of Duxford St. John.[d]

WYKES, or WYKEN.

In the 15th Edw. II., Mary Lady Bassingbourn founded an Hospital at Wykes for seven poor old men. It was attached to the Priory of Spinney, the monks of which were bound to provide for each of the pensioners a farthing loaf, a herring, and a pennyworth of ale daily, besides fuel and clothing. Tanner refers to Collect. Ric. Parkeri ex evidentiis Familiæ de Peyton, MS. penes Pet. le Neve, arm. Norroy, &c.; whence he appears to have received his information. There are no remains of this Hospital.

Cheshire.

BEBINGTON.

The Messrs. Lysons, in their Magna Britannia for Cheshire, p. 505, under Bebington, say, "It appears by ancient records, that in the reign of Henry the Third there was a Chapel in this parish dedicated to St. Thomas à Becket. It is probable that it was the Chapel of the Spital of which William Lancelyn died seised in 1382.[e] This Spital, of which there are now no remains, is spoken of in a record of the reign of Edward the First as an Hospital of Lepers.[f]

BOUGHTON HOSPITAL.

The site of this Hospital, at the east end of Forest Street, Chester, is still extra-parochial, and called Spital Boughton. It was founded by Earl Randle Blundeville, and was dedicated to St. Giles. Mr. Ormerod notices one or two early grants to it. The privileges of this Hospital were confirmed by Hugh Kevelioc and King Edward the Third, and are stated in a Plea of Quo Waranto of the 15th Hen. VII., the original of which is in the Chester Exchequer.[g] Mr. Ormerod gives the following Names of Wardens or Masters of this House: Rogerus, 26 Edw. I.; Radulphus de Hole, 30 Edw. I.; Ranulphus de Bebington, 32 Edw. I.; Matthæus de Hole, 2 Edw. II.; Robertus Vickars, 22 Hen. VI.; David Barrs, 31 Hen. VI. This Hospital and its Chapel were completely destroyed during the siege of Chester in 1645.[h] The precise spot upon which they stood is marked by a cemitery.

HOSPITAL of ST. JOHN BAPTIST, CHESTER.

This Hospital was situated without the north gate of the City; and is stated, in an Inquisition of the 15th of Edw. III., to have been founded by Randle Duke of Britanny and Earl of Chester and Richmond, in honour of God, the Virgin, and St. John the Baptist, "for the sustentation of poor and silly persons;" that the same was confirmed by King Henry the IIId, and that King Edward the Ist, when Earl of Chester, gave the keeping of the said Hospital to the Prior of Birkenhead, and his successors.[i] In the Taxation of Pope Nicholas the IVth the revenue of this Hospital is rated at 5*l.* In the 26th Hen. VIIIth its clear income amounted to 13*l.* 7*s.* 10*d.* The gross value was 28*l.* 10*s.* 4*d.* This Hospital also, with the Chapel annexed to it, was demolished in the siege of Chester. The Site was granted to the City by Oliver Cromwell. This Hospital was rebuilt in the reign of Charles II. In 1809 its revenues were returned by the Bishop of the Diocese at 18*l.* Mr. Ormerod has given a List of the Priors, Masters, or Keepers, as extracted from Stone's MSS. See the History of Cheshire, vol. i. p. 276.

DENWALL.

The hamlet of Denwall is attached to the township of Nesse, in Cheshire. In this hamlet, says Ormerod, "juxta littus maris," was the Poor Hospital of Denwall, to which Alexander de Savensby, bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, gave the Church of Burton, by charter dated kal. Jan. 1238. It was dedicated to St. Andrew. Upon the endowment and rebuilding of the Hospital of St. John in Lichfield by bishop Smyth, in 1496, the revenues of this Hospital of Denwall, including the rectory of Burton, were united and appropriated to it by the founder, by licence from King Henry the Seventh. The Hospital of Denwall is no longer in existence, but the revenues of it are still appropriated to the use of the Hospital of St. John, Lichfield. The following Names are preserved in the Lichfield Registers of Masters of St. Andrew, Denwall: John de Northburgh, instituted in 1336; William de Neuhalgh, 29 Jan. 1374; John Lugate, Aug. 4, 1400; Thomas Wickersley; Roger Walle, Oct. 7, 1434; Edmund Tebott; Roger Walle, 1445; John Bothe, who resigned the Hospital in 1495.[k]

NANTWICH.

Here, says Tanner, was an ancient Hospital dedicated to St. Nicholas,[l] to which a portion of tithes belonged, which were granted to W. Grys, 6 Eliz. Ormerod says it is supposed to have stood in or near the Hospital Street of Nantwich, which derives its name from it. He gives the following names of MASTERS of this foundation from vernon's Abstracts of the Lichfield Episcopal Registers, MS. Harl. 2077. Alexander Blount adm. 4 non. Dec. 1330; Thomas Corbet; Roger de Alterton, 5 id. May, 1350; Nicholas Revall, 1354; John de Ormeshevéd, 1374; John de Woodhouse, 1376; Thomas Hyne, 1395; Alan de Newark, 27 June, 1396; Thomas Heywood; Ralph Egerton, 22 Oct. 1468; Richard Egerton, 1477; .... Gwynne, 26 Hen. VIII.; William Hill appears to have been the last incumbent of the Chapel and Hospital. He was living in 1556 upon a pension of 100*s*. This Hospital is stated in the Harleian MS. 2074, fol. 166, to have been endowed by one of the Lords Lovel with the "tyth proceeding out all his owne lands."[a]

[k] Hist. Chesh. vol. ii. p. 299. The Masters of Denwall, Mr. Ormerod says, were invariably rectors of Burton. The compatibility of the two benefices was objected to in 1447, but the bishop decreed them to be "beneficium compatibile, atque per clericum secularem regi debere." Dat. in Capell. Pal. Lichf. 11 Oct. 1447.

[l] Tanner adds, "Quære whether this be the Hospital mentioned Pat. 13 Edw. I. m. ., and with the free Chapel of St. Nicholas here valued 7 Edw. VI. at 7*l.* 10*s.* per ann. MS. Massey."

St. Laurence's Chapel at Nantwich, "an Hospital for Lazars," is also mentioned in the Harleian MS. 2074: as well as in MS. 2038, fol, 137.

TARVIN.

Tanner says, "Here was an Hospital endowed, out of the tithes of the Parish Church, by Alexander Stavesby, bishop of Lichfield, about A. D. 1230. Vide Angl. Sacr. tom. i. p. 446. It was dedicated to St. Andrew as Mr. Mores."[b]

WYBUNBURY.

"Here" also, says Tanner, "was an Hospital of a Master and brethren, dedicated to the Holy Cross and St. George, before A. D. 1464."[c]

Cornwall.

HOSPITAL at BODMIN.

Even Tanner knew little more of this House than is in Leland, who calls it "a pore Hospital or Lazar House beyond the Bridge, about a mile;" dedicated to St. Lawrence. It was refounded by Queen Elizabeth in 1582, who recites in her Charter that there had for a long time been a great company of lazar people in it, known by the name of a prior, brethren, and sisters. An ample Account of the present state of this foundation is given by the Messrs. Lysons in their Magna Britannia for Cornwall, p. 36. They add that there were formerly two other Hospitals at Bodmin, dedicated to St. Anthony and St. George, both of which are mentioned in the Will of Thomas Killegrew, bearing date in 1500, in the Prerogative Office.

GILD MARTYN.

Tanner mentions a Hospital of this name among the Devonshire Houses, but, in a note, says, "Perhaps it was in Cornwall." He refers for the mention of it to a record in the Exchequer of the 7th Ric. II. Nothing more has occurred to the present Editors of Dugdale relating to it.

HELSTON.

Leland in his Itinerary mentions "an Hospital of St. John yet standing at the west-south-west end of the town" of Helston, "of the foundation of one Killigrin,"[d] or Kyllegrew. It is mentioned in the Register of Edmund Stafford, bishop of Exeter, fol. 135. In the 26th Hen. VIII. the total revenue of this Hospital amounted to 14*l*. 7*s*. 4*d*.; the net receipts to 12*l*. 16*s*. 4*d*. per annum.[e]

LAUNCESTON.

An Hospital for Lepers in this town, says Tanner, dedicated to St. Leonard, is mentioned Pat. 6 Ric. II., and also in the Register of Edm. Lacy bishop of Exon, marked Lacy, vol. iii. The Messrs. Lysons say, Cornw. p. 191, that the income arising from certain fields which had belonged to this Hospital, about 25*l*. per annum, is now vested in the corporation, and applied to charitable uses.

LESKARD or MINHENNED near LESKARD.

Here was anciently a House of Lepers,[f] says Tanner; for there is an Indulgence granted by Edm. Stafford bishop of Exeter to all those who should contribute to the Hospital of St. Mary Magdalen at Leskard, about A. D. 1400.[g]

NEWPORT near LAUNCESTON.

Here also is an Hospital for Lazars, dedicated to St. Thomas, which was well endowed and governed in Mr. Carew's time.[h]

Cumberland.

HOSPITAL of ST. NICHOLAS at CARLISLE.

Without the gates of the City, was the Hospital of St. Nicholas, said to have been of royal foundation, for thirteen lepers, men and women.[i] In the time of Bishop Bernard, about the year 1180, a moiety of the tithes of Little Bampton was given to this Hospital by Adam son of Robert, on condition to have always two almsmen from the parish of Bampton. In the year 1336, Thomas de Goldyngton, then master of the Hospital, brought a prohibition against the Bishop, who was about to visit this House, on a suggestion that it was a royal foundation, and therefore only visitable by the King's chancellor or commissioners: and in 1341, the said Bishop, with Robert Eglesfeld rector of Burgh and others, was commissioned by the king to visit this Hospital. In 1371, on complaint made by the master, brethren, and sisters of the Hospital of St. Nicholas, that the House was defrauded of a great part of their necessary sustenance, the bishop issued out a monition to all rectors and vicars in the neighbouring parts, requiring them to give notice to their parishioners, that all such detainers of threaves of corn, or other goods belonging to the said Hospital, should make full payment or restitution within the space of ten days, on pain of the greater excommunication. In the year 1477, 17 Edw. IV., this Hospital and the revenues thereof were given to the Prior and Convent of St. Mary's, Carlisle, and in the 33d Hen. VIII. made part of the endowment of the Dean and Chapter. The Site has been long held of them by lease.[k] The following Names of MASTERS of this Hospital occur upon the Patent Rolls.[l] Hugh de Cressingham, 21 Edw. I. Hen. de Graystock, 31 Edw. I. Tho. de Goldenston, 7 Edw. III. John de Appleby, 42 Edw. III. Will. de Cotyngham resigned 11 Ric. II. Nic. de Ledall succeeded in the same year.

WIGTON.

Here, says Tanner, was an Hospital or Free Chapel dedicated to St. Leonard, valued at 40*s. per annum:* granted 3 Edw. VI. to Thomas Dalston, Esq. and William Denton, Gent.

The Messrs. Lysons say, "This Hospital is supposed to have been at a place now called Spital, nearly a mile east of the town of Wigton, now the property of Sir Wastell Briscoe, Bart.

About three quarters of a mile from the Spital, in the village of Kirkland, is the site of a Chapel, which, according to tradition, belonged to the Hospital. The land on which this Hospital stood, paid, till commuted for of late years in common land, a fine at the death or alienation of the tenant to the vicar of Wigton. There has been no trace either of the Hospital or Chapel within the memory of any person now living."[a]

Derbyshire.

BENTLEY.

The Messrs. Lysons give the following account of this Hospital in their Magna Britannia, Derbysh. p. 200, under the manor of Alkmanton in Longford.

"Walter Blount, Lord Mountjoy, by his Will bearing date 1474, bequeathed lands of 10*l.* per annum value to the ancient Hospital of St. Leonard, situated betweed Alkmanton and Bentley, for the maintenance of seven poor men, not under fifty-five years of age, (old servants of the lord of the manor of Barton, or other lordships belonging to the patron of the College, to be preferred.) These pensioners were to have pasture for seven cows in Barton-park, fuel from some of Lord Mountjoy's manors in the Hundred of Appletree, and a gown and hood every third year. They were to pray for the souls of Lord Mountjoy, his family, and ancestors; the Duke of Buckingham, Earl Rivers, Sir John Woodville, and the ancient lords of the Hospital, and to repeat the psalter of the Virgin Mary twice every day in the Chapel of the Hospital. Lord Mountjoy directed also that a chapel should be built at Alkmanton, dedicated to St. Nicholas, and that the Master of the Hospital should say mass in it yearly, on the festival of St. Nicholas.

"This Hospital shared the fate of many others, whose constitutions were mingled with superstitious observances, and was abolished in 1547. The manor of Alkmanton and the Spital estate belonged, soon after the Reformation, to the family of Barnesley. Charles Barnesley, Esq. of Alkmanton, sold it about the end of the seventeenth century, to Thomas Browne, Esq. of Bentley. The Earl of Chesterfield purchased it of the Brownes in 1727. Earl Stanhope, in 1781, sold it to the late Thomas Evans, Esq., in whose family it still continues. There are no remains of the Hospital now, or of the Chapel of St. Nicholas."

HOSPITAL of LEPERS at CHESTERFIELD.

At the time of editing the Monasticon, Dugdale knew nothing of this House; but in his Baronage, published in 1675, tom. ii. p. 75, he mentions Joan princess of Wales as dying in the 9th Ric. II. seised of it. Tanner, in one of the References to Records concerning this House, noted below,[b] discovers a mention of it as early as the 9th of John. It was dedicated to St. Leonard, and continued till the time of King Henry the Eighth.

DERBY.

Two Hospitals anciently existed in the Town of Derby; one, an Hospital for leprous persons, called Maison Dieu, or God's House, under the government of a Master, as old as the time of King Henry the Second.[c] The other, an Hospital of royal foundation, consisting of a Master, (whose place was in the gift of the Crown) and several leprous brethren, dedicated to St. Leonard.[d]

LOKHAY.

Tanner mentions a Preceptory or Hospital here, to the honour of St. Mary Magdalen, said to be of the Order of St. Lazarus of Jerusalem, and subject to a foreign House in France, to which was annually paid from hence a rent of 20*l.*, which, upon the wars with France, being seized upon by the Crown, was given by King Edward the Third to King's Hall in Cambridge. He refers to "Pat. 21 Edw. III. p. 3, m. 21 et 24. Fin. 21 Edw. III. m. 18."

SPITTEL on the PEAK.

This Hospital was situated on the High Peak, between the Villages of Hope and Castleton, and was dedicated to the Virgin Mary. Tanner refers to Rymer for its existence before the 12th of Edward III.[e] The Messrs. Lysons say it was of royal foundation for certain paupers and a chaplain, and that its endowment was valued in 1377 at 3*l.* per annum, and four bushels of oatmeal.[f]

Devonshire.

BARNSTAPLE.

Tanner says, "An Hospital of the Holy Trinity here is mentioned, Pat. 9 Hen. IV. p. 1, m. 3 vel 4."

CLEYHANGER.

Here, also, Tanner mentions an ancient Free Chapel or Hospital, which he says seems formerly to have belonged to the Knights Templars.[g]

CREDITON.

An Hospital here dedicated to St. Lawrence, according to Tanner, is mentioned in the Register of Branscomb, bishop of Exeter, fol. 85. The Messrs. Lysons say that the decayed Chapel belonging to it still exists at the West end of the town.[h]

EXETER.

Tanner mentions three ancient Hospitals in Exeter. One called Bonvile's Hospital, founded by the Will of Sir William Bonvile, Knt., in 1407, in Lock's Lane, for twelve poor people, and endowed with fifty marks per annum, since demolished. The second called God's House, for twelve poor persons, founded by William Wynard, Esquire, recorder of Exeter, in the time of Henry the Fourth. The third, a Lazar House, also without the south gate of the City, dedicated to St. Mary Magdalen in being before the year of our Lord 1163, and still in existence in the 26th Hen. VIII.

HONITON

Had an Hospital for leprous persons dedicated to St. Martin, founded by Thomas Charde abbatt of Forde.[a]

PILTON.

Bishop Tanner merely says, "An Hospital here for leprous persons dedicated to St. Margaret is mentioned in Bishop Brantingham's Register, fol. 57." The foundation, however, still exists. From an Account of this Hospital presented to the Society of Antiquaries in 1795 from Bejamin Incledon, Esq., of Pilton House, it appears that no trace whatever can be obtained from the deeds and papers in the Hospital chest, of the name or date of the founder. The benefactions, however, in small tenements, gardens, and rents, were numerous in early times. It occurs in a deed of settlement before Henry Marshall bishop of Exeter in 1197 as then governed by a Prior. A rent from a burgage in the vill of Barnstaple was given to it in 1218 by Richard the son of Richard Fitz Walter; and a small rent from a garden in the same vill in 1264 by Philip Puleyn. At the Dissolution this Hospital was disposed of as an appendage to the Priory of Pilton; and after having had various possessors, is now become a part of the poor lands of the parish. An Impression from the Seal of this House, the matrix of which is still in existence, is upon the Minutes of the Society of Antiquaries, vol. xxv. p. 523. The inscription, Sigill. Leprosor. beate Margaret. de Pylton, is perfectly legible upon the face of the matrix, but not so upon the Impression, the letters upon the latter being reversed.

PLYMOUTH.

Tanner mentions the existence of an Hospital for leprous persons at Plymouth, dedicated to the Holy Trinity and St. Mary Magdalen, as noticed in Bishop Brantingham's Register, fol. 53 b. The present Editors have met with no other notice of it.

PLYMPTON.

An Hospital for leprous people, under the government of a Master or Prior, existed at Plympton before the 44th Edw. III.[b]

TAVISTOCK.

Tanner says, there is mention of an Hospital here in Pat. 15 Edw. III, p. 1, m. 7. vel 8; and also in Bishop Lacy's Register, vol. iii., by which it appears to have been founded for lepers, and dedicated to St. Mary Magdalen.[c]

Dorsetshire.

ATHELINGTON.

Here, says Tanner, was an Hospital or Lazar-House, dedicated to St. Mary Magdalen. Mr. Coker says it was founded by the Chidiocks: others say it was founded, or rather better endowed, by John Holt; Hutchins calls him Holtby, canon of Sarum and Warden of the College de Vaux; the substance of whose endowment is given by Hutchins from the Bridport Dome-Book, the instrument bearing the indorsement of the 31st Hen. VI. It was valued at the suppression at 7*l*. 8*s*. 4*d*., and was granted 3 Edw. VI. to Sir Michael Stanhope and John Bellow, and the same year to Giles Kelway.[d]

The ancient messuage, or hospital itself, situated at the Western extremity of the parish now belongs to the Town of Bridport, and is used for the habitation of a select number of their poor.

LONG BLANDFORD.

Hutchins says, "In an old deed, 10 Edw. I, an House of Lepers is mentioned in Longe Blandford, not noticed by bishop Tanner in the Notitia Monastica."[e]

BRIDPORT.

Over the bridge, a little by west, in the Town, is the Chapel of St. John, says Tanner, which is probably the same with the Hospital of St. John Baptist at this Town, valued 26 Hen. VIII. at 9*l*. 0*s*. 8*d*. in the total revenue, and at 8*l*. 6*d*. 1*d*. clear. John Shapwick, late prior of this Hospital, occurs in Madox's Formulare, p. 15. Hutchins says, he seems to have resigned before the 12th Hen. IV. In the 3d Edw. VI. this Hospital and the mansion-house belonging to it were granted, inter alia, to Nicholas Prideaux. In 1553, John Chard, incumbent of this Hospital had a pension of 5*l*. per annum.[f]

DORCHESTER.

The Hospital of St. John Baptist here, commonly called St. John's House, was founded before the 17th Edw. II., at which time a Chantry was founded in its Chapel by William Mareschall. This House was granted, 29 Hen. VI., to Eton College; which grant was confirmed 7th Edw. IVth, but, 1 Ric. III., it was given to the Friers Minors of Dorchester. Bishop Tanner queries whether these grants took effect; for this Hospital being of royal foundation, the Masters or Wardens were from time to time put in by the Crown, and so appear to have been 49 Hen. VI. and all the reign of Edward the Fourth.[g] Hutchins says, in the Chantry Roll, the Free Chapel of this Hospital was valued at 9*l*. 13*s*. 2*d*., out of which reprises were paid to the amount of 42*s*. 8*d*. Willis has preserved the following Names of the Masters or Rectors of this House: Martin de Ixning, custos, 8 Edw. III.; Robert Creyk, 25 Edw. III.; Simon Brantyngham, elect. 28 Edw. III.; Roger de Stoke, elect. 44 Edw. III.; Thomas de Brounflet, 50 Edw. III.; Henry Harburgh occurs 1399; William Brown, elect. 1460; occurs 1471. Oliver King; Richard Hill, 1477; Thomas Otteley, 1485; John Burton, 1495; he died 1499. John Argentine succeeded. Edward Welden occurs 1534. All the remains of the Chapel of this Hospital were pulled down 1751, and converted into a Brewhouse.[h]

LYME.

Here, says Tanner, was an Hospital for Lepers, dedicated to St. Mary and the Holy Spirit, to which Indulgences were granted, A.D. 1336, for repairing the fabric and bell-tower. In the Chantry Roll it is valued at 38*s*. 11*d*. Gough, in the last edition of Hutchins, makes no addition to this Account.

TARENT RUSHTON.

Here was an old religious house or Hospital dedicated to St. Leonard, the advowson and tithes of which were given, 33 Edw. I., by Elias Deverell to the Prior and Convent of Twinham in Hampshire.[a] The same were confirmed to the Priory of Twinham in the 7th Edw. III.[b] Nothing more is known of this Hospital.

ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL at SHAFTSBURY.

This Priory or Hospital of St. John Baptist, super montem de Shafton, which was in the patronage of the crown, first occurs in a Patent of the 5th of Richard the II. Hutchins says, that a list of twenty custodes or wardens of this House may be obtained from the Sarum Registers. In 1450 it is styled a Free Chapel or Hospital. It stood near St. Martin's Church, and in that parish, at the meeting of Hert, Crope, and Sherwell Lanes. In the Chantry Roll, 1 Edw. VI., this Hospital was valued at 4*l.* per annum, John Ham, or Hame, the last incumbent, had a pension, in 1553, of 3*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.*

SHIRBURN.

The Hospilal or Free Chapel of St. Thomas upon the Green, in Sherburn in Dorsetshire, is mentioned Pat. 18 et 19 Ric. II.

WINBURN.

Tanner's is the best Account we can give of this House. He says, "Here was an old Hospital, temp. Edw. I., dedicated to St. Margaret and St. Anthony, of which the Lords of the Manor of Kingston Lacy appear to have been founders and patrons; it had originally no endowment, but was supported by casual alms. In the Chantry Roll, 1 Edw. VI., it is valued at 29*s.* 8*d.* Its revenues have since been increased, and it still subsists under the patronage of the lords of the same manor."[c]

Durham.

BARNARD CASTLE.

We again copy Bishop Tanner. Here certainly was an Hospital of St. John, valued 26th Hen. VIII. at 5*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.* in the whole, and 5*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* per annum clear. It seems to be yet in being, and the gift of the Mastership to be in the Lord Chancellor of Great Britain.[d]

GATESHEAD.

St. Edmund's and the Trinity Hospital.

A certain Chapel, Chantry, or Hospital, says Surtees, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, existed in Gateshead about the year 1200 (and possibly long anterior), and consisted of a Foundation for the maintenance of one chaplain and three poor brethren. Several charters relating to the endowment of this House are printed by Brand in his History and Antiquities of Newcastle upon Tyne, vol. i. pp. 464, 465.[e] The revenues, Surtees says, were extremely exile, and in 1248 Bishop Nicholas Farnham (with consent of the prior of Durham, and of the resident brethren of the Trinity) consolidated the revenues of this House with those of his new foundation of The Chapel and Hospital of St. Edmund King and Confessor, and of the glorious Bishop Cuthbert in Gateshead. This consolidated foundation consisted of a Master and three chaplains; the bishop of Durham being constituted patron and visitor, with the power of correction and amotion. Not long after, Oct. 7, 1448, Bishop Nevil appropriated the Hospital of St. Edmund, with the whole of its rents and possessions, to the Nuns of St. Bartholomew in Newcastle, on condition of maintaining two officiating priests in the Chapel of the Hospital, and reserving two pensions of 6*s.* 8*d.* to the see of Durham, and 3*s.* 4*d.* to the Prior and Convent, as an indemnity for any loss they might respectively sustain by the annexation, which was to take place immediately on the death or removal of the existing Master of St. Edmund's. From this time the Hospital became a stipendiary Charity. In the 4th Hen. VII. the revenues of St. Edmund's Hospital amounted to 26*l.* 2*s.* Of the Masters Surtees gives the following names: Ricardus, 12 kal. Apr. 1265. John de Lynce, 1344. John de Apilby collated 20th Aug. 1353. Adam Fenrother, 1366. William de Brantingham, 1374. Reginald Porter, collated 3 Dec. 1404. John Newton, 1405. John King. John Walkington. Essex.

NEWPORT POND, or BIRCHANGER, in the Parish of NEWPORT.

The Hospital here, dedicated to St. Mary and St. Leonard, was founded by Richard son of Serlo of Newport, in the reign of King John, for a Master and two chaplains, under the peculiar jurisdiction of the Dean of St. Martin's in London. It was endowed with lands in Newport, Widington, Great Wendon, Arkesden, Elmdon, Wickham, Hempsted, Bumpsted Helion, &c. and had a fair, which was granted by King Henry the Third, which was to be kept upon St. Leonard's day. Upon the Suppression it was valued at 31*l.* 13*s.* 11*d.* in the whole, and at 23*l.* 10*s.* 8*d.* clear revenue. After the Suppression it was granted by King Henry the Eighth to Sir Martin Bowes.[g]

Not long after, Oct. 7, 1448, Bishop Nevil appropriated the Hospital of St. Edmund, with the whole of its rents and possessions, to the Nuns of St. Bartholomew in Newcastle, on condition of maintaining two officiating priests in the Chapel of the Hospital, and reserving two pensions of [illegible] to the see of Durham, and 3s. 4d. to the Prior and Convent, as an indemnity for any loss they might respectively sustain by the annexation, which was to take place immediately on the death or removal of the existing Master of St. Edmund's. WALTHAM.

HERE was an Hospital built by the Abbat and Convent of Waltham, within the precinct of their Monastery, about A.D. 1218.[b]

Gloucestershire.

BERKLEY.

Two Hospitals are mentioned here: The HOSPITAL of ST. JAMES and ST. JOHN, Cart. 12 Hen. III. m. 4, wherein is a confirmation of several parcels of land wherewith it was endowed in Stocking, Kingsham, Wytefield, Litelhey, &c. and a PRIORY or HOSPITAL founded at LONGBRIDGE in this parish by Maurice Lord Berkley, temp. Hen. II., and dedicated to the Holy Trinity, which was afterwards augmented with two chantry priests, &c. by William Marquis of Berkley.[c]

CIRENCESTER.

Two Hospitals in this town were Monastic. The HOSPITAL of ST. JOHN the EVANGELIST was founded, according to Leland, by King Henry the First;[d] Speed says by an abbat of Cirencester; for three poor men and three poor women. Tanner says, it is yet in being; the six poor people having each an allowance of 20*d.* weekly, and a share of the fines when they happen. The Mastership (which King Edward the Third gave to the Abbat and Convent) was disposed of by the Crown 21st Eliz. as Rymer, vol. xv. p. 788. ST. LAURENCE'S HOSPITAL in Cirencester, founded temp. Edw. III. by Edith, lady of Wigold, for a Master and two poor women, is also yet in being. The Master, formerly nominated by the Abbat,[e] is now presented by the King. The two poor women, in Tanner's time, had 2*s.* 6*d.* per week each.[f]

GLOUCESTER.

Two Hospitals of the smaller kind, also, existed in Gloucester. One dedicated to ST. MARGARET,[g] in the north suburb of the City, and in the parish of St. John Baptist, founded for lepers before the 13th Edw. II. Nine poor persons are still maintained in it.[h] "Somewhat more by north than St. Margaret's," says Leland, "is another poor HOSPITAL of ST. MARY MAGDALEN,"[i] now commonly called St. James, in St. John Baptist parish. This Foundation, according to Tanner, still maintains nineteen poor people at 1*s.* 6*d.* per week, and has a chapel belonging to it.[k]

LORWING.

MAURICE de Berkele, founder of Longbridge Hospital in Berkley, is also said to have founded an Hospital at Lorwing between Berkley and Dursley, in the time of Henry the Second.[l]

TEWKSBURY.

A HOUSE of Lepers here occurs cart. 1 Joan. p. 2, n. 162.

WINCHCOMBE.

LELAND, Itin. vol. iv. p. 75, says, "There was once an Hospital in this town, but now the name of Spittle only remaineth."

Hampshire.

ANDOVER.

TANNER says, there was an Hospital here dedicated to St. John and St. Mary Magdalene, as ancient as the reign of Henry the Third. It consisted of a Master and both brothers and sisters.[m] One of the Editors of this Work is in possession of an ancient Impression from a Seal, believed to be that of this Hospital. It represents St. John Baptist in a dress of camel's hair, holding in his left hand a representation of the Agnus Dei. Inscribed, S . CŌMVNE . SCI . JOH'IS........ANDEVERE.

FORDINGBRIDGE.

TANNER mentions an old Hospital at Fordingbridge dedicated to St. John, annexed to St. Cross in Winchester, as Speed and Godwyn, or given to King's College in Cambridge, as Leland.[n]

PORTESMOUTH.

PETER de Rupibus, bishop of Winchester, founded here, temp. Johannis, an Hospital called God's House, dedicated to St. John Baptist and St. Nicholas, valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at 33*l.* 19*s.* 5½*d.*[o]

WINCHESTER.

TANNER, from Leland, Itin. vol. iii. p. 61, says, "An Hospital was founded near one of the gates of this City by Brinstan bishop here, who died A.D. 935:" but afterwards adds, "Quære, whether this was not St. John's Hospital, wherein was the image of this Saint Brinstan," mentioned by Leland, Itin. vol. iii. p. 100.

An Hospital of greater consequence here, was that of ST. MARY MAGDALEN, situated about a mile east of the City. It is first mentioned in the Register of John de Pontissara bishop of Winchester, whose successors were patrons of it. It consisted of a Master, who was a priest, and nine poor men and women. JOHN MELTON was made Master or Warden in 1393. WILLIAM WAINFLETE, afterwards bishop of Winchester, was Warden here in the 17th Hen. V. The total of the revenue of this Hospital in the 26th Hen. VIII. was 42*l.* 16*s.*, the net receipt 16*l.* 16*s.* 2*d.* In the civil wars of the time of Charles the First it suffered considerably: and was completely ruined when it became a receptacle for Dutch prisoners in 1665. The build- were finally taken down in 1789; the brethren of this House having long before removed to certain tenements in Colebrook street in Winchester.

Herefordshire.

HEREFORD.

TANNER mentions several Hospitals in Hereford. 1. ST. ANTONY'S HOSPITAL, which had the King's Letters of protection, 22 Edw. I. 2. The HOSPITAL of ST. ETHELBERT, dependent on one of the dignitaries of the Church of Hereford; valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at 10*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.* per annum.[c] 3. ST. GILES'S HOSPITAL, thus mentioned by Leland in his Itinerary, vol. iv. p. 87, "There is an Hospitall of St. Giles, where once were Fryers Grysey, and then Templars. King Richard gave this Chappell to the Towne, and then it was made an Hospitall." 4. ST. GILES' LAZAR HOUSE, also mentioned by Leland, of which the burgesses of Hereford were patrons. 5. ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL situated in Wydmer-street, or the suburb without the north gate, sometime a House of Templars. This, I conceive, (says Bishop Tanner,) is the Hospital at Hereford, which King Richard the first gave to the Preceptory at Hereford, which was of Hospitalers, not of Templars; and was, as parcel of Dynmore, restored to those Knights, 4 and 5 Phil. et Mar., and as parcel of the possessions of the late Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, granted, 6 Eliz., to Robert Freke and John Walker. 6. ST. THOMAS'S HOSPITAL, mentioned in some Manuscript Collections made by St. Lo. Knyveton, Esquire, out of the Records. And, 7. An HOSPITAL near the bridge over the Wye in Hereford, mentioned as early as A.D. 1226.[d]

Hertfordshire.

BALDOCK.

HERE in the time of Henry the Third was a House of leprous brethren,[e] Tanner says perhaps of Templars, to whom this manor belonged by the gift of Gilbert Earl Pembroke.

BERKHAMSTEDE.

TANNER says, "Here were, in the time of King John,[f] two HOSPITALS of poor and infirm persons, one dedicated to ST. JOHN BAPTIST, and the other (which was of both brothers and sisters lepers) to ST. JOHN THE EVANGELIST; the custody of both which was granted by Geffrey Fitz Piers, Earl of Essex, to the House of St. Thomas of Acon in London.[g] There was also in this town, temp. Edw. II., an HOSPITAL of ST. THOMAS the Martyr.[h] Upon the Dissolution, St. John the Evangelist Spittle, or Le Over Spittle house, and Le Nether Spittle house,[i] or St. Leonard's Spittle (which was at the south-east end of the High Street), with all the lands belonging to them in North Church, Hemelhamsted, &c. were granted, 36 Hen. VIII., to Robert Hordem. Sir Henry Chauncy mentions also an old HOSPITAL called ST. JAMES, from St. James's Well, at the farther end of the High Street."[k]

BIGGING.

THIS Hospital was situated in the parish of Ansty, and was dedicated to St. Mary. It was for a Master and Chaplains, beside poor people. RICHARD occurs prior of Bigging juxta Ansty in the Norwich Registers A.D. 1368. It belongs now to King's College, Cambridge.[l]

CLOTHALE.

IN that part of the parish, says Tanner, which is next Baldock, was a free Chapel, College, or Hospital, of a Master, brethren, and sisters, dedicated to St. Mary Magdalen, of ancient foundation, which was valued at 4*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.* MS. Sancr. and continued till the general Dissolution. It was granted from the Crown 2 Jac. I.[m]

HODDESDON.

HERE was an Hospital for leprous persons, dedicated to St. Landus and St. Antony, A.D. 1391.[n]

ROYSTON.

Two Hospitals here are mentioned by Bishop Tanner: one, dedicated to St. Nicholas, existing in the time of King John: the other, as old as the time of King Henry the Third, a free Chapel or Hospital dedicated to St. John and St. James, in which was a Master or Warden, and several brethren. Richard de Argentein was patron A.D. 1388.[a] This last Hospital was valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 6*l.* 13*s.* 2*d.* per annum in the whole, and 5*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* clear; and was granted, 5 Jac. I., to Roger Aston.[b]

Huntingdonshire.

HUNTINGDON.

The Hospital of St. John Baptist here is said to have been founded by David Earl of Huntingdon, temp. Hen. II. In 1394, the Mastership was in the gift of the bailiffs and commonalty of Huntingdon. It was valued, in the 26th Hen. VIIIth, in gross revenue at 9*l.* 4*s.* per annum, in the clear income at 6*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*[c]

Kent.

BROUGHTON under BLEAN.

Harris, in his History of Kent, pp. 47, 48, says, "Here was, 8 Ric. II. an Hospital and Chapel, dedicated to St. Nicholas, founded by Thomas at Hurst, for the use of lazars and poor people.[d]

CANTERBURY.

Without the North gate of this city, says Tanner, Lanfranc archbishop of Canterbury,[e] about the year 1084, founded and endowed with 70*l.* per annum, an Hospital for poor, infirm, lame, or blind men and women, dedicated to St. John Baptist.[f] From its situation, it was sometimes called Northgate Hospital. It was under the government of a Prior, and its revenues were valued, 26 Hen. VIII. at 93*l.* 15*s.* in the whole, and 91*l.* 16*s.* 8½*d.* per annum clear. This Hospital is still in being, and consists of a Master or Prior, a reader, eighteen in-brothers, twenty in-sisters, and the like number of out-brothers and out-sisters. Tanner says that in his time the revenues in the whole were 195*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.* The Statutes of the renewed foundation of this House are printed in the Appendix to Strype's Life of Archbishop Parker, Num. xii. Gosling, in his Walk in and about Canterbury, edit. 1777, p. 29, speaks of the taking down of many material portions of the old building.[g]

St. Lawrence's Hospital in Canterbury was founded by Hugh, the second of that name, abbat of St. Augustine's, in 1137, for the relief of leprous monks, or the poor parents and relations of any of the monks of that Abbey. It consisted of a Warden or Keeper, a Priest or Chaplain, one clerk, and sixteen brethren and sisters; and the chief or senior of these sisters was sometimes called the prioress. Tanner says, the revenues of this House were valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 39*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.* in the whole, and 31*l.* 7*s.* 10*d.* clear. It was alienated, in the time of King Edward the Sixth, to one Tipsal, and after, by Queen Mary, granted to Sir John Perrot.[h] In the Account given of this Hospital by Archbishop Parker, A.D. 1562, it is said, That the Prioress and sisters leased it to Sir Christopher Hales; and that Mr. Traps of London then enjoyed the lease: that the House was greatly decayed, and had only two sisters then in it. This Hospital stood upon the road to Dover, in the south-east suburb of the city.

St. Margaret's Hospital Canterbury was founded before the year 1224 by Simon de Langton archdeacon of Canterbury.[k] It was valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. in the total at 28*l.* 16*s.* 1*d.*, in the clear income at 10*l.* 13*s.* 8*d.* per annum. It continued undissolved till the 17th Eliz., when it was surrendered by the then master, archdeacon of Canterbury, as patron, and archbishop as ordinary, whereupon the Queen granted the same, with all its lands and appurtenances to the Mayor and Commonalty of the City for the use of the Poor, and the site of it is now their Bridewell.[a] The state of this Hospital in 1581 will be found in Wilkins's Concilia, vol. iv. p. 231.

Num. 11 a, b. de decimis de Hawfield, Melfield, et Dodingale; P. ii. p. 173. Somner quotes a Leiger Book of this Hospital. Tanner says, The Evidences of this House were thought to be in the hands of Mr. Troyn or Mr. Johnston of Whitstable, 1557. Vide Bullam P. Eugenii de confirm. Hosp. S. [k] It was in existence, according to the Collect. Anglo-Minorit., when the Friers Minors came into England.

CHATHAM.

Gundulph bishop of Rochester founded this Hospital, according to Speed, in the time of King William Rufus, and dedicated it to St. Bartholomew, for leprous people. It was afterwards confirmed by King Henry the Third and other Kings,[b] and increased by different benefactors. The governor was styled Custos or Warden, and sometimes Prior, and the brethren Canons. It escaped the General Dissolution, and is still existing under the patronage of the Dean and Chapter of Rochester. The buildings of this Hospital stood partly in the parish of St. Margaret in Rochester, and partly in the parish of Chatham.

DARTFORD.

Two Hospitals formerly existed in this Place. Trinity Hospital, for five poor persons, the licence for the founding of which, granted to John Bamburgh, William Rothele, Roger Jones, and Thomas Boost, or the survivor of them, is extant in Pat. 31 Hen. VI. p. 2, m. 4. The Vicar and Churchwardens for the time being to be Masters. The other, St. Mary Magdalen Hospital, for lepers, occurs in 1330; and is supposed to have been the same with that dedicated to St. Mary Magdalen mentioned in the will of one William Quoyf, A. D. 1491.[c]

DOVER.

Here was an Hospital dedicated to St. Bartholomew for poor leprous persons, begun, according to Tanner, about the year 1141, upon the solicitation of Osbern and Godwin, two Monks of St. Martin's, who subjected the same to the disposal of their Prior. Tanner says, "Vide Registrum hujus Hospitalis concinnatum A.D. 1373, in fine mutilum, MS. penes Walt. Clavel arm. 1709." After the Dissolution the Site of this House was granted to J. Bowle for life, and 6th Edw. VI. to Sir Thomas Palmer in fee.[d]

HITHE.

The Hospital of St. Andrew at Hithe has already formed a separate article. Tanner says, "Here was also, before A.D. 1336, another Hospital for the reception of lepers." It is alluded to in the charter of foundation of St. Andrew's Hospital.[e] Of the existence of the Hospital of St. John here, mentioned in Strype's Life of archbishop Parker, p. 114, we have no account prior to 1562, though it might have been a foundation of the Monastic time.

MELTON near Gravesend.

Here, says Tanner, was a Free Chapel or Hospital under the government of some regular Friers, which was granted to Sir Henry Wyat.[f] In Ducarel's Excerpts from the Lambeth Registers, vol. xiv. p. 654, it occurs as a College.

OSPRING.

Tanner calls this "An old Hospital or Maison Dieu, dedicated to the blessed Virgin Mary, and founded by King Henry the Third about A.D. 1235. It consisted of a Master and three Regular brethren of the Order of the Holy Cross, and two secular clerks, but falling into decay about the latter end of the reign of King Edward the Fourth, it was by the procurement of bishop Fisher, granted by King Henry the Eighth, anno regni 7., to St. John's College in Cambridge.[g]

OTTEFORD.

An Hospital or House of leprous persons here is mentioned upon the Liberate roll of the 13th Hen. III. m. 11.

PUCKESHALL.

Here, says Tanner, in the parish of Tong near Sittingbourne, dedicated to St. James, which was granted by King Henry the Seventh to Linch his physician, and 3 and 4 Phil. et Mar. with its appurtenances lying in Tong and Bapchild to Sir John Perrot.[h]

ROCHESTER.

Eastgate Hospital at Rochester was founded by Simon Potyn. By his will, dated A.D. 1316, he bequeathed a certain house for an Hospital, to be called the Spital of St. Katherine of Rochester in the suburb of Eastgate, for poor men of that city, lepers, or otherwise diseased, impotent and poor, to be received therein, and there to abide on the alms of charitable people. This Hospital is still in existence. Tanner says it has since been augmented by subsequent donations to the yearly value of 500*l.*[i]

SANDWICH.

There were two Hospitals in Sandwich. One, dedicated to St. Bartholomew, founded by Thomas Cromphorne, Esq. and Maud his wife, who was of the family of Sandwich, about A.D. 1190, for a Master, brethren, and sisters, and three priests, whereof one was to be Prior. Fresh rules for its government were framed in 1435. Sir Henry Sandwich, lord warden of the cinque ports, increased the revenues, that here might be maintained twelve brethren and four sisters. This foundation still exists, the inhabitants having each a house, garden, and handsome allowance, under the care and government of the mayor and jurates. Tanner refers to "Pat. 23 Edw. III. p. 2, m. 22, de proficuis passagii inter Sandwich et Stonor fratribus hujus Hospitalis a Rege concessis." The other Hospital, for twelve poor persons, called St. Thomas's Hospital, founded by Thomas

II. p. 1, m. 32, pro mess. et cxxii. acr. terræ in Wodnesbergh. Esc. Kanc. 21 Edw. IV. n. . pro ten. in Wodnesburgh concess. per Hen. Greenshield."

SEVENOKE.

Tanner says, William Sennock, surnamed from this town, where he was taken up an infant left exposed by his parents in the streets; when he afterwards became lord mayor of London, founded, A.D. 1418, an Hospital for the relief of twenty poor men and women, and a free school in this town, which was afterward more liberally endowed by John Potkyn.

But, he adds, here was also a more ancient Hospital, dedicated to St. John Baptist, in the gift of the archbishop of Canterbury. For by Pat. 23 Edw. III. p. 2, m. . "Rex concessit Johanni de Tamworth custodiam Hospitalis S. Johannis Baptistæ de Sevenoke ratione vacat. archiepiscopatus Cantuar. 7 Aug." The advowson of this Hospital was conveyed by Archbishop Cranmer to K. Henry VIII. who, anno regni 31, procured from John Cleyton, master, a surrendry of it, with all the lands, rents, &c. belonging to it in Sevenoke, Otford, and elsewhere. See Ducarel's Excerpts from the Lamb. Registers, MS. Mus. Brit. vol. vi. p. 871. vol. xii. p. 687.

SWINESTRE.

Tanner mentions a grant made 9th Hen. III. to the Master of the Hospital of the Holy Cross here to have a fair at the Chapel of Swinestre, on the eve and day of Holy Cross; but, nevertheless, quæries whether this may not be the same with Swingfield near Dover, a House of the Templars.

TANINGTON.

Tanner calls this Tanington without Canterbury, or Canterbury St. James. It was an Hospital founded temp. Hen. II.[a] to the honour of St. James: and consisted some time of a Master or Keeper, three priests, a prioress and twenty-five leprous sisters. The revenues were valued in the total, 26th Hen. VIII. at 53*l.* 16*s.* 11*d.* After reprises, at 32*l.* 11*s.* 1*d.* per annum. It was surrendered into the King's hands, 28th Feb. 1551, and granted 5th Edw. VI. to Robert Dartnall.[b]

Lancashire.

LANCASTER.

Here was an Hospital for a Master, chaplain, and nine poor persons, whereof three were to be lepers, founded by King John while earl of Morton, which afterward, by Henry duke of Lancaster, about the 30th Edw. III.,[c] annexed to the Nunnery of Seton in Cumberland. It was dedicated to St. Leonard.

PRESTON.

An ancient Hospital here occurs in the Taxation of Pope Nicholas the IVth., A.D. 1291. The mastership in the gift of the Crown. Tanner refers, concerning it, to Pat. 15 Edw. II. p. 2, m. 10.

Leicestershire.

CASTLE DONINGTON.

John Lacy, constable of Chester, appears to have been the founder of this Hospital in the time of Henry the Second. It was dedicated to St. John the Evangelist as Pat. 22 Edw. III., but to St. John the Baptist as Speed. It was valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at 3*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* per annum.[d] Nichols, Hist. Leic. vol. iii. p. 780, has given some additional particulars of this Hospital, with a View of the ruins of it taken in 1792.

LEICESTER.

Tanner gives his memoranda of two Hospitals here of minor foundation. St. John's Hospital, or Spittle house, founded for a Master, brethren, and sisters, before 1235; and St. Ursula's Hospital, founded by William Wigston, merchant of the staple.

St. John's Hospital was dedicated both to St. John Baptist and St. John the Evangelist, and its lands were, for the most part, given by King Edward the Fourth to the College of Newark.[e] The Corporation of Leicester having purchased the Site of this Hospital about 31 Eliz. have made the town gaol upon one part of it, and on the other part founded an hospital for poor widows.[f]

St. Ursula's Hospital was founded, according to the Additions to Gibson's Camden, in the latter part of the reign of King Henry VIth.; as Speed, in the reign of Henry the Seventh; according to information given by Mr. Carte of Leicester to Bishop Tanner, about 1520. Its possessions were valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at 8*l.* per annum. It is still in being, under the patronage of the chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster. Peck's Manuscripts in the British Museum, vol. v. contain Extracts from the statutes of this Hospital.

LUTTERWORTH.

Roise de Verdon, and Nicholas her son, built and endowed here an Hospital for a Prior, or Master, and brethren, to the honour of St. John Baptist, in the time of King John. The statutes for the regulation of this Hospital were drawn up under the sanction of John D'Alderby, bishop of Lincoln, soon after 1310, and are still preserved among the records of that Diocese.[g] It was valued at the Dissolution at 26*l.* 9*s.* 5*d.* per annum, and was in being 19 Eliz., the mastership being then in the gift of the crown.[h]

TILTON.

An Hospital here has been already noticed, as annexed by Sir William Burdet to Burton Lazars, temp. Hen. II.[a]

Lincolnshire.

BOSTON.

Here, says Tanner, was a well endowed Hospital for poor men before the 10th Edw. I., which was in being in Leland's time, as appears from his Itinerary, vii. p. 39.

DUNSTON.

Dunstane, or Dunston Hospital, seems to have been the same with Mere in this County, which will be mentioned presently.

LINCOLN.

The Hospital of the Holy Innocents has been already noticed; beside which there were three other Hospitals in Lincoln, St. Giles's, St. Mary's and the Hospital of the Holy Sepulchre. St. Giles's stood a little without the City, on the North East; the mastership of which was annexed by Oliver dean of Lincoln, about A. D. 1280, to the vicars who performed divine offices in the Cathedral of Lincoln.[b] St. Mary's, dedicated to St. Mary the Virgin or St. Mary Magdalen, was under the government of a Prior or Warden.[c] The Hospital of the Holy Sepulchre was of the Order of Sempringham.

MERE.

This was an Hospital founded in or near the parish of Dunston, by Simon de Roppele before A.D. 1246. The Mastership was in the gift of the bishop of Lincoln, and, when the See was vacant, of the Dean and Chapter. It is said to be yet in being.[d]

SPITTEL on the STREET, in the parish of Helmeswell, had a Chapel and Hospital dedicated to St. Edmund, founded before the 16th Edw. II. and augmented by Thomas Aston canon of Lincoln, temp. Ric. II. It is yet in being, and under the care of the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln.[e]

STANFORD.

Beside St. John and St. Thomas's Hospital at Stanford, already noticed, an House of Lepers here belonging to the Abbey of Peterborough, in the time of Robert Grosthead bishop of Lincoln, is mentioned in bishop Patrick's Supplement to Gunton, p. 328.

WRAUBY.

The Hospital here, founded by Sir William Tirwhitt, knt., mentioned in Pat. 20 Hen. VI. p. 1, is conjectured by Tanner to be either a Chantry only, or the same with the Hospital of Glanford Bridge in that parish.

Middlesex.

HIGHGATE near LONDON.

One William Poole, yeoman of the Crown, is stated to have founded an Hospital here below the Hill, in the reign of Edward the Fourth, for lepers. This foundation remained till the time of Henry the Eighth.[f]

KNIGHTSBRIDGE.

Tanner merely says, "An ancient Hospital," and refers to Newcourt, vol. i. p. 624. Lysons calls it "an ancient Lazar House or Hospital," and says it was held under the Church of Westminster, at the rent of four shillings per annum, by the family of Glassington. Among the records, he adds, belonging to the Dean and Chapter of Westminster, is a state of the Lazar House at Knightsbridge, as drawn up in the year 1595 by John Glassington, who was governor of the House. The Chapel of this Hospital, rebuilt in 1629, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, still exists.

LONDON.

ST. ANTHONY'S HOSPITAL.

Tanner's is the best account which the Editors can give of this Foundation. He says, "on the north side of Threadneedle Street, in the Parish of St. Benet Fink, was a synagogue of the Jews, A.D. 1231, which was given by King Henry the Third to the brethren of St. Anthony of Vienne in France, who settled here an Hospital consisting of a Master, two Priests, a schoolmaster, and twelve poor brethren, besides their proctors, and other officers and servants. It being alien, was often seized during the wars with France. King Richard the Second gave it to Michael de la Pole, and the patronage of it was given by King Edward the Fourth to the Dean and Chapter of Windsor, who made one of their Canons Master, though the School continued after in great repute; and there were several poor men maintained, whose estate was valued, 35 Hen. VIII., at 55*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum." This Hospital was in being A.D. 1560, but soon after ruined, as Stowe, edit. 1633. p. 191. See also Wood's Fasti, vol. i. col. 94. The Church is now the French Church, as Newcourt, i. 286.[g]

CHARING-CROSS HOSPITAL.

Stowe, and from him Newcourt and Stevens, says Tanner, speak of a House in the parish of St. Martin in the Fields, near Charing Cross, for lunatic and distracted people, of an uncertain foundation and continuance.

HOSPITAL of ST. GILES without CRIPPLEGATE.

Tanner calls this "An Hospital of the French order, temp. Edw. I., dedicated to St. Giles, in Whitecross-street, which being dissolved by King Henry the Fifth, he gave the House and lands to a Brotherhood of St. Giles to be there kept." Professor Ward exhibited to the Society of Antiquaries, 21st Oct. 1742, an original patent granted by King Edw. VI. to Sir John Gresham, 12th April, 1550, of the estates belonging to the Fraternity of St. Giles without Cripplegate, London, then purchased by Sir John for the sum of 1276*l.* 0*s.* 10*d.*

HOSPITAL of the PAPEY.

An Hospital belonging to the fraternity of St. Charity and St. John the Evangelist, near the Church of St. Augustine in the Wall, for poor impotent Priests and Brethren of the Papey, founded A.D. 1430, by William Oliver, William Barneby, and John Stafford, chantry Priests in London.[a]

ST. PAUL'S HOSPITAL.

Henry de Northampton, canon of St. Paul's, founded an Hospital within the precinct of that Cathedral Church; to the augmentation of which the tithes of St. Pancras or Kentishtown were given by the Dean and Chapter about A.D. 1120.[b]

SYON or BRENTFORD HOSPITAL.

John Somerset, Chancellor of the Exchequer and the King's Chaplain, in the 25th of King Henry the Sixth, founded a Friery, Hospital, or Fraternity here of the nine orders of Angels, consisting of a Master and several brethren, which according to Stowe, was able to dispend 40*l.* per annum. The site was granted in the 1st Edw. VI. to Edward duke of Somerset. Tanner refers to "Pat. 25 Hen. VI. p. 1, m. 9. and Pat. 18 Edw. IV. p. 2, m. 7 vel 8." concerning this Hospital. This Hospital was situated at Brentford-end, but in the parish of Isleworth. There were no vestiges of the buildings of this Hospital even so early as 1635. See Lysons's Envir. vol. iii. pp. 91—93.

Monmouthshire.

MONMOUTH.

John de Monmue, or of Monmouth, founder of Grace-Dieu in this county, about A.D. 1240, founded the Hospital of the Holy Trinity in Monmouth. He also founded the Hospital of St. John there, which was given by his son to the Benedictine Monastery in the same town. Dugdale has included the father's Charter of endowment of the one, and the son's gift of the other to Monmouth Priory, among the deeds in the Appendix to that House, which, as an Alien Priory, is yet to come into the present Volume.

Norfolk.

BEC.

In the beginning of the reign of King Henry the Third, says Tanner, one William de Bec founded here, upon the great road from Norwich to Walsingham and Lynne, a Chapel and an Hospital to the honour of St. Thomas the Martyr. Herein were thirteen beds for accommodating poor travellers with lodging every night. The mastership was a good preferment in the collation of the bishop of Norwich for the time being, till the Dissolution; after which, 3 and 4 Phil. et Mar., it was granted to Sir John Perrot, knt.[c] This Hospital, according to Taylor, consisted of a Custos or Master and certain Chaplains, and is said to have been dedicated to St. Paul as well as to St. Thomas. Blomfield, vol. iv. p. 365, gives the particulars of its endowment, with the names of the different masters. Subsequent to Sir John Perrot's possession, it was purchased by Sir Edward Coke, Lord Chief Justice, whose family built a mansion upon the site of the Hospital. The present possessor is Thomas William Coke, Esq., M.P. In the Valor of the 26th Hen. VIII. this Hospital was valued at 4*l.* 15*s.* 9*d.*

HOSPITAL of BOYCODESWADE near COKESFORD.

This Hospital was founded about the year 1181, by Hervey Beleth, or Belet, for a warden, being a priest, and thirteen poor people, under the government of the Prior and Convent of Cokesford. It was endowed with the Lordship of East Rudham, and with lands in Geyton, Marham, Syderstern, Beremere, Croste, &c. In the Valor of 1534, the stipend to the chaplain was returned to be 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, and the revenue for supporting twelve poor persons herein, 14*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* Nothing further occurs of this Hospital, but that its possessions went with those of the Priory, A.D. 1537, to Thomas Howard Duke of Norfolk, and afterwards came to the Townshend family. The Site is at present held by the Marquis Townshend's trustees.[d]

HOSPITAL of HARDWIC.

Hardwic or Herdewyk, in the parish of North Rungton. All that we know of this foundation is in Tanner, who says, "At the dam or bank here, was an Hospital of leprous[e] persons, dedicated to St. Laurence, the advowson whereof was in Matthias Harlewin 12 Edw. III."[f]

HERINGBY.

This Hospital was founded pursuant to the Will of Hugh Atte Fenne, made A.D. 1475, for a Master, three Priests, eight poor men, and two servants. It was endowed with eight manors, and the church of Heringby, dedicated to St. Ethelbert, which thus became collegiate. In the 26th Hen. VIII. this Hospital was valued at 23*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.*; and was granted, in the 37th Hen. VIII., to Sir Thomas Clere of Stokesby. The collegiate church became dilapidated upon the dissolution of the Hospital. The advowson of the rectory, which is now held with Stokesby, was subsequently annexed to the see of Norwich, with the revenues of the abbey of St. Benet Hulme.[a]

GREAT HOBBESSE, HAUTBOIS, or DE ALTO BOSCO.

At the head of the causeway in this parish, says Tanner, Peter de Alto Bosco, knight, in the reign of King John or King Henry the Third, founded an Hospital or Maison Dieu for a master and several poor people. It was dedicated to the Virgin Mary, and made subordinate to the Hospital at Horning, which was under the government of the almoner of St. Benet's Abbey. The founder himself had been steward and procurator to St. Benet's. Pope Alexander the Fourth licensed this Hospital to have a chapel, bell, and chaplain, for the use of the brethren, who were to pray for the souls of the founder and his ancestors. The Chapel, in the 26th Hen. VIII., was valued at 18*s.* 7½*d.* The Hospital and its Chantry were granted, in 1557, to Thomas Woodhouse, Esq. of Waxham.[b]

HORNING.

This Hospiial, to which the one preceding was subordinate, existed at least as early as the reign of Henry the IIId. at the head of the causeway going down to St. Benet's Abbey. It was dedicated to St. James; was under the government of the Almoner of the Abbey; and with the rest of the estate of that House was given to the bishop of Norwich in exchange.

LANGWADE HOSPITAL.

About two miles east of Oxburgh, says Blomfield, in the road to Cley, a little before you come to Langwade-Cross, was a house of Lepers.[c] Thomas Salmon, chaplain of Oxburgh, gave a legacy to it in 1380. The present possessor of its site is Sir Richard Bedingfield, Bart.[d]

LAZAR HOUSES at LYNNE.

The Hospitals of St. John and St. Mary Magdalen in this town have been already disposed of by Dugdale.[e] Beside which, according to the Continuator of Blomfield, there were in the town and its immediate neighbourhood four Lazar Houses, or Hospitals for Lepers, viz. West Lynne, Cowgate, Setchhithe, and Mawdely, all mentioned in the will of Stephen Guybon of North Lynne, dated in 1432. Tanner, however, doubts whether Mawdely was not a corruption for St. Mary Magdalen's Hospital.

NORWICH.

We have several Hospitals to add to those which have been already described by Dugdale in Norwich. 1. Godshouse, in St. Giles's-street in the ward of Mancroft, given for an Almshouse in the time of Edward the First by John le Grant. It was rebuilt by bishop Lyhert before 1472, whose successors in the see had the nomination of the poor people who inhabited it, till it was alienated with the other revenues of the bishoprick, and so became private property. Taylor says the Hospital itself was pulled down about a century ago.[f] 2. Hyldebrond's Hospital, or Spittle, on the west side of Conisford-street, sometimes called Ivy Hall, or St. Edward's Hospital:[g] founded about A.D. 1200,[h] by Hildebrond le Mercer, citizen of Norwich,[i] to the honour of the blessed Virgin Mary, for a Master or Warden and some brethren.[k] Afterwards, Tanner says, it was chiefly for the reception of several poor persons who wanted habitations, and then had for some time fire, lodging, and provisions here.[l] It was so decayed in the 26 Hen. VIII. that its rents and possessions were valued at no more than 14*s.* 2*d.* per annum.[m] The mayor and commonalty of Norwich were the grantees of this House in 1547: and they pulled down the church. The Hospital continued under the name of Ivy Hall. The present possessors are the Mayor and Corporation and sundry lessees.[n] 3. St. Mary Magdalen Hospital, for leprous persons, under the government of a Master or Warden, built and endowed nearly a mile from the City toward the north-east, by Herbert bishop of Norwich, to the honour of St. Mary Magdalen, before A.D. 1119. It was united in the 22d Hen. VII.[o] to the Hospital of St. Giles in Norwich, but seems to have been separated again quickly; the Masters being separately collated to it by the bishops of Norwich, who were patrons of both; and the distinct valuations 26 Hen. VIII. when this Hospital or Free Chapel of St. Magdalen was valued at 10*l.* per annum. The Grantees of this Hospital in 1547 were Sir Robert Southwell, master of the rolls, and John Corbet, Esq. for the sum of 276*l.* The present owner is Mr. William Denmark. The Chapel is standing, and is used as a barn. Blomfield and Taylor describe the common seal of this Hospital; it bore the figure of the Virgin Mary crowned, holding Our Saviour in her arms, the Master of the Hospital praying to him. Inscribed, TE . PRECOR . MARIA . MAGDALENE . SERVA . M'R'M. 4. St. Saviour's Hospital. This Hospital, in Coslany, was founded in the beginning of the reign of King Edward the First, by Richard de Breckles, chaplain, and, A.D. 1304, was confirmed by the same king; but how or when it was dissolved, is unknown.[p] 5. In addition to these, Tanner says, "About the latter end of the reign of King Edward the Third, mention is made of several Hospitals, Spittles, or Lazar Houses, places for the reception of leprous people without the gates of this city, which were, every one, under the government of a master, guider, or keeper, and supported by the voluntary alms of the inhabitants and of travellers. There was one without St. Austin's gate, which was sometimes called the Hospital of St. Mary and St. Clement. This remains still an habilation for poor diseased people, and is now called the Pest House. There was another just without Fibriggate or Magdalen gate, which seems to have had a Chapel belonging to it. A third without Westwyk or St. Benet's gates.[q] The fourth without St. Giles's gates.[r] The fifth without Nedham or St. Stephen's gates, and was accounted parcel of the possessions of the Priory of Horsham, St. Faith's, and as such was granted, 5 Jac. I., to Edmund Newport, &c."[a]

RACHENESS in SOUTHACRE.

Here, says Tanner, was temp. Hen. III. an Hospital for the reception of leprous people, subordinate to the Priory of Castleacre, to which lands in this parish and elsewhere were given for the support of the lepers dwelling therein. Taylor, in the Index Monasticus, considers Herbert de Sudacre or Southacre to have been the founder, in the time of Henry the Second. Alan de Palgrave, he says, the brother of the founder, confirmed and augmented the endowment. The House was dedicated to St. Batholomew. The Site is still called St. Bartholomew's hill; and in Blomfield's time a fair was annually kept there upon that Saint's day. The present owner of the Site is Brigg Price Fountaine, Esq.[b]

WEST SOMERTON.

This Hospital was founded by Ralph de Glanville, Chief Justice of England, and Berta his wife, in the time of Henry the Second; and by them put under the government of their Monastery at Butley in Suffolk, to which it was annexed, A.D. 1399, 1st Hen. IV.[c] The Site was granted in 1552 to Edward Lord Clinton, and has since passed through the hands of various possessors.

THETFORD.

Here were several Hospitals of a smaller kind. 1. On the Suffolk side the Domus Dei, or God's House, ascribed by some to King William Rufus, who had the lordship of the town in 1094; situated at the corner of the Canons' Close, adjoining the river, which washed its wall, and fronted the street. It was in existence certainly long before the reign of Edward the First. The patronage was, 9th Edw. III., in John Earl of Warren and Surrey, who then granted it with all its possessions to the Prior and Canons of Thetford, and, 22 Edw. III., Henry Earl of Lancaster confirmed this grant, except the site, which he gave to the Black Friers. At the Dissolution in 1540 the site came to Sir Richard Fulmerston. It is now occupied as a garden. The present possessor is Lord Petre.[d] 2. St. John's Hospital for Lepers, seated upon the Suffolk side of the river, between the Canons and the Red Castle. It had previously been a parochial church, which having been given by John of Gaunt, duke of Lancaster to the Austin Friers, and the parish being united to that of the Holy Trinity, they made it a House of Lepers and a Chapel; the patronage belonged to the successive lords of the manor of Thetford. Tanner says, It was in being as an Hospital much earlier, and is mentioned as such in an Assessment of the 35th Edw. I. The House and Chapel were totally demolished at the time of the Dissolution, though the traces of them were visible in Blomfield's time. The site was granted in 1540 to Sir Richard Fulmerston. The present possessor is Lord Petre. 3. St. Mary and St. Julian's Hospital. "This Hospital," says Tanner, "sometimes called the Hermitage of St. Julian, was, as some think, founded by King Henry the First. The presentation to it was vested in Earl Warren as lord of the manor of Thetford, and its endowments were by no means contemptible." It was designed for the reception of poor travellers and pilgrims. The Hospital itself, though the Chapel had been destroyed, was still standing in Blomfield's time. It is now gone, and the site occupied by a private house. 4. St. Mary Magdalene's Hospital. This Hospital was founded by John de Warren, earl of Surrey, and had the Church or Chapel of St. Mary Magdalene annexed to it, from which it took its name; it stood at some distance from the town near the road to Norwich. The founder, says Tanner, endowed it with several parcels of land to a considerable value, and by degrees it became possessed of two hundred and sixty acres of land, and six hundred and four acres of pasture and heath, and liberty of four fold-courses in Thetford, Kilverstone, Croxton, and other places. The advowson of it belonged, in the 35th Edw. III., to Henry duke of Lancaster.[e] It was valued, 26th Henry VIII., only at 1*l.* 13*s.* 6½*d.*, and was granted with all its lands, privileges, and possessions, to Sir William Fermour, who Sept. 28th, in the same year, released the premises to Sir Richard Fulmerston. The present possessor is also Lord Petre. The site is in Magdalen-field at the northern extremity of the town: the buildings have long since been removed.[f] 5. St. Margaret's Hospital, on the Suffolk side, originally a Parochial Church, which being annexed in 1390 to St. Mary's Church, the place was assigned as an Hospital or House of Lepers; at which time Fordham, Bishop of Ely, offered an Indulgence of forty days' pardon to all who would become benefactors to it. The site was granted in 1540 to Sir Richard Fulmerston. The present possessor, Lord Petre. The buildings of this Hospital have been long demolished; though its site is known; near the city ditch, on the left hand of the Elvedon road.[g]

WALSINGHAM.

Here, exclusive of the great House of Austin Canons, was an Hospital or Lazar House. Taylor says it is mentioned in 1486; and in 1491 Robert Pigot, by will, gave to it a house in or near this town, for the use of two leprous persons "of good families:" and it is afterwards frequently mentioned in old wills. It is now used as the Bridewell.

WALSOKEN.

The following are Tanner's words respecting the Hospital of Walsoken. "The Editor hath now in his hands an Indulgence granted by Thomas Jackson warden of the College or Hospital of the Holy Trinity of Walsoken in the diocese of Norwich, and his brethren, to Morrys ap Jencen, and Margaret his wife. It is dated March 2d, A.D. 1468, and said to be granted by virtue of a power given them by Pope Urban, and confirmed by Pope Boniface, the last of that name, Pope Nicholas the Vth, and the then Pope Paul the IId. But he hath met with nothing else relating to this House."[h] Taylor, however, in the Index Monasticus, gives us further information. He says this Hospital stood at a place called the Stathe-dytch in Walsoken; and that previously to the Dissolution it had mesuages and lands in six parishes, amounting to a hundred and twenty-five acres. The Society, he says, consisted of a Custos, certain chaplains, and several brethren and sisters. In the 26th Hen. VIIIth it was valued at 5*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* The Common Seal of this House was oblong, its device represented God the Father supporting the figure of our Saviour upon the cross; a priest below; circumscribed SIGIL . . . . . CONFRAT . ET . CONSOROR . . . . . . TRINIT . DE . WALSOKEN. The Grantee of the Site, after the Dissolution, was Mary duchess of Richmond and Somerset, A.D. 1552. It afterwards belonged to the family of Balam.[i]

WYMONDHAM.

William de Albini, says Tanner, before A.D. 1146 gave to the Hospital of Burton Lazars six score acres of land in this parish, upon which they built a Cell here, in which was a master and two or three brethren. It was granted at the Dissolution, as part of Burton Lazars, to John Dudley Knight, and belongs now to the Corporation of Norwich.[a]

YARMOUTH.

Here was an Hospital dedicated to the blessed Virgin Mary, founded in the beginning of the reign of Edward the First, by Thomas Fastolf. It consisted of a warden, eight brethren, and eight sisters.[b] The lodgings, chapel, &c., says Tanner, have since been converted into a grammar-school, house for the lecturer, workhouse for the poor, &c. In or near this Town also were two Spitals or Houses for the maintenance of poor lazars or lepers before A.D. 1374, one of which was about half a furlong from the North gates.

Northamptonshire.

ARMESTON.

Armeston in the parish of Pokebrooke. Ralph de Trublevile and Alice his wife founded an Hospital with a Chapel hard by their manor-house here, before A.D. 1231.[c] It was dedicated to St. John Baptist, and granted to Sir Robert Kirkham.[d]

AYNHO.

Here was an Hospital, says Tanner, dedicated to St. John and St. James, which was probably founded, or however well endowed, by Roger fil. Ricardi and his son Robert fil. Rogeri, temp. Hen. II., and was united to Magdalen College in Oxford A.D. 1484 by the gift of William Fitz Allan then Patron.[e] Sir Roger de Cressy, kn^{t}, was patron A.D. 1235, then Clavering, afterwards Cobham, and lastly Fitz Alan. Bridges in his History of Northamptonshire has given the Names of the Masters of this House.

BRACKLEY.

Beside the Hospital of St. John in Brackley, there was another, situated without the Town, about half a mile distant from the Church of St. James, dedicated to St. Leonard, founded before A.D. 1291. It was in the patronage of the Lords of the Manor.[f]

COTES near ROCKINGHAM.

Tanner says, "There is mention of a House of leprous persons here in Rot. Pat. 14 Hen. III. m. 7."

ST. DEWES, or ST. DAVID, in or near KINGSTHORP, or HOLY TRINITY without NORTHAMPTON

Our account of this Hospital is Tanner's. "At the petition first of Peter fil. Adæ de Northampton, and then of Henry, son of the said Peter rector of Kingsthorp, Walter the Prior and Convent of St. Andrew's Northampton, A.D. 1200, settled their house in the parish of Thorp for an Hospital for the reception of pilgrims and poor and sickly persons, to be taken care of by a procurator, two chaplains, and six lay brothers. There were two Chapels in this House, one dedicated to the Holy Trinity, and the other to St. David, from whence arose the different names. The chief person in this Hospital was styled in the records sometimes prior, and sometimes master.[g] It was valued at 32*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* in the whole; 24*l.* 6*s.* 1*d.* per ann. clear. The site and lands were granted, 4 et 5 Phil. and Mar. to the Master of the Savoy." Tanner quotes Sancroft's MS. Valor in a note, where King John is said to have been founder.[h]

HIGHAM FERRERS.

Tanner says there was an Hospital here, long before the foundation of archbishop Chichele's College, dedicated to St. James, of which Margaret de Ferrers, countess of Derby, was patroness, A.D. 1258.[i] Bridges found but two names of Masters of this House in the Lincoln Registers, Adam de Warwick, 4th id. Mart. 1258, and John de Chelveston, 7 id. April 1265.[k]

NORTHAMPTON.

Here were three ancient Hospitals. 1. St. John Baptist's, for poor and infirm persons, near the South gate, in the patronage of the bishops of Lincoln, founded about the year 1137, by Walter archdeacon of Northampton.[l] Bridges, vol. i. p. 456, is minute upon its foundations and revenues, and gives the names of the Masters or Wardens.[m] Its possessions were rated 26th Hen. VIII. at 25*l.* 6*s.* 2¾*d.* per annum.[n] 2. St. Leonard's Hospital, on the south side of the Town, in the hamlet of East Cotton, in the parish of Hardingstone, for a Master and leprous brethren and sisters. It is said to have been founded by William the Conqueror; and under the Kings his successors the mayor and burgesses of Northampton were patrons. It was valued, 26 Hen. VIII., according to Dugdale, at 10*l.* per annum; but at 12*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.* in the whole, and 11*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* clear, as Sancroft's MS. Valor.[a] An Impression from the common Seal of this House is in the possession of one of the Editors of the present work, circumscribed S. CŌE . DOMVS . SC̃I . LEONARDI . IVXTA . NORHAMPTON. 3. ST. THOMAS'S HOSPITAL, near the Westgate, founded about A.D. 1450, by the citizens.[b]

PETERBOROUGH.

HERE were two Hospitals. 1. ST. LEONARD'S HOSPITAL for sick and leprous persons dependent upon the Abbey, which occurs as early as King Stephen's time.[c] 2. ST. THOMAS'S HOSPITAL, founded by Benedict abbat of Peterborough, who had been formerly prior of Canterbury, and chancellor to Thomas Becket archbishop, about the year 1180, to the honour of his old master, who now began to be accounted a saint and a martyr.[d] The Cottonian Manuscript, Vesp. E. XXII. fol. 59 b, contains "Littera domini Linc. Episcopi pro Capella S. Thomæ extra portam, A.D. 1300."

TOWCESTER.

TANNER says, In the Pipe rolls 2 Joannis mention is made of the "Fratres leprosi de Toucestria." This Hospital was dedicated to St. Leonard, and the Mastership was in the gift of the crown.[e] How long it subsisted doth not appear; but it was probably gone to decay before 1447, as it is not mentioned by archdeacon Sponne, in his will, amongst his benefactions to the town of Towcester.[f]

Northumberland.

ALNWICK.

THE HOSPITAL of ST. LEONARD here, says Tanner, was of the foundation and in the patronage of the noble family of the Percys, and was, by Henry lord Percy, afterwards (the first of that name) earl of Northumberland, annexed to the Abbey 50 Edw. III.[g]

BAMBURGH.

HERE was an old Hospital dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene. It is mentioned in Pat. 7 Edw. II. p. 1, m. 1. Pat. 22 Edw. III. p. 1, m. 4. Pat. 37 Edw. III. p. 1, m. 41. Pat. 50 Edw. III. p. 1, m. 28. Escaet. Northumb. 50 Edw. III. n. 56.[h]

BERWICK.

Two ancient Hospitals are mentioned at Berwick. 1. MAISON DIEU, or GOD'S HOUSE, mentioned in Claus. 2 Edw. III. m. 16. Tanner says, it had a grant of twenty marks per annum out of Wetherborn, by Pat. 21 Edw. III. m. 21. and Pat. 22 Edw. III. p. 2, m. . "Rex protegit Willelmo de Emeldon statum quem habet in Hospitali Domus Dei de Berwico."[i] 2. An HOSPITAL dedicated to ST. MARY MAGDALENE, mentioned in Pat. 29 Edw. I. m. . . prope finem. In Rymer, vol. iii. p. 786, such an Hospital is mentioned as near this town. In the Escheat rolls for Northumberland, 41 Edw. III. n. 39, there is mention of the Hospital of Segeden here, and an Inquisition concerning the lands belonging to it. In Pat. 16 Hen. VI. p. 1, m. . the former is called a free chapel, and the latter an hermitage, and these are said to be united.[k]

CATCHBURNE.

HERE was an Hospital built under the influence and patronage of Roger lord Merlay, the second of that name.[l]

ELLESHAUGH.

TANNER quotes the mention of this Hospital from Sancroft's Manuscript Valor: "Hospitale de Elleshaugh in com. Northumbriæ valet in mansione cum parva clausura ibid. 13*s.* 4*d.*"

HEXHAM.

Two Hospitals occur here, 1. A House for leprous persons as old as King John's time;[m] the same probably with the HOSPITAL of ST. GILES here, which was in the gift of the archbishop of York. It had revenues valued at four marks per ann., and was granted with the site of the Priory to Sir Reginald Carnaby, 30 Hen. VIIIth.[n] 2. An Hospital for the sick called the Spittle, dependent on the Priory, situated about a mile west from the town, on a pleasant shady eminence by the Tyne.[o]

JESMONT.

THE HOSPITAL of JESMONT, dedicated to the blessed Virgin, was situated about a mile from Newcastle. It was granted, with its Chapel, 3d Edw. VI., to the mayor and corporation of Newcastle, and was by them assigned over, in the following year, to Sir Robert Brandling, knight.[p]

MORPETH.

MORPETH had an ancient Hospital for sick persons, to which William de Merlai gave a carucate of land.

NEWCASTLE.

SEVERAL Hospitals existed in Newcastle. Near the West gate was, 1. An HOSPITAL of ST. MARY THE VIRGIN, consisting of a master and six brethren, as old as the time of Henry the Third, which had revenues, 26th Hen. VIIIth, valued at 26*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* per annum.[q] There was also, 2. Another HOSPITAL of ST MARY THE VIRGIN in this town, founded, as was believed, in the time of Henry the First, but enlarged or re-founded by one Asselack of Killinghow, about the latter part of the reign of King Henry the Second, which seems to have had some dependence on the Nunnery.[r] This, says Tanner, hath been long annexed to [r] It is mentioned amongst the possessions of the Nunnery in the charter of confirmation granted by King Henry II. Wallis, Hist. Northumb. vol. ii. p. 207. See an elaborate Account of this Hospital in Brand's History of Newcastle-upon Tyne, vol. i. p. 67.

St. Mary's of Westgate. And by virtue of a charter granted 9 Jac. I., there is now one Hospital of St. Mary the Virgin, consisting of a Master and . . . . poor persons, put in by the mayor and burgesses of the corporation.[a] 3. St. Mary Magdalene's was a third Hospital or Priory (without the walls of the town), of a Master and brethren, founded, as Speed says, by King Henry the First. It was valued, 26th Hen. VIIIth, at 9*l.* 11*s.* 4*d.* per annum, as Speed. And, though granted away in the time of Queen Elizabeth,[b] yet was re-established in the 9th Jac. I.,[c] when the Hospital or Chapel of St. Thomas, on the bridge over the Tyne, was annexed to it. It consists now of a Master and three poor brethren, who have each of them 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum, and is under the patronage and government of the mayor and burgesses of the corporation.[d] 4. John Ward, a rich merchant of Newcastle, founded a Maison Dieu here for twelve poor men and twelve poor women, by the Augustine Friers.[e] 5. Leland mentions a little Hospital by the Grey Friers, called Brigham's Hospital, founded by Christopher Brigham, another merchant of Newcastle.[f]

TWEDEMOUTH.

Tanner speaks of an old Hospital at Twedemouth, dedicated to St. Bartholomew, the mastership of which was in the bishop of Durham.[g]

Nottinghamshire.

BLYTHE.

A Bull of Pope Honorius relating to this Hospital has been already printed in the account of Blythe Priory. It was founded for a warden, three chaplains, and several leprous people, by William de Cressy, lord of Hodesac, and dedicated to St. John the Evangelist. Its possessions were valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at 8*l.* 14*s.* per annum.

BRADEBUSK HOSPITAL.

Tanner calls this Bradebusk or Brodebuske in Gonalston parish : and says, "William Heriz, temp. Hen. III. built here an Hospital to the honour of St. Mary Magdalene, which is still in being and called Gonalston Spittle.[h]

LENTON.

Here was an Hospital of St. Anthony within the court or churchyard. Thoroton speaks of seven bovates of land in Bradmere, given to this Hospital for the sustentation of such as should be troubled with St. Anthony's fire.[i]

NEWARK.

Tanner notices two Hospitals here. One, in or near the Town, dedicated to St. Leonard, was founded by Alexander bishop of Lincoln, in the latter end of the reign of Henry the First, or beginning of that of King Stephen, and confirmed by Philip bishop of Lincoln. Perhaps, he adds, this might be the Chapel or Hospital dedicated to St. Leonard in Newark, which, 26th Hen. VIII., consisted of a Master, one chaplain, and three poor persons, and had revenues then valued in the whole at 27*l.* 13*s.* 7½*d.* per annum, and at 17*l.* 1*s.* 9½*d.* clear.[k] Here also, says Tanner, was an ancient Hospital for sick persons belonging to the Knights Templars, before the year 1185. He adds, Quære, whether after the Dissolution of that Order it was not annexed to St. Leonard of Stoke, who at the farther end of the Northgate-street here, had a great House called the Spittle, which belonged to the Constables, and after to the earls of Exeter; but was burned down in the civil wars.[l]

NOTTINGHAM.

Beside St. John's or St. Jone's Hospital here, there was another Hospital dedicated to St. Leonard, as old as the beginning of the reign of Henry the Third, if not older.[m]

SOUTHWELL.

An Hospital dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, in or near this place, occurs as early as A.D. 1313.[n]

Oxfordshire.

BANBURY.

In or near this Town, says Tanner,[o] was an Hospital in the reign of King John, dedicated to St. John, consisting of the Prior or Master, and several leprous brothers and sisters. It had revenues, 26th Hen. VIII., valued at 15*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.* per annum. Dugd. Speed.[p] The mastership was in the gift of the bishop of Lincoln. Nicholas Cartwright, D.D., was presented to the Mastership in 1541.[q]

BURFORD.

A small Priory or Hospital, here, existed at least as early as 1291, dedicated to St. John the Evangelist.[a] It was valued in the 26th Hen. VIIIth at 13*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.*, and was granted in the 35th of that king to Edmund Herman.[b]

CROWMERSH.

An Hospital or Lazar House here is mentioned as early as 1248 in the Register of Osney Abbey. Tanner considers it to have been probably the same with the free Chapel of St. Mary Magdalene here, which was granted 4 and 5 Phil et Mar. to Thomas Gratewik and Anselm Lamb.

WOODSTOCK.

Tanner says, There is mention of an Almshouse built near the King's manor-place here in rot. claus. 4 Hen. III. m. 11. Quære, Whether this be the same with the Hospital of St. Mary the Virgin and St. Mary Magdalene in Woodstock, for which a protection and licence to beg were granted by Pat. 13 Edw. III. p. 1, m. 19.[c]

Rutlandshire.

MANTON.

In the bishop of Lincoln's Register mention is made of the Warden of the House or Hospital at Manton.

Shropshire.

BERTON.

Leland in his Itinerary, vol. vii. p. 147, speaks of an Hospital at Berton in Shropshire.

SHREWSBURY.

In the west suburb of Shrewsbury, called Frankevile, was an old Hospital dedicated to St. John Baptist. It was in being in the time of Edward the Second; and continued till the Dissolution; when its clear income was rated at the annual sum of 4*l.* 10*s.*[d] This Hospital was sometimes called St. John Walshgate. Leland mentions another Hospital, called St. Mary's, at the West end of St. Mary's Church, founded by one Degory Walter a merchant of Shrewsbury "in hominum memoria."

WENLOCK.

An ancient Hospital here is mentioned in a Patent of the 3d Edw. I. dedicated to St. John.[e]

WHITCHURCH.

Tanner calls this Whitchurch, De Albo Monasterio, or Blancminster. He says, Here was an Hospital of several poor brethren, to which John le Strange, temp. Hen. III., gave the town of Winelecote, which together with the Hospital were afterwards annexed to the Abbey of Haghmon.[f]

Somersetshire.

BATH.

The Hospital of St. John Baptist, Bath, which is still existing, was founded by Reginald bishop of Bath about A.D. 1180 for the succour of poor people resorting to the Cross and Hot Baths. The following Names of the Masters of this Hospital occur in the Register of the Abbey of Bath, MS. Harl. 3970: they appear to have been presented by the Prior of that House. Walter Hardyng, t. Edw. III. Adam Hatfeld was his successor. Thomas Godsmale next succeeded. Upon the death of Nicholas Brent, John Balyngton was appointed Master by Robert Cloppcote prior of Bath. Peter Buryman was made Prior Sept. 28, 1428. This Hospital was valued 26 Hen. VIIIth in the full income at 27*l.* 4*s.* 11*d.* per annum, in its clear receipts at 22*l.* 16*s.* 9*d.* Queen Elizabeth granted the advowson, in 1578, to the Mayor and Commonalty of the City of Bath.[g]

The little Hospital of St. Mary Magdalene at Bath, for lunatics, is said to have been built by John Cantlon prior of Bath from 1489 to 1499.[h]

BRIDGEWATER.

St. Giles's Hospital. Leland says, "There ys an Hospitale yn the west part of this towne, of the building and foundation of menne yn the towne; but it is endowed with little or no land." Tanner says, Quære, Whether this be not the Hospital of lepers dedicated to St. Giles in Bridgewater, within the archdeaconry of Taunton, concerning the Visitation of which there was a prohibition, temp. R. Edw. III.[i]

BRUTON.

An Hospital is mentioned here in the Taxation of Pope Nicholas the Fourth, A.D. 1291, as having a yearly pension of 20*s.* out of the rectory or vicarage of Banwell in the deanry of Axbridge.[k]

GLASTONBURY.

Here was an ancient Hospital for poor and infirm persons dedicated to St. John Baptist, under the care of the almoner of the Abbey, which was rebuilt near the park, the allowances of the poor augmented, and provision made for a chaplain to perform divine offices by the munificence of Michael abbat of Glastonbury, A.D. 1246.[l]

LANGEPORT.

The House of poor lepers at Langeport, says Tanner, dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, is mentioned in the Register of bishop Drokenesford, A.D. 1310, and in another Register A.D. 1337. He adds, Vide "In bibl. Harleiana, MS. 862, p. 132, Indulgentiam concessam per.... Metforde episc. Sarum benefactoribus Domus seu Hospitalis B. Mariæ Magdalenæ de Langeport."

SELWOOD.

"Domus Leprosorum de Selwood," says Tanner, from Dr. Hutton's Collections, hath a legacy in the Will of Hugh Wells bishop of Lincoln, made A.D. 1212.

TAUNTON.

Here was an ancient Leper House near the Chapel of St. Margaret, the advowson and patronage of which was granted, about the year 1280, to the Abbat and Convent of Glastonbury, by Thomas Lambrizt.[a]

BRISTOL.

Several Hospitals in Bristol are to be noticed here. 1. The Hospital dedicated to St. Bartholomew stood at a short distance from the Grey-friars, without Froom-gate. This House, with all the lands, &c. thereto belonging, was, by licence from King Henry the Eighth, purchased by the executors of Robert Thorn of Sir Thomas West, knt., Lord La Warre patron and founder, George Croft master, and the brethren and sisters of the said Hospital, and conveyed to the Mayor, burgesses, and commonalty of the city, for erecting a Grammar School in pursuance of the Will of the said Robert Thorn, and is still applied to that use.[b] 2. St. Catharine's Hospital, within the manor of Bedminster, founded by Robert de Berkele, who died 4th Hen. III., for a Master or warden, and several poor brethren. It was valued, in the 26th Hen. VIIIth, at 21*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.* Leland, in his Collectanea, vol. i. p. 85, calls this House an Austin Priory. A List of the Patrons and Masters is given in Dr. Archer's Account, &c.[c] 3. Trinity Hospital. This, Leland says, was hard within Lawford's gate. It is believed to have been founded by John Barstaple, merchant and burgess of Bristol, in the 4th Hen. Vth, for six poor men and six poor women, and a priest to officiate to them. But Tanner says, here was certainly some foundation before his time, though probably not fully settled. This House was preserved at the Reformation, and granted by Queen Elizabeth, anno regni 20, to the mayor and corporation of Bristol, who have since greatly improved the revenues.[d] 4. Lyon's, otherwise Lewin's Mede-Street Hospital, said to have been founded by William Spencer, executor to William Cannings, under William Cannings' will. It now belongs to the parish of St. James, a certain number of whose poor have their dwellings there.[e] 5. St. Margaret's Hospital, mentioned by Leland, in his Itinerary.[f] 6. St. Mary Magdalene Hospital, for lepers, on the west side of Radcliffe-hill, mentioned by William of Wyrcestre.[g] 7. St. Michael's Hill Almshouse, founded in 1504, by John Foster, to the honour of God and the three Kings of Cologne, for a priest, eight poor men, and five poor women. It was afterwards augmented by John Esterfield and John Walshe, his executors. This Foundation is still under the government of the mayor and burgesses. 7. Redcliff-Hill Almshouse, founded by William Cannings in 1442, Temple-Street Hospital, and Temple-Gate Hospital appear to have been mere Almshouses.

Staffordshire.

LICHFIELD.

There were two Hospitals in Lichfield. 1. St. John's Hospital. Tanner says, "At the very south end of the town was the House, College, Priory, or Hospital of St. John Baptist, where was a Master and Fellows, as Religious men; but Leland could not learn who was the founder. Bishop Godwin saith that he hath read, that Roger bishop of Lichfield was the original founder; which of them doth not yet appear; but I rather choose to ascribe it to one of the Rogers in the time of King Henry the Third, than to Roger Clinton in King Stephen's. Bishop Smith, in the days of King Henry VIIth, began a new foundation at this place, setting up a master there, with two priests, and ten poor men in the Hospital. King Henry the Seventh was a great benefactor to this new foundation. It was valued 26 Hen. VIII. at 8*l.* 15*s.* per annum, as Dugdale and Speed, which was the clear value, and at 46*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.* as MS. Rec. in Off. Primit. which was the total value, when there were thirteen poor persons, a bailiff, school-master, and usher here maintained."[h] It still continues in existence. There is an Engraving of it in Shaw's Staffordshire, vol. i. p. 322. 2. Bacon-Street Hospital, or Almshouses, owe their original to Bishop Heyworth, about A.D. 1424. 3. Shaw, in his History of Staffordshire, vol. i. p. 347, adds, The Poor Woman's Hospital, founded A.D. 1504.

STAFFORD.

St. John's Hospital here, near the river, on the green in Forbrigge, had a master and several poor brethren.[i] It was valued 26 Hen. VIII. at 10*l.* per annum. The Spyttel or Free Chapel of St. Leonard was valued in the Valor of the 26th Hen. VIII. at 4*l.* 12*s.* 4*d.* per annum.

TAMWORTH.

Here was an Hospital dedicated to St. James, which was existing in the 15th Edw. I. Philip Marmyon lord of Tamworth, intending to found a House of Premonstratensians, made a grant of it in that year. It was valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum.

Suffolk.

BECCLES.

On the hill, at the west part of the Town, near the Free School, is a Foundation which as early as 1327 was an Hospital for Lepers, with a chapel dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene. Strype says to St. Mary Magdalene and St. Anthony. Taylor, in his Index Monasticus, p. 113, gives a list of its early benefactors. It was occupied by a Master, brethren, and sisters. Having continued as an Hospital through the reign of Queen Elizabeth, King James the

First granted it to . . . . . Kerrich, and it was afterwards granted by King Charles II. to William Chapman for life. Tanner says it was granted in 1676, but Taylor in 1674, to the portreve, surveyors, and commonalty of Beccles, for the maintenance of the poor for ever.[a]

BURY ST. EDMUND'S.

Four Hospitals are unnoticed by Dugdale here. 1. God's House, or St. John's Hospital, without the South gate. It has been already mentioned in the Account of Bury Abbey, as occurring in a charter of King Edw. I. A.D. 1281, when, in an apportionment of the possessions of that Monastery, it was assigned for the support of the precentor.[b] Taylor says, the present owner is the Rev. Thomas Gery Cullum. 2. St. Nicholas's Hospital, a short distance without the East gate, consisting of a Master, chaplain, and several brethren, the foundation of which was ascribed to one of the abbats of Bury. It occurs as early as 1223. In 1281 this Hospital and its appurtenances was also placed under the protection of the precentor of Bury Abbey. In the 26th Hen. VIII. the gross amount of its revenue was rated at 8*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.*, the clear income at 6*l.* 19*s.* 11*d.*[c] 3. St. Peter's Hospital, without the Risby gate, on the left-hand side of the road, but within the jurisdiction of the Abbat of Bury. According to Battely, this Hospital was founded by Abbat Anselm in the latter part of the reign of King Henry the First, or the beginning of King Stephen's, for the maintenance of priests and others, when they grew old and infirm, leprous, or diseased. Tanner says it was, at first, under the sole management of the almoner of the Abbey, who afterwards put in some secular priest to be Master. In the 26th Henry VIIIth this House was valued in the gross at 20*l.* 16*s.* 8½*d.*, in clear income at 10*l.* 18*s.* 10½*d.*[d] It continued till 1551, when a protection was granted to the Lazars here; and George Hodgson, guide of the House, was appointed their proctor. Taylor, in his Index Monasticus, says, the Walls that originally enclosed this Hospital were recently remaining. The present Owners are the Trustees or Governors of the Grammar School.[e] 4. St. Saviour's Hospital, without the North gate of the Town, the establishment of which was begun by abbat Sampson and the Convent of Bury, about the year 1184, though it was not finished or fully endowed till King John's time. It was originally founded for a warden, twelve chaplains priests, six clerks, twelve poor gentlemen, and twelve poor women.[g] In the time of King Edward the First here were only seven chaplains, and the poor sisters were to be dismissed, and in their stead old and infirm priests to be taken in and maintained.[g] The temporalties and spiritualties belonging to this Hospital extended to one hundred and fifty-three marks, ten shillings, and fourpence per annum, of which the portion of tithes at Melford was reckoned eighty marks.[h] St. Saviour's Hospital was the most considerable institution of its kind in the Town of Bury. The Parliament of 1446 assembled in it: and here Humphry the good Duke of Gloucester was murdered in the same year. The Site of this House was granted in the 34th Hen. VIII. to Anthony Stringer and John Williams.[i] The present owners are the Master and Fellows of St. John's College, Cambridge.

Taylor in the Index Monasticus, p. 113, speaks of another Hospital in Bury dedicated to St. Stephen, between the East gate and bridge and St. Nicholas's Hospital, on the north side of the street. Gillingwater, he says, adds that some remains of it were visible in his time. The present owner, Philip Bennet, Esq.

DUNWICH.

Here, says Tanner, was as early as the reign of King Henry the Third, an Hospital for a Master and six brethren, dedicated to the Holy Trinity, called Domus Dei or Maison Dieu, which was of the King's patronage. Taylor says, a church for the use of the brethren adjoined this Hospital, and in 1527 a legacy was left toward its repair. The revenues of this house fell considerably to decay from various causes. In 1739, Tanner says, they amounted to no more than 13*l.* 15*s.* per annum, and in 1754 Gardner states them only to be 11*l.* 17*s.* It is still continued as an Almshouse. Taylor describes the Common Seal of this House. Oval: bearing the Arms of Henry the Third, surmounted by a triple cross, and two fleurs de lis on the lowest bar. The Inscription, ✠ SIGILLUM . FRATRUM . DOMUS . DEI . DE . DONEWICO.

St. James's Hospital in Dunwich, for a Master and several leprous brethren and sisters, occurs as early as the reign of King Richard the First. Blomfield ascribes the foundation of this Hospital to John King of England; but Martin attributes it to Walter de Riboff, who seems only to have confirmed former grants.[k] Tanner says, it had formerly a fair, large church, and good revenues belonging to it; and is yet in being. By mismanagement, the large income which this house originally posssessed had dwindled in 1739 to 26*l.* per annum, and in 1754 to 21*l.* 19*s.* 8*d.*[l]

EYE.

Without this town was an Hospital for leprous persons dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, in the beginning of the reign of King Edward the Third. It continued till the Dissolution, and was under the government of the bailiffs and burgesses of the town. Tanner adds, "Vide Pat. 3 Edward III. p. 1, m. 28 vel. 29. Lib. Brosyard, 284. It is mentioned in several old Will-books in the principal Registry of the Bishop of Norwich."

GORLESTONE.

Here, says Tanner, was a House for lepers, A. D. 1372.[m] But nothing farther occurs of it.

IPSWICH.

As early as the beginning of King John's reign, says Tanner, here was an Hospital for leprous persons dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, to which was afterwards annexed another House of lepers in this Town, called St. James's

Hospital. The Masterships of both were in the collation of the Bishop of Norwich, and usually went together with the Church of St. Helen and Chapel of St. Edmund the archbishop, or of Pountney, to the same appropriated.[a]

ORFORD.

Here was an Hospital for a Master and brethren, dedicated to St. Leonard, in the time of King Edward II., which continued till after the year 1586. It is then mentioned in the Will-book marked EE. fol. 329, in the archdeacon of Suffolk's office. It is said to have stood near the park, and the lands belonging to it are thought to be enclosed within the park, now the property of the Marquess of Hertford, whence a payment is yearly made to certain poor persons.[b]

SUDBURY.

Amicia Countess of Clare, in the time of King John, founded an Hospital in this Town to the honour of Jesus Christ and the blessed Virgin Mary his mother. This, says Tanner, seems to be the same with the House or Chapel of the Holy Sepulchre which the same lady afterward gave to the monks of Stoke Clare, and which 5th Edw. VIth was granted to John Cheke, Esq. Tanner's last editor, however, and Taylor in the Index Monasticus, seem to doubt this.[c]

GREAT THURLOW.

An Hospital dedicated to St. James, temp. Ric. II., subordinate to the foreign Hospital of Hautpays or de Alto passu, existed here. This Hospital or free Chapel, being of the yearly value of 60*s.*, was, among other lands, granted by King Edward the Fourth to God's House (now King's) College in Cambridge. It is mentioned in Pat. 22 Ric. II. p. 2, m. 33. Pat. 2 Edw. IV. and Pat. 8 Edw. IV. p. 3, m. 15.

Surrey.

COOKHAM.

The Hospital of St. Anthony at Cookham, given by Pat. 25 Edw. III. p. 1, m. 15 et 16. to Hardham Priory in Sussex, is suspected by Tanner to have been at one of the parishes of that name in Surrey.

CROYDON.

An old Almshouse or Hospital is mentioned to have been founded here in the 23d Hen. VI. by Elias Davy, citizen and mercer of London. See Pat. 23 Hen. VI. p. 1. The statutes of this Hospital, dated April 27th, 1447, are to be found at large in Dr. Ducarel's History of Croydon. Manning, Hist. Surrey, vol. ii. p. 552, says it was endowed with lands which produced 18*l.* per annum.

KINGSTON.

Taylor speaks of two Hospitals at Kingston. 1. He says the Master and Brethren of the Bridge at Kingston are mentioned in the records in the beginning of the reign of King Henry the Third. "Vide Fin. Surr. 3 Hen. III. Pat. 2 Edw. II. p. 2, m. 3 vel. 4. Pat. 26 Edw. III. p. 3, m. 13." 2. He says, John Lovekin, fishmonger, who was lord mayor of London A.D. 1348, 1358, 1365, and 1366, built a Chapel at Kingston, dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, with an Hospital adjoining, for a Master, two priests, and certain poor men; and endowed the same with nine tenements, ten shops, one mill, a hundred and twenty-five acres of land, ten acres of meadow, a hundred and twenty acres of pasture, &c. In a note, however, he adds, "Possibly Lovekin or Lofkin might rebuild and endow the old Hospital, and not build a new one in a different place; as the 26 Edw. III. answers to A.D. 1351, perhaps Pat. 26 Edw. III. p. 3, m. 13. may relate to Lovekin's building." Manning, Hist. Surr. vol. i. p. 350, is minute upon the history of Lovekin's Hospital: and gives an abstract of its statutes. He makes Edward Lovekin to have been the builder of this Chapel, in the 33 Edw. I., and John Lovekin, his son or nephew, to have been the refounder, in the 26th Edw. III. William Walworth, lord mayor of London, added another chaplain to this foundation.

NEWINGTON.

The Hospital of Our Lady and St. Katherine here continued till Feb. 1551, when their proctor, William Cleybroke, had a protection or licence to beg.[d]

Sussex.

BUCKSTEAD.

Dugdale, in his Baronage, vol. i. p. 730, mentions an Hospital here, begun for four or six poor persons by William Heron, who, by his will, bearing date A. D. 1404, enjoined the same to be finished.

CHICHESTER.

Near or without the east gate of Chichester, says Tanner, was an ancient Hospital for leprous persons dedicated to St. James and St. Mary Magdalene, which seems to have been as old as King Richard the First's or King John's time. It was valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 4*l.* 14*s.* 10*d.* per annum in the whole, and at 4*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* clear, and was lately in being,[e] but had then only a master and one poor person belonging to it.[f] St. Mary's was another Hospital for a Master and several poor brethren in the north-east part of the City, founded by William dean of the cathedral church here in the time of Henry the Second. It was valued, in the 26th Henry VIII., at 35*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* per annum as the Record in the First Fruits Office, and at 11*l.* 11*s.* 6½*d.* as Dugdale and Speed. It was refounded by Queen Elizabeth, and in being A.D. 1686, when one of the Residentiaries was Warden, and there were two poor brothers and three poor sisters in it.[g]

HERTING.

Henry Hoese, or Husee, the founder of the Premonstratensian Priory of Dureford in this county, founded here an Hospital or House of lepers in the time of Henry the Second, dedicated to St. John Baptist. King Henry IId's grant of a fair to it will be found among the Instruments of Dureford Priory.

LEWES.

Here were two Hospitals: St. James's, near the gate of the Priory of Lewes, for thirteen poor brethren and sisters; and St. Nicholas's Hospital in Westout, said to have been erected by the founder of the Priory. Here also, in the 26th Hen. VIII., were thirteen poor brethren and sisters.[a]

PEVENSEY.

The Hospital of St. John Baptist here is often mentioned in "The Usages and Customes of the Town, Port, and Lege of Pevensey, 30th Edw. III."[b]

PLEYDONE.

This Hospital, in the parish of Rye, was of ancient date, and dedicated to St. Bartholomew. King Henry the Seventh gave it to the Abbey of Westminster for keeping his anniversary; and as parcel of the possessions of that Monastery it was granted in the 34th Hen. VIII. to Andrew Lord Windsor.[c]

SEAFORD.

Tanner, from one of archbishop Sancroft's Manuscripts, mentions an Hospital of St. James's here, which was annexed to the Prebend of Bargham in the Church of Chichester.

SHOREHAM.

An Hospital here, dedicated to St. James, was granted 16th Eliz. to John Mersh.

WINDEHAM.

An Hospital of St. Edmund, in the patronage of the Crown, occurs here in the 10th Ric. II. See Pat. 10 Ric. II. p. 2, m. 10. de custode præficiendo.

Warwickshire.

BERMINGHAM.

At the end of this Town, toward Wolverhampton, stood the Hospital of St. Thomas the Apostle, consisting of a Prior or Warden and several brethren. It was in being before the 13th Edw. I., and was valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 8*l.* 5*s.* 3*d.* per annum. The ancestors of the Berminghams were accounted its founders.[d]

COVENTRY.

St. John's Hospital in Coventry has been already disposed of. But here were three smaller Hospitals. 1. Bablake, founded by Thomas Bond, draper,[e] sometime Mayor of the City, A.D. 1506, for a priest being a preacher, ten poor men, and one poor woman: the yearly value of which amounted to 49*l.* 11*s.* 7*d.* It was granted in 2d Ed. VI. to the bailiffs and commonalty of the City; and the Hospital still continues.[f] 2. The Grey Friers' Hospital, so called because built in the neighbourhood of the Grey Friers by William Ford, merchant, in 1529, for five poor men and one woman. It was shortly afterwards better endowed by the charity of William Pisford his executor, and since by the benefaction of Simon Norton, alderman of Coventry. It is yet in being, and likewise under the care of the Corporation of Coventry. 3. Sponne Hospital, placed on the west part without the city, founded in the time of King Henry the Second by Hugh Kevelioc, earl of Chester, and dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, for one priest at least, and certain brethren and sisters. It sometime belonged to Basingwerk Abbey in Flintshire; then to the Prior of Coventry; but in the 14th Edw. IVth it was granted to the canons of Studley in Warwickshire.[g]

HENLEY.

Dugdale, in his History of Warwickshire, fol. 1656, p. 598, says there was an Hospital here in the 26th Hen. VIth, to which John Carpenter then bishop of Worcester granted out an Indulgence to endure for three years.

WARWICK.

The Hospital of St. John Baptist here, in the north-east suburb of the town in Smyth-street, was founded by William earl of Warwick in the time of King Henry the Second, for the entertainment of strangers and travellers, as well as those that were poor and infirm. It was continually to consist of a Master or Warden, two chaplains, and two poor people. Its revenues were valued, in the 26th Hen. VIII., in the gross amount, at 20*l.* 3*s.* per annum; clear, at 19*l.* 3*s.* 7*d.* The Site was granted, 27th Hen. VIII., to Anthony Stoughton.[h] The Hospital of St. Michael, at the lower end of Saltford-street, was founded by Roger earl of Warwick in the latter end of the reign of King Henry the First, or beginning of that of Stephen, for a Master or Warden, and several leprous brethren; whose revenues in the total amount reached, 26th Hen. VIII., to 12*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.* per annum, after reprises to 10*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.* only. By a survey in the 37th of Hen. VIII., mentioned by Tanner, their revenues were certified to be worth 10*l.* 19*s.* 10*d.* over and above all reprises.[i] Leland says that in his time the buildings of the House were sore decayed.[k] Rous says that William earl of Warwick, who founded St. John's Hospital, also founded an Hospital dedicated to St. Thomas in Warwick: but no other testimony exists respecting this foundation.

APPLEBY.

Here was a small Hospital dedicated to St. Nicholas, which John de Veteripont gave to the Abbey of Shapp. Walter bishop of Carlisle confirmed this donation upon condition that the Convent should maintain here three lepers for ever. The site was granted in the 36th Hen. VIII., to Thomas Lord Wharton.[a]

BROUGH.

Tanner says, "In the beginning of the sixteenth century, John Brunskill founded here, on a piece of ground called Gibgarth, a Chapel and Hospital, with two beds for travellers and other poor people. The Chapel was dedicated to the blessed Virgin and St. Gabriel; it had two chaplains, the one to celebrate divine services, the other to instruct the children of the place in grammar and singing. It was under the government of the abbat of Shapp for the time being. At the Dissolution a pension of 7*l.* 4*s.* 4*d.* out of its revenues were granted for the continuance of the Grammar School."[b]

KIRKBY in KENDALE.

This was an Hospital or House of lepers dedicated to St. Leonard; the advowson of which was given as early as the reign of Henry the Second by William de Lancastre to Conisheved Priory or Hospital in Lancashire.[c] Margaret de Ros had the patronage of the advowson in the 29th Edw. I.[d] Tanner says this House had, 26 Hen. VIIIth, yearly revenues valued at 11*l.* 4*s.* 3*d.* in the whole, and 6*l.* 4*s.* 5*d.* clear; but those with the Hospital itself were granted, 38 Hen. VIIIth, to Alan Bellingham and Alan Wilson.[e]

Wiltshire.

BRADFORD.

Leland, Itin. vol. ii. p. 57, says, "There is a little streate over Bradeford Bridge, and at the ende of that is an Hospitale of the Kinges of Englandes fundation." This appears to be the only mention of Bradford Hospital.

CALNE.

Tanner says the Hospital of St. John here was in being temp. R. Hen. III. and was governed by a Master, Warden, or Prior. A note of an annual rent and services due from the Master to the Abbess of Laycock in Wiltshire, for a tenement and yardlands in Oftcote 8th Edw. I. has been already given in the note below, p. 557 of the present Volume. Tanner refers to "Pat. 6 Edw. III. p. 2, m. 12 vel. 13. pro tribus bussellis frumenti qualibet septimana ex maner. de Hudden Berks. Pat. 10 Edw. III. p. 1. m. 39 vel 40." Dugdale in his Baronage, tom. ii. p. 203, says that in the 8th Edw. III. Robert de Hungerford, knight, gave to the Warden of this Hospital certain lands and rents in Stockeleigh for the maintenance of a priest to sing mass at the altar of St. Edmund. He also bestowed upon the Hospital divers Vestments. In the 26th Hen. VIII. Calne was valued at 2*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.* per annum. Willis, Mit. Ab. vol. ii. p. 285, says the Incumbent of the Chapel here had a pension at the Dissolution.

CRICKLADE.

Tanner speaks of an Hospital here, dedicated to St. John Baptist, under the government of a Warden or Prior,[f] as occurring pretty early in the reign of Henry the Third.[g] He adds, it was valued, about the time of the Dissolution, according to Dugdale and Speed, at 4*l.* 10*s.* 7½*d.* per annum, and not long after reckoned as a free Chapel.[h] Tanner says, in a note, "Quære, whether there be not yet an old building near the bridge called the Priory."

DEVIZES.

Tanner says, Here are two ancient Hospitals in or near St. John's Churchyard, now under the government of the Mayor and Corporation, but perhaps formerly in the patronage of the King; one of them was founded for leprous persons before A.D. 1207.[i]

MARLEBURGH.

Dugdale has himself given an Account of St. John's Hospital at Marleburgh, but another Hospital existed here at least as early as the beginning of the reign of Henry the Third, dedicated to St. Thomas of Canterbury; it was annexed in the 17th of Richard II. to the neighbouring Priory of St. Margaret.[k]

MERTON.

Tanner says, "All that I have met with concerning this, is in Mr. St. Lo. Kniveton's Collections, A.L. p. 34. as follows: Plac. coram Rege, anno 53, incipiente 54 Hen. III. Wiltes assisa si David Bening cum aliis injuste prosternaverunt quoddam fossatum in Chedeworth ad nocumentum, &c. Jurati dicunt quod, &c. Warinus prædecessor fundavit Hospitale de Merton."[l] &c.

SALISBURY.

1. Harnham Hospital. The Hospital of St. Nicholas, between the close and Harnham bridge, is said to have been founded by Herebert or Robert Poore bishop of Salisbury, about A.D. 1220. But Tanner thinks it was probably begun only by him, and chiefly carried on and endowed by his successor bishop Bingham,[m] about A.D. 1245, for a Master (sometimes called the Prior), eight poor men, and four poor women, who were endowed 26 Hen. VIII. with 64*l.* 16*s.* 5½*d.* per annum in the whole, and 25*l.* 2*s.* 2*d.* clear. It was restored by King James I. Apr. 3, 1610,[n] and is still kept up for a Master (in holy orders, nominated by the bishop), six poor men, and six poor women, who have a comfortable subsistence; and are eleven of them put in by the Master, and one by the Dean and Chapter.[a] 2. St. John's Hospital, mentioned in MS. Sancroft. Tanner calls this the Hospital or free Chapel of St. John near the Castle, valued, 26 Hen. VIII., but at 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum. It is mentioned in MS. Harl. 6961, p. 41. Mr. E. R. Mores engraved the Seal belonging to it from the matrix, then (1751) in the possession of Dr. A. C. Ducarel.

WILTON.

Two Hospitals existed here. 1. "There is an Hospital of St. Giles," says Leland, "endowed with landes at Wilton Town ende:"[b] this, in Pat. 5 Edw. IV., is called The Hospital of St. Giles and St. Anthony. Tanner says, "Queen Adelicia, second wife to King Henry I., as the tradition is, was foundress, and lies herein buried."[c] It was early in the patronage of the mayor and commonalty of the town, and found possessed of revenues, 26 Hen. VIII., then valued at 5*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* per annum. Tanner says, it was preserved at the Dissolution, rebuilt by the mayor and corporation, A.D. 1624,[d] and is yet in being, though in great decay, for a Prior or Master (who is a Clergyman), and four poor people, who have only twenty shillings per annum each.[e] 2. St. John's Hospital, Of this foundation, too, we shall give Tanner's account. "Near or without the gate of this Town was an Hospital of a Master or Prior and poor brethren, dedicated to St. John, as early as A.D. 1217.[f] About the time of the Dissolution, there were but four poor persons in it, and the revenues of it, with the Chapels of Burcomb, were valued at 16*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* per annum in the whole, and 14*l.* 13*s.* 10½*d.* clear. It is yet in being for a Master or Prior (who is a Clergyman, nominated by the Dean of Sarum), two poor men, and two poor women, who are nominated by the Master, and have each of them yearly 4*l.* 10*s.* 6*d.* for their maintenance and firing, and are clothed every year."[g]

Aubrey thought there was also at Wilton an Hospital dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, but Tanner could find no other mention of it.

WOTTON BASSETT.

An ancient Hospital here, dedicated to St. John, was granted and united to the Priory of Bradenstoke in this county, temp. Hen. IV. It is mentioned in a Record as early as the 9th Edw. I.[h]

Worcestershire.

DROITWICH.

A free Chapel or Hospital was founded here in the part of the town called Duderhill, in the 13th Edw. I., by William de Dovere, rector of Dodderhull, consisting of a Master and some poor brethren, dedicated to St. Mary, and under the government of the Priory of Worcester. It was suppressed, with the free Chapels, in the time of Edward the VIth, when its lands were valued at 21*l.* 11*s.* 8*d.*[i]

WORCESTER.

At Worcester there were Two Hospitals unnoticed by Dugdale. 1. St. Oswald's, in the north suburb of the City, founded, according to one account, by bishop Oswald himself.[k] Tanner says, it was certainly in being before A.D. 1268, for a Master and certain poor brethren,[l] whose income was valued, in the 26th Hen. VIIIth, at 14*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.* per annum in the whole, and 13*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.* clear; and upon a new valuation, 4 Edw. VI., at 15*l.* 18*s.*[m] It was granted 33 Hen. VIII., to the Dean and Chapter of Worcester, having previously been in the patronage of the Prior and Convent, and was demolished in the reign of Queen Elizabeth; but after the Restoration, bishop Fell rebuilt it in a sumptuous manner, and recovered many of its possessions, and it still maintains twelve poor men.[n] 2. St. Wolstan's Hospital was built on the south-east part of the city to the honour of St. Wolstan, sometime bishop there, for the maintenance of two chaplains, five poor men, two poor women, &c.[o] Dr. Nash ascribes the foundation of it to St. Wolstan himself.[p] It is certainly mentioned in the Annals of Worcester, A.D. 1221; and was in the patronage of the Bishops of that See. In Habington's manuscript Collections, Peter le Frensch is styled Præceptor here, 20th Edw. I. A.D. 1291. Leland, in his Itinerary, vol. iv. p. 109, says, "there is a fayre suburb without Sudbury gate, and it was an Hospital called St. Wolstan. Some called it a Commanderye, where was a Master, priestes, and poore men. Some say that it was originally of the foundation of the Queene. One Carter, a marchant of Worcester, gave of late tymes landes unto it, and thereby renewed the ould Foundation. Mauresine hath suppressed this House, and now a clothier dwelleth in it." This Hospital was valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at 79*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* per annum in the total, and 68*l.* 18*s.* 10*d.* in the clear income. Mauresine, mentioned by Leland, was Sir Richard Morysine, to whom this Hospital was granted in the 32 Hen. VIII. He again exchanged it with the King, when it became a part of the endowment of Christ Church Cathedral in Oxford.[q] In Nash's time, great part of the ancient building of this Hospital was remaining, especially the hall, in which were the ancient glass windows, on each pane of which was painted the word JEHOVAH. At the battle of Worcester, 1651, the heat of the engagement lay in and near this House.

NORTH-ALLERTON.

The foundation of the Hospital near North-Allerton, dedicated to St. James, has usually been ascribed to Hugh Pusar, bishop of Durham, in the reigns of King Henry the Second and King Richard the First. Tanner says, in the reprises upon the valuation, the chaplains here are said to be appointed to pray for the soul of Philip bishop of Durham, who was successor to Hugh Pusar. About the time of the Dissolution, here was a master, three chaplains, four brethren, two sisters, and nine poor persons, whose revenues were valued in the gross at 58*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*, and after reprises at 56*l.* 2*s.* 2*d.* per annum. It was granted in the 32 Hen. VIII. to Sir Richard Morysine but being afterwards exchanged for other lands, it became part of the endowment of Christ Church in Oxford.[a]

Here was also a Maison Dieu, founded by Richard de Moore, draper of North-Allerton, in 1476; for thirteen poor people, men or women. It still subsists as an Almshouse under the patronage of the Earl of Carlisle.

BAGBY.

An Hospital for sick and poor persons existed here about the year 1200, apparently dependent upon the greater Hospital of St. Leonard at York; to which House Gundreda the wife of Nigel de Albini had given, several years before, four oxgangs of land in this town.[b]

BAWTRY.

In the uttermost edge of Harworth, near Bawtree, says Tanner, Robert Moreton, Esquire, founded an Hospital before A.D. 1316, for an ecclesiastic as Master, and certain poor people. It was dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, and was valued in the 26th of Hen. VIII., at 6*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum. It is yet in being, and in the patronage of the Archbishop of York. A Book or Register of this House is still remaining among the Harleian Manuscripts n the British Museum, MS. 7385.[c]

BEVERLEY.

Leland says, "There were Four Hospitales in the Town of Beverley, St. Giles, whereof one Wulse, as it is thought, afore the Conquest, was the founder. It was longging to the Bishops of York ontyl such tyme that Bishop Giffard intitelid it to Wartre, a Priory of Canons in Yorkshire. It came a late to the Earl of Ruthland, and he suppressed it. Trinity Hospital yet stondith yn the hart of the town: sum say one Ake founded it. There was an Hospital of St. Nicholas by the Blak Freres, but it is dekayid. Ther is an Hospitale yet standyng hard without the North Bargate of the foundation of two Marchant men, Akeborow and Hodgekin Overshal. As I remembre ther is an Image of our Lady over this Hospitale gate."[d]

Archbishop Giffard's Ordinance placing St. Giles's Hospital under Wartre Priory has been already printed in the Appendix to that House.[e] Five poor people were maintained in this Hospital at the time of the Dissolution. In the 26th Hen. VIIIth its income was rated at 8*l.* per annum.

St. Nicholas's Hospital was at least as ancient as 1286,[f] when the Archbishop of York granted an Indulgence for its support.[g] It also occurs in Pat. 28 Edw. III. p. 1, m. 3 et 4. Pat. 2 Ric. II. p. 1, m. 46. This Hospital also continued until the time of Henry the Eighth, when its revenues are said to have been valued at 5*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.* in the whole and 6*s.* 6*d.* clearly.[h]

BRACEFORD.

Tanner says, "On the Rolls is mentioned an Hospital in Yorkshire, dedicated to St. Helen, called Braceford, Spittle,[i] which I know not where to place, nor have I met with any other mention of."

BREYDEFORD.

In the Taxation of Pope Nicholas the Fourth, A.D. 1291, among the temporalities of Religious Houses valued in the East Riding, we read, "Hospitale de Breydeford habet apud Breydeford iv*l.* viis." The situation of this place does not seem to be ascertained.

BROUGHTON near MALTON.

This was an Hospital dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, erected by Eustace Fitz John[k] the founder of Malton and Alnwick monasteries, who died 1 Hen. II.[l] It was in the King's gift.[m]

CATTERICK.

Tanner says, "Catterick, or Brompton, in the Deanry of Catterick and archdeaconry of Richmond. Near or rather between these places was an old Hospital dedicated to St. Giles in the beginning of the reign of King Henry the Third."[n]

DONCASTER.

Two ancient Hospitals occur in Doncaster. St. James's in the beginning of the reign of Henry the Third,

FOULSNAPE.

Foulesnape, or Fulsnaph, in the Deanry of Pontefract and Archdeaconry of West Riding. An Hospital dedicated to St. Michael existed here early in the reign of Henry the Third. It is also mentioned in the Taxation of 1291.

FOUNTAINS.

Here, at the gate of the great Cistertian Abbey, was an Hospital for the relief of the poor in the neighbourhood, and for travellers, as early as the reign of King Richard the First, which had several particular benefactions to it.[e]

KINGSTON upon Hull.

Tanner mentions Five Hospitals in Kingston. 1. Godshouse for the foundation of which John Kingeston obtained the royal licence in the 18th Edw. III. as an Hospital for thirteen poor men and women.[f] 2. Grigg's Hospital at the west end of the churchyard, near a fair Row of Lodgings made for Priests of the Town, founded by John Grigge who had been mayor of Hull.[g] This was rebuilt in 1724, and is inhabited by twelve poor widows. 3. Mariner's Hospital, valued in the 20th Hen. VIII. at 10*l.* per annum; dedicated to the Holy Trinity, and now under the government of two wardens, ton elder brothers, and six assistants, through whom near one hundred poor mariners and widows of mariners receive relief.[h] 4. Pole's Hospital, also dedicated to the Holy Trinity, founded by Michael de la Pole, afterwards earl of Suffolk, about A.D. 1384, for thirteen poor men and as many women. The revenues of this Hospital were valued, in the 26th Hen. VIII., at 32*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.* in the total; in clear value at no more than 10*l.* per annum. It was rebuilt in the reign of Charles the Second, and is still in being. 5. Selby's Hospital. This, Leland informs us, was on the north side of the churchyard. Tanner thinks this Hospital was probably the same which is elsewhere said to have been founded for twelve poor men by Richard de Ravenser archdeacon of Lincoln, and Robert de Selby his brother, in the latter part of the reign of King Edward the Third or the beginning of that of King Richard the Second.[i]

LOWCROSSE.

Here was an Hospital or House for lepers dedicated to St. Leonard, which was given to the Priory of Giseburn by William de Bernaldby, and the donation confirmed by Peter son of Peter de Brus.[k]

MIDDLEHAM.

All that we know of an Hospital here is from Leland, who in his Itinerary, vol. v. p. 117, says, "There is at the est ende of Midleham a little Hospital with a Chapel of Jesus."

MITTON, near Kingston upon Hull.

Tanner says, "In or near this place was an Hospital A.D. 1407. Vide Pat. 9 Hen. IV. p. 2, m. 14. pro ten. In Hesill. Pat. 10 Hen. IV. p. 1, m. 3. pro ten. in Mitton, Hesill, Wilardby, Feriby," &c.

NORTON.

At the foot of the bridge between this place and Malton, was, pretty early in the time of King Henry the Second, an Hospital dedicated to St. Nicholas, founded by Roger de Flamvill, and put under the government of the Canons of Malton.[l]

OTTELEY, in the Deanry of Ainsty.

Here was an Hospital of Lepers 4 Edw. II., who were obliged to repair the bridge over the adjoining river of Wharfe.[m]

PICKERING.

In the Deanry of Rydale, and Archdeaconry of Cleveland. Here was an Hospital dedicated to St. Nicholas, in the King's gift, in right of the Duchy of Lancaster.[n]

PONTEFRACT.

Beside the Hospital of St. Mary already described in a former page of the present Volume, there were two Hospitals in Pontefract which are unnoticed by Dugdale: 1. A Lazar House dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene, to contributors to the relief of which Archbishop John Romayne granted an Indulgence in 1286.[o] 2. St. Nicholas's Hospital, founded by Robert de Lacy, upon the spot and with the buildings which had been occupied by the Cluniac Monks previously to their taking possession of St. John's Priory of his foundation, in the reign of Henry the First. The government of this Hospital was at first given to the Prior and Monks of Pontefract, but King Henry the Sixth annexed it to the Monastery of Nostell, who maintained here, till the Dissolution, a Chaplain and thirteen poor people, and had for that purpose the estate of this Hospital, amounting to 97*l.* 13*s.* 10*d.* So Tanner.[p] Stevens, in his Supplement to the Monasticon, vol. i. p. 68, gives the value of this Hospital, from the archbishop's certificate, at 16*l.* 2*s.* 4*d.*[q]

RIPON.

St. Mary Magdalene's, the chief Hospital of Ripon, was disposed of by Dugdale,[r] Leland, however, mentions two others: St. Anne's Hospital, of the foundation of a gentleman of the country thereby, hard on the hither side of the Skelle; and St. John's Hospital. "On the further ripe of the Skelle," he says, "is the Hospital of St. John Stevens, in his Continuation of Dugdale, Append. vol. ii. p. 345, has a charter relating to this Hospital which has been already printed in this Work in the Appendix to the Account of Giseburn Priory, whence it should seem that the founders of this Hospital were Richard de Ravenser archdeacon of Lincoln and his brother-in-law Robert de Selby. Tanner, however, as is shown in the text, refers their foundation to Selby's Hospital. The Hospital named in the Charter however is spoken of as dedicated to the Holy Trinity.

Baptist, of the foundation of some of the archbishops of York." Tanner dates its foundation before the fourth year of King John.[a] Its revenues, in the 26th Hen. VIII., appear to have been valued at 10*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.* per annum according to Dugdale; and 37 Hen. VIII. at 12*l.* 0*s.* 4*d.* as Stevens. It is still in being.

SHERBORN, in the Deanry of AINSTY.

TANNER says, "Upon the archbishop's registers, about the year 1311, mention is made of an Hospital here, dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene; the wardenship of which was in the archbishop's gift."[b]

SPROTBURGH.

HERE was an Hospital dedicated to St. Edmund, before A.D. 1363,[c] of the foundation of .... Fitz Williams; the revenues of which were certified, 37 Hen. VIII. to be of the yearly value of 9*l.* 13*s.* 11*d.*[d]

SUTTON.

TANNER mentions an Hospital here, valued at 7*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* in Sancroft's MS. Valor, but with no farther particulars.[e]

TICKHILL.

TANNER says, "Here was an HOSPITAL dedicated to ST. LEONARD, the sad condition of the brethren whereof archbishop Grey recommends to the charity of all good people, A.D. 1225. Vide Rot. majorem Walteri Grey archiepisc. Ebor. in anno." Another Hospital in this Town has been already noticed in the Account of Humberston Priory.

WHITBY.

THE Brethren of the HOSPITAL of WHITBY are mentioned in the Bull of Pope Alexander the IIId. to the Abbey of Rievall, dated 12 kal. Dec. A.D. 1160. There is also mention of an HOSPITAL here dedicated to ST. JOHN BAPTIST, as old as the time of King Edward the Second. The gift of the Mastership in the Crown.[f]

YORK.

OF the greater Hospitals of St. Leonard and St. Peter, and St. Nicholas at York, an Account has been already given. Eleven smaller Hospitals remain to be noticed. 1. ST. ANTHONY'S HOSPITAL, noticed by Leland. "The Hospitale of St. Anthony founded about a hundred yeres syns, by a Knight of Yorkshire, caullid John Langtoun. Sum say that he was Mair of York."[g] Drake calls this the House of St. Anthony in Gilly gate. 2. THE GREAT HOSPITAL of ST. MARY at BOUTHAM, also called Boutham Hospital in le Horsfair; founded about the year 1314 by Robert Pykering dean of York, in a place which had been previously inhabited by the White Friers. It was, at first, founded as a Chantry for six priests, and afterwards turned into an Hospital for a Master and brethren, dedicated to St. Mary. Valued, 26th Hen. VIII., at 37*l.* per annum in the whole; and clear, at 11*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* Upon the Dissolution it became the free-school for the Dean and Chapter's scholars.[h] Stevens in his Continuation of the Monasticon has given some particulars of the revenues of this House in his List of Colleges, Hospitals, Chantries, &c. in the Archdeanry of York, 27 Hen. VIII., from one of Dodsworth's manuscripts. 3. BOUTHAM HOSPITAL the less, also dedicated to St. Mary, founded by John Gyseburgh precentor of York, for two Chaplains, before the year 1481.[i] It was valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at 9*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum.[k] 4. FISHERGATE HOSPITAL, mentioned A.D. 1399. Pat. 1 Hen. IV. p. 6. 5. An HOSPITAL dedicated to ST. GILES, which occurs A.D. 1274.[l] 6. LAITHORPE-GATE HOSPITAL, noticed in the same page of Leland with St. Anthony's Hospital. "Ther was a Place of the Bigotes hard withyn Laithorp Gate, and by it an Hospital of the Bigotes fundation. Syr Francis Bigot let booth the Hospital and his House al to ruine." 7. A MAISON DIEU upon Ouse Bridge, mentioned in the Register of Fountain's Abbey in the Harleian Library, p. 263. 8. Another MAISON DIEU in White Friers' Lane, mentioned A.D. 1481 in Dodsworth's MSS. vol. xxviii. p. 257. 9. MARYGATE HOSPITAL, conjectured to have been founded by Robert Howme before the year 1406.[m] 10. MICKELGATE HOSPITAL, the foundation of which was begun, as we are informed by Leland, by Sir Richard de York, but never finished.[n] 11. The HOSPITAL of ST. THOMAS the Martyr. By whom founded, unknown. It occurs A.D. 1391 in the Register of Fountain's Abbey in the Harleian Library, fol. 263, and in Dodsworth's MSS. vol. xxviii. fol. 176. "Pauperes infirmi Hospitalis S. Thomæ Martyris extra barram de Mickly Bar in suburbio Ebor. A.D. 1397." It is yet standing.[o]

SWANSEY in GLAMORGANSHIRE.

AN Hospital founded by Henry de Gower bishop of St. David's, A.D. 1332, and dedicated to St. David. Tanner says, "It was valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 20*l.* per annum as Dugdale and Speed, who both call it Swansey Guardianatus, and occasioned the author formerly to call it a Preceptory of the Templars, which it never was."[q]

TENBY.

TANNER mentions two Hospitals at Tenby; both spoken of as named "in a good MS. Valor." 1. "An Hospital or Lazar House dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene near Tenby for the King's tenants, under the government of the Mayor of Tenby, of the yearly value of 40*s.*" 2. "An Hospital or free Chapel of St. John the Baptist near Tenby, of the yearly value of 6*l.*"

[a] The Harleian MS. 1249, p, 125—128, preserves the charter of foundation. The following extracts gives its chief contents.

"Ordinamus et statuimus quod in Villa de Lawadyn in loco per nos ad hoc specialiter deputato, in quo oratorium ereximus, fiat Hospitalis in quo peregrini, et pauperes orphani, et senes infirmi, et debiles, et cæteri imbecilles, advenæ, et languidi transeuntes valeant hospitari, ne verbum dominicum multum terribile, 'hospes fui et non suscepistis me,' nobis in finali judicio, quod absit, improperari valeat cum dampnatis.

"Noverint igitur omnes et singuli, quod nos in honorem Dei et fidei Christianæ, et ad relevationem pauperum et solatium miserorum, et in honorem gloriosissimæ Virginis et sancti Thomæ Martyris gloriosi et beati Edwardi quondam regis Angliæ gloriosissimi confessoris, pro salute animæ domini Edwardi regis nostri et antecessorum suorum et etiam successorum suorum, insuper prædecessorum et successorum nostrorum, et omnium fidelium defunctorum, oratorium quod ibidem construximus ad hospitalitatis opera assignamus, et fratrem Willielmum sub habitu sibi et fratribus assignato priorem ejusdem facimus et magistrum. ENGLISH HOUSES

ST. JOHN OF JERUSALEM,

ORDER OF ST. AUGUSTINE.

OF the MILITARY ORDERS of the RELIGIOUS, says Tanner,[a] there were but two in England, viz. KNIGHTS HOSPITALARS[b] and KNIGHTS TEMPLARS.[c]

The First of these Orders, The KNIGHTS HOSPITALARS, began and took its name from an Hospital built at Jerusalem for the use of Pilgrims coming to the Holy Land, and dedicated to St. John Baptist:[d] for the first business of these Knights was to provide for such Pilgrims at that Hospital, and to protect them from injuries and insults upon the road.[e] They were instituted about A.D. 1092,[f] and were very much favoured by Godfrey of Bulloigne and his successor Baldwin King of Jerusalem, They followed chiefly St. Austin's rule, and wore a black habit with a white cross upon it. They soon came into England, and had a House built for them in London, A.D. 1100.[g] And from a poor and mean beginning obtained so great wealth,[h] honours, and exemptions,[i] that their Superior here in England was the first lay Baron, and had a seat among the Lords in Parliament; and some of their privileges were extended even to their tenants.

There were also SISTERS of this ORDER, but we had only one House of them in England, vix. Buckland in Somersetshire.[k]

Upon many of their manors and estates in the country, the Knights Hopitalars placed small Societies of their brethren, under the government of a Commander. These were allowed proper maintenance out of the revenues under their care, and accounted for the remainder to the grand Prior at London.[l] Such Societies were, in consequence, called COMMANDRIES. What were Commandries with the Hospitalars, as will hereafter be shown, were called PRECEPTORIES by the Templars. Indeed the latter term was in use with both Orders.

The Order of St. Lazarus of Jerusalem, of which we had a few Houses, seems to have been founded for the relief and support of lepers and impotent persons of the MILITARY ORDERS, but these have been already disposed of among the Hospitals.

[b] They were at first called Knights of St. John of Jerusalem; but settling chiefly at Rhodes, after they were driven out of the Holy Land, were afterwards called Knights of Rhodes; and after the loss of Rhodes in A.D. 1522, and their having the Island of Malta given them by the Emperor Charles Vth, they were called Knights of Malta. Stevens, vol. i. Prelim. Dissert. p. 8. Newcourt's Repert. vol. i. p. 666.

[c] No sooner were these Two ORDERS established by Papal Bulls, than they grew rich and rivalled each other; nay they as often fought against each other as against the Mahometans. The white habit of the TEMPLARS and the black robe of the HOSPITALARS were continual signals to battle. Voltaire's Hist. of the Crusades, p. 72.

[g] Newcourt, vol. i. p. 666.

[h] They are said at first to have had but one horse between two of them; but about a hundred and fifty years after their institution, they had nineteen thousand manors in Christendom.

[i] Their wealth and privileges probably made them sometimes insolent; for, by Pat. 45 Edw. III. p. 1, m. 3 vel. 4. "Rex constituit Ricardum de Evertonvisitatorem Hospitalis S. Johannis Jerusalem in Anglia ad reprimendam Religiosorum insolentiam, et ad observandam Religiosorum honestatem." Those of this Order were all laymen, except two or three to perform divine offices. Willis, Hist. of Abbies, vol. i. p. 134, mentions two chaplains at their chief House in London.

DE PRIMORDIIS ET INVENTIONE SACRÆ RELIGIONIS IHEROSOLIMORUM.

[Ex veteri MS. penes Gilbertum North armigerum, an. 1652.]

Maxima inter plerosque hactenus dubitatio fuit, undè et à quibus Hosp. Ierosolimorum primordium sumpserit. Quidam vana sompnia ingerentes deliramenta pociùs quàm veritatem confinxisse videntur; veteres enim historias longissimè abinvicem separatas, composito quodam glutineo conjunxerunt. Quorum vanas fabulas hoc loco mihi referre cura non est; sed ad rei veritatem, id quod de sacris annalibus decerpere potui, et quæ conjecturâ et ratione assequi, non præpositæ rei seriem in medium adducam.

Sacram Jerosolimorum Religionem ita principium habuisse reputo. Cum exactis, mortuo Alexandrio Philippo Macedonum rege, de urbe Jerusalem prophanis gentibus Machabæorum opera ad a. p. et libertatem, populus proclamasset, ingentia bella à finitimis regibus cum Iherosolimis gesta sunt. Tandem, volente Domino, cum Machabæus urbem, arcem, et templum de prophanatis gentium manibus vindicasset; et ad bellum iterum gerendum exeundum esset, priùs compositis in urbe Jerosolima rebus, magna manu in hostes Machabæus profectus est. Cumque multi de populo Dei, ferro cecidissent, multique vulneribus debiles facti essent, Machabæus in urbe Iherosolimitana, xenoduna, hoc est pium locum et debilium constituisse dicitur; cui loco ingentes argenti et auri dragmas, ad expiandas defunctorum animas, transmisit; ibique, ut miserabilibus receptaculum, et defunctis piaculum constitueretur, imposterum decrevit. Volventibus deinde annis, cum religiosa clarissimi Machabæi institutio levaretur, usque ad Salutaris nostri tempora processum est; ipseque Jhesus Christus humile non dedignatus hospicium, multùm pietatis opera monstravit. In eodem profecto, cum nullius rei possessor existerit, dicente illo, "Volucres cœli nidos, et vulpes habent foveas, filius autem hominis non habet quo reclinet caput suum," non immeritò hunc locum ipsum incoluisse existimare possimus: si enim discipulos monebat omnia in communi habere, nec de crastino esse sollicitos, si absque calceis et perâ discipulos esse volebat, quis dubitet magistrum talia monentem, omnia habuisse communia, humilemque locum inhabitasse?

Hiis igitur rationibus confirmati, confidenter dicere possumus, hunc locum communem et humilem cœlestis Imperatoris habitaculum fuisse. Hìc discipulorum pedes magister lavit, eosdemque presbyteros fecit, suique corporis preciosissimi memoriam reliquit. Hìc Petro ecclesiæ potestatem et claves tradidit. Hìc Veteris Testamenti finis, et Novi inicium fuit. De hoc loco acenti,[a] ad gloriosissimam passionem, ut nostræ carnis fieret redemptio, Christus profectus est. Hìc post ejus passionem discipuli cum Maria matre ejus, confugientes, admirandæ resurrectionis revelationem habere meruerunt, et post quadraginta dies promissum Spiritum Sanctum acceperunt. Hìc, post gloriosam ascensionem, sanctum primum concilium habitum est, fideique simbolum ad duodecim factum. Cumque gloriosi principes Christianæ fidei, inter se ad prædicandum, provincias sortiti essent, septem viros elegerunt, qui pauperum et Hospitalis curam habituri essent; quibus Stephanum primum martyrem præpositum constituerunt. Et quia gloriosus novæ legis præcursor Joh. Baptista, Christi baptismum prædicans, ab Herode nuper decollatus erat, cujus vitæ testimonium cuncti admirabantur: et quia hiis locis natus et usque ad infantiæ annos educatus erat, ob venerandam ejus memoriam Hospitalis patronum appellaverat; subsedentibus postmodum temporibus, cum magna inter homines de fide opinio esset, plurimi in societate pauperum discipulorum Domini conferrebant; et ut participes orationum fierent, venditis rebus suis, ante pedes apostolorum precia ponebant, munem cum illis vitam ducentes.

Verùm, cum Christianæ fidei devotione crescente, hujus sacræ domus facultates longè multiplicatæ essent, qui eas tuerentur, conducti milites constitui sunt, ut et facultates Hospitalis domus, sub fratre Raymundo, à quo regula postea constituta est, tuerentur, atque paganos repellerent: ipsi namque sacerdotes sacris mysteriis et prædicationibus occupati, ea quæ milites factitabant excercere non poterant; verùm cum in tantam vesaniam, impellente avariciâ, milites elati essent, ut se facultatum Hospitalis professores constituerent, sacerdotesque negligerent; proinde decretum est, ut et ipsi milites Hospitalis participes fierent, et Christianam religionem defenderent; unde et ipsi, pro nomine Christi pugnantes, ante pectus crucem gestare instituerunt. Crescente deinde apud orientem perfidiâ, fide deficiente, factum est, ut Hospitale à Sarasenis occupato, Christi milites undique dispergerentur. Cumque in Acra et Surrya nullum ampliùs refugii locum haberent, in altum ascendere coacti sunt: prima eis navigatio in Cyprum fuit, insulam Iherosolimis propinquam. Ibi à Christianis principibus recepti, contra prophanas gentes, pro Christi nomine, pugnare non destiterunt. Multis deinde annis Rhodiorum insula Constantinopolitanis rebellis facta est; non valentibus ipsis, ob ingentes Rhodiorum copias, in ditionem vendicare insulam, ipsam Jherosolimitanis militibus occupandam concesserunt. Milites verò, paratis manibus, instructis copiis, Rhodum navigantes, brevi dierum spacio in suam potestatem redegerunt; duplicique præsidio muniti, ex Cypro et Rhodo adversus nostræ fidei inimicos, bella gesserunt et gerunt.

[Ibid. fol. 47 a.]

Omnibus præsentibus et futuris notum facimus, quod domus Hospitalis S. Johannis Baptistæ et pauperum Jerosolimitanorum fuit incœpta à principio, tempore primi Julii Cæsaris, imperatoris Romani, et tempore Antiochi principis Antiochiæ; Ille qui fecit omnia, et suus Filius benedictus nobis mittat Spiritum Sanctum, qui omnes tres unum sunt, in adjutorium sit, quod nos possimus dicere et retrahere de Latinò in grammaticam, ita et taliter, quod sit laus prædicto sancto Johanni Baptistæ.

Supradicto enim tempore fuit quidam presbyter, et dominus aliorum presbyterorum in Jerusalem, qui vocabatur Melchiar; qui fregit sepulchrum David, et ex eo extraxit magnum thesaurum, videlicet aurum et vestimenta preciosa, quæ ibidem fuerant posita ab aliis regibus post Davidem regem, de quo quidem facto, dictus Melchiar fuit accusatus, coram principe Antiochæ, qui tunc temporis erat dominus et dux in Jerusalem, ex præcepto Julii Cæsaris: Antiochus verò de hoc fuit valdè turbatus, et cogitabat intra se, qualiter posset honestiùs justiciam ministrare de furto supradicto. Et secundâ nocte sequenti, jacendo in lecto, cogitabat multùm quid faceret de tali re: et postquam satis cogitavit, obreptus fuit à sompno, et tunc angelus cepit ejus spiritum, et eundem portavit super montem Calvarii. Cui Rex regum apparuit, et dixit. "Antioche, non ponas manum super istum sanctum presbyterum, et non effundas ejus sanguinem; quoniam in isto loco, quem tibi monstravero, tu et ipse debetis facere unam domum pietatis et misericordiæ, communem omnibus pauperibus ibidem advenientibus. Et ego præcipio tibi, Melchiar, quod totum illum thesaurum, qui fuit extractus de sepulchro Davidis, ponatur in ædificio mansionis pauperum; quoniam Spiritus Sanctus ubi vult spirat." Eadem nocte, ipse manifestavit se sancto presbytero Melchiar, et dixit eidem, "Vadas ante montem Calvarium, et ubi tu invenies fundamentum ædificatum, ibidem facite mihi unam domum fortem et firmam, quoniam in eadem recipi multæ mansiones gentium, quia qui pauperes recipit, me recipit." Et quando de mane in aurorâ diei ille presbyter descendit de monte Calvario, obviat principi, et incœperunt adinvicem loqui, quomodo Dominus noster Jesus Christus unicuique ostenderat bonam viam, et illud quod Dominus noster ostenderat ambobus multùm placuit et eorum toto concilio; et quod ille sanctus presbyter donabat se et totum illud quod invenerat de thesauro in sepulchro David ad constructionem dictæ sacræ domus causâ serviendi pauperibus toto tempore, sicut scriptum reperitur in libro de Machabæis.

Quando Judas Machabæus vidit et cognovit benè, quod bona res erat orare pro mortuis, misit in Jherusalem xii. dragmas argenti, et quod offerantur Hosp. pauperum quod ipsi rogarent pro mortuis, et placeret Melchiar stabilire fratres ad serviendum pauperibus mansionis. In illâ sacrâ domo, quam diximus, venerunt de omnibus partibus mundi multi pauperes et infirmi, qui fuerint recepti et benigniter pertractati propter misericordiam Domini nostri Jesu Christi. Princeps Antiochenus prædictus, quando obiit, donavit sacræ domui prædictæ Jerosolimitanæ magnam partem bonorum suorum.

Nos facimus vobis notum unum magnum miraculum, quod auscultare debent omnes in Deum credentes. Dominus noster Jhesus Christus apparuit Zachariæ prophetæ unâ die, quando faciebat sacrificium Deo, et in illâ horâ Filius Dei apparuit sibi, et dixit; "Melchiar, frater tuus transivit de hoc seculo, et anima ejus est in Paradiso, ex quo ego præcipio tibi, et filio tuo et uxori tuæ, quod vos veniatis in Jerusalem, et serviatis mihi et pauperibus meis donec Julianus de Româ veniat in Jerusalem." Quando Zacharias complevit sacrificium, quod ipse faciebat Deo, in parte fuit multùm lætus, et in parte fuit multùm stupefactus. Et quando venit in domum suam, dixit uxori suæ et filio plorando, illud quod Dominus illis præceperat. Et omnes tres Deo gratias egerunt, et quantò citius potuerunt, iverunt Jerusalem, et reddiderunt se et sua Deo et Hospitali pauperum, et servierunt multùm benignè et longo tempore Hospitali prædicto.

Adhuc evenit aliud grande miraculum, videlicet, quod Accamanus imperator Romanus, cum quibusdam aliis honestis viris, causâ recipiendi omagium à Judæis, accidit quando fuerunt in mare propè unam insulam Crethii, quæ vocatur Rhochas, puppis eorum navis fracta est, et omnes qui supererant fuerunt perditi, excepto Juliano Romano, qui per Filium Dei ad terram fuit exportatus benigniter. Et quando Julianus vidit infortunium quod evenerat, interrogavit Dominum, "Quis estis vos qui extraxistis me de isto periculo?" Et Dominus noster respondit et dixit, "Ego sum Filius Dei, qui ordinavit te Hospitalarium domus pauperum Jerusalem, et in futurum veniam corporaliter in illâ domo;" et benedixit ei. Ille Julianus recepit ad gaudium benedictionem Domini nostri; et venit in Jerusalem ad sanctum Zachariam, ubi ipse Zacharias et alii fratres receperunt eum pro patre. Subsequenter, quando Dominus noster venit in terram, pro salute humani generis, et voluit manifestare gloriam suam populo, vocavit apostolos suos et discipulos; et venit in Jerusalem, sicut prædixerat per Sanctum Spiritum provisoribus mansionis Hospitalis. Et existens homo corporalis de præsenti, fecit miraculum præsentibus suis discipulis, et apostolis faciebat salutem animarum. Deus qui fecit magna bona huic domui, quod ipsemet voluit se ostendere eis, extendit manus suas supra suos apostolos et pauperes mansionis prædictæ; et tunc dixit, "Qui vos honorabit, me honorabit, et qui vos recipiet, me recipiet. Maledicatur homo qui spernet unum de illis." Notum facimus quod ista est mansio in quâ Dominus noster dixit illi sapienti homini, "Tu amabis Deum ex toto tuo corde, et ex toto tuo cogitamine," et alia multa secundùm quod in evangelio reperitur. Item ista est domus in quâ abscondiderunt se apostoli, et clauserunt portas, timore Judæorum, quando Dominus noster Jesus Christus fuit crucifixus. In istâ sanctâ domo venit virgo Maria et sanctus Johannes Evangelista ad Dominum nostrum, quando ipse erat in cruce pro nobis peccatoribus, et dixit sancto Johanni, "Vide hic matrem tuam." Et postea dixit matri suæ, "Vide hic filium tuum."

Adhuc, est ista domus Hospitalis, in quâ venit Jhesus in octavo die suæ resurrectionis, portis clausis, et intravit in medio suorum discipulorum, et dixit eis, "Pax vobis," et ostendit eis manus et pectus; sed Thomas non erat cum illis, quando Jesus venit. Et discipuli venerunt ad sanctum Thomam, et dixerunt ei, "Nos vidimus Dominum nostrum." Et Thomas respondit et dixit, "Ego non credo, ego non tango, et video foramen clavorum manuum suarum et pedum, et misero manum meam in pectore suo." Propè istos octo dies, sicut sanctus Johannes Evangelista testatur, quando discipuli erant in istâ sanctâ domo, et sanctus Thomas cum eis, venit Jhesus, clausis janua, et dixit, "Pax vobis." Et dixit Thomæ, "Mitte huc digitum tuum in foramen manuum mearum et mei costatus, et noli esse incredulus, sed fidelis." Et in illâ sanctâ domo recognovit sanctus Thomas suum Creatorem. Cui Dominus noster dixit, "Quia tu me vidisti, credidisti. Beati sunt, qui non viderunt et crediderunt."

Eodem tempore Ananias et Saphira dimiserunt seculum, et donaverunt se societati Christi, et discipulorum: et quia non reddiderunt Deo et sacræ domui Hospitalis et pauperibus, et non portaverunt ad pedes discipulorum illud quod habebant, mortui sunt subitaneâ morte; et sanctus Petrus non permisit poni eorum corpora in cimiterio, ymmo fecit eos sepeliri extra, tanquam excommunicatos. Et tempore quo Deus misit nobis apostolos et discipulos suos ad prædicandum, et illi erant antiqui, sicut sanctus Stephanus, qui fuit primus martyr, et Philippus prothomartyr, Nichauome, Thymocenn Permanan, Nycholaus Antiochenus. Isti custodiebant domus Hospitalis et serviebant pauperibus ex præcepto Domini nostri Jesu Christi. In isto tempore erant in eodem loco multæ et diversæ generationes hominum; aliquando Græci, aliquando Caryseni, qui tenebant civitatem Jerusalem et terram promissionis; et hoc, non obstante quod dicta domus esset in magna paupertate, tamen recipiebant pauperes et infirmos. Et quando venit finaliter quod Saraceni habuerunt domum Jerusalem, et Græci perdiderunt; unus servulus Jesu Christi, qui vocabatur Conradus, custodiebat sanctam domum Hospitalis, et elemosinas, quæ dabantur sibi à Saracenis, ipse donabat pauperibus, et serviebat eis benigniter.

Eodem tempore, quando Deo placuit quod Christiani haberent terram promissionis, Godfridus de Boylon, et magna multitudo barenorum et peregrinorum, qui fuerint instructi per divinam gratiam et prædicationem, venerunt per longas terras, per montes et valles, et per terram Romaniæ, in Antiochiam; et obsederunt eam, et virtute Dei ceperunt eam: in illâ, perfidorum Saracenorum magnam multitudinem perimerunt. De qua iverunt ultrà, ad civitatem de Trypoly, et ceperunt eam. Et exinde ceperunt Acrys: et inde iverunt ad terram Jerusalem. Et in eorum exercitu habebant tam magnam famem, quod quasi non habebant panem ad comedendum. Tunc ille Conradus, qui serviebat pauperibus Hospitalis Jerosolimitani, quolibet die, ter vel quater, ponebat de pane in suo gremio, et desuper muros terræ projiciebat panem Christianis, loco lapidum. Et iste Conradus, qui custodiebat pauperes Hospitalis fuit accusatus coram Soldano, per Saracenos qui custodiebant muros. Et Soldanus præcepit Saracenis, qui accusaverunt eum, quod quando projiceret panem Christianis, ipsum caperent et ducerent eum sibi, cum toto pane, et aliter eum non credebat. Deinde venit una dies Conradus, vel Gerardus, faciebat uti solebat, projiciendo panem Christianis; et Saraceni, cum pane quem habebat in gremio, ipsum ceperunt, et duxerunt eum coram Soldano: et quando Saraceni monstrabant panem Soldano, tunc ille panis, virtute Dei, efficiebatur lapis. Et quando Soldanus vidit maliciam Saracenorum, dimisit stare Conradum, et præcepit sibi, ut sine timore Christianos, ut consueverat, debellaret. Et quando Conradus, vel Gerardus, audivit istud, quolibet die projiciebat panem Christianis Dei.

Et Godfridus de Boylen stetit tantum, cum exercitu suo, ante Jersusalem, quod ipse cepit civitatem et interfecit multos Saracenos, et habebat magnum gaudium de victoriâ habitâ, quam Deus dederat eis; et venerunt ad Sanctum Sepulchrum Domini nostri, cantando, et gratias Deo reddendo. Deinde iverunt ad omnia alia loca. Et deinde barones diviserunt possessiones Jerusalem, et donaverunt dicto Conrado, vel Gerardo, magistro dicti Hospitalis Jerusalem, magnam partem possessionum, ad honorem sancti Johannis Baptistæ, patroni ejusdem Hospitalis. Deinde, tempore dicti magistri Conradi, vel Gerardi, Deus multiplicavit multùm dictam mansionem Hospitalis de redditibus, possessionibus, et dominationibus per regnum Jerosolimitanum. Et quando Conradus fuit mortuus, anima ejus ivit in paradisum. Et frater Raymundus de Puy fuit subrogatus ejusdem, loco ejus; et ad laudem Dei ædificavit casalia, mansiones, et castra; et melioravit multùm mansionem de magnis possessionibus.

Ille frater Raymundus fecit stabilimenta mansionis Hospitalis, quæ in eadem domo servantur adhuc, et regulam; et a Papa Innocentio secundo fecit ipsam confirmari, &c.

CONFIRMATIO SUPER REGULA RAYMUNDI DE PUY, PER PAPAM BONIFACIUM.

Bonifacius episcopus, servus servorum Dei, dilectis filiis magistro et fratribus Hospitalis Sancti Johannis Jerusalem, salutem, et apostolicam benedictionem. Culminis apostolici solio superna clementia præsidentes, dum solerter attendimus quod vos mundanis contemptis illecebris, quæ cum blandiuntur illudunt, divinis obsequiis salubriter adhæsistis, vos et vestra totaliter pro illis exponere non verentes: dum etiam consideramus attentiùs, quod vos summæ dilectionis affectum, magnæque reverentiæ zelum erga nos et Romanam ecclesiam, matrem vestram, gessistis hactenus, et gerere non cessatis; dignum duximus, et rationi congruum arbitramur, ut vos et Hospitale vestrum favoribus prosequentes uberiùs petitiones vestras, quantum cum Deo possumus, ad exauditionis gratiam admittamus. Exhibita siquidem nobis vestra petitio continebat, quod olim, in captione civitatis Anconensis, apostolicas literas, regulæ vestræ seriem continentes, cum aliis rebus non modicis amisistis, ... suppliciter petebatis à nobis, ut, cum vos nonnullas literas cujusdam fratris Raymundi, tunc dicti Hospitalis custodis (qui prædictam regulam condidit) ejus plumbeo sigillo signatas, in quibus regula ipsa continetur expressè prout asseritis, habeatis: vobis præfatam regulam, ad majoris cautelæ præsidium sub bullâ nostrâ concedere dignaremur: nos igitur ad vestrum, et prædicti Hospitalis statum prosperum et tranquillum, paternis studiis intendentes, vestris devotis supplicationibus inclinati, prædictam regulam, prout in prædictis literis fratris Raymundi contineri conspicitur, quibusdam verbis de mandato nostro abmotis et correctis, in ea præsentibus fecimus annotari, eamque nichilominus, ex certâ scientiâ confirmamus, et innovamus de gratiâ speciali, &c. [Tenor autem ipsarum literarum confirmatarum subsequitur de verbo in verbum, &c.] Nulli ergo omnino hominum liceat hanc paginam nostræ ammonitionis, innovationis, et confirmationis infringere, vel ei ausu temerario contraire. Si quis autem hoc attemptare præsumpserit, indignationem omnipotentis Dei et beatorum Petri et Pauli apostolorum ejus, se noverit incursurum. Data Laterani vii. ydus Aprilis, pontificatus nostri anno vi.

Ego Raymundus, Dei gratia, servus pauperum Jesu Christi, et custos Hospitalis Jerosolimitani, consilio totius capituli, et clericorum et laicorum fratrum, statui hæc præcepta et statuta in domo Hospitalis Jerosolimitani.

Inprimis jubeo, quod omnes fratres ad servicium venientes pauperum tria, quæ promittunt Deo teneant, cum Dei auxilio; scilicet castitatem, et obedientiam, hoc est, quod quodcunque præcipitur eis à magistris suis, et sine proprio vivere, quia hoc Deus ab eis in ultimo examine requiret.

II.—Quod debent petere et habere fratres.

Et volumus quod fratres non quærant ampliùs, ex debito, nisi panem et aquam atque vestitum, quæ eis promittuntur. Et vestitus sit humilis, quia domini nostri pauperes, quorum servos nos esse fatemur, nudi et sordidi incedunt, et non convenit servo, ut sit superbus, et dominus ejus humilis.

III.- Quomodo clerici serviant altari.

Constitutum est etiam in ecclesia, honestus sit eorum incessus, et conversatio ydonea, scilicet, ut clerici ad altare cum albis vestibus deserviant; presbytero diaconus vel subdiaconus, et si necessitas fuerit, alius clericus hoc idem exerceat officium, et lumen in ecclesia die nocteque sit.

IV.—De visitatione infirmorum et communione.

Ad infirmorum visitationem presbyter cum albis vestibus incedat, religiosè portans corpus Domini. Et diaconus præcedat vel subdiaconus, vel alius clericus ferens lanternam cum candelâ accensâ; et spongiam, cum aquâ benedictâ.

V.—Qualiter fratres debent ire extra.

Iterum, cum irent fratres per civitates et castella, non eant soli, sed duo vel tres. Nec cum quibus voluerint, sed cum quibus magister jusserit ire debebunt. Sed cum venerint quo voluerint, simul stent in incessu, in habitu. In omnibus motibus eorum, nichil fiat quod cujusquam offendat aspectum; sed quod suam deceat sanctitatem. Quando etiam fuerint in domo, vel in ecclesiâ, aut ubicumque fuerint, fœminæ invicem suam pudicitiam custodiant.

VI.—Quod fœminæ non serviant fratribus.

Nec fœminæ capita eorum lavent, aut pedes; aut lectum eorum faciant. Deus qui habitat in cœlis isto modo custodiat eos, &c.——Finis primæ partis.

VII.—Qualiter se habeant fratres in petendo elemosinas.

Et in sanctorum pauperum quærendo elemosinas, religiosæ personæ fratrum de clericis et de laicis incedant. Et cum hospicium quæsierint, ad ecclesiam vel aliquam honestam personam veniant, ex caritate ab eâ victum petant, et nihil aliud emant. Si verò non inveniant qui tribuat eis mensuratè, nisi unum solum cibum, benè unde vivere possint, emant.

VIII.—De elemosinis acquisitis. Et quod frater non recipiat de questu, neque terram neque pignora.

Ex inquisitione elemosinarum, nec terram nec pignus accipiant, sed suo magistro per scriptum reddant: ac etiam magister, cum suo scripto, pauperibus ad Hospitale transmittat.

IX.—De illo quod debet retinere magister de omnibus obedientiis.

Et de omnibus obedientiis, terciam partem de pane et de vino, et de omni nutrimento etiam magister suscipiat, et si supererit, hoc quod ampliùs fuerit, ad elemosinas convertat, et Jerosolimitanis, cum scripto suo pauperibus mittat.

X.—De collecta recipienda, et lumine nocturno.

Et non eant ad prædicationem aliqui fratrum, de ullis obedienciis, ad collectas, nisi solum illi, quos capitulum et magister ecclesiæ miserit.

XI.—De ferculo quod debent habere fratres.

Et ipsi fratres, qui exierint ad collectas colligendas, in quacunque obedientia venerint, recipiantur; et accipiant talem victum, qualem fratres inter se dispensaverint; et aliam vexationem ibi non faciant. Lumen secum portent. Et in quacumque domo Hospitali fuerint, ante se lumen ardere faciant.

XII.—De vestitu fratrum.

Deinde pannos, religioni nostræ non congruos, nec pelles silvestres omnino portent; sed eos prohibemus, ne amodo induant fratres.

XIII.—De comestione fratrum.

Et non comedant fratres nisi bis in die, et quartâ feriâ, et die Sabati; et à Septuagesimâ usque in Pascha carnes non comedant, præter eos qui sunt infirmi et imbecilles.

XIV.—Quomodo dormiant fratres.

Et nunquam nudi jaceant fratres, sed vestiti camileis, laneis vel lineis, aut aliis quibuslibet vestimentis.

XV.—De fratre qui cadit in fornicatione.

Et si aliquis fratrum (quod utinam nunquam eveniat) peccatis exigentibus, ceciderit in lapsus carnis, si occultè peccaverit, occultè pœniteat; et injungatur sibi pœnitentia congrua. Si verò publicatus, et apprehensus per certos fuerit, in eadem villâ, in quâ facinus perpetraverit, dominicâ die post missas, quando populus ab ecclesiâ egressus fuerit, videntibus cunctis, nudetur, et à magistro suo vel aliis fratribus, quibus magister præceperit, corrigiis vel virgis durissimè flagelletur et verberetur; ac de omni societate nostrâ expelletur. Postea si Deus cor ejus illustraverit, et ad domum pauperum reversus fuerit, atque se reum et peccatorem, atque legis Dei transgressorem professus fuerit, et emendationem promiserit, recipiatur.

Frater expulsus sic recipitur.

Primo pœnitentia digna sibi imponatur, et per annum integrum in loco extraneo teneatur. Si in hoc spacio viderint fratres satisfactionem suam, postea faciant quod meliùs sibi videbitur.

XVI.—De fratre qui habet quæstionem cum alio fratre.

Si frater altercatus fuerit cum aliquo fratre, et clamorem procurator domus habuerit, talis sit pœnitentia; septem diebus comedet in terrâ, jejunet quartâ et sextâ feriâ sit in pane et aquâ; comedat in terrâ, sine mensâ et manutergio.

XVII.—De fratre qui verberat alium fratrem.

Si aliquis fratrum alium percusserit, sit in xl.

Et si aliquis fratrum recesserit à domo, vel à magistro cui commissus fuerit, xl. diebus manducet in terris, jejunet quartâ et sextâ feriâ in pane et aquâ, et per totum tempus permaneat in loco extraneo, quantum foris exstitit, nisi tam prolixum fuerit tempus, ut capitulo conveniat moderari.

Ad mensam, sicut dicit apostolus, unusquisque panem suum cum silencio manducet, quod in fratribus nostris volumus observari sub pœnâ xl.; et quod fratres, sub pœnâ antedictâ, non bibant post Completorium, et silentium teneant in lectis.

XX.—De fratre qui non benè se gerit.

Si aliquis fratrum non benè se agens, à magistro suo, vel aliis fratribus, bis atque ter correptus et ammonitus fuerit; et diabolo instigante, se emendare et obedire noluerit, nobis mittatur pedester, cum cartâ continente suum delictum, tamen procuratio rara ei detur, ut ad nos pervenire possit eumque corrigere.

XXI.—Quod nullus percutiat famulos.

XXII.—De illo qui revelat proprium.

Si aliquis fratrum de proprio dimissus, in morte suâ proprietatem habuerit, et magistro suo celaverit, ac postea super eum inventa fuerit, ipsa pecunia ad collum ejus ligetur, et ab aliquo fratre durissimè, aliis fratribus domus præsentibus, verberetur, et xl. diebus pœniteat, jejunans quartâ et sextâ feriâ in pane et aquâ.

XXIII.—De fratribus defunctis et eorum trentenario.

De omnibus peccatis, rebus, et clamoribus, in capitulo judicent, et discernant rectum judicium. Et hæc omnia, ut supradiximus, ex parte Dei omnipotentis, beatæ virginis Mariæ, et sancti Johanni Baptistæ, et pauperum, præcipimus; et ex imperio imponimus, ut cum summo studio ita per omnia teneantur.

HIC INCIPIT 3. PARS.

Et in eâ obedienciâ, ubi magister et capitulum Hospitalis concesserint, cum venerit ibi infirmus, itaque recipiatur; primò peccata sua presbytero confessus, religiosè communicetur; et postea ad lectum deportetur; et ibi, tanquam dominus, secundum posse domus, omni die antequam fratres eant pransum, caritativè reficiatur.

XXVI.—De fratre qui dat bona Hospitalitatis, causa regnandi, seculari personæ; et de processione.

Omnibus dominicis diebus epistola et evangelium in eadem domo cantetur, et cum processione, aqua benedicta aspergatur. Item si quis fratrum, qui obedientias et diversas terras tenent, ad aliquam secularem personam venientes rebellando, pecuniam pauperum dederint, ut eos per suam vim contra magistrum suum regnare faciant, ab universitate fratrum projiciantur.

XXVII.—De duobus vel tribus fratribus simul commorantibus; et de salubri reprehensione unius ad alium.

Item omnes fratres omnium obedientiarum, qui nunc et inantea offerunt se Deo et sancto Hospitali Jerosolimitano, crucem ad honorem Dei et ejusdem sanctæ crucis, in cappis et mantellis secum differant ante pectus, ut Deus per ipsum vexillum, fidem, et operationem, et obedientiam, nos custodiat à diaboli potestate, simul cum omnibus benefactoribus nostris Christianis. Amen.

Nulli ergo omnino hominum liceat, &c. sicut antea per confirmationem per papam Bonifacium, in principio istius statuti, pontificatus sui anno sexto, vii. idus Aprilis, &c.

DE PRIMA INSTITUTIONE HOSPITALARIORUM.

Contigit tempore Eraclii imperatoris, circa annum Domini dc.xii. quod Turchii Arabiæ venerunt in terras Suriæ et Egipti, cum magnâ potentiâ; multi boni Christiani de ultra mare venerunt in Jerusalem, peregrinando ad visitandum sancta loca, quæ infideles extorserant, et tenebant minus honorificè quàm debebant. Venerant autem, inter alios Christianos, quidam mercatores Christiani Ytaliæ, de civitate Pulliæ, quæ appellatur Malfe; et portabant primò in terram Suriæ mercimonia, qualia Turchii nunquam priùs viderant: quapropter ballivi terræ sciverant eis grates, et faciebant eis bonum multum, et solacia in multis; salvo quod conducebant in suo dominio. Illi autem mercatores habebant plenariè gratiam et familiaritatem principis Egipti et omnium baronum suorum, ita quod possent securè per patriam ire ad vendendum merces suas, et emendum alias: erant autem boni Christiani, et omni vice, quâ venerunt in Jerusalem, ibant ad sancta loca civitatis. Non habebant aliquam domum in civitate, quod grave erat eis, eo quod oportuit eos aliquando per magnum tempus moram ibi facere, et socios suos dimittere ad liberandum se de hiis quæ efferebant. Petierunt igitur à præsidente unam aream in Jerusalem, ad construendam unam domum, in quâ possent se recipere quando venirent ad civitatem: ponebantque petitionem suam in scriptis, et porrigebant Calife, magno principi Egypti; cui petitioni statim annuebat.

Deinde ballivo, de Jerusalem, pervenerunt literæ, ex parte principis et præsidentis Egypti, quod civibus de Malfe, qui erant amici sui, et magnum commodum faciebant terræ suæ, eo quod deferrebant illuc res necessarias, tradi faceret et liberari unam magnam aream in illâ parte civitatis Jerusalem, ubi habitabant Christiani, ad construendum sibi habitationem qualem volebant. Illa autem civitas tunc fuit divisa in quatuor partes, satis æquales. Unam partem tantum de quatuor partibus tenebant Christiani, in quâ fundatur ecclesia S. Sepulchri, et totum residuum civitatis et templum Domini habitabatur ab infidelibus. Ballivus autem tradidit eis quandam aream, satis largam, coram ecclesiâ S. Sepulchri; in quâ construxerunt unam ecclesiam in honore Virginis gloriosæ, et officinas cum ædificiis religioni monachorum necessarias.

Deinde faciebant ibi hospicia pro hospitibus suæ provinciæ recipiendis; quibus completis, faciebant illuc venire unum abbatem et monachos de terris suis, ita quod in illo loco fiebat una abbatia, ad serviendum Deo. Postea frequenter accidit, quod multæ bonæ mulieres veniebant, causa peregrinationis et devotionis, in Jerusalem, tam de Malfe quam de aliis terris, dictis mercatoribus specialiùs adhærentes: illi tamen de abbathia nolebant recipere mulieres hospicio, timore peccati, et pro suspicione scandali vitanda. Quod videntes illi boni mercatores, qui illam abbatiam fundaverant, fecerunt ibi juxta abbathiam unam ecclesiam parvam in honore S. Mariæ Magdalenæ, et ædificia pro peregrinis suscipiendis; statuentes ibi sorores ad recipiendum et serviendum peregrinis supervenientibus. Et quia tempus tunc erat periculosum Christianis, multi peregrinorum nobilium illuc venientium libenter hospitabant in illo loco, pro eo quod pauperes erant et egentes, quando venerant illuc: nam transeuntes per terras Turchorum multotiens ab eis spoliabantur, et quando pervenerunt ad portam Jerusalem, non valebant intrare, nisi unusquisque daret priùs unum talentum; et tunc postquam intraverant civitatem, non habebant unde se sustentare possent, nisi quantum illa domus eis conferebat, quoniam omnes aliæ gentes illius civitatis, vel erant de alia lege vel de alia lingua; et Christiani in civitate manentes sic gravabantur, quod propter suam paupertatem non poterant extraneis prodesse, undè multimodas miserias paciebantur in civitate: quod videntes illi, qui ista loca tenebant, infra limites suos construxerunt unam domum Dei, ad hospitandum pauperes peregrinos, sanos, et infirmos; ita quod de elemosinis et reliquiis istarum duarum abbatiarum, monachorum scilicet et illarum mulierum, aliquam habebant sustentationem.

Iste Johannes oriundus erat in Cipro, vir sanctus et religiosus et patriarcha Alexandriæ, ubi fecit multa bona opera, in elemosinis extitit multum largus; ideo sancti patres, qui illic erant, vocabant eum Elemon, id est, plenum misericordiæ. Elemon enim Græcè, Latinè dicitur Misericors; et elemosina Græcè, Latinè Misericordia, secundum Papiam.

Istæ tres ecclesiæ prædictæ nullos habebant redditus nec possessiones, extra procinctum suum; sed illi de Malfe mercatores faciebant omni anno quandam collectam pecuniæ, ex qua, per manus abbatis, sustentabantur fratres et sorores illarum abbaciarum; et de residuo fiebat distributio pauperibus illius domus Dei: et tali modo fuit ille locus per magnum tempus sustentatus, antequam civitas Jerusalem fuit capta per Christianos: sed quando Saraceni erant à sacro loco ejecti, et civitas ab infidelitate purgata; valentes terram conquirentes, divino auxilio invenerunt infra abbathiam fœminarum unam valdè validam abbatissam, mulierem sanctam, religiosam, ac generosam, Romæ oriundam: et infra abbatiam hominum invenerunt unum fratrem bonæ vitæ, inter alios, Girardum nomine, qui ex præcepto abbatis et monachorum, diu servierat in domo Dei, quando Saraceni tenebant civitatem, pauperes et peregrinos recipiens, et faciens eis bonum quod potuit, secundum facultatem suæ paupertatis.

De tam parvo principio venerunt Hospitalarii ad magnam potentiam quam habent. Dabantur enim eis magnæ elemosinæ ad pauperum sustentationem. Et quando videbant se posse sibi sufficere de beneficiis abbaciarum prædictarum, qui eos manutenuerant, statim procuraverunt sibi privilegium, quod nichil facerent pro abbate. Postea incipiebant possessiones eorum crescere, in tantum, quod habebant villas et castella. Deinde laborarunt et sumptus magnos apponere non cessabant erga Romana mecclesiam, quousque totaliter eos absolverunt à potestate et obedientiâ patriarchæ. Cumque haberent hoc privilegium, extunc non curaverunt nisi parum de prælatis suis, omnes decimas terrarum, quas adquisierant, tollebant à vicinis ecclesiis. Et ab illis qui eos aliquando paraverant et adquisierant, tollebant à vicinis ecclesiis. Et ab illis qui eos aliquando paraverant et sustinuerant in eorum paupertate, sua nocumenta primitùs inchoabant, unde ecclesia S. Sepulchri poterat dicere ad propheticum; "Filios enutrivi et exaltavi, ibi autem spreverunt me."

Quod cum patriarcha et cæteri episcopi viderent se non posse rationem habere cum Hospitalariis, eo quod non invenirent qui faceret eis justiciam; et ecclesiæ suæ erant per eos graviter dampnificatæ; adierunt Romam, ad ostendendum papæ et cardinalibus, injurias quas sustinuerunt per fratres Hospitalis; sed Hospitalarii prævenientes, per dona maxima, totam curiam corruperunt, sic quod patriarcha, ipso infecto negotio, ad patriam suam redierunt. Deinde fratres Hospitalarii magnas injurias fecerunt patriarchæ, et omnibus aliis ecclesiarum prælatis, de justiciâ parochiarum et decimarum. Nam quando prælati excommunicaverunt vel interdixerunt aliquos de parochianis suis, pro defectibus eorum, Hospitalarii receperunt eos in ecclesiis, ad missas, et ad omnia alia sacra; sepeliebantque eos post mortem infra cimiteria sua. Et si contigisset aliquotiens, propter transgressiones principum, episcopum interdicere civitatem; aut aliquem locum in quibus Hospitalarii habebant ædificia, ipsi Hospitalarii faciebant pulsare campanas fortissimè, et in capellis suis altiùs cantare quam solebant. Nec erat interdictum ibi receptum. Et quia clausæ fuerunt aliæ ecclesiæ, plures oblationes recipiebant.

In parochiis, quas sibi dederant prælati, ponebant presbyteros pro voluntate suâ, sine aliquâ mentione factâ episcopis à quibus curam debebant accipere. Et quando presbyteri eis displicebant, parochias ab eis auferebant absque alicujus alterius mandato. De omnibus tenementis et terris suis adquisitis, decimas ab ecclesiis auferebant. Ista gravamina currebant per omnes terras, in quibus Hospitalarii habebant possessiones et maneria. Sed supra omnes alios dampnificabatur patriarcha Jerusalem apud ecclesiam S. Sepulchri. Unum aliud fecerunt ipsi Hospitalarii; nam coram loco ubi Christus crucifixus est, et coram ecclesiâ S. Sepulchri, incipiebant construere magnis sumptibus ædificia altiora quàm erat ecclesia S. Sepulchri.

Frequenter contigit, quod quando patriarcha prædicavit populo, et docuit quæ facienda erant, et quæ vitanda; Hospitalarii, ad impediendum eum et turbandum, fecerunt, tali tempore, omnes campanas suas simul pulsare, ne populus eum audiret. Patriarcha autem frequenter conquerebatur majoribus civitatis Jerusalem, qui inculpabant magistrum et fratres Hospitalis, et rogabant eos quatinus ista corrigerent; at illi promiserunt eis deteriùs se facturos; quod quidem promissum satis fideliter eis persolvebant. Quadam enim die contigit eos sic turbari, et per diabolum ad tantam dementiam concitari, quod armis assumptis sanctissimo loco mundi, hoc est ecclesiæ S. Sepulchri, non deferebant in aliquo, quin volentes eam intrare, sicuti fuisset domus latronis, per violentiam traxerunt maximam copiam sagittarum, versus ecclesiam, quas inhabitantes collegerunt, et postea colligatas coram monte Calvariæ suspenderunt; quod multi videntes admirati sunt.

Radix istius, et hujus mali, fuit curia Romana, eo quod ipsa non curavit de isto negotio, sed curasse debuit, sed subtraxit domum Hospitalariorum à potestate et obedientiâ patriarchæ, sub quo fuerat à magno tempore; dabatque eis papa tam magna privilegia, quod nec de clericis, nec de laicis curaverunt: nec ab hoc debet veritas reticeri. Ille ordo multotiens postea pauperibus Christianis victum et vestitum, pariter et hospitium exhibuit; mortuos quoque honorificè sepelivit; multaque alia caritatis opera exercuit. Fratres etiam Hospitalis, hostes fidei Christianæ victoriosissimè debellaverunt, et multa gravamina eis intulerunt. Multi etiam valentes viri postea in ordine illo fuerunt, qui animas suas, Deo annuente, salvaverunt; nec excessibus et superbiæ prædictorum consenserunt. Sed ut sciatur unde illa religio Hospitalariorum orta est in principio, et quam injustè debuissent contra præfatos ecclesiæ insurrexisse, superiùs pleniter est declaratum. Hæc in Historiâ Antiochenæ, lib. xviii. cap. 3 et 4.

ADHUC DE EORUM INSTITUTIONE.

[Sethi Calvisii Chron. sub ann. 1092.]

Hospitalariorum ordo institutus, circa hæc tempora, in Terra Sancta, antequam à Bilionio Hierosolyma recuperaretur. Originem ordo hic traxit à mercatoribus Italis, qui Saracenis locum sibi pretio compararunt, ubi religio Christiana exerceretur seorsim. Huic templo additæ ædes ubi peregrini hospitio exciperentur, largitione post principum, et elemosinis piorum, magnoperè ditati sunt, ita ut urbes et regna sibi compararent.

MODUS RECIPIENDI FRATRES AD ORDINEM.

[Ex cod. MS. in bibl. Cotton. (sub effigie Galbæ A. 17. fol. 131 b.)]

Cum aliquis Hospitalitatis effici voluit, ipse venire debet dominico ante capitulum, et requirere à magistro, aut ab alio qui tenebit capitulum, societatem domus. Postea verò magister, aut ille qui tenebit capitulum, quærere debet à fratribus si recipietur ille. Et si major pars in concordiâ fuerit, recipiatur. Et quando recipietur; ille, qui eum in fratrem recipiet, sibi dicere debet. "Bone amice, vos quæritis societatem domus, et causam habetis; nam multi nobiles homines agunt preces magnas, et grandi gaudio exultant, quando ipsi aliquem ex eorum infantibus, aut ex eorum amicis possint ponere in hac religione, et si vos voluntatis existitis standi in tam decora tamque honorabili societate, et in tam sancta religione, ut est hujusmodi Hospitalis, causam habetis. Verumptamen, quamquam vos videatis vos benè indutos, et cum magnis equitaturis, et vos cunctis deliciis frui, estis deceptus; nam quando vos dormire volueritis, oportebit vos vigilare; et quando volueritis vigilare, dormire vos oportebit; et quando vos comedere volueritis, oportebit vos jejunare; et quando volueritis jejunare, vos comedere oportebit. Mandabimini etiam huc et illuc ad placeam, quæ non placebit vobis, et illic vos ire oportebit: oportebit denique omnimodam vestram voluntatem pro alio relinquere, et plura dura alia tolerare. Vultis vos hujusmodi omnes res facere atque pati?" Et tunc ipse debet dicere, "Ita, si Deo placet."

Postea etiam sibi debet dicere, " Plura nos vellemus à vobis scire, si vos unquam vovistis seu promisistis aliam intrare religionem : et etiam scire à vobis volumus, si vos habetis fœminam aliquam in sponsam, seu promisistis vel jurastis alicui fœminæ ipsam suscipere in uxorem : scire enim debetis quod si vos haberetis fœminam, et cras vel die aliâ, ipsa requirere vos venit ; et habitus auferri deberet à vobis et redire fœminæ vestræ. Per consimilem modum à vobis volumus scire, si vos estis obnoxius debitis aliquibus, propter quæ possit religio aggravari. Nam si manè venirent aliqui, qui vos grandia debita postularent, et probarent vos sibi fore in aliquo debitorem, privaremini habitu et rediremini pariter illis. Similiter quoque à vobis volumus scire, si vos estis servus domini alicujus." Unicuique rerum hujusmodi ipse debet respondere quod non. Post hæc autem debet portare missale, et super ipsum ille debet ponere manus suas, et sibi debet dici. " Vos promittitis, et vovetis Deo et dominæ nostræ, ac meo domino sancto Johanni Baptistæ sub obedientiâ cujuscumque superioris, quem vobis Deus dabit vivere atque mori. Vovetis insuper et promittitis castè vivere usque ad mortem, et vivere etiam sine proprio. Nos etiam facimus aliam promissionem, quam nulli alii faciunt religiosi. Nos namque promittimus esse servi sclavi dominorum infirmorum." Et pro unaquaque rerum hujusmodi ipse debet respondere, " Ita, si Deo placeat." Postea verò sibi debet dicere ille qui eum recipiet. " Et nos promittimus vobis panem et aquam, et humiles vestes ; vos enim non potestis rem aliam postulare ; et vos facimus participes, animasque parentum vestrorum in omnibus bonis factis in religione nostrâ à primævâ sui institutione, et quæ fiunt ac fient, usque ad diem judicii in eadem, in quibus Dominus noster vobis dignetur concedere partem talem, qualem nos speramus habere." Post hæc verò ille, qui debet effici frater, accipere debet librum, et illum ferre ad monasterium, ac eum imponere super altare. Deinde libro ipso accepto, eum reportare, et venire debet coram illo, qui eum debet facere fratrem ; et ille debet ipsum librum ab eo recipere, et sibi dare mantellum, et pariter ei dicere. " Ecce signum crucis, quod vos portabitis in hoc mantello, in commemorationem illius, qui pro salvatione nostrâ subiit in patibulo crucis mortem, ut Deus propter crucem et propter obedientiam, quam vos fecistis, vos protegat et defendat nunc et semper à diabolicâ potestate, Amen."

MODUS RECIPIENDI CONFRATRES.

[Ibid fol. 131 b.]

Cum autem aliquis vir probus requirit esse confrater Hospitalis, magister aut præceptor, seu ille qui eum debet recipere in confratrem, debet fratres facere congregari. Quibus accersitis in unum, ille qui confrater esse cupit, debet venire ad præsentiam eorundem ; et ille qui debet recipere in confratrem, debet pro missali mandare ; et ille, positis manibus supra librum, sibi promittere debet, quod inantea pro posse domum Hospitalis et fratres in omnibus diliget, et à cunctis malefactoribus illos toto posse defendet, et bona domus ejusdem servabit ; et si nequibit illa defendere et servare, id fratribus domus pandet ; ac quod si aliquam religionem ingredi voluerit, intrabit religionem Hospitalis. Et si nullam religionem in vitâ voluerit intrare, solebat promittere, quod in fine relinquet, ut sepeliatur in cimiterio Hospitalis : verùm quia decretale hoc prohibet, sub pœnâ excommunicationis igitur suæ discretioni relinquatur. Nisi fortè portare vellet habitum cum signo tau, ut in Cicilia assuescunt, necnon quod in suæ confraternitatis recognitione, in festo S. Johannis Baptistæ, rem aliquam dabit domui annuatim. Cum autem hæc promiserit, confrater ille, qui eum recipere debet, dicet sibi. " Ob promissionem, quam vos fecistis Deo et dominæ nostræ, ac domino meo S. Johanni Baptistæ et dominis nostris infirmis, nos recipimus vos et animas parentum vestrorum participes in Missis, Matutinis, Vesperis, et in omnibus aliis piis bonis, quæ facta sunt in nostrâ domo à die quâ fuit primitùs instituta, et cotidie fiunt ac fient in eadem per universum orbem usque ad diem judicii. Et Dominus noster dignetur vobis partem talem conferre, qualem unusquisque nostrum sperat habere." Quibus dictis, fine facto, ipse debet sibi pacem præbere ; et consimiliter omnes fratres, qui erunt ibi præsentes. Deinde verò nomen ejus in libro confratrum redigatur in scriptis, et id quod dare promiserit annuatim in recognitionem suæ fraternitatis.

CRONICA MAGISTRORUM DEFUNCTORUM.

[Ibid. fol. 143 b.]

I. Primus magister fuit Girardus, qui fuit gardianus Hospitalis pauperum in Jerusalem. Hic fuit repertus ibidem quando Godefridus de Boilonia et peregrini Christiani ceperunt eandem.

II. Postea fuit Raymundus de Podio, qui primus frater extitit Hospitalis. Hic ordinavit et condidit regulam et statuta, et illa confirmari fecit per dominum papam Eugenium ; quæ perdita fuerunt in Jerusalem.

III. Postea fuit magister Augier de Ballen. Hic multa religiositate fluxit et pariter probitate.

IV. Postea fuit magister ARNAUDUS DE COMPS. Hic utique fuit magnanimus vir, et ampliavit religionem tam fratribus quàm possessionibus, et fecit bona pertamenta, &c.

V. Postea fuit magister GILBERTUS ASSAILLI. Hic fuit antiquus valdè, et brevi tempore quo vixit multa bona religioni procuravit, et dominis infirmis servivit multùm benignè.

VI. Postea fuit magister CASTUS. Hic multæ humilitatis et magnæ benignitatis ac misericordiæ virtutibus fluxit: et propter ejus probitatem et bonam famam, grandia bona fuerunt per universum orbem collata nostræ religioni.

VII. Postea fuit magister JOBERTUS. Hic bona statuta condidit ad servicium Dei et ecclesiæ, et ad commodum infirmorum dominorum.

VIII. Postea fuit magister GAUFRIDUS DE DINSONO, qui Cracum et Margatum cepit. Hic fuit vir multæ discretionis, et strenuus in armis; bonus, religiosus, et valdè magnanimus, dilexitque plurimùm fratres suos et dominos infirmos.

IX. Postea fuit magister HERMENGANDUS DAPS. Hic per hostes fidei multùm extitit persecutus, suo etiam tempore Christiani perdiderunt Jerusalem, sed ipse postea parum vixit.

X. Postea fuit magister ROGERIUS DE MOLINS, qui per papam Lucium regulam confirmari procuravit et bona statuta edidit.

XI. Postea fuit magister GARNERIUS DE NEAPOLI. Hic multam animositatem exercuit in factis armorum, contra fidei inimicos; elemosinas domus viriliter defensavit, et gubernavit etiam suos fratres honoranter.

XII. Postea fuit magister ALFONSUS DE PORTUGALIA, cujus tempore confirmatæ fuerunt bonæ consuetudines per magistrum Rogerium editæ in Margato. Hic fecit bona statuta, et accidit quod aliquid conventui suo præcepit; et qui conventus non paruit sibi, magisterium resignavit et bullam projecit: quâ per proceres captâ, ipsi in magistrum alium assumpserunt. Deinde ipse in Portugaliam pergens, per gentem suam in itinere pocionatus, spiritum exalavit, &c.

XIII. Postea fuit magister GAUFRIDUS RAT. Hic fuit valdè probus, et resignatio magistri Alfonsi multùm displicibilis fuit ei; ipsum enim habebat multùm carum propter ejus magnam probitatem. Tempore cujus multa bona in regno Franciæ collata nostræ domui extiterunt.

XIV. Postea fuit magister GARINUS DE MONTEACUTO. Hic fuit vir fortis et strenuus in personâ; et protector optimus bonorum religionis, qui brevi tempore vixit.

XV. Postea fuit magister BERTRANDUS DE GEXI. Hic invenit multa probitatis et bonæ religionis et virtutis, et adauxit. In Suria domum multis bonis ditavit, et dominis infirmis vehementer obsequia debita præstabat.

XVI. Postea fuit magister GERINUS. Hic fuit valdè parcus, et omnem vanæ gloriæ pompam à se abjecit, et magnum thesaurum coacervavit, quia habebat cum hostibus suis pacem.

XVII. Postea fuit magister BERTRANDUS DE CONS. Hic suâ probitate et providentiâ plurimas Saracenorum terras redegit ad religionis ditionem, et per ejus magnum thesaurum Hospitale suscepit plurima incrementa privilegiorum libertatis, concessum fratribus militibus; ipsosque in religione multis honoribus sublimavit, et eis plusquam alius magister dominium supra cæteros fratres dedit.

XVIII. Postea fuit magister PETRUS DE VILLA BRIDA. Hic multâ probitate, et simplicitate polluit virtuosâ; servavitque optimè regulam. Tres domos et plura alia bona extitit operatus.

XIX. Postea fuit magister de CASTELLO NOVO GUILLIELMUS. Hic multâ probitate fluxit, et potiebatur pariter magnanimitate virili. Tempore cujus Templum suscepit residuum Hospitale, quod postea ipse emit à magistro Templi, qui suus frater erat, precio unius equi, &c.

XX. Postea fuit magister HUGO RYVELL. Hic fuit illuminatus multâ discretivâ virtute; reduxitque domum ad statum bonum. Alii enim magistri sui prædecessores nichil reformaverunt, nisi quod manutenuerant usagia bona domus. Ipse verò nedum ordinavit de novo, ymmo aliorum statuta extitit recordatus: ediditque insuper bona et utilia statuta.

XXI. Postea fuit magister NICHOLAUS DE LORGNE. Tempore cujus fuerunt cum albâ Cruce Arma rubea ordinata, ac quod fratres nigros mantellos portarent: fuitque etiam ordinata bulla conventus, et insuper plurima bona statuta domus.

XXII. Postea fuit magister ODDE: tempore cujus, nostræ religionis status propter ejus inconveniens portamentum, plurimùm fuit depressus; undè contigit, quod papa se intromisit de nostrâ religione, quod nunquam fuerat visum; papa enim nullius alterius magistri temporibus se intromiserat de eadem, et dicto magistro comminatorias literas destinavit, quibus ipse parere irreverenter sprevit. Quamobrem ipse repellatus suum repellum prosequendo in itinere expiravit. Nichilominus tamen plurima bona edidit statuta.

xxiii. Postea fuit magister GUILLELMUS DE VILLARETO. Hic residebat in ultramarinis partibus prior Sancti Ægidii; unde accidit, quod conventus sibi scripsit nonnullos defectus prædecessorum ejus; et quod propterea in principio in regimine suo et religionis, providentiæ studium adhiberet. Quod et ipse facere non omisit; nam ipse multâ probitate fulcitus religionem suam bonis statutis et consuetudinibus laude dignis reparavit et illustravit.

xxiv. Postea fuit magister FULCO DE VILARETO. Hic fuit multâ strenuitate potitus, et eum propter magnanimitatem suam fratres sui conventus ipsum odio habentes, tandem apud Rodanum quadam nocte in suo lecto ipsum interfecissent, nisi quidam ejus camerarius eum evasisset, et ipse ad Budicum castrum insulæ Rodi perrexisset. Sed in eodem castro per conventum obsessus, alius assumptus extitit in magistrum. Deinde verò post breve temporis spacium papa Johannes XXII. comparituris coram se in Avinone, mandavit pro ambobus magistris. Auditis itaque precibus, et intellectis juribus utriusque, deposito magistro per conventum electo, restituit fratrem Fulconem fastigio magistratus. Post hæc autem eodem anno per papam, cum cardinalibus, de consilio procerum religionis, fratre Fulcone iterato deposito, electus extitit alius in magistrum. Hic frater Fulco plurima bona egit; ipse enim traxit conventum de Cipro et cepit insulas Rodi, Lingoni, et alias plures circumjacentes; tenuitque multa castra in Turkia, quæ suâ strenuitate acquisierat ab inimicis fidei. Reduxit insuper, tempore suo, bona Templi ad Hospitale; et multa pariter bona et utilia edidit statuta. Obiit frater simplex et egenus in castro terræ motus, et fuit sepultus apud Montem Pessolanum in ecclesiâ Templi.

xxv. Postea fuit magister MAURICIUS DE PAYGNACO. Hic fuit ille quem conventus elegit, quando depositus extitit frater Fulco; qui pauca in suo tempore exercuit magistratus.

xxvi. Postea fuit magister ELIONUS DE VILLA NOVA. Hic fuit per papam creatus, cum consilio procerum domus. Fuit etiam multâ probitate et magnâ virtute dotatus, et plurima bona in religione suâ, tempore suo fecit. Exoneravit enim illam, suâ discretionis industriâ à multis sarcinis debitorum; prosperavit etiam nimiùm statum suum ampliùs quam fuerat unquam visum. Non recolit memoria hominum, nec reperitur in scriptis, quod tam quieta tamque omnibus bonis plena esset religio, prout ipse illam reliquit tempore mortis suæ. Suo quoque tempore fuit iterum capta insula Lingoni et civitas Smirniarum; ediditque bona utilia statuta, et diu vixit.

xxvii. Postea fuit magister DEODATUS DE GOSONO. Hic fuit in conventu magnus præceptor, et reperit domum in statu felici, solvitque religionem, tam in capitibus, quàm in membris, per universum orbem à cunctis nexibus debitorum. Suo tempore fuit Molle constratum et clausum versùs marinam burgus Rodi.

xxviii. Postea fuit magister PETRUS CORNELIAN.[a]

lx. Nicholas Cotoner, brother to Raphael, 1663."

Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem, near Clerkenwell.

IN the North suburbs of London, says Tanner, near West Smithfield, Jordan Briset, by some called a knight, by others a baron, erected A.D. 1100, or some few years after, a House or Hospital for a new Religious Order then famous in Christendom, viz. the Knights Hospitalars of St. John of Jerusalem, who by the liberality of the Kings and Nobility of England, and the accession which was made to them upon the suppression of the Templars in the time of Edward the Second, were endowed at the suppression with lands to the yearly value of 3040 marks, according to Leland; 2385*l.* 13*s.* 8*d.* Dugd. and Speed; 3385*l.* 19*s.* 8*d.* Stowe. In the record at the First Fruits Office the clear sum of the yearly revenues belonging to this Priory was 2385*l.* 19*s.* 11¼*d.*, the reprises were 205*l.* 0*s.* 7*d.*, and so the gross sum 2591*l.* 0*s.* 6¼*d.* The lord prior here had precedence of all the lay barons in Parliament, and chief power over all the Preceptories and lesser Houses of this Order throughout England. The Site of this Priory was granted, 38 Hen. VIII., to John Viscount Lisle;[a] and great part of the Church, with the fine bell tower, was blown up 3 Edw. VI. But King Philip and Queen Mary, 4 et 5 regni, re-established a lord prior and some brethren of the Order here, repaired the House, and restored many of the old estates in divers counties to the same, who were again suppressed in the first year of Queen Elizabeth.

Such is Tanner's outline of the History of the House of St. John of Jerusalem.

The Hospital Church was dedicated to the honour of St. John Baptist by Heraclius, Patriarch of the Resurrection of Christ at Jerusalem, on the 6th of the ides of March, A.D. 1185, and on the same day the Altars of St. John, St. Mary. and St. John the Evangelist, were dedicated by the same patriarch.[b]

Both the Knights Hospitalars and Knights Templars held themselves most bound, above all their benefactors, to Roger de Mowbray, to whose heirs and descendants they granted peculiar privileges.[c]

"The rebels of Essex and Kent," says Stowe, "in 1381, set fire on this House, causing it to burne by the space of seaven dayes togither, not suffering any to quench it, since the which time the Priors of that House have newe builded both the Church and house thereunto appertaining, which Church was finished by Thomas Dockwra, late lord prior there, about the year 1504, as appeareth by the Inscription over the Gate House, yet remayning. Sir William Weston, Lord Prior at the time of the Suppression, dyed on the same seventh of May on which the House was suppressed, so that great yearly pensions being granted to the Knights by the King, and namely to the Lord Prior during his life 1000*l.* hee never received penny."[d] The Priory Church and House of St. John, Stowe adds, was preserved from spoil or down-pulling so long as King Henry the Eighth reigned, and was employed as a store-house for the King's toyles and tents, for hunting, and for the warres, &c. That part of the Quire which remained in Queen Mary's reign was, by Cardinal Pole, closed up at the west end, and otherwise repaired, and Sir Thomas Tresham, knight, was then made Lord Prior there, with restitution of some lands.

"The South Gate of this Priory," says Newcourt, "was granted by King James the First, in the 2d of his reign, to Sir Roger Wilbraham, knight, for his life; and the Site of this Hospital, with the Appurtenances, was granted by the same King, in the 4th of his reign, to Martin Freeman, to be held of the Crown in soccage; but that part of the Priory Church which is yet undemolished, and the great House thereto adjoining, hath been for several years, of late, in the noble family of the earl of Ailesbury, and the rest of the Site of this Priory is now in the possession of several other proprietors, in the north-western side whereof there is a pretty area of new brick buildings, lately erected."[e]

For the rest the Reader is referred to Tanner.

The Cells or subordinate Foundations to the Great House of the Hospitalars have been already noticed, as properly called Commanderies; but, like those of the Templars, they were almost as frequently called Preceptories. A few of these had the appearance of being separate Corporations, so much so as to have a Common Seal; but the greater part were no more than Farms or Granges. It is possible that some few Preceptories existed which may not be included in the present Enumeration.

PRECEPTORIES of the HOSPITALARS.

1. Ansty, in the County of Wilts; the manor of which had been given to the Hospitalars in the 12 Joh.[b] It was endowed, 26 Hen. VIII., with yearly revenues amounting to 81*l.* 8*s.* 5*d.* The Site was granted 38 Hen. VIII. to John Zouch.[c]

2. Aslakeby, in the County of Lincoln. This had been a Preceptory or Commandery of the Templars. The Templars had the church and lands here by the gift of Hubert de Ry, before A.D. 1185;[d] but Tanner conjectures that the Preceptory commenced from John le Mareschall's gift to them of his capital mesuage, about the 6th Ric. I. A.D. 1194. It afterwards passed to the Hospitalars, and as part of their possessions was granted 33 Hen. VIIIth,[e] to Edward Lord Clinton and Ursula his wife.

3. South Badeisley, in Hampshire. This was first a Preceptory of the Templars, and after of St. John of Jerusalem, valued at 118*l.* 16*s.* 7*d.* per annum, granted to Sir Thomas Seymour 31 Hen. VIIIth, and to Sir Nicholas Throckmorton 5th Edw. VI., but restored to the Hospitalars 4th and 5th Phil. et Mar.[f]

4. Balshall, in Warwickshire. Tanner, speaking of Balshall, says, "This manor was given to the Knights Templars, Temp. R. Steph. by Roger de Moubray,[g] and became a Commandery or Preceptory of that Order. It belonged afterwards to the Knights Hospitalars, though it doth not yet appear that any of them resided here; and as parcel of their possessions was granted 7th Edw. VI. to John Earl of Warwick, and 8 Eliz. to Sir Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester." [h]

[h] Dugdale, in his Hist. of Warwickshire, edit. 1730. p. 964, &c. gives a detailed account of the possessions of this House. Tanner refers concerning this Preceptory to "Plac. in com. Warw.

5. Barrow, in Cheshire. The Church of this place was given to the Hospitalars by Robert de Bachepuz, in the time of Henry II.;[a] whereupon a Preceptory was settled here, which, with Yeveley in Derbyshire, was valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. in the whole at 107*l.* 3*s.* 8*d.*, in clear income at 93*l.* 3*s.* 4½*d.* per annum.

6. Batisford, in Suffolk. This Hospital, or Preceptory of Knights, was as ancient as the reign of Henry the Second, who appears to have been a benefactor to it.[b] It was valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at 53*l.* 10*s.* per annum; and in the 35th Hen. VIII. was granted to Sir Richard Gresham.[c]

7. Beverley, in Yorkshire. Sibilla de Valoniis gave A.D. 1201, to the Knights Hospitalars, the manor of the Holy Trinity on the East side of this Town, with other tenements, the manor of North Burton, &c.; whereupon a Preceptory of the Order was fixed here, the lands belonging to which were valued in the 26th Hen. VIII. at 164*l.* 10*s.* per annum according to Dugdale, 167*l.* 10*s.* according to Speed, and 211*l.* 10*s.* 7*d.* according to a MS. Valor which was Le Neve's. The Site was granted in the 36th Hen. VIII. to William Barkeley.[d]

8. Brimpton, in Berkshire. Here, says Tanner, seems to have been a House of Knights Hospitalars in the time of Henry the Third.[e]

9. Bruern, or Temple Bruer, in Lincolnshire. Tanner says, Here was, before A.D. 1185, a Preceptory, first of the Knights Templars, and after of the Hospitalars,[f] who had annexed such possessions to it as were valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 185*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum as Dugdale and Speed; and 195*l.* 2*s.* 2⅔*d.* as in another valuation. It was granted, 33 Hen. VIII., to Charles Duke of Suffolk.[g]

10. Carbroke, in Norfolk. Maud Countess of Clare, says Tanner, having given the Churches of St. Peter and St. John Baptist here to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, temp. Hen. II.[h] some sisters of their Order were placed in an Hospital near the lesser Church, but afterward they were removed to Buckland, and a Preceptory of a Master and several brethren continued here till the Dissolution,[i] when the estate belonging to it was valued at 65*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* per annum as Dugdale and Speed; and 69*l.* 4*s.* 9*d.* MS. Val. It was granted 35th Hen. VIII. to Sir Richard Gresham and Sir Richard Southwell.

11. Chippenham, in Cambridgeshire. William de Mandeville Earl of Essex gave, A.D. 1184, the manor of Chippenham to the Knights Hospitalars, and so it became a Preceptory subordinate to their House in London, and was used for their sick brethren, often removed hither for country air. In the valuation of Carbrooke, the Jerusalem estate here, and in the neighbouring towns, is reckoned at 33*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*; which was granted, 32 Hen. VIII., to Sir Edward North.[k]

12. Temple Comb, in Somersetshire. Serlo Fitz Odo, before the year 1185, gave this village to the Knights Hospitalars, whereupon it became a Preceptory of their Order,[l] with lands annexed to it valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 107*l.* 16*s.* 11*d.* per annum as Dugdale and Speed, and 128*l.* 7*s.* 9*d.* as MS. Le Neve. The Site was granted 34th Hen. VIII. to Richard Andrews and Leonard Chamberleyn.

13. Temple Cowley, or Sandford, in Oxfordshire. The good Queen Maud, says Tanner, wife to King Stephen, gave the manor of Temple Covele, or Cowley, in this county, to the Knights Templars, who made it a House of their Order, and placed a Preceptor there, who was afterwards removed to Sanford; which manor these Knights got possessed of by the bounty of Sir Thomas Saundford, knt. (temp. Ric. I. vel Joan.[m]) and soon after fixed here, as upon their Dissolution did the Knights Hospitalars, this being the chief residence of a Preceptor and Brethren who had under their management most of the estates in Oxfordshire, Berkshire, Wiltshire, &c. belonging to that Order. This House was granted 33d Hen. VIII. to Edward Powell. Cowley, appears to have had the privilege of a Sanctuary.[n]

14. Temple Cressing, in Essex, was at first a Preceptory of the Knights Templars, to whom the manor was given by King Stephen about A.D. 1150. (See App. Num. XXI.) It came afterwards to the Hospitalars, and, as part of their possessions, this manor of Cressing and the

[m] Tanner says, "The learned Mr. Hearne makes this grant in King Stephen's time; but I choose rather to put it thus late, because William Mareschall Earl Pembroke (who was not so till 1 Ric. I.) is witness to one of Thomas de Sanford's grants, and the confirmations of his next heirs are Temp. Hen, III." Two Deeds relating to the manor of Sandford will be found Numm. XXXIX. XL., with Queen Maud's charter and King Stephen's confirmation, Numm. XLI. XLII.

[n] Leland in his Itinerary, vol. vi. p. 18, says, "Old Stafford of Northamptonshir, father to Sir Humfrey Stafford was sonne to Stafford that bare such a route in Worcestershire in King Edward the IVth and Richard the III. dayes; and at laste for fere of Henry the VIIth flede to Cowle, a certain obscure Sanctuarie betwixt Oxford and Abingdon. This Staffordes landes wher attaintid, and partily given away; but at the last his heirs found sum grace."

Half-Hundred of Witham were granted, 33 Hen. VIIIth, to Sir W. Huse, Knight.[a]

15. Dalby, in Leicestershire, was, from the first, a Preceptory of the Knights Hospitalars, founded, as Tanner presumed, by Robert de Bossu Earl of Leicester, in the earlier part of the reign of King Henry the Second.[b] Tanner says, the revenues belonging to it amounted to 91*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.* per annum MS. Valor, to 103*l.* 16*s.* 7½*d.* Burton. It was granted to Sir Andrew Nowell, or Noel, 35th Hen. VIII.[c]

16. Dingley, in Northamptonshire, was a Preceptory belonging to the Knights Hospitalars as early as the reign of Stephen. It had lands belonging to it, valued 26 Hen. VIII. at 108*l.* 13*s.* 5½*d.* per annum; and was granted 35th Hen. VIII. to Edward Griffith.

17. Dynmore, in Herefordshire. "There standeth a little by west of the very toppe of Dinemore Hill," says Leland, "on the left hand as I roade, a Commandry with a fayre Place that belonged to the Order of the Knights of St. John of Hierusalem in London." Tanner says, It was given to the Hospitalars by one Sir Thomas................, a brother of the Order, temp. Hen. II. After the Dissolution this House was granted 2 Edw. VI. to Sir Thomas Palmer, and, upon his attainder, to Jane Russel, 1st Mary. Tanner refers to a Survey of the lands belonging to the Preceptory of Dynmore in the possession of the right hon. the Earl Coningsby.

18. Temple Dynnesley, Hertfordshire. Bernard de Baliol, says Tanner, temp. R. Steph. gave several lands in Wedele, Preston, and other hamlets belonging to Hitchin,[d] to the Knights Templars, whereupon this place became a Preceptory of that Order, and afterward of the Hospitalars, who enjoyed it till the Dissolution by K. Henry VIII., from whom, anno regni 33, Sir Ralph Sadler obtained a grant of this House and manor.[e]

19. Egle, or Aquilæ Ballivatus, in Lincolnshire, was a Commandry of the Templars, who had the manor here by the gift of King Stephen.[f] It afterwards came to the Hospitalars, and, upon their dissolution, 33 Hen. VIII., was granted to Thomas Earl of Rutland and Robert Tirwhit. It was valued at 124*l.* 2*s.* per annum Dugd. Speed. Or as in a MS. Valor 144*l.* 18*s.* 10*d.*[g]

20. Gislingham, in Suffolk. Several lands in this town having been given to the Knights Templars by Sir Robert de Burgate, knt., at an early period,[h] a House or Preceptory of that Order was established here at least as early as the 34th Edw. I. Afterwards it came to the Hospitalars. Temple-Close, and other lands and tenements in Gislingham, late belonging to St. John of Jerusalem, were granted, 7th Edw. VI. to John Grene and Robert Hall.[i]

21. Godesfield, in Hampshire. Henry de Blois bishop of Winchester gave this place to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem,[k] whereupon it became an Hospital or Preceptory of that Order. Tanner says, This was probably afterwards annexed to Baddesley; for 21 Ric. II. the Chartulary of Godesfeld, Badeslegh, and Ruggenham, was renewed by W. Hulles preceptor of Badesley, as MSS. in bibl. Harleiana, 6602, 6603.

22. Gosford, in the parish of Kidlington in Oxfordshire. Here, says Tanner, seems to have been a House of Sisters of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, who were removed, about A.D. 1180, to Buckland in Somersetshire. This estate was given to them by Robert D'Oiley and Henry his son,[l] and continued in the hands of the Hospitalars (who built an Oratory or Chapel here about A.D. 1234)[m] till the Dissolution. It was granted 34 Hen. VIII. to Anthony Stringer and John Williams.

23. Halston, or Hawston, in Norfolk, was a Preceptory which belonged first to the Knights Templars, and afterwards to the Hospitalars. It was dedicated to the blessed Virgin Mary, and valued, 26 Hen. VIII. at 160*l.* 14*s.* 10*d.* per annum. This House, with its possessions, one of the old estates, was regranted to the Prior and Brethren of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, 4 and 5 Phil et Mar. and 5 Eliz., to one William Horne.

24. Hampton, in Middlesex. The manor here was given to the Knights Hospitalars by the lady Joan, relict of Sir Robert Gray, knt.[n] And here appears to have been a House for some sisters of that Order before they were all removed to Buckland, A.D. 1180.[o]

25. Hether, in Leicestershire. Here was a House and Lands belonging to the Knights Hospitalars[p] by the gift of Ralph de Griseley,[q] before the first year of King John, which sometimes had a distinct Preceptor, and sometimes was accounted part of the Preceptory of Dalby; and as parcel of that, it was granted 7th Edw. VI. to Oliver St. John and Robert Thornton. Tanner says, "I have seen a manuscript Valuation of the Preceptory of Hether about the time of the Dissolution, amounting to 39*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.* per annum."[r]

26. Hogshaw, in Buckinghamshire. This was a Preceptory,[s] Commandry,[t] or Hospital,[u] belonging to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem as ancient as the reign of King Henry the Second, A.D. 1180.[x] It was granted 35th Hen. VIII. to Matilda Lane.[y] The manor of Hogshaw had been originally given by Ralph Mallet to the Knights Templars.

27. Maltby near Lowth, in Lincolnshire. This was at first a Preceptory of the Templars; and after granted to the Hospitalars. Randal Earl of Chester was the first donor.[z] It was granted 33 Hen. VIII. to Charles Duke of Suffolk.[a]

28. Little Maplestead, in Essex. Tanner says, in the Notitia Monastica, "Juliana, daughter and heiress of Robert Dorsnell, and wife of William Fitz-Aldelm de Burgo, circa temp. Hen. I. gave this whole parish to the Knights Hospitalars, and so it became a Preceptory of that Order, and at the Dissolution was granted to George Harper, Esq."[b] In a Note, Tanner adds, "This Preceptory is placed here on the authority of Mr. Morant, who,

[b] Tanner says, "Though the manor here was not given to the Hospitalars by Robert Bossu, as Mr. Burton saith, because it is evident from the Monasticon (see p. 836.) and the Patent Roll, that Sir John Waleis, 26 Edw. III. gave it in exchange for Thrumpton in Nottinghamshire; but they had the Church here appropriated ab antiquo, as saith the Matricule of 1220."

after reciting the grant of Lady Juliana to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, immediately adds it became a Preceptory of Templars, confounding in this as in other places of his History the two Orders: that here was a Preceptory is certain from the names of the Masters inserted by him from a MS. relating to this manor, and it must have belonged to the Hospitalars, to whom the grant was originally made."[a]

The Church of Little Maplestead is one of our Round Churches, said to have been built in resemblance of form to that of the Holy Sepulchre at Jerusalem. It is also traditionally said to have had the privilege of Sanctuary.

29. Mayne, or Fryer-Mayne, in Dorsetshire. Here, also, was a Preceptory of the Knights Hospitalars, restored to them upon the re-foundation of their Priory in the 4th and 5th of Philip and Mary, but granted 6th Eliz. to William Pole and Edward Downing.[b]

30. Melchburn, in Bedfordshire. The Lady Alice, or Adelize, de Claremonte[c] Countess of Pembroke, says Tanner (and as in one place[d] Roger Earl of Clare), gave temp. Hen. I. the manor and church here to the Knights Hospitalars of St. John of Jerusalem, and so here was settled a Preceptory,[e] which had lands belonging to it valued at 241*l.* 9*s.* 10½*d.*[f] This House was, upon the refounding of the Order, 4 and 5 Phil. et Mar. again made part of the endowment of it, and 3 Edw. VI. was granted to John Earl of Bedford.

Leland, in one of the imperfect parts of his Itinerary, speaking of Melchburn, says, "Here is a right fair Place of square stone, standing much apon pillered vaultes of stone, and there be goodly Gardeins, Orchards, and Ponds, and a Parke thereby." The Place itself, he adds, is an ancient building, but the Hall was rebuilt by the Lord Prior Weston, the third before the last Lord Weston; probably in the reign of Edward the Fourth. The Site has now been for many years in the noble family of St. John, who since they have forsaken Bletsoe have made it their chief residence.

31. Mere, in Lincolnshire. Here, says Tanner, seems to have been a House of Templars, and afterwards of Hospitalars, to which Swane le Rich and Sir William Vileyn were great benefactors in the reigns of King Henry the Second and King Richard the First.[g] In a note subjoined, he quæries whether this House was not dependent upon the House of the Hospitalars at Egle, or, before the Dissolution, annexed to it: for the manor of Mere, and all the messuages and lands belonging to it, was granted, 38th Hen. VIII., as part of the Preceptory at Egle, to John Bello and John Broxholm.[h]

32. Mount St. John,[i] in the deanry of Bulmer and archdeaconry of Cleveland, in Yorkshire. Tanner says, "In the beginning of the reign of King Henry the First, William Percy the first, called Algernoon, gave the Knights Hospitalars of St. John of Jerusalem lands hereabout to the amount of five knights' fees,[k] and thereupon a Preceptory of that Order was established here,[l] dedicated to St. Mary, and endowed, 26 Hen. VIII., with 137*l.* 2*s.* per annum in the whole, and 102*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.* clear. It was granted in exchange to the archbishop of York 34th Hen. VIIIth.[m]

33. Newland, in the deanry of Pontefract, in Yorkshire. The manor of Newland being given to the Knights Hospitalars by King John,[n] they established here a Preceptory of their Order, to which in the next reign Roger le Peytevin lord of Altofts was a great benefactor.[o] It was valued, 26 Hen. VIIIth, at 129*l.* 14*s.* 11½*d.* per annum as Dugdale, at 223*l.* 19*s.* 7½*d.* as Le Neve's MS., and at 202*l.* 3*s.* 8*d.* as another manuscript Valor; and granted, 36 Hen. VIIIth. to Francis Jobson, Andrew Dudley, &c.[p]

34. Little, or West Peccham, in Kent. Tanner's is the best Account we have to offer of this House. He says, "Here was a Preceptory belonging to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, valued 26 Hen. VIIIth at 63*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* per annum as Dugdale and Speed, or 60*l.* as Le Neve's MS.; and the manor, as parcel of the possessions of that Order, was granted from the Crown to Sir Robert Southwell, 33 Hen. VIII. It is more uncertain by whom and when it was given; Mr. Philpot saith it was founded by John Colepepper for the Templars before the Dissolution 1 Edw. II. and that after it came with the rest of their lands to the Hospitalars. Mr. Speed, and Weever say, that the founder was the same with John Colepepper, who was one of the Justices of the Common Pleas in the time of King Henry the Fourth. It might probably be a late donation, because not mentioned in the Account of the Templars' and Hospitalars' lands in the Monasticon."[q]

35. Pooling, in Sussex. A Preceptory of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem here was granted to the College of Arundel, 33 Hen. VIIIth.[r]

36. Queinington, in Gloucestershire. The manor of Queinington, upon which a Preceptory was afterwards established, was given by Agnes de Lasceo, or Lacy, and her daughter Sibylla, before 1 Joan.[s] It was valued 26 Hen. VIIIth at 209*l.* 16*s.*, MS. Le Neve; at 137*l.* 7*s.* 1½*d.* per annum, Dugdale and Speed; but in bishop Tanner's MS. Valor at 25*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.* only; and granted, 37 Hen. VIII., first to Sir Richard Morisine, and then to Sir Anthony Kingston.[t]

37. Ribstane, in the West Riding of Yorkshire. This manor, says Tanner, was given to the Knights Templars by Robert Lord Ross the second, or Furfan,[u] in the latter end of the reign of King Richard the First, or the beginning of that of King John,[x] whereupon it became a Commandry of that Order; and after their suppression it became part of the possessions of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, who had estates hereabouts, under the inspection of this Preceptor, to the yearly value of 207*l.* 9*s.* 7*d.* as Dugdale, and 265*l.* 9*s.* 6½*d.* as MS. Le Neve.[y] It was granted, 33 Hen. VIII. to Charles Duke of Suffolk.[z]

38. Temple Rockley, in Wiltshire. John Marescall gave a hide of land here to the Knights Templars 2 Hen. II., who sent some of their fraternity hither,[a] and made it a Preceptory. It came afterwards to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, and was assigned toward the maintenance of their House at Saunford, in Oxfordshire. This manor was granted, 32 Hen. VIII., to Sir Edward Bainton and Isabel his wife.[b]

Third gave the manor and church of this place to the Knights Templars, who settled a Commandry of their Order here, which, with other their lands, came afterwards to the Knights Hospitalars,[a] who enjoyed them till the general Dissolution, about which time this Preceptory was valued at 87*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* per annum, MS. Valor; but in Dugdale this is jointly valued with Dalby and Hether at 231*l.* 7*s.* 10*d.* per annum. Rotheley was granted, 35 Hen. VIII. to Henry Cartwright.[b]

40. Shengay, in Cambridgeshire. This was a Preceptory of Knights Hospitalars of St. John of Jerusalem, given to that Order by Sibylla de Raynes, daughter of Roger Earl of Montgomery, A.D. 1140.[c] It was worth, at the Suppression, 171*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.* per annum, Dugd. 175*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.* Speed; and was granted, 32 Hen. VIII., to Richard Longe.[d]

41. Skirbeke, in Lincolnshire. Here was an old Hospital, says Tanner, for ten poor people, dedicated to St. Leonard, which being given with the manor, A.D. 1230, to the Knights Hospitalars by Sir Thomas Multon, knt. some of that Order, shortly after, settled here. The Hospital was thereupon called St. John Baptist's, and temp. Edw. II. was returned to be endowed with lands sufficient to maintain three priests here, and one at Flete, and to sustain twenty poor people in the Infirmitory of the House, and to relieve forty more every day at the gate. It was granted as parcel of the Preceptory of Malteby, 33 Hen. VIII., to Charles Duke of Suffolk.[e]

42. Slebach, in Pembrokeshire. Wizo and Walter his son having given lands here to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, for the recovery of the Holy Land, a Preceptory of their Order was settled here before A.D. 1301,[f] which was endowed at the Dissolution with 211*l.* 9*s.* 11½*d.* per annum in the whole, and 184*l.* 10*s.* 11½*d.* clear; and was granted, among other possessions in Pembrokeshire, to Roger and Thomas Barlow.[g]

43. Standon, in Hertfordshire. Gilbert de Clare having given the Church of Standon, with one hundred and forty acres of land and his vineyard, to the Knights Hospitalars, temp. R. Steph. here was a Preceptory or place of residence for some of the sisters of that Order, till they were all put together at Buckland in Somersetshire, A.D. 1180.[h] The manor, rectory, and advowson of the vicarage of Standon, as parcel of the possessions of St. John of Jerusalem, were granted, 36 Hen. VIII., to Sir Ralph Sadler.[i]

44. Sutton at Hone, in Kent. Tanner, speaking of the Hospital here founded in the time of Richard the First or John, says, About this time or a little before, Robert Basinge gave the manor here to the Knights Hospitalars,[k] who made it a Commandry, the house being yet called St. John's.[l]

45. Swinford, in Leicestershire. The Church and other lands in this town being given to the Hospitalars before the first of King John by Robert Rivell,[m] here was settled a small House or Preceptory of that Order.[n]

46. Swingfield, in Kent. At a place called Swinfeld was a House of the sisters of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem before they were all placed together at Buckland, A.D. 1180.[o] Whether this was that Swinfeld is uncertain; but here was certainly a Preceptory of Knights Templars before A.D. 1190, to which Sir Waresius de Valoniis, Sir Robert de Clotingham, Arnulf Kade, and others were great benefactors.[p] It became afterwards part of the possessions of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, and as such was valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 111*l.* 12*s.* 8*d.* as a MS. Valor of Mr. Le Neve's; but at 87*l.* 3*s.* 3½*d.* as Dugd. and Speed. It was granted, 33 Hen. VIII., to Sir Anth. Aucher.[q]

47. Trebigh or Turbigh, in Cornwall. Tanner calls this a Preceptory of Knights Hospitalars, to which Henry de Pomerai and Reginald Marsh were considerable benefactors.[r] It was valued at 60*l.* per annum, MS. Le Neve; but this, with Ansty in Wilts, was valued, 26 Hen. VIII., at 90*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.* in the whole, and 81*l.* 8*s.* 5*d.* clear, MS. Valor in Off. Primit. This among other possessions of the old Knights, then undisposed of, was regranted to the Hospitalars upon their restoration, 4 and 5 Phil. et Mar., and after their dissolution, 16 Eliz. to Henry Wilby and George Blyth.[s]

48. Waingrif, near Rippele, in Derbyshire. Land here was given by Ralph Fitz Stephen to the Knights Hospitalars, for a House of that Order to be here built.[t]

49. Warwick, in Warwickshire. Roger Earl of Warwick is said to have founded here the House of Templars beyond the Bridge, temp. R. Hen. I.[u] or R. Steph., which was certified 9 Edw. II. to be of the yearly value of 14*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* And after the dissolution of that Order, became part of the Preceptory of Balshall in this county, belonging to the Knights Hospitalars. Leland in his Itinerary says, "There is a Chappell of St. John in the Bridge-end suburbe, that belonged to the Prior of St. John's in London. The landes of this came to the Commandery of Balleshall by Warwike."[x]

50. Great Wilburgham, in Cambridgeshire. The Church here, says Tanner, like that of Wendy in this county, was originally given to the Monks of Ely, residing at Denny Cell; but they, upon some consideration, made it over to the Knights Templars, who having here two mesuages, a hundred and twenty acres of land, and other lands and rents of the gift of William Loveday, Peter de Malo Alneto, and others, fixed a habitation here for some of their Order.[y] But this, with their other estates, came into the possession of the Knights Hospitalars. A Register of the lands of this Preceptory is preserved in the Cottonian Manuscript Nero C. ix. art. 4.[z]

51. Wileketone, in Lincolnshire. Roger de Buslei and Simon de Canci, temp. R. Steph., gave the moiety of the Church here, and the greatest part of the Town, to the Knights Templars, from whom it came afterwards to the Hospitalars; and here was a Preceptory of that Order, valued, 26th Hen. VIIIth, at 174*l.* 11*s.* 1½*d.* per annum, as Dugd. and Speed; and at 209*l.* 19*s.* 8*d.* as Le Neve's

52. Witham, or South Wytham, in Lincolnshire. Here was a Preceptory of Knights Templars, as ancient as A.D. 1164,[b] to which Margaret de Perci and Hubert de Ria were great benefactors, if not founders. It came afterwards to the Hospitalars; and, as part of their possessions, the lands called Great Temple, in South Witham, Lincolnshire, were granted, 5 Eliz., to Stephen Holford.

53. Yeveley, alias Stede, in Derbyshire. Ralph le Fun, temp. Ric. I., gave the Hermitage here, with the lands, &c. thereunto belonging, to the Knights Hospitalars, whereupon it became a Preceptory to that Order,[c] to which Sir William Meynill lord of the town was a great benefactor, A.D. 1268.[d] It was dedicated to St. Mary and St. John Baptist;[e] and the estates belonging to this House and to Barow in Cheshire were worth 93*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* per ann. Dugd. 107*l.* 3*s.* 8½*d.* total.[f] This Preceptory was granted 35 Hen. VIII. to Charles Lord Montjoy.[g]

The Messrs. Lysons, in their Magna Britannia for Berkshire, vol. i. p. 387, mention Greenham in the parish of Thatcham as a Preceptory for Knights Hospitalars. But the present Editors know no more of this foundation.

KNIGHTS TEMPLARS

TANNER says, "The KNIGHTS TEMPLARS were instituted A.D. 1118,[a] and were so called from having their first residence in some rooms adjoining to the Temple at Jerusalem. Their business also was to guard the roads for the security of Pilgrims in the Holy Land, and their rule that of Canons regular of St. Austin; their habit was white, with a red cross on their left shoulder.[b] THEIR COMING INTO ENGLAND was probably pretty early in the reign of King Stephen,[c] and their first seat in HOLBORNE. They increased very fast, and in a little time obtained very large possessions.[d] But in less than two hundred years, their wealth and power was thought too great, they were accused of horrid crimes, and thereupon every where imprisoned; their estates were seized; their Order suppressed by Pope Clement Vth, A.D. 1309, and totally abolished by the Council of Vienna A.D. 1312.[e] The Superior of this Order in England was styled Master of the Temple, and was often summoned to Parliament."[f]

"PRECEPTORIES were manors or estates of the Knights Templars, where, erecting churches for the service of God and convenient Houses, they placed some of their fraternity under the government of one of those more eminent Templars, who had been by the Grand Master created "Præceptores Templi," to take care of the lands and rents in that place and neighbourhood, and so were only Cells to the principal House at London."[g]

[b] The Templars are called Red-friers in Spotswood, p. 51, where there is an account of their dissolution, the supposed occasion of it, and their reputed innocence.

[d] See their large rental of lands in England, A.D. 1185, in a subsequent page. In A.D. 1244, Mat. Paris says, p. 544, that they had nine thousand manors in Christendom; and at their suppression they had (according to Heylin's Cosmogr.) sixteen thousand lordships, besides other lands. See Rapin, fol. vol. i. p. 403.

Adhuc, de prima eorundem Institutione.

Ex historia Antiochena lib. 12. cap. 7. circa annum Domini mcxx. quidam milites probi homines, habentes voluntatem et propositum, pro toto tempore vitæ suæ, remanendi in servicio Dei, et ducendi vitam communem, ad modum Regularium Canonicorum, in manu patriarchæ, castitatem et obedientiam veraciter voverunt, et omni proprietati renunciaverunt. Illi autem qui istud plus tenuerunt, et ad hoc idem faciendum alios excitaverunt, fuerunt duo milites, quorum unus dicebatur Hugo de Paiens de le Troies; alius vocabatur Gaufridus de S. Omero. Et quia non habebant ecclesiam, nec certam domum ubi poterant vivere per se, rex Jerusalem concessit eis quantum volebant; scil. unum habitaculum in domibus palacii, quod habebant juxta Templum Domini. Canonici verò Templi tradiderunt eis unam aream, quam habebant juxta palacium, ad emendationem Hospitalis sui, et ad construendum officinas gentibus religiosis necessarias. Rex autem et barones, patriarcha ac cæteri prælati ecclesiæ dederunt eis, de suis dominicalibus, redditus pro victu eorum et vestitu; aliqua pro tempore, aliqua pro semper.

Primum onus quod eis erat injunctum, in remissionem peccatorum suorum, per patriarcham, fuit, quod vias, per quas venirent peregrini, custodirent à latronibus et prædonibus, qui multa mala facere consueverunt. Per novem annos morabantur sic in habitu seculari, et habebant tales robas, quales milites et alii boni homines dabant eis ob amorem Dei. Deindè nono anno factum est concilium in Franciâ, infra civitatem de Trecas, ibi convenerunt episcopus de Rayns, archiepiscopus de Sanz, cum omnibus suis episcopis; episcopus Albanensis, qui erat legatus papæ; abbas Cisterciensis; abbas Clarevallensis, et multi alii religiosi; et ibi fuit ordo stabilitus, et regula dabatur eis ad vivendum sicut homines religiosi; et fuit ordinatum et præceptum, auctoritate domini Honorii secundi et per patriarcham Jerusalem, quod habitus eorum foret albus.

Ille ordo duraverat jam per novem annos, ut jam dixi; nec erat adhuc præterquam novem fratres, qui vivebant cotidie de elemosinis aliorum. Ab illo tempore cœpit augeri eorum numerus, et dabantur eis tenementa et redditus. Tempore verò Eugenii tertii papæ, præceptum erat, quod suerentur cruces in capis et mantellis eorum, de panno rubeo, ut essent noti inter alios. Sic fecerunt milites et minores fratres, qui vocabantur Clientes, id est Serjeans. Ab illo tempore sic creverunt eorum possessiones, quod vix poterat inveniri provincia citra mare, vel ultra terram Christianorum, ubi ordo ille non haberet possessiones et mansiones; et fratres in magno numero. Primò fuerunt hospitati juxta Templum, et ideo vocati sunt Milites de Milicia Templi.

In principio gerebant se sapienter et humiliter valdè, secundùm professionem suam, qui propter Deum seculum dimiserant. Sed postea quando divitiæ eorum creverunt, videbantur propositum suum oblivisci, et in magnâ superbiâ sunt erecti, ita quod primò à patriarchâ Jerusalem se subtraxerunt; et quia nullam potestatem haberet super eos, procuraverunt à summo pontifice, cum tum ipse patriarcha in principio stabilierat et fundaverat eos de ipsis bonis ecclesiæ suæ. Ab aliis insuper religiosis atque ecclesiis, à quibus multas et pulcras receperunt elemosinas, incœperunt decimas atque primicias et cæteros redditus, quos habebant, auferre. Alios etiam vicinos suos turbabant, et multipliciter gravabant.

Anno Domini MCXVIII.—Hoc etiam tempore Ordo Templariorum, ex militibus congregatus, in Jerusalem incœpit; et dicti sunt Milites Templi, quia in porticu Templi sedem sui ordinis statuerunt. Hii nempè, secundùm quosdam, ex infimis Hospitaliorum congregati, et ex reliquiis eorum in cibis et armis sustentati, ad tantam rerum opulentiam devenerunt, ut filia ditata matrem suffocare et supergredi videretur. Quorum ordo postea, tempore regis Edwardi secundi, post conquestum, in concilio generali, sub papâ Clemente quinto, apud Viennam, anno Domini MCCCXII. celebrato, dampnatus est.

Anno Domini MCXIX.—Circa hos dies Ordo Templariorum incœpit. Hii nempe congregati ex reliquiis Hospitaliorum, sedem sibi statuerunt in porticu Templi Jerosolymitani, quâ de re vocati sunt Milites Templi. Qui ex reliquiis Hospitalariorum, in cibis et armis sustentati, ad tantam rerum opulentiam devenerunt, ut filiæ ditatæ matrem supergredi viderentur et suffocare. Qui tandem ob ignominiosam apostasiam, et in Christum blasphemiam, circa annum gratiæ MCCCXII. sub papâ Clemente quinto, deleti sunt.

Anno Domini MCCXL.—Tempore quoque sub eodem dedicata est nobilis ecclesia, structuræ aspectabilis Novi Templi Londinensis, præsente rege, et multis regni magnatibus; qui eodem die, scil. die Ascensionis, completis dedicationis solemniis, convivium in mensâ nimis lautè celebrârunt, sumptibus Hospitalariorum.

Anno Domini MCXLVII.—Hoc anno Conradus imperator Alemanniæ, et Ludovicus rex Franciæ, unà cum regina sua Alianora, et Theodoricus comes Flandriæ, multique nobiles, et ignobiles Franci et Angl. Norm. et Britones, sed et multarum regionum viri, peregrè profecti sunt Hierusalem ad debellandum paganos, qui non modicam sanctæ terræ illius occupaverant quantitatem; sed Christiani multis laboribus vexati, expensis perditis, nullum vel modicum, hac vice, reportaverunt triumphum: nam propriâ temeritate, et Saracenæ gentis industriâ, ferè, ad nichilum deducti sunt. Rex autem Franciæ Ludovicus, cum non modico exercitu, qui per terram venerant, obsedit Damascum, et ferè ad deditionem coegit, interfectis de gente paganâ, qui egressi fuerant ad pugnandum contra Christianos, ferè decem milibus. Cum autem civitas Christianis reddenda esset, accesserunt Templarii, dicentes se primam habituros pugnam, ut omnes deinde in communi victoriam obtinerent: statuerunt itaque tentoria sua, inter civitatem et excercitum Christianorum, et cum hiis, qui erant in civitate, paganis proditionis pactum inierunt: cives igitur eorum agnoscentes cupiditatem, promiserunt eis tres cados plenos bisantiis aureis, si eos ab obsidione liberarent; delusi itaque Christiani per Milites Templi, à Damasco recesserunt: post modicum verò, cum Templarii promissos à civibus recepissent cados; in eisdem non nummos aureos, sed cupreos invenerunt, miraculoque ascripserunt.

Anno Domini MCCCVII. anno regni regis Edwardi secundi primo, literâ dominicali A, lunâ currente per XVI. die Mercurii proximâ post festum Epiphaniæ, quarto scil. anno papæ Johannis, capti sunt omnes fratres de Milicia Templi, per mandatum regis, per bullam papæ; et incarcerati universaliter in Angliâ et Franciâ, et in totâ Christianitate, propter enormitatem professionis suæ, et alia superstitiosa, quæ profana gerebant inter eos in religione, super quibus convicti fuerunt in concilio Londoniis super hoc celebrato; et fuerunt omnia bona eorum, terræ, et tenementa seisita in manu regis, in Angliâ.

Temple, London.

TANNER says, "The Order of Brethren of the Temple of Solomon at Hierusalem, commonly called Templars or Knights of the Temple (which began in the year 1118), being spread over the western parts of Christendom, and having several manors and estates given them in several counties in England in King Stephen's time, it is not improbable that in the beginning of his reign they were settled in the chief House of their Order in England, viz. The Old Temple without Holborn Bars, on the south side of the street near Southampton Buldings. Here they continued till 1185, when was finished a more commodious habitation for them at the west end of Fleet Street, which was called the New Temple,[a] where they flourished in great wealth and honour under the government of a Master, who was head of all the Preceptories and Houses of these Knights in England, but he himself subject to the grand Master of the Order. This whole Religion (as it was called), or Order, was, by the contrivance chiefly of Pope Clement Vth and Philip king of France, extirpated all over Europe about the year 1312. Among the greatest part of their lands, this their House in London (after it had been for some time in possession of the Earl of Pembroke and of Hugh Despenser, junior) was granted to the Knights Hospitalars of St. John of Jerusalem, who leased the same to the Students of the Common Law, in whose use it still continues, though divided into Two Inns of Court, viz. the Inner Temple and the Middle Temple."

Tanner has given a large collection of references to Books, Manuscripts, and Records, concerning the Temple, to which the Reader must have recourse.

The following PRECEPTORIES of the TEMPLARS having afterwards passed to the Hospitalars, have already been disposed of in the Account of the possessions of that Fraternity; viz. Aslakeby, Temple Bruern, Egle, Malteby, Mere, Wileketone, and Witham in Lincolnshire; South Badeisley, in Hampshire; Balshall, in Warwickshire; Temple Cressing, in Essex; Temple Dynnesley, in Hertfordshire; Giselingham, in Suffolk; Halston, in Shropshire; Ribstane, in Yorkshire; Rotheley, in Leicestershire; Swingfield, near Dover, in Kent; Warwick, in Warwickshire; and Wilburgham Magna, in Cambridgeshire. North Feriby in Yorkshire, which at first belonged to the Templars, afterwards became a House of Austin Canons.

There were four Houses of the Templars, however, Hadescoe, in Norfolk, Temple Hurst and Temple Newsom in Yorkshire, and Sadlescomb in Sussex, which appear not to have been granted to or connccted with the Hospitalars.

Hadescoe, in Norfolk. Thi Preceptory was situated in the Hundred of Clavering, the Deanry of Brooke, and Archdeaconry of Norfolk. The founder and date are unknown: but King Henry the Third was a considerable benefactor to it. The first notice which Mr. Taylor met with of this House was dated A.D. 1218. In the 14th Edw. 1st, A.D. 1285, the Preceptor of the Templars here set up crosses on all the Houses belonging to the Order in Hadescoe and Siseland. The Order having been abolished, the possessions of the Preceptory here, in 1326, were in the custody of Thomas de St. Omer, sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk, who transferred them to Henry de Segrave, his successor in office. How they were disposed of afterwards does not appear.[b]

Temple Hurste, in Yorkshire; in the Deanry of Ainsty and Archdeaconry of West Riding. The manor here, previous to the establishment of a Preceptory, was given to the Knights Templars by Ralph de Hastings, A.D. 1152.[c] After their Dissolution this estate went not to the Hospitalars, but to the Lord Darcy.[d]

Temple Newsom, in Yorkshire. William de Vilers giving this and some other estates hereabouts to the Knights Templars before A.D. 1181,[e] a Preceptory was soon founded here, the site and lands of which were granted by King Edward the Third after the suppression of the Order, together with Temple Hurste, to Sir John Darcy, Lord Darcy.[f]

Sadlescomb, in Sussex. In the latter part of the reign of King John, says Tanner, or the beginning of that of King Henry the Third, Jeffery Say, the son of Jeffery, gave his manor of Sadlescomb to the Knights Templars in exchange for the manor of West Greenwich, which had been given to them by his father;[g] and a Preceptory for that Order was thereupon here founded. It is plain from a Deed in Madox's Formulare Anglicanum, p. 136, that this Preceptory was in being in the reign of Henry III. Tanner refers to "Plac. de banco, 9 Hen. III. Mich. rot. 28. Prior Hospitalis Jerusalem recuperavit advoc. Eccl. de Saddlescomb versus Rob. asac."

Dunwich, in Suffolk, had also a House of Templars. Tanner says, it is frequently mentioned in the old Will-Books; but sometimes called "Templum Beatæ Mariæ et S. Joannis;" and once "Hospitale beatæ Mariæ et S. Joannis vocat. Le Tempil." He conjectures that this House passed afterwards to the Knights Hospitalars; since, as parcel of St. John of Jerusalem, the manor of Temple in Dunwich was granted 4th Eliz. to Thomas Andrews.

[a] Gough, in his Additions to Camden, Britan. edit. 1789, vol. ii. p. 19, says,

"The Church, built at the same time with the original religious house, was dedicated, 1185, to the Virgin Mary by Heraclius, Patriarch of the church of the Holy Resurrection at Jerusalem, by which I suppose is meant the Holy Sepulchre. In imitation of that Eastern church this is supposed to have been built of a round form, a form common to most of the churches belonging to the Preceptories of this Order among us, and of which we have instances still remaining at Northampton, Cambridge, &c. The body of that at Temple Bruer, in Lincolnshire, was lately standing, of the same form, but the old tower was square: and I am informed, one at Aslackby in the same county, of the same form, and entire, is now made into a dwelling house.

"The church in London had a Master, and four stipendiary Priests, with a clerk, who had, in Stowe's time, stipends allowed them out of the revenues of the Hospital of St. John at Jerusalem, as it had been in the reign of Edward VI. Ever since the reign of Hen. VIII the appointment of the Master has been in the gift of the crown; and he is paid partly by the King and partly by the Society.

"From the present style as well as form of the western part of the Church, one may fairly conclude it to be of great antiqnity. It is a complete Rotunda, divided into three stories; the lower has six pointed arches resting on pillars composed of four others. This story has ailes with dental arches on the walls, and over them round windows corresponding with the principal arches. The middle story is adorned with interlaced arches, and in the upper are six single round arches, above which rises a plain wall supporting the roof. The west door is richly charged with ornaments in the Saxon style, of which order are also its pillars and capitals, and the pillars and arches which range round under the windows. This part (as well as the eastern, built in the reign of Hen. III.) escaped the fire of London."

Edwardus rex Angliæ secundus, anno regni sui xviii. in quodam parliamento tento apud Westm. de assensu prælatorum, comitum, baronum, et communitatis sui regni, ibidem existentium, statuit et ordinavit, quod omnia terræ, tenementa, dominia, feoda, advocationes ecclesiarum, et cætera bona quæcunque, quæ fuerunt Templariorum, tempore adnullationis ordinis eorum, de quibuscunque tenerentur, ordini Hospitalis S. Johannis Jerusalem et priori et fratribus ejusdem ordinis imperpetuum remanerent. Et notandum, quod ordo Templariorum incœpit anno Domini MCXXIII. et tempore regis Henrici primi. Et magister dicti ordinis, et quamplures ejusdem confratres capti fuerunt in regno Franciæ anno Domini MCCCVIII. Et anno dicti Domini MCCCXII. totus ille ordo deletus est per Clementem papam quintum, et tempore regis prædicti.

Ric. rex Angliæ secundus religionem Hospitalariorum habuit in amorem specialem. Nam ipse ad supplicationem fratris Roberti Halez, quondam prioris Hospitalis, cartam libertatum Hospitalariorum, in diversis libertatibus ampliavit. Hic etiam restitutionem omnium jocalium, ornamentorum ecclesiasticorum, et aliorum bonorum quorumcunque, quæ per insurrectionem comitatus Kanciæ, à domo de Clerkenwell, et alibi, felonicè furata fuerant; et per hoc, ipsi regi forisfacta, concessit.

Ipse etiam, una vice districtiùs inhibuit fratrem Robertum Halez prædictum, ac fratres Ricardum de Overton et Johannem Danyell, receptores responsium in prioratu, quod non transmitterent responsiones usque Rodum, nec aliquos alios census, quocunque nomine censerentur, sub forisfacturam vitæ et membrorum, et aliorum omnium, quæ forisfacere potuerunt; et hoc anno regni sui primo: sed postea, ut hujusmodi responsiones fratri Hildebrando Inge, receptori responsionum, anno regni sui xviii.

Edwardus rex Angliæ tertius licentiam dedit priori Hospitalis, quandam villam sive hamelettum construere, ac capellam de novo ædificare in honore S. Trinitatis, in Swinderby-more, pertinente præceptoriæ de Egle, et circa eandem villam domum ædificare, et placeas includere, &c.

Henricus rex Angliæ quartus ampliavit et pleniùs declaravit cartam, quam Henricus rex Angliæ progenitor suus concessit priorissæ et sororibus domus de Bukland; viz. quod ipsæ qualibet septimana imperpetuum caperent in parco suo de Pederton, tres carectatas buscæ, pro focali suo. Et postea inveniebatur quod prædictæ priorissa et sorores non erant capaces dictæ concessionis, eo quod sunt obedientiariæ priori Hospitalis S. Joh. Jerusalem in Anglia. Ideo custodes domini regis ibidem, dictam concessionem ipsas habere non permisit. Quare rex Henricus quartus prædictus, de gratia speciali, anno sui x. concessit pro salute animæ, ac Johannæ consortis suæ, necnon et Mariæ consortis suæ defunctæ, quod prior Hospitalis et succcessores sui imperpetuum, per se et servientes suos de Buckland, percipiant qualibet septimana, tres carectatas subbosci, infra parcum suum de Pederton; viz. Thorne, Allez, Mapel et Hasel, ad usum et proficuum dictarum priorissæ et sororum, et successarum suarum imperpetuum. Et quod quælibet carectata subbosci prædicti existat de tractu sex equorum; et quod ipsi prosternent, succident, et carient, ad voluntatem suam, subboscum prædictum, quolibet anno, à festo Annunciationis beatæ Mariæ usque festum Omnium Sanctorum, quod antea erat concessum eis à Pasca usque festum S. Petri ad vincula, absque impedimento, seu perturbatione aliquali officiariorum domini regis.

Henricus rex Angliæ quintus, fratri Willielmo Hulles, priori Hospitalis, dedit in mandatis, ut conventum fratrum ordinis sui constituerit in ecclesia de Clerkenwell, qui conventus antea erat personarum secularium, exceptis duobus, aut tribus fratribus, quasi ferè ab annis Edwardi tertii.

[Cart 11 Hen. III. m. 33. Vide etiam Cart. 9 Edw. I. n. 104.]

Rex, &c. archiepiscopis, &c. Noveritis nos concessisse et confirmasse Deo et beatæ Mariæ, et fratribus miliciæ Templi Salomonis, omnes rationabiles donationes terrarum, hominum, et elemosynarum, eis à prædecessoribus nostris, vel ab aliis in præterito, vel à nobis in præsenti, collatas, vel in futuro à regibus, vel ex aliorum liberalitate conferendas, vel alio modo adquisitas, vel adquirendas; tam in ecclesiis, quàm in rebus et possessionibus mundanis: Quare volumus et firmiter præcipimus, quod prædicti fratres et eorum homines omnes possessiones et elemosynas suas habeant et teneant, cum omnibus libertatibus et liberis consuetudinibus, et quietanciis suis, in bosco et plano, in pratis et pasturis, in aquis et molendinis, in viis et semitis, in stagnis et vivariis, in mariscis et piscariis, in grangiis et virgultis, infra burgum et extra, cum socca et sacca, et tol, et theam, et infangenethef, et unfangenethef, et hamsoca, et grithbrich, et blodwite, et fictwite, et flictwite, et ferdwite, et hengewite, et leirwite, et flemenefrith, murdro, latrocinio, forstall, ordel, oreste, infra tempus et extra tempus, et in omnibus locis, et cum omnibus causis, quæ sunt vel esse possunt.

Concedimus etiam imperpetuum, quod prædicti fratres quieti sint de auxiliis regum, vicecomitum, et omnium ministerialium eorum, et hidagio et carucagio, et danegeld, et hornegeld, et excercitibus et wapentachiis, et scutagiis, et tallagiis, lestagiis, stallagiis, siris et hundredis, placitis, et querelis, warda et wardpeni, et averpeni, et hundredespeni, et borethalpeni, et thethingepeni; et de operibus castellorum, parcorum, pontium, clausuris, et omni careio, et summagio, et navigio; et domuum regalium ædificatione; et omnimoda operatione. Et prohibemus ne bosci eorum ad prædicta opera vel ad aliqua alia ullo modo capiantur; et similiter bladum eorum vel hominum suorum, vel aliquid de rebus suis, vel hominum suorum ad castella munienda non capiantur. Volumus etiam, quod liberè et sufficienter, sine qualibet occasione, de omnibus boscis suis, ad usus domus suæ, quando voluerint; nec propter hoc in forisfacto de wasto vel miserecordia ponantur. Omnes quoque terras suas et essarta sua et hominum suorum, jam facta, et quæ in posterum fient, assensu regis, eis imperpetuum quieta clamamus de wasto et reguardo, et de visu forestariorum, et de omnibus aliis consuetudinibus. Concedimus etiam eisdem fratribus, quod de omnibus boscis, quos habent in præsenti, infra metas forestæ, possint exsartare et excolere, sine licentia nostra vel ballivorum nostrorum, ita quod indè in nullo à nobis vel hæredibus nostris vel ballivis nostris imperpetuum occasionentur.

Præcipimus etiam, quod ipsi fratres et homines sui, liberi sint et quieti ab omni theloneo, in omni foro et in omnibus nundinis, et in omni transitu poncium, viarum, et maris per totum regnum nostrum, et per omnes terras nostras, in quibus libertates eis dare possumus, et omnia mercata sua et hominum suorum sint similiter in prædictis locis ab omni theloneo quieti.

Concedimus etiam eis et confirmamus, quod si aliquis hominum suorum, pro delicto suo, vitam vel membrum debeat amittere, vel fugerit, et judicio stare noluerit, vel aliud delictum fecerit, pro quo debeat catalla sua perdere, ubicunque justicia fieri debeat, sive in curia nostra, sive in alia curia, ipsa catalla sint prædictorum fratrum; et liceat ipsis fratribus sine disturbatione vicecomitum, et omnium ballivorum nostrorum et aliorum, ponere se in seisinam de prædictis catallis in prædictis casibus et aliis, quando ballivi nostri, si ad nos pertinerent catalla illa, in manu nostra ea seisire possent, et deberent.

Insuper concedimus quod animalia, qui dicuntur waif, inventa in feodo Templariorum, sint ipsorum fratrum, nisi aliquis ea secutus fuerit, qui velit et possit probare quod sua sint et nisi fuerint infra terminos competentes secundùm consuetudinem patriæ, petita et secura. Et si aliquis tenentium prædictorum fratrum feodum suum forisfecerit, liceat ipsis fratribus ponere se in seisinam de ipso feodo, et ipsum feodum cum pertinentiis suis possidere, non obstante eo, quod nos consuevimus feoda fugitivorum et dampnatorum, per unum annum et unum diem, possidere. Similiter, si aliquis hominum suorum sit ammerciatus erga nos vel ballivos nostros, pro quacunque causa vel delicto, vel satisfacto merciæ, et merciamenta pecuniæ sint collecta, et in una bursa ad scaccarium nostrum portata, et prædictis fratribus sint ibidem liberata, servata regiæ potestati justicia mortis et membrorum.

Concedimus insuper eis, quod habeant aliqua libertatum contentarum in hac carta, per temporis diuturnitatem, quocunque casu contingente usi non fuerint: nihilominus tamen libertate eadem de cætero utantur, sine aliqua contradictione, non obstante eo, quod per temporis diuturnitatem ea usi non fuerint, sicut prædictum est. Hæc omnia prædicta, et omnia alia servicia secularia et consuetudines, quæ in hoc scripto non comprehenduntur, eis concedimus et confirmamus in perpetuam elemosynam, cum omnibus libertatibus, et liberis consuetudinibus, quas regia potestas liberiores alicui domui religionis conferre potest, pro Dei amore, et pro anima domini Johannis regis, patris nostri; et pro animabus omnium antecessorum et successorum nostrorum: Et prohibemus super forisfacturam nostram, quod nullus eis vel hominibus suis contra hanc cartam nostram, in aliquo forisfaciat, quia ipsos et omnes res et possessiones suas et hominum suorum, in custodiam et specialem protectionem nostram suscepimus. "Clemens episcopus, servus servorum Dei, venerabilibus fratribus archiepiscopo Cantuar. et ejus suffraganeis, salutem et apostolicam benedictionem. Faciens misericordiam cum servo suo, Dei Filius Dominus Jesus Christus, ad hoc nos voluit in speculo eminenti apostolatus assumi; ut gerentes, licet immeriti, vices ejus in terris, in cunctis nostris actibus et processibus, ipsius vestigia, quantum patitur humana fragilitas, imitemur. Sane dudum, circa nostræ promotionis ad apicem summi pontificatus initium, antequam Lugduni, ubi recepimus nostræ coronationis insignia, veniremus; et post etiam, tam ibi quàm alibi secreta quorundam nobis insinuatio intimavit, quod magister, præceptores, et alii fratres ordinis militiæ Templi Jerosolomitani; et etiam ipse ordo, qui ad defensionem patrimonii ejusdem Domini nostri Jesu Christi fuerant in transmarinis partibus deputati, contra ipsum Dominum in scelus apostasiæ nephandum, detestabile ydolatriæ vicium, execrabile facinus sodomorum, et hæreses varias erant lapsi. Quia vero non erat verisimile, nec credibile videbatur, quod viri tam religiosi, qui præcipue, pro Christi nomine, suum sæpe sanguinem effudere, ac personas suas mortis periculis frequenter exponere credebantur: quique multa et magna, tam in divinis officiis, quàm in jejuniis, et aliis observantiis, devotionis signa frequentius prætendebant, suæ sic essent salutis immemores, quod talia perpetrarent, hujusmodi insinuationi, et dilationi ipsorum, ejusdem Domini nostri exemplis, et canonicæ doctrinæ Scripturis, edocti, aurem nolumus inclinare.

"Deinde vero carissimus in Christo filius Philippus rex Francorum illustris, cui eadem fuerunt facinora intimata; non typo avariciæ, cum de bonis Templariorum nichil sibi vendicare vel appropriare intendat; immò ea per deputandos à nobis generaliter, et per prælatos regni Franciæ, specialiter in suis diœcesis administranda, in regno suo, dimisit manum suam, et indè totaliter amovendo: sed fidei orthodoxæ fervore, suorum progenitorum vestigia clara sequens, accensus, de præmissis, quantum licitè potuit, se informans, ad instruendum et informandum nos super hiis, multas et magnas nobis informationes, per suos nuncios et literas, destinavit. Infamia vero contra Templarios ipsos increbescente validius, super sceleribus antedictis: et quia etiam quidam miles ejusdem ordinis, magnæ nobilitatis, et qui non levis opinionis in dicto ordine habebatur, coram nobis secreto juratus, deposuit; quod in receptione fratrum præfati ordinis, hæc consuetudo, vel verius corruptela servatur, quod ad recipientis, vel ab eo deputati suggestionem, qui recipitur, Christum negat, et super crucem sibi ostensam spuit, in vituperium crucifixi; et quædam alia faciunt recipiens et receptus, quæ licita non sunt, nec humanæ conveniunt honestati, prout ipse tunc confessus extitit, coram nobis; vitare nequimus, urgente nos ad id officii nostri debito, quin tot et tantis clamoribus accommodaremus auditum. Sed cum demum fama publica deferente, ac clamosa insinuatione dicti regis; necnon et ducum, comitum, et baronum, ac aliorum nobilium, cleri quoque ac populi dicti regni Franciæ, ad nostram propter hoc, tam per se, quàm per procuratores et sindicos præsentiam venientium, quod dolentes referimus, ad nostram audientiam pervenisset, quod magister, præceptores, et alii fratres dicti ordinis, et ipse ordo, præfatis, et pluribus aliis, erant criminibus irretiti; et præmissa per multas confessiones, attestationes, et depositiones præfati magistri et plurium præceptorum et fratrum ordinis prælibati, coram multis prælatis, et hæreticæ pravitatis inquisitore in regno Franciæ factas, habitas, et receptas, etiam in publicam scripturam redactas, nobisque ac fratribus nostris ostensas, probari quodammodo viderentur: ac nichilominus fama et clamores prædicti in tantum invaluissent, et etiam ascendissent, tam contra ipsum ordinem, quàm contra personas singulares ejusdem, quod, sine gravi scandalo, præteriri non poterant, nec absque imminenti periculo tolerari. Nos illius, cujus vices, licet immeriti, in terris gerimus, vestigiis inhærentes, ad inquirendum de prædictis, ratione prævia duximus procedendum; multosque de præceptoribus, presbyteris, militibus, et aliis fratribus dicti ordinis, reputationis non modicæ, in nostra præsentia constitutos, præstito ab eis juramento, quod super præmissis meram et plenam dicerent nobis veritatem, super prædictis, interrogavimus et examinavimus usque ad numerum septuaginta duorum; multisque ex fratribus nostris nobis assistentibus, diligenterque eorum confessiones, per publicas manus in autenticam scripturam redactas illico in nostra, et dictorum fratrum nostrorum præsentia; ac deinde interposito aliquorum dierum spacio, in consistorio legi fecimus, coram ipsis; et illas in suo vulgari cuilibet eorum exponi, qui perseverantes in illis, eas expressè et spontè, prout recitatæ fuerant, approbarunt.

"Postque cum magistro et præceptoribus præcipuis præfati ordinis, intendentes super præmissis inquirere, per nos ipsos, magistrum, et fratres terræ ultramarinæ, Normanniæ, Aquitanniæ, et Pictaviæ, præceptores majores nobis Pictavis existentibus mandavimus præsentari: sed quoniam quidam ex eis sic infirmabantur tunc temporis, quod equitare non poterant, nec ad nostram præsentiam quoquomodo adduci; nos cum eis scire volentes de præmissis omnibus veritatem; et an vera essent, quæ continebantur in eorum confessionibus et depositionibus, quas coram inquisitore hæreticæ pravitatis in regno Franciæ, præsentibus quibusdam notariis publicis, et multis aliis bonis viris, dicebantur fecisse nobis et fratribus nostris per ipsum inquisitorem, sub manibus publicis, exhibitis et ostensis dilectis filiis nostris Berengario, titulo sanctorum Nerei et Achillei; et Stephano, titulo S. Ciriaci in termis presbyteris, ac Pandulpho S. Angeli diacono cardinali; de quorum providentia, experientia, et fidelitate indubitatam fiduciam obtinemus, commisimus et mandavimus, ut ipsi cum præfatis magistro et præceptoribus inquirerent, tam contra ipsas et alias singulares personas dicti ordinis generaliter, quam contra ordinem ipsum, super præmissis, cum diligentia, veritatem; et quicquid super hiis invenirent, nobis referre; ac eorum confessiones et depositiones, per manum publicam in scriptis redactas, nostro apostolatui referre ac præsentare jurarent, eisdem magistro et fratribus absolutionis beneficium à sententia excommunicationis, quam pro præmissis, si vera essent, incurrerant, si absolutionem humiliter et devotè peterent, ut debebant, juxta formam ecclesiæ impensuri. Qui cardinales ad ipsos magistrum et præceptores personaliter accedentes, et sui adventus causam exposuerunt.

"Dixerunt præterea, et confessi fuerunt esse vera, quæ in eoram confessionibus et depositionibus continentur, quas dudum fecerant coram inquisitore hæreticæ pravitatis; quæ confessiones et dispositiones dictorum magistri et præceptorum, in scripturam publicam per quatuor tabelliones publicos redactæ, in ipsorum magistri et præceptorum, et quorundam aliorum bonorum virorum præsentia; ac deinde interposito aliquorum dierum spacio, coram ipsis eisdem lectæ fuerant, de mandato et in præsentia cardinalium prædictorum, et suo vulgari expositæ cuilibet eorum. Qui perseverantes in illis eas expressè et spontè, prout recitatæ fuerant, approbarunt. Et post confessiones et depositiones hujusmodi, ab ipsis cardinalibus ab examinatione, quam pro præmissis incurrerant, absolutionem, flexis genibus, manibusque complexis, humiliter et devotè, ac cum lacrimarum effusione non modica petierunt. Ipsi vero cardinales, qui ecclesia non claudit gremium redeunti, ab eisdem magistro et præceptoribus, hæresi abjurata, expressè ipsis secundùm formam ecclesiæ, auctoritate nostra absolutionis beneficium impenderunt; ac deinde ad nostram præsentiam redeuntes, confessiones et depositiones prælibatorum magistri et præceptorum, in scripturam publicam, per manus publicas, ut dictum est, redactas, nobis præsentaverunt; et quæ cum dictis magistro et præceptoribus fecerant, retulerunt.

Ex quibus confessionibus et depositionibus, ac relatione, invenimus sæpefatos magistrum et fratres, in præmissis, et circa præmissa, licet quosdam ex eis in pluribus, et alios in paucioribus graviter deliquisse. Verum quia in universis mundi partibus, per quas idem ordo diffunditur, ac fratres degunt ipsius, super hiis non possumus inquirere per nos ipsos, fraternitati vestræ, de fratrum nostrorum consilio, per apostolica scripta mandamus, quatinus vos et quilibet vestrum; viz. in suis civitate et diœcesi, una cum venerabilibus fratribus nostris patriarcha Jerosolymitana, ac archiepiscopo Ebor. Lincolniens. Cicestriens. et Aurelianens. episcopis; et dilectis filiis de Latigniaco, Parisien. diœc. et S. Germani de Pratis, juxta Parisias, monasteriorum abbatibus, ac magistro Sicardo de Vauro, canonico Nerbonensi, capellano nostro, nostrique palacii auditore causarum, et Guidoni de Wychio, rectori ecclesiæ de Hese Lond. diœc. vel octo, septem, sex, quinque, quatuor, tribus, duobus aut uno ex ipsis, quos vobis in hac parte, propter negotii magnitudinem, duximus adjungendos, vocatis per publicum citationis edictum, per vos et ipsos adjunctos, vel eorum aliquos, seu aliquem in locis de quibus nobis et eis videbitur faciendum, qui fuerint evocandi, contra singulares personas et fratres dicti ordinis, in civitatibus et diœcesibus vestris degentes, etiamsi aliunde venerint, vel illuc adducti forsan extiterint, super articulis, quos vobis sub bulla nostra inclusos transmittimus, et super aliis, de quibus prudentiæ vestræ videbitur expedire, veritatem, cum diligentia, inquiratis.

"Volumus insuper, quod inquisitione, seu inquisitionibus hujusmodi factis, per provinciale consilium, contra ipsas singulares personas et fratres, qui in eadem provincia, seu pro eis super hiis de quibus contra eos inquisitum extiterit, absolutoria seu condempnatoria sententia, juxta juris exigentiam proferatur; inquisitore nichilominus, seu inquisitoribus ejusdem pravitatis hæreticæ in ipsa provincia, per sedem apostolicam deputatis, ad dictas inquisitiones, quæ ad hujusmodi prolationem sententiæ admissi, si ad eas vobiscum voluerint interesse: proviso, quod de inquirendo, vel sententiando contra prædictum ordinem, et contra magnum præceptorem dicti ordinis, in regno Angliæ constitutum, contra quos per certas personas inquiri mandavimus, vos intromittere nullatenus presumatis. Data Pictavis secundo id. Augusti, pontificatus nostri anno tertio."

Nos igitur præscriptas apostolicas literas, ad vestræ fraternitatis noticiam perducimus, ut vos obtentâ copiâ earundem, juxta formam mandati apostolici, id quod ad vestram sollicitudinem, in hac parte, pertinet, impleatis; articulos autem quos clausos, sub verâ bullâ, recepimus, et fraternitati vestræ, sub sigillo nostro reclusos, per vos aperiendos transmittimus, postquam copiam receperitis et habueritis eorundem, sub sigillo vestro reclusos, bajulo præsentium retradatis; et sic cautè ipsorum articulorum copiam assumere, et assumptum custodire curetis, quod iidem articuli antea minimè revelentur, quoniam super ipsis vos oporteat inquirere veritatem. In signum autem receptionis præmissorum, vos venerabiles fratres, ad quos præsentes literæ pervenerint, vestra sigilla præsentibus appendatis. Data apud Wyngham x. kal. Octobris anno Domini M.CCC.IX. consecrationis nostræ xvi.

Data apud Wykham viii. idus Octobris, &c. A. gratiæ MCCCIX.

Primus examinatus ad cautelam, sine juramento, cum duobus sequentibus.

In nomine Domini, amen. Anno incarnationis dominicæ MCCCIX. indictione octava, x. kal. Novembris, coram dominis inquisitoribus suprascriptis, frater Willielmus Raven, de ordine Templariorum, requisitus per quantum tempus stetit in ordine Templariorum; dicit, quod receptus fuit in ordine Templariorum quinquennio elapso, apud Coumbe, in diœcesi Bathoniensi, per fratrem Willielmum de la More in dominica proxima post festum Omnium Sanctorum; et præsentes fuerunt tunc, fratres Johannes de Walpole, et Willielmus de Eryngе, præsentibusque circiter centum personis secularium, circa horam Primæ in capella loci ejusdem; et erat receptus cum eo fratre Galfridus de Trewe miles, qui mortuus est. Dixit etiam, quod rogavit ipsos fratres de Templo, ut vellent admittere eum in dicto ordine, ad serviendum Deo, et beatæ Mariæ Virgini, et terminare vitam suam in servicio eorum.

Dicit etiam, quod quærebatur ab eo, si habebat fixam voluntatem ad hoc faciendum; et dixit quod sic. Et postea dicebatur per duos fratres, qui exponebant ei rigores ordinis; viz. quod non ageretur voluntate sua propria in agendis, sed voluntate præceptoris; et si vellet unum facere, præciperetur sibi aliud facere. Et si vellet esse in uno loco, mitteretur ad alium locum. Quibus promissis, juravit ad sancta Dei evangelia, obedire superiori, non habere proprium, conservare castitatem; non consentire quod aliquis injustè exhæreditaretur; nec quod injiceret manus violentas in quenquam, nisi se defendendo, vel in Saracenos.

Dixit etiam, quod istud juramentum factum fuit in capella prædicta, præsentibus duntaxat fratribus de ordine, et uno presbytero dicti ordinis, cujus nomen ignorat, ut dicit; et legebatur sibi regula ordinis, per unum de fratribus, qualiter se haberet in omnibus spectantibus ad ordinem; et sic fuit doctus per mensem, per unum fratrem servientem literatum, vocatum Johannem de Walepole prædictum. Requisitus, si postea fecit aliquam aliam professionem clam vel palam; dicit quod non.

Dicti verò auditores et inquisitores injunxerunt Edmundo de Verney, et Willielmo de Herdeby custodibus dictorum fratrum, quod nullo modo permittent istum fratrem Willielmum stare cum aliis confratribus suis, nec loqui cum eis, nec aliquo ipsorum; nec quod aliquis interveniat ad explorandum quid actum sit vel fieri debet in hac parte, et hoc sub pœnis majoris excommunicationis, exnunc, prout extunc.

Actum Londoniis in capitulo monasterii S. Trinitatis, præsentibus fratribus Radulpho de Cantuaria, priore domus S. Trinitatis, &c.

Frater Hugo de Tadecastre, de ordine Templi, requisitus per quantum tempus stetit in ordine, &c. dicit, quod fuit receptus apud Faxflete, Ebor. diœc. per fratrem Willielmum de la More, in oratorio loci ejusdem, aliquantulum post ortum solis, et quod nullus secularis erat præsens, quando fuit receptus; nec est consuetudinis quod aliquis secularis sit præsens in receptione fratrum.

Requisitus de modo receptionis; dicit, quod erat claviger in Templo, dum erat secularis; et requisivit magistrum, et eum reciperet in fratrem: et expositis sibi hiis quæ rigoris sunt in ordine Templi, et substantialibus ordinis, quod ad obedientiam, castitatem, et abdicationem proprietatis; fuit ductus in capellam, fratribus ordinis duntaxat, capellanis, militibus, et servientibus præsentibus, seculâribus omnibus exclusis; præstito ab eo, ad sancta Dei evangelia, juramento, quod prædicta tria substantialia dicti ordinis, et consuetudines bonas et laudabiles ordinis Templi servaret; et negotium Terræ Sanctæ ultramarinæ, pro posse suo, juvaret, contra inimicos fidei Christianæ.

Dicit etiam, quod erat apud Dynestre in capitulo, ubi Philippus de Mewes miles receptus fuit in fratrem dicti ordinis, eodem modo quo ipse fuit receptus; et alio modo non recipiuntur fratres dicti ordinis.

NUM. LIII.

De Templariorum Ordinis destructione; et W. de Grenefeld Archiepiscopi Ebor. adversus eos clementia.

. . . . . . Hujus pontificatus anno secundo, fratres militiæ Templi Jerosolomitani, per totam Angliam constituti sunt, uno eodemque die, hoc est quarto idus Januarii, de mandato domini papæ Clementis, ad instantiam domini regis Francorum: prout dicebatur, generaliter comprehensi, arctæ custodiæ Londoniæ et Eboraci, sunt deputati. Facta interim tam Eboraci quàm Londoniæ, solempni examinatione articulorum per æmulos suos eis abjectorum, coram venerabilibus patribus Williel. Eboracensi archiepiscopo, et Radulpho de Baldok Londoniensi episcopo, ad hoc per dominum papam specialiter deputatis, præsentibus ipsis Templariis, et ad omnia eis objecta convenienter respondentibus; quamvis in multis essent accusati, nichil tamen inventum est, quod de jure videretur statum illorum anullare. Postmodum verò idem dominus papa, collecto Viennæ concilio generali, anno pontificatus sui septimo, et anno Domini MCCCXII. qui est annus pontificatus præfati patris Willielmi septimo, die Lunæ, tertio die Aprilis, commissa via processus judiciarii, de fratrum quorundam consilio, et aliorum assidentium, ordinem illius militiæ Templi celeberrimum, auctoritate apostolica dampnavit, cassavit, et perpetuò anullavit. Insuper inhibuit, ne quis de cætero dictum ordinem ingrederetur, nec professionem in eo faceret, nec habitum illius ordinis deferret, vel reciperet, sub pœn aexcommunicationis majoris, quam, si quis in aliquo contraveniret, ipso facto incurret.

Deleto itaque præfato ordine, fratres Hospit. S. Johannis, possessiones eorum pro majori parte adepti, usque in præsentem diem occupant. Archiepiscopus Willielmus pietate motus super statu Templariorum suæ diœcesis, omni auxilio destitutorum, eos in diversa suæ diœcesis instituit monasteria, eisque suo perpetuo vitæ necessaria ministrari præcepit.

NUM. LIV.

Mandatum Templariis, ad aliam aliquam Religionem, post Ordinis sui Dissolutionem ingrediendam.

[Ex vet. membr. penès præf. R. Leveson.]

Walterus, permissione divina, Cantuariensis archiepiscopus, totius Angliæ primas; dilectis in Christo filiis priori ecclesiæ Christi Lond. salutem. Literas apostolicas, sub vera bulla plumbea, et filo canabi, bullatas, non cancellatas, non abolitas, nec in aliqua parte earum vitiatas, seu suspectas; sed omni suspicione carentes, nuper inspeximus, seriem continentes infrascriptam.

Johannes episcopus, servus servorum Dei, venerabilibus abbatibus, fratribus, patriarchis, archiepiscopis, et episcopis, ad quos literæ præsentes pervenerint, salutem. Apostolicam benedictionem ad hoc libenter intendimus, et vigiliis sollicitudinis, et sollicitæ vigilantiæ studium adhibemus, ut in personis ecclesiasticis præsertim jugo regularis professionis, austeritas vitæ, mundicia, et honestatis vigeat pulchritudo. Sanè ad audientiam apostolatus nostri pervenit; quod nonnulli fratrum ordinis quondam militiæ Templi Jerosolomitani, post sublationem ordinis memorati, inconsulto mentis effectu, se inde nimium torquentes, vestes præsumunt induere laicales, seque gerunt pro laicis, tanquam laici, in animarum suarum periculo conversantes. Quidam tamen eorundem, se amplius mundi voluptatibus immergentes, de facto matrimonia contrahunt; quæ potius concubina dici debeant; et publicè ducunt uxores, cum illis publicè habitantes. Nos attendentes, quod per professionem, quam in ingressu dicti ordinis, dimiserunt ad continentiam, et alia religionis . . . . . sicut se vòto suo obligârunt; quodque per sublationem dicti ordinis, factam in generali consilio Viennensi, nequaquam fuerunt à votorum observantia absoluti. Volentes igitur tantæ insolentiæ, ac damnabilis præsumptionis audaciæ, de fratrum nostrorum consilio salubriter, et saluti eorum, de celebri et opportuno remedio providere; fraternitati vestræ, per apostolica, scripta, districtæ præcipiendo mandamus; quatinus vos, et vestrum singuli, in singulis civitatibus et diœcesis vestris, ubi aliqui vel aliquis ex dictis fratribus commorant, infra mensem post receptionem præsentium, eosdem ad vestram præsentiam convocatis; ipsosque diligenter monere, et salubriter inducere audeatis; quod infra tres menses ammonitionis vestræ tempore computandos, ad aliquam transeant de religionibus approbatis, ibidem Domino perpetuo servituri. Prælatum quoque et fratres domus, seu monasterii, ad quem transire voluerint, cum diligentia inducatis, ut ipsos in socios recipiant, et in fratres. Clericos tantum ut clericos, laicos ut conversos, sincera in Domino caritate pertractent. Quod si fortè prælatus seu fratres omnino id facere recusârint, ut eosdem quondam Templarios, et si non ut fratres, saltem in domibus et monasteriis suis recipiant; ut in iis Domino, juxta votorum suorum observantiam, famulentur, cum diligentia moneatis; et si necesse fuerit, auctoritate nostra, per censuram ecclesiasticam compellatis eosdem.

Si verò dicti fratres quondam miliciæ Templi, infra prædictorum mensium spacium, post monitionem et inductionem hujusmodi, aliquam de religionibus approbatis non elegerint, vel ad illam non transierint cum effectu, in ea secundùm modum perpetuò moraturi prædictum; stipendia ipsis pro vitæ sustentatione deputanda, quibus extunc ipsos fore privatos decernimus, auctoritate nostra eisdem subtrahi faciat; domos et mansiones, seu loca quæcunque ejusdem quondam ordinis Templi, seu ordinis Hospitalis S. Johannis Jerusalem, eis pro hujusmodi stipendiis assignata, vel quocunque modo concessa nihilominus auferens.

Ne autem præfati quondam militiæ Templi, domibus, seu monasteriis, aut locis aliis, ad quæ transierint, onerosi reddantur; volumus et ordinamus quod ipsis in præfatis domibus seu monasteriis commorantibus, stipendia, quæ per alias literas nostras eis taxari mandamus, et etiam assignari faciatis, quamdiu vixerint ministrari.

Insuper volumus et ordinamus, quod dicti fratres quondam Templi, prælatis illorum monasterium, seu domorum ad quæ transierint; sive ut fratres, sive ut pœnitentes omnino pareant; ipsique prælati in eosdem fratres, sicut in alios regulares domorum et monasteriorum, suam jurisdictionem et correctionem valeant excercere; ita tamen, quod prælatos religionum, quas dicti fratres quondam Templi duxerint eligendas, per singulas domos et loca, seu monasteria, et obedientiis eis subjecta, taliter dividantur; quod ultra duos fratres, in eadem domo vel loco, seu monasterio, aut obedientia non ponantur, domibus dicti ordinis S. Johannis Jerosolomi exceptis. Cæterum fratres illos, qui, ut præmittitur, de facto, matrimonia contraxerint, singuli vestrum, in singulis civitatibus et diœcesis, ubi talia contigerint, ad dimittendas uxores, et ad transeundum, ut de aliis præmittitur, ad aliquam de religionibus approbatis, per subtractionem stipendiorum prædictorum, et alias, districtione qua convenit, compellatis; invocato ad hoc, si opus fuerit, auxilio brachii secularis; non obstantibus de certo fratrum, seu regularium aut monachorum numero, et quibuslibet aliis statutis et consuetudinibus domorum, monasteriorum, et religionum juramento, confirmatione apostolica, vel quacunque firmitate alia roboratis; seu si aliqui authoritate literarum nostrarum, in dictis domibus seu monasteriis, in fratres seu monachos vel regulares alios, quocunque censeantur nomine, sint recepti, vel ut recipiantur insistant; aut si prælatis seu conventibus, aut fratribus domorum et monasteriorum prædictorum conjunctim et divisim à sede apostolica sit indubium, quod ad receptionem vel provisionem alicujus minimè teneantur, et ad id compelli; aut quod interdici, suspendi, vel excommunicari non possint per literas apostolicas, non facientes plenam et expressam, ac de verbo ad verbum, de indulto hujusmodi, mentionem, et qualibet alia de sedis indulgentia, generali vel speciali, cujuscunque tenoris existat, per quam præsentibus non expressam, vel totaliter non insertam, effectus præsentium impediri valeat quomodolibet vel deferri; et de qua cujusque toto tenore habenda sit in literis nostris mentio speciales.

Volumus autem, quod de hiis quæ super præmissis duxeritis facienda, nos reddatis, per literas vestras certiores. Datum Avinioni xvi. calendarum Januarii, pontificatus nostri anno tertio.

Volentes itaque mandatis apostolicis reverenter obedire, ut tenemur: et ea, pro viribus, executioni debitæ mandari; Rogero de Stowe quondam fratri ordinis militiæ Templi Jerusalem, presbytero, coram nobis, inter cæteros convocato; ipsum diligenter monemus, et salubriter induximus; quod infra tres menses monitionis nostræ tempore computandos, ad aliquam transiret de religionibus approbatis ibidem Domino perpetuò serviturus. Qui quidem Rogerus, monitionibus nostris et injunctis offerens se, paratum ut dixit, ad vos et religionem vestram transire, elegit obedientiam vestra regulari disciplinæ in domo vestræ inter vos, secundùm modum, perpetuò moraturum antedictum.

Vos igitur, auctoritate apostolica supradicta, monemus et inducimus, ac hortamur in Christo, ut præfatum Rogerum, quondam fratrem militiæ Templi, juxta tenorem apostolici mandati suprascripti, absque difficultate qualibet admittatis, ut præmittitur, inter vos perpetuò moraturum; ita quod ob vestri defectum nos ad id compellere non oporteat......

De die verò receptionis præsentium, et quid in præmissis duxeritis faciendum, nos infra quindecim dies harum receptionis tempore, certificare non omittas, per literas vestras patentes, harum seriem continentes. Datum apud Saltwode tertio idus Junii, anno Domini MCCCXIX. Nos quoque dictis apostolicis mandatis et causis, cum omni reverentia, sicut decet, parere volentes, præfatum Rogerum de Stowe, quondam fratrem ordinis militiæ Templi Jerusalem presbyterum, secundùm formam literarum apostolicarum, ac modum prædictum recipere; ac omnia et singula, quatinus mandatum exigit supradictum,...... exercere parati sumus et erimus in conventu dicto, durante spacio in mandato apostolico prædicto supra limitato. Datum Londoniis, in capitulo nostro, xii. kal. Junii, anno Domini supradicto.

Et nos Walterus, permissione divina, Cantuar. archiepiscopus, totius Angliæ primas, in hujus testimonium copiæ, sigillum nostrum præsentibus duximus apponendum. Datum apud Lamhethe tertio kal. Junii, A. Domini MCCCXIX.

NUM. LV.

Pro Liberatione bonorum Templariorum, Hospitalariis S. Johannis Jerosolomitani.

[Ibid.]

Walterus permissione divina, Cantuar. archiepiscopus, totius Angliæ primas; venerabili in Christo fratri nostro domino Hamoni Dei gratia Roffensi episcopo, salutem et caritatem in Domino. Reverendissimi in Christo patris et domini nostri, domini Johannis, divina providentia, summi pontificis literas apostolicas vera bulla, et filo canabis, bullatas; non cancellatas nec oblitas, in vestra et suffraganorum nostrorum præsentia, pridiè nobis exhibitas, et penès nos residentes, recipimus et inspeximus; formam quæ sequitur continentes.

"Johannes episcopus, servus servorum Dei; venerabilibus fratribus archiepiscopo Cantuariensi, et ejus suffraganeis, salutem et apostolicam benedictionem. Dum in judicium vocationis adducimus discrimina, labores, et pericula, quæ dilecti filii magister et fratres Hospitalis S. Johannis Jerosolomitani, pro defensione Christianitatis, continuè sustinent in partibus transmarinis; præsertim pro Terræ Sanctæ subsidio, ad quod elaborant continuè, se et sua liberaliter exponentes, mortis pericula non vitando; reddimus nimirum corde solliciti; quod bona ipsorum, quæ pro dictæ Terræ Sanctæ subsidio, ipsis specialiter sunt concessa; et sine quibus ad præmissa vacare non possunt, in pace possideant, per alios occupata recuperent, eaque eisdem quorumlibet malignantium ausibus apostolicæ sedis præsidio serventur illæsa: Ad omnium quidem notitiam pervenisse jam credimus; nec potestis vos ignorantiam specialiter allegare; qualiter jamdudum, post sublatum quendam ordinem militiæ Templi Jerosolomitani, in generali consilio Viennensi, fœlicis recordationis Clemens papa quintus, predecessor noster; volens de bonis ipsius, quondam ordini militiæ Templi salubriter ordinare, eodem approbante consilio; domum ipsius militiæ Templi, cæterasque domos, ecclesias, capellas, oratoria, civitates, castra, villas, terras, grangias, loca, possessiones, jurisdictiones, redditus, atque jura omniaque alia bona mobilia et immobilia, penès se manentia, cum omnibus membris, juribus, et pertinentiis suis, ultra et citra mare; ac universis et quibuslibet mundi partibus consistentia, quæ ipse ordo, ac magister, et fratres ipsius ordinis militiæ Templi, tempore quo ipse magister, et nonnulli ex eisdem fratribus communiter capti fuerunt, per se vel per quoscunque alios, habebant, tenebant, et possidebant; vel ad easdem domum et ordinem, ac dictos magistrum et fratres ipsius ordinis militiæ Templi quomodolibet pertinebant; nec non actiones et jura, quæ eisdem domui, ordini, vel personis ipsius quomodolibet competebant, vel competere poterant, contra quoscunque cujuscunque dignitatis, status, vel conditionis existerent, in omnibus privilegiis, indulgentiis, immunitatibus, et libertatibus; quibus præfati magister et fratres dictorum domus et ordinis, ac ipsi domus et ordo per sedem apostolicam, vel per catholicos imperatores, reges, et principes, et fideles alios, vel quocunque modo erant legitimè communiti, ordini ipsius Hospitalis S. Johannis Jerosolomi: et ipsi Hospitali, quibusdam, tum ex bonis ipsis, in certis locis consistentibus, tum per prædecessorem eundem exceptis; quæ nos, postmodum ad apicem summi apostolatus assumpti, præter quædam ex eis, de quibus duximus aliter ordinandum, eisdem magistro et fratribus, ac Hospitali S. Johannis Jerosolomitani, de fratrum nostrorum consilio, modo simili duximus concedenda; donavit, concessit, univit, incorporavit, applicavit, et annexavit imperpetuum, de apostolicæ plenitudine potestatis.

"Qualiter autem idem prædecessor, occupatores dictorum bonorum, aut illicitos detentores, cujuscunque status, conditionis, excellentiæ, vel dignitatis existerent, etiam si pontificali, vel regali dignitate vigerent; nisi infra unius mensis spacium, postquam per eosdem magistrum et fratres, vel ipsorum nomine, requisiti fuissent, dicta bona, plenè, liberè, et expeditè dimitterent, ipsis, in quibuscunque partibus et provinciis constitutis, et eorum singulis, vel procuratoribus eorum nomine, Hospitalis, et ordinis prædictorum; nec non omnes, qui scienter occupatoribus et detentoribus prælibatis, in occupatione vel detentione hujusmodi, daret consilium vel auxilium, vel favorem, publicè, vel occultè, excommunicavit: capitula verò, collegia, seu conventus ecclesiarum, et monasteriorum; nec non universitates comitatuum, castrorum, villarum, et aliorum locorum; et ipsas civitates, et castra, villas, et loca, quæ in hiis culpabilia existerent: ac etiam civitates, castra, et loca, in quibus detentores et occupatores hujusmodi obtinerent dominium temporale, si hujusmodi domini temporales, in dimittendo bona prædicta, restituendo illa magistro et fratribus Hospitalis ejusdem, nomine Hospitalis ipsius, obstaculum adhiberent; et infra dictum mensem ab hujusmodi præmissa non desisterent, postquam super hoc, ut præmittitur, requisiti forent, ipso facto interdicti sententiis subjacere decrevit, à quibus absolvi non possent, donec super hiis plenam et debitam satisfactionem exhibere curarent. Nec verò minus occupatores et detentores hujusmodi, vel præstantes eisdem, ut præmittitur, auxilium, consilium, vel favorem; sive singulares personæ, sive capitula, collegia, seu conventus ecclesiarum, ac monasteriorum, aut universitates civitatum, castrorum, terrarum, vel aliorum locorum existerent, præter pœnas præscriptas, omnibus, quæ à Romanâ vel aliis ecclesiis quibuscunque tenerent in feudum, ipso facto decrevit esse privatos, sive privata; ita quod ad ecclesias, ad quas spectabant, illa libera, sine contradictione alicujus reverterentur; earumque ecclesiarum prælati, sive rectores, de ipsis, pro suâ voluntate disponerent, sicut utilitati ecclesiarum ipsarum cognoscerent expedire.

"Et licet charissimus in Christo filius noster, Edwardus Angliæ rex illustris, progenitorum suorum succedens virtutibus, qui ecclesiæ Romanæ ordinationibus, et mandatis semper humiliter paruerunt; ad requisitionem eorum magistri et fratrum, facta sibi confessione hujusmodi, et aliis præmissis fide plenaria, præfata bona omnia, dicti quondam ordinis Templi, in regno et terris suis consistentia, tanquam devotus ecclesiæ filius, pura et libera, ab ejus ditione dimiserit magistro et fratribus, ac Hospitali prædictis; eaque omnia, per alios regni sui dimitti mandaverit etiam expedita. Nonnulli tamen comites et barones, nobiles, milites, universitates civitatum, castrorum, et alii laici; ac quod graviùs mentem nostram amaricat, aliæ personæ ecclesiasticæ, qui se debent fratribus ipsis murum defensionis opponere, præfatas sententias non verentes, ad præfata bona concessa, ut prædicitur, pro tam salubri negotio, magistro et fratribus supradictis extendentes rapaciter manus suas, ea sicut ex ipsorum magistri et fratrum dolorosis celatibus, dolenter audivimus, occuparunt hactenus violenter, et detinent violentiùs occupata, in animarum suarum pernitiem, grave dampnum Hospitali ejusdem, ac Terræ Sanctæ præcipuè, ad cujus subsidium deputata, ut prædicitur, fore noscuntur non modicum detrimentum; nonnullis executoribus eisdem magistro et fratribus, super eisdem bonis, et sententiis supradictis, per prædecessorem eundem deputatis; et quod deteriùs est, et leviter ferre non possumus, quibus specialiter inest ipsius Terræ Sanctæ cura præcipua; cujus oppressiones, Deo teste, nos opprimunt, et ad recuperationem ipsius, intentis desideriis aspiramus; ac de tali, super occupationibus ipsis, providere remedio, quod tam salubris negotii; viz. terræ prædicti subsidii, tollatur cujuslibet causa præpedii, concessio dictorum bonorum, facta per sedem eandem, debitum sortiatur effectum; et occupatores hujusmodi, à suis illicitis actibus resipiscant: ipsosque sequatur pœna condigna, in delusione et contemptu præfatis mandatis et sententiis apostolicis non deductis, firmari, vestræ in virtute obedientiæ, et sub suspensionis pœnâ, quam et quilibet vestrum, qui postquam hujusmodi mandatum nostrum ad vos pervenerit, incurrere volumus ipso facto, si mandatis apostolicis, in hac parte, neglexeritis obedire, per apostolica scripta mandamus, quatenus omnes et singulos, in civitatibus et diœcesibus constitutos, cujuscunque status vel conditionis existant, et quos inveneritis supradicta bona, dicti quondam ordinis Templi occupasse, vel occupata tenere, per se vel alios publicè vel occultè, peremptoriè monere curetis; ut infra unius mensis spacium, post monitionem vestram hujusmodi, omnia et singula, in quibuscunque et ubicunque consistant, et quocunque nomine censeantur, cum fructibus indè perceptis, et medio tempore percipi potuerunt, magistro et fratribus, ac Hospitali restituant supradictis.

" Alioquin, si infra prædictum terminum, eidem monitioni vestræ, humiliter ac effectualiter non pervenerint; occupata per eos, vel eorum nomine, cum fructibus ex eis perceptis, ut prædicitur, non dimittendo liberè magistro et fratribus supradictis; ipsos omnes et singulos, cujuscunque status, ordinis, aut conditionis exstiterint, et quacunque fulgerint dignitate, ex tunc auctoritate nostra excommunicamus. Capitula verò, collegia, seu conventus ecclesiarum, et monasteriorum; necnon universitates civitatum, castrorum, villarum, et aliorum locorum; et ipsas civitates, castra, villas, et loca quæ in hiis culpabilia fuerint; vel in quibus occupatores hujusmodi dampnum obtinent temporale; si infra prædictum terminum, post monitionem vestram, hujusmodi bona non restituerint, ut præmittitur, supradicto, ipso facto, interdicti subjacere sententiis decernimus. Et ad majorem ipsorum ignominiam super dictas sententias, et alias pœnas, per prædecessorem eundem, ut supra, ponitur promulgatas, in tales denuncietis incurrisse, et ab aliis denunciari faciatis, ac ab omnibus arctius evitari, donec præmissa, cum integritate restituant, et debitæ absolutionis beneficium meruerint obtinere; non obstantibus quibuscunque privilegiis et indulgentiis, ipsis vel eorum aliquibus, ab apostolica sede concessis; seu quod interdici, suspendi, vel excommunicari non possint; etiam si, de verbo ad verbum, specialis mentio sic habenda, præsentibus, quæ ipsis, quoad præmissa, in nullo volumus suffragari. Datum Avinioni xv. kal. Februarii, pontificatus nostri anno quarto."

Cumque ex tenore hujusmodi literarum, quatenus contenta in eis, vestram contingunt diœcesim tenemini, sicut et cæteri exequi principaliter quod est vestrum; præmissa sub sigillo nostro vobis fore decrevimus dirigenda; ut vos in executione mandati hujus apostolici taliter habeatis, quod mandantis authoritas minimè contempnetur, dispendium, quatinus sit possibile, immineat aliundè. In cujus rei testimonium sigillum nostrum præsentibus est appensum. Datum apud Lamhethe, kal. Novembris, anno Domini MCCCXX.

ORDINATIONES ET DECRETA PRO CANONICORUM REGULARIUM ORDINIS S. AUGUSTINI IN ANGLIA EXISTENTIUM GUBERNATIONE MELIORI; COMPOSITÆ ET STATUTÆ PER THOMAM WOLSÆUM S. CICILIÆ ROM. ECCLESIÆ PRESBYTERUM CARDINALEM, EBOR. ARCHIEPISC., VIRTUTE COMMISSIONIS DOMINI LEONIS PAPÆ, EJUS NOMINIS DECIMI, SIBI DIRECTÆ, ANNO AB INCARN. DOMINI MDXIX.

[Ex vetusto exemplari in bibl. Cottoniana.]

In Dei nomine, amen. Nos Thomas, miseratione divina, tituli S. Ceciliæ sacrosanctæ Romanæ ecclesiæ presbyter cardinalis, Eborac. archiepiscopus, Angliæ primas, et apostolicæ sedis legatus, ipsius quoque regni Angliæ cancellarius; necnon sanctissimi in Christo patris et domini nostri, domini Leonis divina providentia, illius nominis papæ decimi, dictæque sedis, ad serenissimum et potentissimum principem et dominum nostrum Henricum, Dei gratia Angliæ et Franciæ regem, ac dominum Hiberniæ, universumque ejus Angliæ regnum, ac omnes et singulas ipsius regni provincias, civitates, terras, atque loca illi subjecta, et alia illi adjacentia, etiam de latere legatus, non modo ex jure communi vigore hujusmodi legationis nostræ de latere, verùm etiam ex præfati sanctissimi domini nostri, sub plumbo, commissione, et indulto speciali, cujus data est Romæ apud S. Petrum anno incarn. dominicæ MDXIX. quarto idus Junii, pontificatus ejusdem sanctissimi domini nostri anno septimo, omnia et singula hujus regni Angliæ et locorum prædictorum monasteria et loca religiosa, exempta et non exempta, eorumque prælatos, residentes, et ministros, visitandi, corrigendi, et reformandi, potestatem habentes; et ad honestiores vivendi mores, tam in capitibus quàm in membris, reducendi; proque hujusmodi reformatione facienda facultatibus amplissimis, in hujusmodi indulto apostolico pleniùs specificatis utendi; pœnas quoque et censuras imponendi, et alios contra ipsos prælatos, præsidentes, et ministros procedendi, corrigendi, castigandi et puniendi, ac ad laudabiles mores reducendi: necnon omnia et singula, quæ justa instituta suorum ordinum et constitutiones summorum pontificum, et decreta sanctorum patrum ad honorem Dei ac religiosarum personarum prædictarum decorem, honestumque vivendi modum necessaria, seu quomodolibet oportunia videbuntur gerendi, statuendi, faciendi, disponendi, et exequendi; contradictores et rebelles cujuscunque status, gradus, ordinis, præeminenciæ, nobilitatis, vel conditionis fuerint, per excommunicationis, suspensionis, et interdicti, aliasque formidabiliores, de quibus nobis videbitur sententias, censuras, et pœnas, cum earum aggravatione et reaggravatione, quavis appellatione postposita compescendi, et si opus fuerit brachium seculare invocandi, cum derogationibus privilegiorum indultorum, et literarum apostolicarum dictis religiosis personis, sub quibusvis verborum formis et clausulis etiam derogatoriarum, derogatoriis, fortioresque et insolitas ac iritantibus, et aliis decretis per sedem apostolicam concessorum, confirmatorum et innovatorum; non obstantibus etiam quibusvis exceptionibus et appellationibus à præmissis, ad ipsum sanctissimum dominum nostrum et dictam sedem per quosvis forsan, pro tempore, interponendis, quas extunc, prout exnunc, et è converso, idem sanctissimus dominus noster frivolas et inanes, ac ex nullo gravamine interfectas fore et esse decrevit, ad honorem Dei, decus et ornamentum ordinis regularis S. Augustini, prælatorumque et canonicorum ejusdem ordinis, hujus regni nostri Angliæ, et locorum prædictorum reformationem, ac condecentem vivendi et incedendi modum; quædam, ex commissi nobis officii potestate duximus ordinanda et statuenda, prout per capita distincta inferiùs continetur.

Cum ad manifestandam ecclesiæ unitatem, uni Petro commisit Christus ecclesiam suam, propter quam, et in unum dicit beatissimus pater vester Augustinus congregati estis, ejusdem membra corporis divisa esse nolumus dicere evangelistam, "Omne regnum in se divisum desolabitur;" turpisque pars est, quæ non convenit suo toti majori igitur parti, ubi tota vis minorem in bono adherere debere; decernentes tamen secundùm constitutionem provincialem cap. 1. de religiosis domibus, quam ex vestris unanimi assensu et censu, nostra auctoritate statuimus, quod canonici regulares, vocati Arusienses et Victorini, quos audivimus à cæteris segregatos, et omnes canonici regulares ordinis S. Augustini, quocunque nomine apellentur, per totum regum Angliæ in eodem capitulo generali, de triennio in triennium omnino celebrando, super eisdem statutis et privilegiis et eisdem præsidentibus imperpetuum uniantur atque conveniant, juxta statutum generale et decretalem Honorii tertii, constitutiones Benedictinas, sufficienter et ad plenum in hac parte disponentes, sub pænis ibidem contentis.

De admittendis ad religionem, et forma profitendi eosdem.

Quum nichil sit sanctæ religioni tam pestiferum, quàm quod indocti, virtutibus parùm dediti, rudes, ad religionem penitùs inepti, ad habitum regularem inconsideratè assumuntur, undè regularis observanciæ contemptus, et alia mala quamplurima nonnunquam insequuntur; statuimus igitur et ordinamus, quod omni amore indiscreto carnis necessitudine, et favore sepositis, nullas posthac in habitum canonicorum regularium ad annum probationis admittatur, nisi, secundùm statuta Benedictina, persona idonea, vel de cujus idoneitate spes verisimilis habeatur quod . . . . in divinis et aliis Deo possit et velit inservire, quodque talis antequam expressè et publicè religionem profiteatur ætate sit legitima, juxta cap. 1, &c. ad nostram . . . de regularibus, &c. et quod regulam S. Augustini penè memoriter recitare sciat, ac etiam in signis et cæteris religionis cæremoniis competenter sit instructus, hæcque verba subsequentia, sola, et non alia in sua professione proferat. "Ego frater N. offerens trado meipsum, divina pietate, in hac ecclesia N. perpetuò me serviturum secundum regulam S. Augustini; et promitto obedientiam domino N. hujus ecclesiæ abbati, vel priori, et successoribus suis canonicè intrantibus." Sub quibus omnibus et singulis, conscientias prælatorum suorum, sub pœna indignationis Dei omnipotentis districtiùs oneramus. Et ut præmissa citiùs fiant et faciliùs perficiantur, habeant singuli prælati, infra sua monasteria, ubi novicii admitti et profiteri debeant, præceptorem grammatices secularem, vel regularem, necnon regulæ et cæremoniarum informatores, juxta statutorum suorum exigentiam.

De obedientia.

Quoniam, præ cæteris, eximium est obedientiæ bonum, quo non propriam voluntatem religiosi sed superioris pociùs agere sint parati; cui tanquam patri obediendum esset, jubet in regula divus Augustinus filialem obedientiam, insinuans quæ promptè atque hilariter opus injunctum exequatur; et non tristiter ac pigritia, quod obedientiæ similis indicium est. Statuimus idcirco, quod fratres in cunctis, quæ secundum Deum, et pro religionis utilitate præcipiuntur, promptè suis superioribus obtemperent, absque murmure et contradictione aliqua; certi quia non homini obediunt soli, sed Deo, à quo et retributionem accipient; idque facientes, non modo animarum suarum miserebuntur, sed præpositorum suorum item, quemadmodum in regula traditur, nam ita et suas animas obediendo à peccato liberabunt inobedientiæ, et præpositos facient, ut cum gaudio suis fungantur officiis; propter quod et Paulus, ad Hebræos, ait, "Obedite præpositis vestris, et subjacete illis; ipsi enim vigilant, tanquam pro animabus vestris rationem reddituri, ut cum gaudio hoc faciant, et non gementes." Quia si Christianis omnibus hoc jubet Paulus, multò magis id religiosis est faciendum, qui se, voto labiorum suorum, ad obedientiam arctiùs astrinxerint.

Contra vicium proprietatis.

Item statuimus et ordinamus, quod nullus canonicus regularis habeat aliquid proprium, sub pœna in regula S. Augustini, et in cleme . . . dudum se sepultura proprietariis imposita; ac ut hujusmodi proprietatis vicium à sancta religione eo faciliùs tollatur, quo sese quisque nulla re indigere conspexerit; decernimus quod omnibus et singulis canonicis in victu et vestitu salubribus et decentibus, ac aliis vitæ necessariis competentibus, de communi, secundùm eorum indigentiam atque facultates domus, permiserint, quociens opus fuerit, per prælatum sive præpositum aut officiarium alium, ad hoc per eum deputatum; eis et eorum cuilibet juxta regulam prædictam plenè et liberè administretur. Et quoniam in constitutione Benedictina contineatur, ut illud quod dandum erit singulis canonicis pro vestiario, ordinetur et taxetur; nos igitur taxando statuimus, quod ultra LX. solidos annuos, nulli canonico presbytero, non officiario, vel ultra XXX. solidos, pro canònico non presbytero, magistro noviciorum porcio annua, pro vestitu et aliis necessariis, tradatur seu persolvatur; de quibus quidem LX. seu XXX. solidis annuis, cæterisque rebus queiscunque sua sub custodia existentibus, seu existere debentibus, singuli canonici, viz. presbyteri pro seipsis, et mag. noviciorum, pro non presbyteris, singulis annis suis prioribus seu præpositis, quocienscunque id requirentibus, per billas suas plenum et verum faciant compotum; post quem, si priores seu præpositi prædicti, quicquam scienter celatum seu occultatum repererint, taliter celantem seu celantes, occultantem seu occultantes, proprietatis vicio convictum, seu convictos, debitis subjiceant proprietariorum pœnis prædictis; pecunias verò, aut alia quæcunque nomine et expresso permissu prælati sui, canonicus quicunque retinens, et ad ejus requisitionem revelare, et cum effectu tradere paratus, absque alia fraudulenta excusatione quæcunque proprietarius, auctoritate præsentium censendus non erit; donatorum igitur pecuniam, aut aliter quæsita quæcunque, juxta regulam, in potestate sit præpositi donatorio, vel cui velit conferre, quæ quantacunque sic recipiens et retinens, ut prædiximus, proprietarius non erit. Curent verò præpositi, seu priores, omnia et singula præmissa diligentiùs atque districtiùs observari, semper cogitantes se Deo pro hiis rationem reddituros, consuetudini tamen seu statuto cuicunque, minorem pensionem annuam, quàm prædictorum sexaginta vel triginta solidorum, pro vestibus disponenti, dum tamen sufficienter provideatur pro eisdem; non intendimus, per istam constitutionem, in aliquo derogare.

De fœminis infra monasterium non admittendis.

Item statuimus, quod nulli fœminæ, cujuscunque ætatis, propinquitatis aut conditionis extiterit, permittatnr accessus in dormitorium, infirmarium, claustrum, aut canonicorum cellas seu cameras, vel alium locum privatum quemcunque, sed duntaxat ad loca pro hospitibus deputata, vel ad hospitia prælatorum, aut in magnis monasteriis ad cameras priorum: non intendentes per præsens statutum, quin licebit mulieribus ecclesias, infra monasteria, causa devotionis, ingredi, et per claustrum, dummodo stando vel colloquendo moram ibidem non traxerint, pertransire; sed nec ullo modo interiora septa monasteriorum, ex quibus religiosi sine prælati sui venia, egredi non debent, pernoctent.

De vestibus converso, aut alii; ad abluendum aptiori, tradendis.

Et quoniam præcipua occasio colorandi fœminarum accessus est; prætextu vestium abluendarum; idcirco quando regula instituit, ut vestes canonicorum, per aliquem ex ipsis, aut per fullonem aliquem expurgentur, provideatur idcirco per prælatos, quod fieri potest, ut uni ex laicis conversis officium illud abluendarum vestium imponatur, aut cuipiam alii ad hoc opus aptiori, ne fœminis occasio præstetur ingrediendi locum aliquem prædictorum.

De non ingrediendo septa monasterii.

Item statuimus, ordinamus, et volumus, quod nemo regulam S. Augustini professus, aut novicius, ad annum probationis admissus, non priùs exposita abbati vel priori suo causa rationabili et legitima, ac per eundem approbata, et termino quo omnino rediturus sit pro loci ad quem tendit distancia et negotii qualitate per dictos superiores priùs ei assignatos, fores aut septa monasterii usquam egrediatur, prout in constitutione Benedictina, cap. XX. cavetur; sed neque cum justa sit causa et per superiorem approbata, id faciat, nisi honestè comitatus, cum uno vel duobus, atque in habitu decenti quemadmodum in cap. xiii. constitutionum Benedictinorum continetur: nec aliquos, venandi gratia canes habeat sequaces, vel aucupandi gratia cujusvis generis aves habeat, aut deferat; seu ab aliquo secum deferri faciat vel permittat, quemadmodum in patrum cavetur institutis. Quum verò sic exierit, nunquam in opido, juxta quod, vel in quo situm est ejus monasterium, aut in vicina aliqua domo edat aut bibat, nisi inopinata ægrotatione superveniente, dum in opido fuerit, vel nisi ex mandato vel licentia speciali, petita priùs et obtenta; in quo casu præcipimus et mandamus, ut si commodè poterit, potiùs ad monasterium suum revertatur, quàm illic refectionem accipiat. In cæteris verò locis remotioribus, tanquam pestem fugiat undè ei distamen aliquod suæ castitati imminere possit; sed et in itinere, juxta regulæ ordinationem, simul incedant, neque discedant abinvicem, neque comites quos voluerit, sed quos præpositus assignaverit, habeat quisque secum, quibus hoc casu, ut præmittitur, pecunia de communi sumministretur.

De habitu et tonsura canonicorum.

Item quia congruum est, ut qui unam et eandem profitentur regulam, omnes de eodem monasterio, habitu unius coloris, et ejusdem formæ utantur, et tonsuram gerant uniformem, statuimus quod omnes canonici regulares vestibus utantur honestis, secundùm statuta Benedicti, albi, bruni, nigri, seu quasi nigri coloris duntaxat, sic quod in monasteriis abbates, præpositi, et priores, formam vestium et calciamentorum ita ordinent et disponant, quod sit omnibus canonicis ejusdem monasterii tam extrinsecùs quàm intrinsecùs uniformis, nisi fortè intrinsecùs cum aliquibus ex causa duxerit dispensandus: rochetis quoque lineis, pretii mediocris, non nimis curiosè plicatis, utantur; et calceis, non laicorum more, præstissimis, aut laqueis cericis colligatis utantur. In manicis verò, sub nullo modo, furruris utantur, aut pellibus, nisi prout eis permissum est in statutis Benedictinis, et in hiis omnibus vitentur quicquid sit preciosum, nimis curiosum, aut gloriosum nimis; seu quod esset eorum ordini contrarium aut scandolosinum; salva semper prælatorum dignitate pro decenti habitus eorundem competentia. In tonsura verò omnes cum coronis, quàm secularium clericorum, amplioribus de crinibus, ad medietatem aurium præcisis, seu amputatis, humiliter incedant, sub pœna regularis disciplinæ, ad discretionem prælatorum delinquentibus imponendà.

Item statuimus, quod omnes et singuli canonici regulares, juxta morem singulorum locorum, psalmos, et alia ad divinum cultum pertinentia, absque magna acceleratione, aut nimia morositate, cum perfecta verborum expressione, ac mediocri pausa post punctum medium, distinctè, planè, et devotè cantent. Horis verò canonicis omnibus, matutinis maximè et missæ majori, legitimo impedimento cessante, omnes et singuli canonici regulares, et præter prælatum, officiarii devotè intersint, vel regulari subjiciantur disciplinæ, si aliàs ex causa per suos secum superiores non dispensetur. Et cum inter omnes ecclesiasticos, maximè religiosos, ille canendi modus meritò sit approbandus, in quo non lasciva melodia astancium auribus blanditur, nec favor humanæ laudis in divisione notarum appetitur, sed planus cantus et modesta psallentium gravitas, dulci et quieta modulatione audientium animos, ad spiritualem delectationem, et cœlestis melodiæ desiderium incitat et invitat: nos igitur districtiùs inhibemus, ne cantus fractus vel divisus, pric-soncs vulgariter et Anglicè dictus, in choris canonicorum amodo decantetur, aut decantari permittatur.

Prohibemus insuper, quod laici, sive etiam clerici seculares cantores, tam viri quàm pueri, tempore divinorum, in choro, cum canonicis ad psallendum quovismodo admittantur: permittimus tamen, quod missas de beata Virgine, de nomine Jhesu, et consimiles, quæ extra chorum conventualem, quasi in omnibus hujus regni monasteriis, solemniter cani solent per viros seculares, etiam laicos ac pueros, cum cantu fracto seu diviso, et organis decantari facere valeant, dummodo nemo ex canonicis, eo excepto qui hujusmodi missam in altari celebrabit, intersit. Permittimus etiam quod ipsi canonici inter se, laicis et secularibus cantoribus exclusis, aliquam melodiam supra simplicem et ferialem cantum diebus dominicis et sanctorum nataliciis, festivis aliisque magnis solemnitatibus, in missis et vesperis, aliisque divinis officiis facere valeant; ita tamen, quod cantus integritas, et verborum expressio non omittantur. Verùm quia continuus et immoderatus canendi labor, non solum voces psallencium lædit, sed et ipsorum animos ad Deo serviendum imbecilliores efficit, præsertim cum in nonnullis hujus regni cœnobiis, pauci sunt canonici, et nonnunquam tres, pluresve Missæ, præter et ultra horas canonicas, sunt cum Nota quotidiè celebrandæ : idcirco nos, eorum laboribus in hac parte compacientes, quia in omnibus illorum cœnobiis organorum melodia, in choris suis et alibi ad suum relevamen uti, et ad ea pulsanda virum aliquem honestæ conversationis, laicum vel clericum secularem, dummodo canonicis nimia familiaritate se non immisceat, in suo famulicio retinere valeant, non denegamus.

De modo dicendi divina in minoribus domibus, sive monasteriis.

Item ordinamus et decernimus, quod in omnibus minoribus monasteriis, sive domibus, ubi ad horas cantandas numerus canonicorum non suppetit, Matutinas et alias horas canonicas, statutis temporibus, in choro simul, omnes canonici distinctè, et sonora voce, alternatim omnino dicere teneantur ; Missam verò, si numerus quoquo modo sufficiat, omnino cantent ; sin ad minus possint, uno celebrante ; cæteri omnes in choro, cessante causa legitima intersint orationibus, aut contemplationibus, ut religiosos decet intendentes.

Item decernimus, quod omnes canonici, qui, ut præfertur, omnibus horis canonicis interesse tenentur, post Completorium dictum à conventu, accepta aqua benedicta, ab eo qui dare solet, immediatè ad dormitorium simul regulariter transeant, ubi silencium teneant ; nec ullus indè exeat, nisi per eum, qui tunc et ibi præest licentiatus ; quia si quis secùs fecerit, graviter juxta arbitrium præpositi puniatur. In eodem verò dormitorio in cellulis distinctis singuli in singulis et separatis lectis cubent et jaceant ; et quælibet cellula, dum in ea aliquis canonicorum fuerit, toto tempore quo inibi manserit, tam de die, quàm de nocte, ab anteriori parte sit aperta, ut introspicere volentes videre possint quid intùs agatur, et contra facientes debitè, juxta arbitrium præpositi, puniatur.

De refectorio.

Item statuimus et ordinamus, quod omnes canonici regulares, singulis diebus per annum, cessante causa per prælatum approbanda, simul in refectorio comedant, præter officiarios, et quos prælatus ad mensam suam, vel alibi, ex gratia assignare dignabitur, quod ei licebit, tam infra quàm extra septa monasterii ; in quo refectorio secundùm regulam S. Augustini, de consuetis lectionem habeant, cui attentas aures accommodent, ac silentium teneant : nec tempore refectionis aliquem laicum ad eis in mensa inserviendum, nisi ex causa ibidem admittatur ; sed per eorundem canonicorum aliquem, ubi numerus suppetit, id fieri studeant. Statuimus insuper, et distinctiùs inhibemus, ne quis canonicorum aliquod genus cibi aut potus, pauperibus deputatum, seu competens, extra refectorium secum deferat, seu deferri faciat, absque speciali superioris ad hoc licentia, sub pœna debita à præpositis delinquentibus infligenda.

Ut prædicta per abbates et priores diligentius observari curentur, cum diligentia et vigilantia, super gregibus sibi commissis.

Cæterum, ut quæ in regula traduntur, cuncta fideliùs et diligentiùs adimpleantur, hunc modum divus pater Augustinus excogitavit ; nempè, ut si quid minus in regula observatum fuerit, id non negligenter prætereatur, sed emendandum corrigendumque curetur : statuimus igitur quod abbates et priores locorum provideant ut singuli fratres regulam intelligant, eandemque diligentiùs, in quantum humana fragilitas hoc permittit, observent. Et quum primum intellexerint ullam regulæ factam transgressionem, per aliquem fratrum, eam cum omni maturitate studeant emendare : modicus enim error, si non protinùs emendetur, facilè per negligentiam major evadit : capitulis igitur cotidianis, quibus omnes, causa urgente ibidem tractanda, adesse volumus ; ipsi etiam abbates et priores, cum commodè possint, maximè si opus fuerit, intersint, debitas quascunque pœnas, juxta delicti quantitatem moderentur ; sed et carcerem singuli in suis domibus provideant, ubi, si necesse fuerit, notabiliùs delinquentes graviùs puniantur. Verùm quoniam id nequeant priores monasteriorum diligenter exequi, si non affuerint gregi, cujus ipsi curam susceperint ; statuimus igitur, ut nullus abbatum vel priorum, nisi justa vel honesta causa, se absentet diutiùs à monasterio suo, sed unà cum fratribus, quàm frequenciùs possit conversetur, et præsertim in ecclesia, dum divina officia celebrantur ; ut juxta regulam, circa omnes, seipsum bonorum operum exemplum præbeat ; semper cogitans, se pro fratribus redditurum esse rationem ; et si, ex justa seu honesta aliqua causa, aliquandiu abfuerit, festinet quantum commodè possit ad monasterium suum reverti, neque unquam ultra unum mensem continuum absentet se, rationabili causa cessante, quamdiu infra septem miliaria præstiterit ; alioquin regulæ violatores ea celeritate, qua necesse foret, neque corrigere potest, neque bonæ vitæ exemplar esse fratribus, nec demum Deo pro eis rationem reddere meritò comprobandum.

Moderatio, seu modus recreationum.

Et quanquam antiquorum patrum prudentiæ et circumspectioni oportunum visum fuerat, quod claustrales canonici, onus psallendi die nocteque sustinentes, defessos animos honestis interdum solaciis recrearent : nos advertentes id quod in remedium provisum fuerat, nunc per indebitum utendi modum ad noxiam tendere, dum dicti canonici, in suis hujusmodi solaciis, existentes, nonnunquam ad integras ebdomadas à choro se absentant, et neglectis quodammodo regularibus observanciis, ludis plerumque inhonestis, et suspectarum personarum consorciis se immiscuissent, in suarum periculum animarum, religionis obprobrium, et divinæ majestati offensam ; et huic malo occurrere satagentes, statuimus, et ordinamus, quod hujusmodi canonici, ad recreationes admissi, non ut antea lusores aut mimici, de cætero, nominentur, cum denominatio nonnichil insolentiæ et lenitatis præ se ferre videatur.

Item statuimus et ordinamus, quod ipsi canonici non singuli et separatim, sed simul, in convenienti numero, superioris arbitrio moderandæ, ac non sine uno duobusve fratribus senioribus, et illis quidem gravibus viris, illos comitantibus, ad sese recreandum exeant, non in villas, vicos, et tabernas, sed in loca aprica et spaciosa ac amœna, à suis cœnobiis non multùm distancia ; quodque in suis hujusmodi recreationibus, honestis solaciis contenti, religioso et modesto corporum excercitio utantur, atque à cœtibus secularium personarum, quoad poterint abstinentes, domos laicorum, ubi frequenter delinquendi datur occasio, etiam sub colore edendi, bibendi, vel prandendi ; nisi ex superioris, tunc in monasterio actualiter præsentis, licencia speciali, non ingrediantur ; quin potiùs, ut omnis hujusmodi tollatur occasio, commeatum, quo illis opus esse videbitur, à monasterio secum deferri faciant. Ac demùm, quia singulis recreationum diebus, hora debita à solaciis ad monasterium redeant, ita quod extra cœnobium non pernoctent, nisi fortassis cum suis prælatis in suis maneriis tunc degentibus, de ipsorum prælatorum venia, ipsos esse contingat.

Quoniam in constitutione quadam Oxonii edita, capitulo scilicet primo de statu regularium cavetur, ne cum suis monasterii status ignoretur à fratribus, ut prælati non habentes possessiones à conventu separatas, et alii officiarii monasteriorum, quater, aut saltem bis quoquo anno, coram fratribus à prælato et conventu ad hoc deputatis, de receptis et expensis computum reddant ; in qua re si quis repertus fuerit negligens, ipso facto per legatinam quandam Ottobonis, capitulo de ratione administrationis reddenda, ab administratione sua suspensus efficitur, quousque compotum prædictum reddiderit : renovetur igitur hæc salutaris ordinatio, et modis omnibus curetur, ut singuli abbates et priores, ad minus semel, ac cæteri officiarii quater aut bis ad minus, annis singulis, toto præsente conventu, vel quibusdam ex senioribus, qui periciores fuerint, à prælato et conventu deputandis, plenariam de statu et de expensis et receptis exponant rationem, ac integrum et perfectum reddant calculum, sive compotum ; cujus anni computus pedem, seu verum domus statum, sub dictorum seniorum testimonio, loci ordinario, vel vicario suo generali, in sua visitatione exhibeant, et ostendant, ad hoc requisiti : Quod si quispiam abbatum, priorum, aut officiariorum, præmissa, coram conventu, ut præfertur, facere requisitus prætermiserit, ab administratione sua sit suspensus, donec id ipsum perfecerit; Consuetudini tamen locorum, per quam frequentiùs, puta mensibus vel ebdomadis singulis, computus fieri debeat, per præsentes derogare non intendimus.

De negotiis forinsecis.

Item statuimus et volumus, quod pro forinsecis redditibus colligendis, aut necessariis coemendis, laicus quispiam, aut secularis sacerdos, vel conversus honestus à prælato deputetur, talis qui commodiùs et fideliùs hæc efficere speratur; cum quo, si prælato expediens videatur, ad eundem fraudem ipsius deputati exitandam, canonicus suus, ad hoc aptus seu necessarius, dimittatur: Et quod canonicus cum senescallo, in curiis tenendis assidens, tam graviter utilitatem domus suæ attendat, totoque tempore tam religiosè se gerat, ut eandem magis quàm suam recreationem curare videatur.

De sermone Latino, et fratribus ad universitatem mittendis.

Rursum in regula constitutum est, ut codices certa hora singulis diebus petantur; nempè ut ex hiis victus et vestitus animarum quærantur, quia parùm proderit librorum lectio si modò defuerit intellectus, sermove Latinus ignoretur: vel si nemo interim adsit eruditus, qui doceat non intellecta; statuimus igitur, quod si in locis silentio deputatis, aliquando fuerit loquendum, in domo capitulari, pro tempore capituli, fratres Latinè, vel Gallicè loqui scientes, cessante causa legitima, Latinè vel Gallicè inter se omnimodo loquantur, nisi vel excennis quispiam affuerit, vel festi celebrioris gratia; in quo qui deliquerit, et monitus statim non obedierit, secundum prælati arbitrium, regulari subjaceat disciplinæ; quodque juxta statutum Benedictinum, prælatus cum conventu, ad hoc in redditibus abilis, aliquem ex suis magis idoneum, ad universtitatem Oxoniæ, vel aliam, congrua cum studentium pensione, mittat, in sacris maximè literis erudiendum; ut tandem ipse doctus possit doctrinæ suæ lumen aliis communicare. Qui verò prælatus, cum conventu, ut præfertur, moniti, miserint qui mittere deberent, pœnam decem marcarum, auctoritate præsentium pro unoquoque anno sic prætermisso, singuli incurrant, quæ pœna protinus ad commune totius capituli usum, per præsidentem vel præsidentes convertatur.

De numero canonicorum.

Item statuimus et ordinamus, quod in omnibus et singulis monasteriis, sive locis canonicorum regularium, tot sint canonci et novicii, quot primæva fundatio exigit, seu saltem tot quot, unà cum ministris et servitoribus, necessariò requisitis, modernus fructus reddituum et proventuum verus valor, annuis deductis oneribus necessariis, commodè sustentare poterit: curent igitur locorum prælati, infra annum post datam præsentium de tanto canonicorum et noviciorum numero providere, quanto, ut præfertur, unà cum ministris et servitoribus, de necessitate requisitis, fructuum, proventuum et reddituum, verus valor annuus modernus, deductis at præfertur oneribus necessariis, secundùm verum animi sui judicium, commodè sustentare poterit: Et extunc postea, stante eodem prædictorum reddituum valore, quantum erit possibile, minorem nullo modo habeat numerum; sed eundem canonicorum morte, aut aliquo quovismodo numerum diminutum, quam citiùs commodè poterit, reficere studeant, sub pœna, per præsidentes ejusdem religionis, in proximo capitulo generali, assignanda.

21 die Marcii, anno Domini M.DXIX.

Nos Thomas, miseratione divina titulo S. Ciciliæ, &c. cardinalis Ebor. et legatus de latere antedictus. auctoritate qua suprà, decernimus præ inserta statuta et ordinationes, per singula monasteria, et domos sive prioratus canonicorum regularium ordinis S. Augustini, utriusque provinciæ hujus regni Angl. exemptis et non exemptis per singulos locorum abbates, priores, sive præsidentes in eisdem locis, citra diem octavum post festum Corporis Christi, proximum futurum, publicari; et deinde, prout res exigerit, per eosdem bona fide, realiter, et cum effectu practicari; et debitæ executioni demandari: Verùm pro singulari et paterna affectione, quam erga dicti ordinis professores gerimus et habemus, non intendentes aliquod onus importabile illis imponere, præfata statuta et ordinationes solummodo usque ad festum S. Trinitatis, quod erit anno Domini millesimo quingentesimo vicesimo primo, vim suam et effectum habere volumus; quo quidem tempore, tam prælatos, quàm clerum utriusque provinciæ prædictæ, et etiam religiosos prædictos, Domino annuente, convocare intendimus, ut quid fructus ex hujusmodi statutis interim accesserit, deprehendi poterit; Et si quid religiosis hujusmodi onerosum nimis et importabile, sive aliquid addendum vel minuendum in eisdem statutis compertum fuerit, id tunc moderare et reformare, ac eisdem addere vel diminuere, secundùm quod res expostulare videbitur, curabimus.

PREMONSTRATENSIAN ORDER.

THE PREMONSTRATENSIANS were Canons who lived according to the Rule of St. Austin as reformed by St. Norbert afterwards archbishop of Magdeburgh, who set up this regulation about A.D. 1120, at Premonstratum, in the diocese of Laon in Picardy, a place so called because pointed out, as it was said, by the blessed Virgin to be the head of this reformed Order.

These Canons were also called WHITE CANONS from their habit, which was a white cassoc with a rochet over it, a long white cloak and white caps.[a] They were brought into England shortly after A.D. 1140, and settled first at Newhouse in Lincolnshire. They had in England a Conservator of their privileges,[b] but were nevertheless often visited by their superiors at Premonstre, who raised great contributions out of them,[c] as the generals or foreign heads of the Cluniacs and Cistercians also did, till restrained from it by the Parliament at Carlisle, ult. Edw. I. or A.D. 1307.[d] This statute did not restrain the foreign heads from visiting their charge in England, governing their monks, or exercising the discipline of their Order, provided they carried no money away with them. So that the Religious of this Order in England continued under the jurisdiction of the Abbat of Premonstre and the general Chapter of the Order till A.D. 1512, when they were exempted from it by the bull of Pope Julius II. confirmed by King Henry VIIIth, and the superiority of all the Houses of this Order in England and Wales was given to the Abbat of Welbeck in Nottinghamshire.[e]

Tanner reckoned about thirty-five Houses of this Order in England.

CAPUT I.

De natali Solo, et admirabili Conversione, Sanctitate, Doctrina, et Elogiis S. Norberti; de sui Præmonstratensis Ordinis Exordio et Præconio.

Hoc divinæ providentiæ (quæ suaviter omnia disponens, multò minùs quàm natura in necessariis deest) proprium est, ut cùm orthodoxæ ecclesiæ navis hæreseon, procellis, ac schismatum tempestatibus agitatur, oppugnaturque, fortissimos tunc ac peritissimos naucleros, qui periclitanti succurrant, excitet et immittat. Quippè, ut in ipso nascentis Christi ecclesiæ exordio, Simoni Mago, Simonem Petrum apostolorum principem; Ebioni et Serintho, Joannem apostolum et evangelistam: Arrio, S. Athanasium; Nestorio, S. Cyrillum; Joviniano, Vigilantio et Helvidio, S. Hieronymum; Pelagio et Manichæo S. Augustinum, &c.: ita quoque, paulò superioribus temporibus, Tanchelino hæresiarchæ, et Petro Leoni, pseudopapæ ac schismatico, S. Norbertum, Præmonstratensis nostri ordinis institutorem, instar muri ac propugnaculi, pro domo Dei objecit, opposuitque, ut ex infra dicendis patebit.

Unde et ubi natus S. Norbert.

Hic siquidem S. patriarcha, Zanctis seu Sanctis, Oliviæ oppido, quod antiquitùs Francorum Troia, et Trojana Colonia nuncupabatur, Coloniensis diœcesis, ex illustri Francorum et Germanorum Salicorum prosapiâ natus, Sanctensis ecclesiæ canonicus factus, et subdiaconus ordinatus, cùm annos pubertatis in oculis Friderici Coloniensis archiepiscopi, et Henrici V. imperatoris, magnâ sæculi vanitate, et pompâ, traduxisset, anno ætatis suæ circiter trigessimo tertio, tamquam alter Paulus et Augustinus, de cœnoso mundi gurgite, ad puritatem evangelicæ perfectionis divinâ miserante clementiâ, translatus, repentè inediâ et pervigiliis, carnem suam macerans, et ad votum suum, diaconus et presbyter simul ordinatus, se sacerdotiis, quæ possidebat, abdicavit, et luculento patrimonio, aliisque rebus suis in pauperes distractis, paupertatis Christi tunicam induit; et bajulans sibi crucem, nudus nudum Christum sequutus, prædicationisque verbo ferventissimè insistens, multos ad Dominum convertit; atque quorundam religiosorum moribus exploratis, arctioris viæ propositum, et tunc temporis inauditam districtionem, arripuit. Tùm à Bartholomæo Laudunensi antistite, diversis ejusdem diœcesis locis religioni congruentibus, sibi ostensis, tandem divinitùs, in loco Præmonstrati resedit, ibique cum tredecim sociis, quos predicationis verbo genuerat secundùm canonicæ institutionis normam, ad tenorem regulæ beati Augustini, Deo militans, Præmonstratensem ordinem, anno Domini 1120, instituit, mirificâque sanctitate illustravit, atque mirum in modum propagavit, ut testantur annales Laudunensis ecclesiæ, lib. iii. cap. 1. ad annum 1121. "Post paucos," inquiunt, "annos, ille novi luminis, novæque conversionis, non solum interioris candoris, novus inventor et incœptor, dominus Norbertus, de Germaniâ in Franciam adveniens, divinâ præcedente et comitante gratiâ, in episcopatu Laudunensi, primam illam Præmonstratensem, scilicet vineam plantavit, quæ in charitate radicata, et fundata, quasi vitis fructifera, propagines suas, à mari usque ad mare, et à flumine usque ad terminos orbis terrarum extendit, et vino fortitudinis suæ, quod lætificat cor hominis, jam ubertim inebriavit plures principes, et judices terræ, juvenes et virgines, senes cum junioribus: ita ut fortiter inebriati, nihil aliud quærant nisi laudare nomen Domini, et cantare ei canticum novum, quoniam veterem hominem cum actibus suis exuentes, et novum, qui secundùm Deum creatus est, induentes, carnales illecebras funditùs abjiciunt, et quasi de aquâ in nuptiis à Domino in vinum conversi, quæ retrò sunt obliviscuntur, et ad ea, quæ ante sunt, extenduntur. Sicque licet in terris corporaliter consistant, tamen quæ sursum sunt sapiunt, non quæ super terram, dicentes cum apostolo: 'nostra autem conversatio in cœlis est, ubi Christus est ad dexteram Dei sedens;' cœlestibusque Seraphim mente conjuncti, solo Christi jugiter ardent amore; cui etiam corpora sua exhibent hostiam viventem, sanctam, Deo placentem, candorem virtutum, quo intrinsecùs nitent, etiam in exteriori veste præferentes." Hæc Laudunenses ecclesiæ annales.

S. Norbert. ex sæculi servo, fit Christi servus.

S. Norberti elogia

Chronicon Cappenbergense hoc ipsum roborat, his verbis: "Apparuit in Westphaliâ, circa hæc tempora, anno scilicet Domini 1123, eximium quoddam jubar ecclesiæ, memorabilis ille Dei præco Norbertus, vir nimirum admirabilis gratiæ, perdulcis eloquentiæ, reformator ac propagator religionis canonicæ; cœnobiorum non paucorum fundator, tam habitu quàm voce charissimus strenuissimusque, verè pœnitentiæ prædicator, ac per omnia illius propheticæ jussionis executor; quâ dicitur, 'Parate viam Domini, rectas facite in solitudine semitas Domini nostri.'"

His suffragatur sanctus Bernardus, Clarævallensis abbas, epist. 8. ad Brunonem Coloniensem archiepiscopum; "Habetis (inquit) Norbertum, quem meliùs præsentem, præsens de talibus interrogare potestis: nam tanto vir ille in divinis aperiendis mysteriis nobis promptior, quanto et Deo proprior esse cognoscitur." Et epist. 56. ad Gaufridum Carnotensem episcopum, idem S. Bernardus, beatum Norbertum "fistulam cœlestem" appellat: "Cum," inquit, "ante hos paucos dies, ejus (videlicet Norberti) faciem videre, et de cœlesti fistulâ, ore scilicet ipsius, plurima haurire meruerim, hoc tamen ab ipso non audivi."

Antuerpiam ab hæresi Tanchelina liberat.

Innocentium papam II. contra Petrum Leonis antipapam egregiè adjuvat.

Virtutum ergo ac meritorum gloria coruscans S. Norbertus Antuerpiam, ad Tanchelini hæresiarchæ sacramentariam impiamque hæresim profligandam à Burcardo Cameracensi episcopo vocatus, anno Domini 1124, se contulit, ubi pietate et doctrinâ, verboque prædicationis tantùm profecit, ut brevi, pestem illam quæ priùs nullatenus cohibere poterat, facilè restrinxerit oppresseritque, et plurimos utriusque sexus homines Tanchelinâ illâ hæresi fascinatos, ad fidei catholicæ communionem reduxerit. Postea vir sanctus, Magdeburgensis ecclesiæ archiepiscopus invitus factus, Christi religionem in Saxonia, et Slavonia tepescentem, excitavit; quam etiam ipse apud Pomeranos, Livones, Moravos, aliosque septentrionales populos, et suorum ministerio alumnorum, latissimè propagavit, ut testatur Albertus Grantzius in suâ Metropoli, lib. vi. cap. 28, et in Vuandalia, lib. v. cap. 42, et Helmodus, lib. i. Historiæ Slavorum, cap. 84, ubi vitam Vicilini describit. Deindè vir sanctus, ut inconsutilem Christi tunicam, quæ schismate Petri Leonis antipapæ dilacerabatur, resarciret reficeretque, Herbipolim primò in Germaniam, deindè Rhemos in Galliam, postremò Romam, unà cum Lothario imperatore II. aliisque sacri ac politici ordinis proceribus se contulit, et Innocentium papam II. in sede apostolicâ, pulso Petro Leone pseudopapâ, collocavit, ut habet S. Bernardus Clarævallensis epist. 126. "Quis," inquit, "revocabit? Dei esse judicium senserunt et consenserunt Galterus Ravennas, Hildegarius Tarraconensis, Norbertus Magdeburgensis, Conradus Salsburgensis, archiepiscopi, Dei esse judicium cognoverunt et acquieverunt episcopi Equipertus Monasteriensis, Hildebrandus Pistoriensis, Bernardus Papiensis, Landulphus Astensis, Hugo Grationopolitanus, Bernardus Parmensis. Horum gloria specialis et præcipua sanctitas, et authoritas, etiam hostibus reverenda, facilè nobis, qui minorem et meriti et officii tenemus locum, aut errare secum aut sapere persuasit." Hæc D. Bernard. Cui adstipulantur Robertus de Monte Navali, in appendice ad Sigebertum, et Robertus Altissiodorensis ad annum Domini 1134, his verbis: "Norbertus (inquiunt) archiepiscopus, vir potens opere et sermone, multorum monasteriorum fundator, et sanctæ religionis eximius propagator; Innocentii papæ catholici æquissimus fautor, Petri vero schismatici justissimus execrator extitit," &c.

Quot denique homines utriusque sexus ad Dominum converterit S. Norbertus, quotque in suo Præmonstrato, et alibi, ad frugem melioris vitæ divinitùs inspiratos revocârit, manifestè liquet ex venerabilis Philippi Bonæspei abbatis libro de Continentia Clericorum, cap. 126, dicentis: "Postquam Christus Dominus monachos, bonitate gratuita, visitavit, ad clericos quoque fontem ejusdem suæ gratiæ derivavit, et in loco, cui Præmonstrato vocabulum est, quosdam ferventes spiritu congregavit, per quos ad religionem debitam longè latèque cæteros excitâvit. Illic quippe tanta clericorum efferbuit sanctitudo, tanta adversùs temporales illecebras fortitudo,ut verè in eis vita reformari apostolica videatur, quæ usque ad defectum diutini languoris molestia premebatur. Illic (inquam) abjecto sacculo pecuniariæ facultatis, execrantes mortifera lenocinia propriæ voluntatis, relinquentes eas, quas vel habebant, vel ambiebant ecclesiæ præfecturas, ducentes pro nihilo dignitates velociùs transituras, tantum studinm labori, silentio, paupertati; tantam denique impenderunt diligentiam sanctitati, ut apud eos inveniri posset et laboriosa afflictio monachorum, et sancta et devota religio clericorum. Quod profectò signanter Deus in valle voluit arctitari, ut ipsa loci concors forma esset negotio salutari, et patenter ostenderet, quia clericis, quibus ruinæ occasio erat excelsa dignitas et libertas præsidendi, opportuna erat voluntaria depressio et humilitas pœnitendi." Hactenus venerabilis Philippus Bonæspei abbas. De his vide plura cap. 2 et 3. proximè sequentibus.

CAPUT II.

De Adventu S. Norberti ad Præmonstratum locum; deque Præmonstrati Ethimologia et Descriptione, et Præmonstratensis Ecclesiæ divina Designatione et Fundatione.

B. Bartholomæi genus et promotio ad Laudunensem episcopatum.

Walderico Laudunensi episcopo à suæ urbis civibus nefariè perempto, septimo calend. Maii, anno Domini 1112, (ut testantur Sigeberti continuator, et Robertus Altissiodorensis, in suis chronicis, ad annum 1112, et chronichon Laudunensis ecclesiæ), Hugo Aurelianensis ecclesiæ decanus substituitur; quo post menses septem mortuo, vir illustris ac beatus Bartholomæus Falconis, in Burgundiâ principis potentissimi filius, ex Adelade conjuge, Hilduini Rociensis comitis filia, natus Rhemensis ecclesiæ primò canonicus, deindè thesaurarius, postmodum cum Laudunensis quoque ecclesiæ esset canonicus, unanimi totius cleri, populique Laudunensis consensu, et acclamatione, ad episcopatum Laudunensem, præter voluntatem, fuit anno Domini 1113, evectus. Quo suscepto, charactareque episcopali insignitus, statim misit manus ad fortia: nam cathedralem suam beatæ Mariæ ecclesiam, quæ cum domo episcopali, et aliis novem templis, et monasterio S. Joannis in urbe Laudunensi, tumultuantibus civibus, anno Dom. 1112, conflagraverat, celeritate summâ reparavit, et Radulpho Rhemorum archiepiscopo, Willielmo Cathalaunensi, Lisiardo Suessionensi, Godefrido Ambianensi, Huberto Sylvanectensi, episcopis præsentibus octavo idus Septembris, anno Domini 1114, consecravit. Undè civitate, et universâ provinciâ, ab hujusmodi calamitate vendicatâ, dùm ille venerabilis Bartholomæus antistes, in perquirendis undique viris, pietate et doctrinâ claris, iisque in suâ Laudunensi diœcesi collocandis, totus versatur, Calixtus papa nomine secundus, consilium Rhemos, quod priùs à Gelasio papâ secundo prædecessore suo proximo indictum fuerat mense Octobris anno 1119, convocat et celebrat: cui præfuit ipse papa; adfuit et Ludovicus Crassus Galliarum rex VI. cum omnibus pænè præsulibus occidentis. Ad quod S. Norbertus, nudis, pro more suo, pedibus, cum omnibus pænè præsulibus, B. Hugone primo ejus discipulo, et comite suo præfectus, tum ab eodem Calisto summo præsule, cum ab omnibus concilii patribus, et proceribus singulari cum humanitate fuit exceptus, nec multò post ferventissimis etiam concionibus et sermonis ubertate, cunctos in tantam rapuit admirationem, ut literas sibi, à Gelasio summo pontifice, ad prædicationem evangelii priùs concessas, ab eodem Calixto papâ secundo auctas confirmatasque facilè, nullis refragantibus, impetrârit.

S. Norbert. Calistum II. Rhemense concilium agentem adit.

Quod advertens Bartholomæus Laudunensis antistes, qui prædicto quoque aderat concilio, et certior factus Norbertum, virum apostolicum, apostolicæ clericorum regulæ restituendæ incumbere; metuens ipse, ne tam excellens viri virtus, sibi ab aliis ecclesiasticis eriperetur, clàm egit apud summum præsulem, ut ipse ecclesiæ sancti Martini, quæ in suburbio Laudunensi tum sita erat, cum potestate præesset. Quod obedientiæ munus cum subterfugere non posset vir sanctus, magnâ animi humilitate suscepit. Sed cum degentes illic clericos regulares, vitâ et moribus dissolutos, ad severiorem disciplinam revocare non valeret, noluit diutiùs oleum et operam perdere. Neque tamen loco cessit, sed privatis pietatis operibus assiduus, summi pontificis voluntatem quotidie præstolabatur. Interim Bartholomæus antistes sanctum Norbertum quibuscumque modis hortari et urgere non destitit, ut in suâ diœcesi remaneret, donec victus ipse, et episcopi authoritate et multorum tam religiosorum virorum, quam nobilium precibus, illic sedem ponere constituit. Cumque incredibili desiderio solitudinis accensus ab eodem Bartholomæo, per universam suam diœcesim quotidie duceretur, ut si quod templum, sacellumque foret illi gratum, si quæ terra culta, vel inculta, monasterio extruendo arrideret, eam pro arbitrio suo deligeret. Venerat tandem (ut referunt annales Laudunensis ecclesiæ, libri iii. cap. 4.) ad locum quendam Fusniacum nuncupatum, ut videbatur satis idoneum, quem episcopus libenter ei obtulit: sed fusâ ibi ad Deum oratione; "Revera," inquit Norbertus, "locus iste religioni opportunus est, verum non est mihi à Deo destinatus." Indè ad alium locum Thenolias nomine deductus, oratione similiter factâ, retulit huc pariter non esse sibi reservatum. Quod temporis successu experientia comprobavit. Nam D. Bernardus Claravallensis abbas, Fusniaci monasterium, Cisterciensis ordinis, anno Domini 1121, construxit, et Bartholomæus episcopus, constructa Thenoliis insigni ecclesiâ, anno Domini 1131, religiosos canonicos de ecclesiâ S. Martini Laudunensis (postquam ad Præmonstratensem venit ordinem) ibidem collocavit. Postremò accesserunt ad locum valdè incultum, et solitarium, Præmonstratum nomine, in quo erat ædicula in honorem Dei, et memoriam sancti Johannis Baptistæ constructa, quæ propter loci asperitatem, paucissimos incolas habebat. In ea fusis ad Deum orationibus, ab episcopo Bartholomæo obtinuit sanctus Norbertus, ut illic, cum Hugone socio pernoctare liceret. Interim antistes Anisiacum oppidum suum, leuca à Præmonstrato distans, petiit. Cumque vir sanctus, unà cum solo Hugone, in eadem ædiculâ orationibus instaret solito ferventius, ut Deus animi sui propositum regere dignaretur, non defuit optatum in tempore auxilium. Ecce enim repentè ei apparuit Deipara Virgo gloriosissima, angelorum choris undequaque stipata, lumineque coruscans, quæ exauditas ejus orationes denunciat, et locum, ubi caput sui ordinis fundare deberet, ei præmonstrat. Habitum quoque quo se suosque indui deceat ostendens, sic affatur: "Fili Norberte, accipe candidam vestem." Quibus dictis unà cum Angelorum comitatu et luce, ab illius conspectu se subduxit. Mane facto ad eum revertitur Bartholomæus antistes, et quid agere vellet interrogat, cum Norbertus novo gaudio gestiens, ait: "Nunc scio, reverende admodum pater, locum istum nobis à Deo designatum; hæc requies et sedes nostra; hic, per Dei gratiam, multi salvabuntur. Nec tamen sacellum istud nobis præcipua sedes erit, sed ex alterâ parte montis istius ædificabimus mansionem, in quâ habitabimus; id enim in visu mihi hac nocte ostensum fuit." Quibus auditis, pontifex sine morâ Adalberonem, sancti Vincentii Laudunensis abbatem (cujus locus erat) accersivit, cui utiliorem, ac pro tempore convenientiorem commutationem obtulit et tradidit. Quam permutationem Seifridus abbas, Adalberonis successor proximus, et totus ejusdem monasterii S.

In æde S. Martini Laudunensis præficitur.

Ad diversa diœces. loca et solitudines ducitur S. Norbert.

Præmonstratum venit.

Præmonstrati à B. Virgine de sui instituti ratione edocetur.

Vincentii conventus, ratam gratamque postmodum habuerint. Sicque Bartholomæus antistes, ædiculam S. Joannis Baptistæ, et locum Præmonstratum, cum adjacentibus vallibus, viro sancto liberum et immunem, Ludovico Crasso Francorum rege sexto comprobante, ut ex eorundem diplomatibus, in vitâ ejusdem S. Norberti, cap. 13. infra positis liquet, donavit, tradiditque. Hæc paucis verbis exprimit continuator chronici Sigeberti, sub anno 1120. "Vir Dei Norbertus (inquit) à papâ Calisto, Bartholomæo Laudunensi episcopo specialiter commendatus, cum ei ecclesia B. Martini à prædicto episcopo offerretur, tum propter urbis viciniam, tum quia ejusdem ecclesiæ clerici, propositi et vitæ ejus austeritatem horrebant, eam reliquit, et ab episcopo, diversis ejusdem provinciæ locis religioni congruentibus sibi ostensis, tandem divinitùs in loco Præmonstrati resedit, ibique solitarius religiosam vitam agere cœpit, et tempore Quadragessimæ, ad colligendos socios solus egressus, ante Pascha, cum tredecim sociis rediit, et cum iis in Præmonstrato loco, secundùm canonicæ institutionis normam, ad tenorem regulæ beati Augustini, Deo militare cœpit." Præmonstratense igitur monasterium, est in Galliæ Laudunensi diœcesi, duobus ferè milliaribus ab urbe Couciaca, in superiori ejus regionis silvâ, Vosago (vulgò Vois) dictâ, situm. Est, et totius ordinis eo nomine insigniti caput, à sancto Norberto sub apostolicâ S. patris Augustini regulâ, Calisto papâ hujus nominis secundo sedente, et Ludovico Crasso Galliarum rege regnante, institutum ac fundatum, ut testantur vulgati isti versus:

Ubi et quando cœpit Præmonstratens. ordo.

"Anno milleno centeno bis quoque deno
Sub patre Norberto fundatur Candidus Ordo;'
Vel,
"In Præmonstrato fundatur Candidus Ordo."

Hujus autem appellationis origo etsi anceps fortè et subobscura videri possit, tamen quæ à nonnullis super illâ proferuntur, propriùs ad fabnlam, et confictum gratis commentum, quàm ad rei gestæ veritatem accedere sunt putanda.

Varia et anceps Præmonstratensis loci ethimologia.

Quidam enim illustrissimæ ac generosissimæ Couciacorum familiæ historiam contexentes, Præmonstrato id nominis inditum ferè ab insigni audacissimoque illo facinore Ingelrani magni, qui primus è Couciacorum familiâ, hoc nomine fuit insignitus. Quippe cum accepisset in sylvâ, castro proximâ, ferocissimum leonem obvios quosque dilanientem, delitescere; voluit à pio quodam eremitâ, ad latibulum feræ deduci, atque citiùs quàm sperasset, occurente belluâ, inopinato casu perterritus, in hæc vernacula verba prorupit: "Sainct Jean, tu me l'as de prés monstré." Quibus è loco proximo sibi ostensum, ac præter expectationem deprehensum leonem significavit. Nihilominus tamen, excusso pavore, districtoque gladio quantumvis furentem ac reluctantem jugulavit, et membratim extemplò discerpsit. Ad perennem verò tam præclaræ victoriæ memoriam, Ingelranum ibidem cœnobium extruxisse referunt, ac Præmonstratum nominari voluisse, propè monstratum, ob verba illa repentino animi impetu ante conflictum, prolata. Præterea etiam ingentem turrim Cauciacæ arcis ædificâsse, atque in ejusdem atrio, memoriâ dignissimum cum leone certamen, eminentiori sculpturâ, æternitati commendandum curâsse, et gladium, quo immanem belluam confoderat, in eadem turri, ubi etiamnum conspicitur, servandum reposuisse. Congruat, licèt veritati hujusmodi conflictus à Francisco Aluteo libri secundi Couciacensis familiæ, capite 9. scriptus; nequaquam tamen appellatio Præmonstratensis abbatiæ indè nobis est repetenda; quoniam, imprimis, Ingelranus iste leonem non in sublimiori Couciaci sylvâ, ubi situm est Præmonstratense monasterium, interfecit, sed in inferiori dicti Couciaci nemore, ubi Ingelranus, in memoriam tam memorandi certaminis, fertur exædificâsse et fundâsse Benedictinorum monasterium beatæ Virginis de Nongento apud Couciacum, religiososque abbatem et conventum dicti monasterii adstrinxisse, ut singulis in perpetuum annis in festis nativitatis, ac resurrectionis dominicæ, et nativitatis S. Joannis Baptistæ, equitem cataphractum in Couciacense castellum mitterent, eâ ratione instructum, equo ita eximiè phalerato insidentem, ut neutri aliquid deesset, sub pœnâ maximæ emendationis mulctæ. Qui quidem eques, factis ad ingressum urbis, et castelli requisitis; solitisque cæremoniis, officiariis dicti Couciaci præsentibus, ex equo desilit, genu flectit, et factâ clientefari fide coram idolo ingentis leonis saxei, in area castelli ad dictam turrim constituto, vinum et russolas (quas vocant) in modum lunæ crescentis efformatas, ad quendam numerum offeret, donoque dat, quas officiarii prædicti recipiunt, datâ pro consuetudine apochâ.

Secundò Ingelranus ille abbatiam Præmonstratensem non extruxit, reditibusque dotavit, sed venerabilis Bartholomæus Laudunensis antistes, longo temporis post mortem illius Ingelrani intervallo, ut ex supradictis et infra dicendis patebit. Tertiò, in vitâ sancti patriarchæ nostri Norberti à beato Hugone primo ejus discipulo, et successore exaratâ, hæc disertis verbis, cap. 10. leguntur: "Victus tandem Norbertus ipsius scilicet Bartholomæi, Lauduni clavati pontificis, et multorum aliorum, tam religiosorum quam nobilium virorum precibus, elegit locum valdè desertum et solitarium, qui ab incolis antiquitùs Præmonstratum, à prato monstrato vocabatur."

Alia loci Præmonstratensis ethimologia.

Alii Præmonstratum, à prato monstrato deducunt, prato, scilicet, aliàs per monachos Benedictinos abbatiæ S. Vincentii Laudunensis detecto et patefacto. His enim, cum Elenandus quadragesimus primus Laudunensis episcopus, dono et elemosynâ horrendum quoddam desertum, Vosagum nomine, in sublimiori Couciaci ejusdem tituli, sylvâ, dumis frequentioribus luxurians, paludibus, et vallibus hinc indè refertum, maximis altisque compressum montibus, nulli denique pervium, erogâsset, monachi illi plerasque deserti valles rudes et incultas novârunt et excoluerunt. Hanc nominatim à majore cloacâ, tunc temporis in eo loco, ubi hodierna die ecclesia, et claustraria loca.

Præmonstratensis monasterii constructa videntur extentem, ad rivum usque è stagno Humberti pontis promanentem, ibique pratum parârunt, quod Præmonstratum, à prato monstrato, seu à loco expurgato, nuncupârunt. Et ut hocce desertum mansioni et incolatui aptum redderent, quasdam casas et tuguriola rustica, cum exili sacello sub invocatione sancti Johannis Baptistæ, quod vocaverunt Capellam divi Johannis ad Desertum Præmonstratense, exædificârunt. In quo monachus quispiam, è supradicto sancti Vincentii cœnobio, omnibus festis, et dominicis diebus, sacrosanctum missæ sacrificium celebraret coram fratribus conversis, et oblatis seu donatis, et aliis mercenariis, deserto expurgando, et ad agriculturam disponendo, in utilitatem dictorum monachorum occupatis. Successu verò temporis, monachi illi aliis locis terrisque, tùm fertilioribus, tùm monasterio vicinioribus aucti, indè secesserunt, et incultum ut antea, desertum et pratum, reliquerunt, quemadmodum testatur venerabilis Bartholomæus Laudunensis antistes in cartularibus, documentis, ac literis commutationis et repetitionis dicti deserti, et Prati Monstrati è manibus Adalberonis abbatis; et Seifridi ejus successoris abbatis, necnon monachorum præfati monasterii sancti Vincentii Laudunensis, ut illud sancto Norberto conferret, quorum exemplar habetur infra in Vitâ S. Norberti, cap. 13. Adeoque quando desertum hoc, et sacellum sancti Johannis ad desertum Prati Monstrati sancto Norberto concessum et donatum est, locus ille in pristinam solitudinem tùm redierat, ut fidem facit ejusdem venerabilis Bartholomæi collatio facta sancto Norberto hisce verbis: "Modo verò, quia penitùs in solitudinem universa erant ibi redacta, abbas Seifridus et conventus sancti Vincentii, utile duxerunt esse consilium, in nostram manum reddere, et ad nostram dispositionem pendere, quod et factum est. Undè nihil meliùs esse considerantes in hoc negotio, eandem ecclesiam, cum omnibus quæ monachi prædicti ibidem possidebant, eidem Norberto venerabili viro, et successoribus ejus, in sancto proposito viventibus, similiter ab omni exactione liberè condonavimus, perpetuo possidenda," &c.

Quæ omnia, etsi vera sint, certum tamen est, Præmonstratense monasterium non esse constructum in eo loco, quondam exculto, et prato monstrato; sed altiùs, septentrionem versùs, in loco, quem sancto patriarchæ nostro Norberto, beatissima Dei genitrix Virgo designavit, ut dictum est superiùs. Undè convenientior, atque etiam verior, Præmonstratensis monasterii appellationis ratio desumenda videtur; non ex loco illo vicino expurgato, sed ex eo quod locus monasterii construendi fuerit per Virginem beatissimam præmonstratus. Quæ quidem loci designatio fuit insigni postmodum miraculo, epiphania scil. crucifixi, qui se ibidem videndum, adorandumque præbuit confirmata. "Cumque (inquit, cap. 18. Vitæ sancti Norberti) de ædificandâ Præmonstratensi ecclesiâ, in alterâ montis parte, per visionem, seu revelationem præmonstratâ, meditaretur sanctus Norbertus, locus ille adeo palustris, cæterisque incommodis supra modum obnoxius inventus est, (horrenda quippe extabat cloaca inter quatuor ingentes montes media, quatuorque valles in modum tamen crucis, cujus pes in austrum protenditur, arbitrio cœlesti compositus), ut multis terrorem incuteret, suâque asperitate Dei famulos à sancto proposito deterreret. Quare intentâ supplicatione vir sanctus Deum orare et consulere cœpit; moxque visibiliter eodem in loco, Christus in cruce pendens apparuit; super quem septem solis radii miræ claritatis effulgebant. Visa quoque fuit ex quatuor mundi partibus, innumerabilis candidatorum peregrinorum multitudo, ad ipsum confluere; qui flexis genibus, adorato suo Redemptore, et pedibus illius osculo dato, quasi acceptâ licentiâ, ad diversas mundi regiones dimicaturi, revertebantur."

Præmonstratensis loci asperitas.

Præmonstratum unde.

Itaque secundùm rei veritatem, majorum nostrorum doctrinâ, traditione, documentis, codicibus, et monimentis confirmatam; privilegiis etiam plurimis ordini (prout tempus et ratio postulavit) à pontificibus Romanis, Franciæque regibus, ultrò concessis, comprobatam: "Præmonstratum (quod ad monasterii et ordinis nomen est) à loco priùs, et divinitùs monstrato nuncupatum esse asserimus, ut ex proximè dicendis patebit, A.D. (inquit vetustissimum ordinis nostri documentum) millesimo, centesimo, decimo nono, sub Romano pontifice Calisto secundo, ordo Præmonstratensis florere cœpit in Laudunensi diœcesi, à venerabili patre domino Norberto, Magdeburgensis ecclesiæ archiepiscopo, qui à Deipara Virgine edoctus, ut ipsum ordinem à supradicto viro apostolico peteret, et post hoc, locum ubi caput, et mater ecclesiarum ordinis esset construendum, eadem gloriosa Virgo ille præmonstravit. Undè ipse ordo Præmonstratensis nuncupatus est." Hoc idem innuere videtur Innocentius papa secundus, in suo diplomate ad beatum Hugonem Præmonstratensem abbatem, et ad ejus co-abbates, præpositos, priores, et canonicos Præmonstratensis ordinis, dato Pisis, quinto nonas Maii, anno Domini 1135, pontificatus sui anno quinto, his verbis: "Sacer ordo vester in agro dominico divinâ dispensatione plantatus, apostolicis gratiis dignè meretur attolli, cujus possessores, mundanis à se relegatis illecebris cœlestium contemplationi vacantes, insistant jugiter profectibus animarum," &c.

Miraculosa institutio Præmonstr. ordinis.

"Carolus Dei gratiâ Francorum rex, notum facimus universis, tam præsentibus, quàm futuris, nos ad supplicationem dilectorum nostrorum in Christo religiosorum abbatis et conventus monasterii beatæ Mariæ Virginis Præmonstratensis, necnon dilectorum nostrorum abbatum, prælatorum, priorum, præpositorum, decanorum, canonicorum, conversorum, donatorum, et delectarum nostrarum abbatissarum, monialium, conventuum, et personarum, in monasteriis, sive locis ejusdem ordinis existentium inclytæ recordationis charissimi progenitoris nostri (cujus anima pace fruatur) vidisse, et probâsse formam literarum, quæ sequitur continentem: 'Ludovicus Francorum rex, ad perpetuam rei memoriam, dum penès mentis nostræ arcana propensius revolvimus synceritatem, integritatem, longevamque durationem, ac divinam, imò miraculosam institutionem Præmonstratensis ordinis, qui magnis jam defluxis temporum curriculis, mystico spiramine, ac beatissimâ et gloriosissimâ Virgine Mariâ, Christi Redemptoris nostri matre revelante, per pium illius ordinis patrem, primumque institutorem beatum Norbertum, virum quidem vitæ sanctimonia, multisque coruscantem, clarentemque miraculis, noscitur institutus, atque illi candidus dicti ordinis habitus, pariter atque locus in pago Laudunensi, per eandem beatissimam et gloriosissimam Virginem Mariam, ubi Præmonstratense monasterium, præfati ordinis caput, et fundamentum, construi deberet, præmonstratus; undè Præmonstratensem ordinem, sibi nomen assumpsisse, multis authenticis documentis, historiisque probatissimis, compertum est,' &c. Datum in nostro palatio Parisiensi, mense Februario, anno Domini millesimo, quadringentessimo, nonagessimo primo."

Jam superest Præmonstratensis loci et vallis descriptionem, atque encomium, ex venerabili Philippo Bonæspei abbate lib. de Continentiâ Clericorum 126, audire: "Ipsa (inquit) vallis, non incongruè Præmonstrata nominatur, dans intelligi, quia humilitas clericorum ibidem Deo famulantium, non temerè, non fortuitis est adinventionibus inchoata; sed eam divina misericordia in exemplum cæteris præmonstravit, quibus per hanc revertendi ad se aditum demonstravit. Nec vacat quod hanc vallem divina providentia sic formavit, ut ipsa loci facies videatur quiddam grave et asperum præmonere, eique præmonenti humilis clericorum obedientia respondere. Ad modum enim crucis eadem vallis iu quatuor cornua dilatatur, ejus planities in quatuor angulis terminatur, à quorum orientali in occidentalem tenditur latitudo; ab aquilonari verò ad australem ejusdem longitudo. Quæ loci facies cui tanta crucis similitudo est infixa? Quæ vallis non humano molimine, sed naturali opere quodammodo crucifixa, quid monet vel præmonet, nisi ut ad eam confluentes mundo vivere jam non curent, sed se illi, imò Christi crucifixione congruâ configurent? Præterea in eam vallem, per quatuor illa cornua devenitur et in eis medium quoddam quadrivio, id est, via quadrupla convenitur, ut ei scil. à quatuor mundi partibus convenarum grata multiplicitas infundatur, et in quatuor mundi partes religionis opinio diffundatur. Hoc est illud prædium Getsemane; in quod, cum discipulis suis veniens, Christus erat; in quo tristitia et sudore, articulo passionis imminente laborat; in quo discipulos suos, qui timoris et incredulitatis gravi somno premebantur, excitat ad orandum, ne in tentationis irrevocabile præcipitium inducantur. Et veniunt (inquit) in prædium, cui nomen Getsemani, vallis pinguedinis, quæ à monte Oliveti desuper obumbratur; quia Christus qui veraciter mons dicitur olivarum, obumbrat et protegit convallem lacrimarum, et impinguat eam; non tamen oleo peccatoris, sed amore devotissimo Creatoris. In hac valle clericorum somnolentia et torpor noxius increpatur; in hac eorum solicitudo ad vigilandum et orandum instantius excitatur. In hac Christus cum eis, et pro eis, sustinet tædere et pavere, ut et ipsi non renuant pœnitentiæ molestias pro eo sustinere. Huic valli Christus benedictionis suæ munera superinfundit; per hanc, largo impetu, oleum suæ charitatis diffundit; hanc implet salubriter, sicut certo Joannis instruimur documento. Undè autem impleat David determinans, Valles, inquit, abundabunt frumento. Hoc autem frumentum fortè idem ipse Christus est, qui cadens in terram feracius pullulavit, qui passionis mola tritus, pane vitæ humiles suos pavit, qui clericis humilibus largitur refectionis salutaris nutrimentum, et eisdem jam adultis confert gloriosi decoris ornamentum. Propter quod in canticis lillium se convallium voluit nominare, ostendens, quia eos qui propter ipsum non gravantur abjectionis molestias tolerare, ipse honore et gloriâ festinat coronare, et eos qui non recusant, sicut monet apostolus, ad pœnitentiam contristari, luctu verso in gaudium facit sine termino gratulari. Candor quippe lilii signat solemnitatem gaudii, quâ humilem clericorum justitiam munerabit, cum se illis facie ad faciem demonstrabit." Hæc venerabilis Philippus Bonæspei abbas, quæ omnia eleganter expressit frater Antonius Trutius, in S. Michaele Antuerpiæ canonicus, et sacræ theolog. baccal. formatus, his versibus:

Vallis et loci Præmonstrascriptio.

Et esse Præmonstratus ordo nisi hic potest."

"Innocentius episcopus, servus servorum Dei, dilectis filiis . . abbati Præmonstratensis ejusque co-abbatibus et conventibus universis Præmonstratensis ordinis, salutem et apostolicam benedictionem. Pro divini ~~honore~~ nominis cujus laudibus sollicita diligentiâ deservitis, id digne vobis ab apostolicâ sede conceditur, per quod vestra religio decoris augmentum et status tranquilli materiam consequatur. Cum itaque Præmonstratensis ecclesia, quæ caput est totius vestri ordinis, postquam ipse prout asseritis extitit institutus à tribus primis abbatibus et annuis visitatoribus, omnes aliæ verò ecclesiæ ipsius ordinis semper a Præmonstraten. et patribus abbatibus ac visitatoribus et aliis de ordine ipso destinatis ab eis, et a nullo alio nisi de mandato sedis apostolicæ visitatæ fuerint vel correctæ; ac in privilegio eidem ordini ab apostolicâ sede concesso habeatur expressè quod si quid in personis et ecclesiis ipsius fuerit corrigendum, ad audienciam generalis Præmonstratensis capituli referatur, ut ibi prout justiciæ et honestati congruerit emendetur. Nos devotionis vestræ precibus annuentes quod prædictæ Præmonstraten. et aliæ ecclesiæ sicut olim sit et imposterum à præfatis abbatibus ac visitatoribus et aliis, de ordine sæpedicto dumtaxat, et à nullo alio sine mandato sedis apostolicæ plenam faciente de præsentibus mentionem visitari possitis aut corrigi, vobis auctoritate apostolicâ indulgemus. Nulli ergo omnino hominum liceat hanc paginam nostræ concessionis infringere vel ei ausu temerario contraire. Abbey of Newhouse, Neuahus, or Newsome,

IN LINCOLNSHIRE.

HERE, says Tanner, was the first Monastery of the Premonstratensian Order in England, which was built by Peter de Gousla or Gousel, A.D. 1143, as some,[a] and A.D. 1146, as others,[b] to the honour of St. Mary and St. Martial.[c] In it were maintained, about the time of the Dissolution, an abbat and eleven canons. THOMAS HARPHAM was abbat in the 26th Hen. VIII., when the total of the revenues of this House amounted to 114*l.* 1*s.* 11½*d.*; the clear income to 92*l.* 2*s.* 10½*d.* This, with many other religious Houses in Lincolnshire, was granted in the 30th Hen. VIII. to Charles duke of Suffolk.[d]

There are several CONVENTUAL SEALS of this Abbey among the Harleian Charters in the British Museum, the most ancient of which is probably that which represents an abbat at full length with his crozier, and with this Inscription, SIGILLV̄ . CONVENTVS . SC̄I . MARCIALIS . AP'LI . DE . NEUHVSA.

Abbey of Alnewick, in Northumberland.

THIS Abbey was founded for Premonstratensian Canons by Eustace Fitz John, A.D. 1147. It was dedicated to the blessed Virgin, and was valued 26th Hen. VIII. at 194*l.* 7*s.* in its total revenue, and in the clear receipt at 189*l.* 15*s.* It was suppressed among the smaller Monasteries, but was refounded by King Henry the Eighth by Letters Patents bearing date 30th January in his 28th year. It was again surrendered to the King 22 Dec. 31 Hen. VIIIth.[a]

ADAM abbat of Alnwick occurs in Gale's Scriptores, vol. i. pp. 167, 182, 233. THOMAS ALNEWYK occurs as abbat 1482 and 1487. PATRIC GULL, 1491.

The Site of this House was granted, 4th Edw. VI., to Ralph Sadler and Laurence Winnington. After they had parted with the site of the Abbey, it went with the demesnes to Sir Francis Brandling, knight, and afterwards to the Doubledays, from which family it was purchased by Middleton Hewitson, Esq., in 1798, and not long afterwards it was sold to the Duke of Northumberland.

The only portions of this Abbey now remaining are the Gateway and a Tower. Its site is at a small distance from Alnewick Castle.

The COMMON SEAL of this House has not been met with by the present Editors.

TANNER calls this Abbey Hepp, now Shapp, olim De Valle Magdalenæ. Thomas Fitz Gospatric Fitz Orme,[a] in the latter end of the reign of King Henry the Second,[b] built, at Preston in Kendale, an Abbey for Præmonstratensian Canons, to the honour of St. Mary Magdalene; they seem, however, to have removed in their founder's life-time to a valley in the parish of Hepp, where they continued till the Dissolution, about which time herein, according to a

No Impression of the SEAL of Shapp Abbey has been seen by the Editors.

The Abbey Church was a spacious edifice, built of white freestone, so exceedingly durable as to preserve the marks of the chisel to the present day. Its tower and some fragments of its chancel walls remain, specimens of excellent masonry, and the ground on the south of it, for a considerable distance, is covered with the foundations of its cloisters and offices, many of them vaulted underneath.[b]

Abbey of Welbeck, in Nottinghamshire.

TANNER calls this an Abbey for Premonstratensian canons from Newhouse, in Lincolnshire, begun in the parish of Cukenay, 18 Steph. A. D. 1153,[a] and finished in the reign of King Henry II.[b] by Thomas fil. Ricardi fil. Jocei le Flemangh,[c] from whose heirs and descendants John Hothom bishop of Ely, A. D. 1329, bought the whole manor of Cukenay, with other lands and advowsons of this Abbey, the former of which he settled upon the Abbat and Convent; who thereupon added eight canons to their former number, the latter he annexed to the see of Ely, and so his successors, bishops of Ely, were after that time accounted founders or patrons[d] of this House, which was dedicated to St. James,[e] and made the chief Abbey of the Premonstratensian Order in England, A. D. 1512.[f]

Thoroton, in his History of Nottinghamshire, has recited the gifts to this Monastery recorded by Dugdale, with various others from the Abbey Register; to these Abstracts the reader can have recourse.

The gross amount of the revenues of this House in the 26th Hen. VIII. amounted to 298*l.* 4*s.* 8*d.* The net income was 249*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* per annum. The Site was granted in the 30th Hen. VIII. to Richard Whalley.

Tanner gives the ARMS of Welbeck, Gu. on three Lozenges en fesse Ar. as many Roses Gu. Cole MS. vol. xviii. fol. 214, gives the Lozenges Or. See also another Note of these Arms MS. Lansd. 255, fol. 13.

Tanner mentions a REGISTER of Welbeck as in 1613 in the possession of Richard Whalley of Screton, and another as belonging to Robert earl of Kingston in 1630; but whether either of them was the same with the Register which still forms the Harleian MS. 3640.[g] does not appear.

Several other Instruments, Letters, &c. relating to Welbeck will be found in Peck's Collections for a Supplement to the Monasticon, MS. Donat. Brit. Mus. No. 4935. vol. ii. where fol. 76. is a Copy of an Instrument of Visitation dated May 4th, 1472, 12 Edw. IV.; fol. 79, of another Visitation in 1482; and fol. 80, of a third in 1478.[h]

Appended to the Harleian Charter, 45 A. 6. is a SEAL of Adam abbat of Welbeck, the Instrument dated in 1193. It is small, of an oval form; in the area a hand and arm clothed, holding a Crozier, circumscribed, SIGILLVM ADE ABBATIS DE WELLEBE . .

Et prædictus Richardus, ante desponsationem Hawisiæ, consanguineæ comitis, dedit ei, et hæredibus, ex ea procreandis; scilicet, duas carucatas terræ in Cukeneya, quas prædictus rex dedit ei per prædictum servitium. Et idem Richardus ex eadem genuit quendam filium, nomine Thomam. Et prædictus Tho. nutritus fuit in curia domini regis, et post mortem patris sui Richardi, tenuit illam terram per prædictum servitium, de prædicto rege, benè et in pace usque ad veterem guerram, et tunc fecit sibi castellum in prædicta terra de Cukeney. Ipse verò Tho. fuit vir bellicosus in tota guerra. Et post prædictam guerram (regno Angliæ pacificato), regnante Henrico secundo, fundavit abbathiam de Wellebec. Prædictus autem Tho. accepit uxorem, Emmam nomine, et genuit ex ea filiam, nomine Isabellam. Et post mortem prædicti Tho. Isabella fuit in custodia domini regis. Et prædictus rex dedit eandem Isabellam Simoni filio Simonis. Et iste Sim. genuit ex eadem Isabella tres filias; videlicet, Agnetam, Isabellam, et Petronillam, et illæ tres filiæ fuerunt in custodia domini regis, et dominus rex dedit custodiam illarum, et maritagium domino Waltero de Fawcumberge.

Et idem Walterus dedit Petronillam, tertiam filiam, Steph. fratri suo de Fawcumberge, in uxorem, cum prædictis carucatis terræ in Cukeneya, quas tenuit de domino rege. Et idem Steph. genuit ex prædicta Petronilla filium, nomine Will. Et idem Will. fuit in custodia domini regis Johannis. Et idem rex dedit custodiam, et maritagium Adæ de sancto Martino. Et dictus Adam dedit eidem Will. Ydam filiam suam in uxorem. Et idem Will. genuit ex eadem Yda filium, nomine Henricum. Et idem Henricus relevavit illam prædictam terram, et dedit pro relevio suo domino regi . . . . . . argenti, et fecit eidem regi homagium. Prædictus Henricus genuit filium nomine Willielmum, qui cepit in uxorem filiam dominæ Matildis de Goya, et genuit ex eâ tres filios, Joh., Henricum, et Will. Joh. fuit stultus, nec potuit tenere terram patris sui; sed Henricus fecit finem cum rege, pro prædicta terra, tali conditione, ut sustineret Joh. fratrem suum primogenitum, sed citò postea moriebatur, et sic tenuit Henricus prædictam terram. Et postea desponsavit filiam domini Roberti de Herteford, Helenam nomine.

UNIVERSIS sanctæ matris ecclesiæ filiis, præsentem paginam inspecturis, J. de Nottingham, abbas monasterii de Wellebeck, et ejusdem loci conventus, salutem in Domino sempiternam. Majestatis divinæ inscrutabilis altitudo, illorum merita condigno premio recompensat, qui domus dominicæ sic amplificant facultates, ut terrena in cœlestia, transitoria in æterna, fælici commercio transferant, et commutent. Vigor quidem exigit veritatis, ac æquitatis, quod bonorum largitio piis usibus perpetuo titulo applicata, quatenus processerit ex zelo fervidæ caritatis, eatenus firmitatis perpetuæ robore muniatur, ac jugi, et continuæ memoriæ commendentur. Hinc est quod vestræ universitati patefaciamus, per præsentes; quod cum reverendus in Christo pater dominus Johannes de Hothum, Dei gratia episcopus Eliensis, ad cœlestia desideria erigens mentem suam, affectansque divini cultus officium ampliare (optenta licentia à domino nostro rege) nobis dedisset et concessisset manerium suum de Cukeney, cum pertinentiis, et duo messuagia, centum et viginti acras terræ, octo acras prati, et sex acras bosci, cum pertinentiis in Holbeck juxta Cukeney, in comitatu Nottinghamiæ, in puram et perpetuam elemosinam, et ob devotum divini obsequii incrementum. Nos præfati abbas et conventus, non astricti, nec in aliquo compulsi; sed ex mera, libera, et spontanea voluntate nostra, ac ex pura et sana conscientia excitati, ut benefactoribus nostris, de beneficiis tutiorem reddamus rationem, coram æterni Judicis tribunali, ex unanimi assensu, et concensu ordinamus; et nos et successores nostros efficaciter obligamus, invenire octo canonicos in abbathia nostra, sub regulari observantia Altissimo famulantes, singulis diebus divina officia celebrantes, et celebrationem ipsam, die confectionis præsentium, solemniter incœpturos, pro anima domini Edwardi regis Angliæ, avi domini nostri regis Angliæ nunc; et pro anima domini Edwardi nuper regis Angliæ, patris ejusdem regis Angliæ nunc; pro salubri statu dominæ Isabellæ reginæ Angliæ, matris ejusdem domini regis nunc, et liberorum suorum; et præcipuè pro statu ipsius regis nunc, et dominæ Philippæ consortis suæ, reginæ Angliæ, dum vixerint; et pro animabus eorundem, cum migraverint ab hac luce. Necnon pro animabus Alani et Matildis, patris et matris præfati domini Jahannis de Hothum, episcopi Eliensis; ac pro animabus liberorum ipsorum Alani et Matildis, defunctorum, et vivorum, cum decesserint; et pro anima fratris Willielmi de Hothum, quondam episcopi Dubliniæ, pro statu dominæ Mariæ de Sancto Paulo comitissæ Pembrochiæ, et anima sua, cum à corpore fuerit separata; ac etiam pro anima domini Petri de Gaveston, dudum comitis Cornubiæ; et pro animabus domini J. de Wogan, et Isabellæ uxoris suæ; et pro domino Radulfo Camoys, et Elizabetha uxore sua; et pro animabus suis post mortem eorundem, pro domino J. de Fawconberge; et pro anima sua post decessum ejusdem, et specialiter pro statu salubri præfati domini episcopi, dum extiterit in humanis; et pro anima sua, cum à medio sit sublatus; et pro omnibus illis qui eidem episcopo fideliter servierunt, et sibi in terris beneficia impenderunt; ac etiam pro animabus omnium fidelium defunctorum.

Et præter hoc anniversarium præfati domini episcopi in abbathia nostra; nos, et omnes nostri successores, quamdiu mundus duraverit, celebrabimus, cum tanta solemnitate, sicut anniversarium primi et præcipui fundatoris nostri, tam in elemosinis pauperibus erogandis, quàm in divinis obsequiis consuevit, transactis temporibus, celebrari; et omni die qua perlecta fuerit in capitulo nostro commemoratio mortuorum, ejus anima absolvetur inibi nominatim; et quotiescunque aliquis octo canonicorum prædictorum, ob infirmitatem, vel aliam causam legitimam celebrare fuerit impeditus; tunc alius canonicus de domo nostrâ supplebit fideliter vicem suam. Et cum aliquis ipsorum octo canonicorum viam universæ carnis fuerit ingressus, statim et sine moræ dispendio, loco sui unus alius canonicus subrogeretur.

Nos etiam frater J. de Nottingham, abbas monasterii de Wellebeck, et omnes et singuli canonici de conventu, admitti, et in præsentia Richardi de Barthon, publici, autoritate apostolicâ, notarii constituti, tactis et inspectis sacrosanctis evangeliis, juramentum corporale, quod numerum prædictorum octo canonicorum, in celebratione hujusmodi minimè minuemus, sed ipsam fieri faciemus; eamque manutenebimus imperpetuum debitè, et decenter, quodque nihil impetrabimus à domino nostro summo pontifice, nec à domino rege Angliæ, aut à superioribus ordinis Præmonstratensis, aut ab aliquo alio, cujuscunque fuerit dignitatis, præeminenciæ, status, ordinis, conditionis, aut etiam potestatis, quò minùs celebratio prædicta in aliqua subtrahatur. Et quilibet abbas in nostro monasterio de novo creatus, priusquam sibi conventus obedientiam fecerit, et ipse in nostro monasterio installetur, et singuli novitii, antequam in eodem monasterio ad probationem admittantur, ejusdem juramenti vinculo astringantur, viz. quod ordinationem prædictam, in singulis suis articulis, fideliter conservabunt, et pro posse suo perpetuò manutenebunt.

Porro si ordo noster (quod absit) aliquo casu emergente, prohibitioni perpetuæ supponatur, vel in alium ordinem transferatur, tum volumus et concedimus præsentium per tenorem, quod præfatus episcopus, vel hæredes sui, præfatum manerium de Kukeneye, et duo messuagia, centum et viginti acras terræ, octo acras prati, et sex acras bosci, cum pertinentiis, in Holbeck, juxta Kukeneye, absque omni obstaculo ingredi valeant, et gaudere pacificè de eisdem. Cæterùm, ut præsens ordinatio, sine diminutione, seu aliquali in pejus commutatione perpetuis temporibus perseveret et inviolabiliter observetur; nos præfati abbas et conventus, omnes et singuli in sacerdotio constituti, candelis accensis, et stolis collo appositis, excommunicationis vinculo innodavimus omnes illos et singulos, qui præfatam ordinationem, vel aliquam partem ejusdem infirmaverit, infringerit, minuerit, aut violaverit, infirmari, infringi, minui, aut violari procuraverit quovismodo, vel ordinationi eidem in aliquo præsumpserint contraire. Subjicientes nos, successoresve nostros, in hac parte jurisdictioni, et cohercioni venerabilis viri abbatis de Neuhus, patris abbatis nostri, et annuorum visitatorum, ut annuatim in visitationibus suis possint nos de reatu perjurii arguere, et animadvertione condignâ punire, et contra nos et nobis in eodem monasterio successuros, tanquam contra excommunicatos, canonicè procedere, juxta regularis exigentiam disciplinæ, si ordinationem prædictam invenerint violatam, vel in aliqua diminutam. Et ne oblivio aboleat, quod caritative instituit gratitudo; omni anno, die Animarum, præsens ordinatio in nostro monasterio, in omnium fratrum præsentiâ, perlegetur.

In quorum omnium testimonium atque fidem, sigillum nostrum commune, tam parti hujus indenturæ tripartitæ, penes prædictum dominum episcopum residentem, quàm parti indenturæ ejusdem, penes prædictum patrem nostrum abbatem remanentem, duximus apponendum. Tertia verò pars supradictæ indenturæ, penes nos remanens, est sigillo ejusdem domini episcopi consignata. Data apud Wellebeck in domo nostra capitulari, vicesimo nono die Decembris, anno Domini MCCCXXIX. et regni regis Edwardi tertii, à conquestu tertio.

Abbey of Croxton, in Leicestershire.

TANNER says, William Porcarius de Linus built here, A.D. 1162, an Abbey of Premonstratensian Canons to the honour of St. John the Evangelist. Peck says to the Virgin Mary and St. John. Peck calls the founder William Portarius.

It is impossible for the Editors of this Work to do much more than refer the reader to the very elaborate Account of Croxton Abbey, published by Mr. Nichols in his History of Leicestershire, vol. ii. P. i. p. 151—157, with the Appendix to that Account, No. xi. p. 77—104.

The following are the names which occur of its ABBATS: THOMAS, probably the first abbat, who died in 1154; ADAM, 1203 and 1220; ELIAS, 1228 and 1230: RALPH DE LINCOLN, 1231; JOHN, 1241; GEFFREY, 1242 and 1250; THOMAS, 1250; WILLIAM DE HOUGHTON died 1274; WILLIAM DE GRAHAM succeeded; JOHN, 1310; W. DE BRACKLEY, 1310 and 1319; JOHN OF GRANTHAM, 1336; JOHN ARGHUM, 1477; JOHN ASGLIN, 1478 and 1491; ELIAS ATTERCLIFF elected Sept. 10th, 1491, died 1534; ROBERT DERBY, 1534; THOMAS GREENE was the last abbat. Greene, with twenty monks of his House, surrendered it to the King's Visitors Sept. 8th, 1539, and had a pension of 80*l.* per annum.

The possessions of Croxton Abbey were granted to Thomas Earl of Rutland and the lady Eleanor his wife by letters patent dated at Westminster, 17th March, 30th Hen. VIIIth.

This House in the 26th Hen, VIIIth was rated to the gross income at 458*l.* 19*s.* 11½*d.*; clear, at 385*l.* 0*s.* 10¾*d.*

The Instruments copied by Mr. Nichols preclude the necessity of transcribing Tanner's references to Manuscripts and Records concerning this House.[a]

The COMMON SEAL of Croxton, taken from the Surrender in the Augmentation Office, is engraved in Nichols's History of Leicestershire, vol. ii. P. i. pl. xxxvi.

Stevens, in the Supplement to the Monasticon, vol. ii. p. 148, says, This Monastery, in the reign of King Edward the Third, was almost burnt down, and the Canons thereof all perished by pestilence, except the Abbat and Prior, as may be seen in that King's Letter in the Appendix,[b] excepting the abbat from collecting the tenth for the King for those reasons, as also because the said Abbat was infirm, and the Monastery stood in a lonely place, where the money so collected could not be secure.

Status Villæ de Croxton et de Segbroke, quæ est de honore de Eyâ.

[Ibid.]

Cum istæ villæ essent in manu regis Henrici, patris regis Johannis, et Richardi, placuit domino Henrico regi escambium facere cum Willielmo Parcario de terra sua de Corsham, dans eidem Willielmo prædictas villas de Croxton et Segbroke pro villa de Corsham; et sic prædictus Willielmus prædictas villas tota vita sua tenuit. Et mortuo autem prædicto Willielmo, successit ei Hugo Parcarius, frater ejus, et seisinam de villa de Croxton suscepit; et etiam de Segbroke. Sed dux Lovenniæ,[a] qui tunc habuit honorem de Eye, impedivit seisinam ejus de Segbroks. Postmodum, capto rege Richardo in Almania, et Johanne tunc comite fratre suo movente guerram in Anglia, et maximè apud Notingham, dedit dictam villam de Croxton Huberto de Burgo camerario suo. Prædicto Hugone existente in Normannia, scilicet infra dimidium annum, rege Ricardo redeunte in Anglia, et prædicto Hugone Parcario cum ipso, dispersis omnibus qui eidem Johanni comiti fuerant, præfatus Hugo Parcarius longo tempore prædictæ villæ de Croxton dominium optinuit in pace: Normannis verò de Anglia recedentibus, remansit prædicta villa in manu regis de escaeta. Et dedit eam dominus rex tunc Galfrido Luterell, qui longo tempore eam tenuit: Et post eum Andreas filius ejus, subvicecomite Notinghamiæ, Philippo Marco, cujus filiam duxit in uxorem. Tandem Huberto facto justiciario in Anglia, per præceptum domini regis, ipse talem seisinam prædictæ villæ optinuit, qualem ante habuit, ut prædictum est; et insuper seisinam villæ de Segbroke, expulso inde Reginaldo de Vallibus firmario domini ducis de Glovernia. Postmodum ipse Hubertus de Burgo dedit villam de Croxton, per dominum regem suum, Magottæ filiæ suæ. Post intervallum verò perturbatione dicti comitis Huberti, facta in Anglia, data est villa de Croxton per dominum Wiranum le Tyheis; quo amoto, tenuit iterum dicta Magota dictam villam; qua mortua cepit dictus Hubertus comes dominium dictæ villæ, et dedit eam Philippo Basset, qui eam per modicum tempus tenuit; eoque præfatus Hubertus de Burgo eam warantizare non potuit, quoniam in manu regis, judicio mediante, rediit. Et postquam abbas de Croxton eam tenuit ad firmam de domino rege Henrico. Idem autem dominus rex dedit eam in feodo, domino Bertramo de Cryoll; dictus vero Bertramus dedit dictam villam Nicholao filio suo pro homagio.

Memorandum, quod fuit quædam mulier quæ vocabatur Avicia de Romely domina de Bescaudeby, et habuit virum Willielmum Paynel nomine, et quendam filium Willielmum de Curci, et filiam Aliciam nomine.

Fuit et alius miles, nomine Jordanus dominus ejusdem villæ. Postquam venit secundus Jordanus, qui in sigillo suo nominabatur comes de Furches. Et post illum secundum Jordanum venit quidam miles vel baro Robertus de Gaunt, qui habuit uxorem nomine Aliciam, filiamque nomine Aviciam. Omnes isti dederunt nobis de terris suis in territorio de Bescaudeby; scil. Avicia de Romely duas bovatas terræ et totum demenium suum in Wlveswong: Jordanus de Furches unam bovatam cum toto demenio suo in Wlveswong, et totam culturam de Wlveswong. Item Robertus de Ganth unam bovatam cum toto demenio suo in Wlveswong. Item magister Achardus unum bovatum cum pertinentiis.

Prædictus Willielmus Paynel erat nobilis miles tempore Henrici regis patris Johannis regis, qui duxit in uxorem prædictam Aviciam de Romely sicut prædictum est; quibus dedit dominus fructum uteri sui unicam filiam Aliciam nomine, quam dedit prædictus rex Henricus Roberto de Ganth pro homagio et servicio suo, cum honore et commodo quod ad eam pertinuit. Ex quâ genuit filiam Aviciam nomine, quam similiter dedit rex Henricus Roberto filio Roberti Arding de Bristow; et habuit ex eâ filium nomine Mauricium. Et isto Mauricio mortuo sine hærede de se, cecidit hæreditas Andreæ Luterel per matrem suam, quæ fuit de parentelâ Paynellorum.
